Fleas, Fleas, Everywhere

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: The weather is turning warm again, and once more I have to deal with fleas crawling all over my two cats. Is there any way I can get rid of them? —Clara in Valdosta, Ga.

DEAR CLARA: Dealing with fleas, especially in warm, humid areas like the Southeast, is very difficult. It's nearly impossible to completely eradicate them, but you can lessen their impact in a couple of ways.

Tackle the problem before it starts. As the weather warms up, fleas become more active, and their eggs begin to hatch as well. Late winter and early spring are prime time for starting the flea battle. This means a thorough spring cleaning of your home, and treatment of your cats.

Send the cats to your vet or a grooming/boarding service for an overnight stay while you clean. While they're there, have them bathed and groomed and treated for fleas. Even if they showed no signs of infestation during the winter, eggs could still be embedded deep in their coats.

Next, while they're gone, clean the entire house — top to bottom. This means moving the furniture and cleaning underneath it, as well as taking down all linens and curtains and washing them. Treat the carpets and upholstery with a nontoxic flea stopper (available at pet stores). Vacuum thoroughly and discard the vacuum cleaner bag once you're done.

Throughout the warm months — well into October — you will need to maintain a regular flea-prevention schedule. Your cats must be treated for fleas regularly with a treatment recommended by your veterinarian; don't let this lapse. If the cats spend time outside, you must brush them each time they come in to dislodge anything that attached to their coats. Vacuum the carpets and furniture at least once a week, and wash all linens regularly so fleas don't settle in and lay their eggs.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Suasman

I am happy to hear that the Bittinger Parish Youth Group fundraising spaghetti dinner last Friday was a big success. About 100 people attended it, and the youth raised about $1,000! Of course, they could not have done it without the helping hands of Sally Poholsky, who was very busy Friday babysitting her little grandniece McKenna, plus she also had Dave and Nancy's dog to take care of while she was busy baking goodies for the dinner

Dave and Nancy visited Brent, Kelly, Wyatt, and Teagan Beachy in Bethlehem, Pa., over the weekend.

Ruth DiPaolo enjoyed playing cards with her grandchildren who were home for spring break, but the most exciting event for her was a trip to Atlantic City with Rodney, Marcie, and Blakeley Glotfelty last week.

Instead of having a treatment on Friday, she got blood to boost her red blood cell count. Even after a long day in Morgantown, she felt good enough to go down to the fire hall to feast on spaghetti. I just ordered a couple of dinners to go.

Ruth also enjoyed a visit from Michele Savage and Sally Poholsky recently. Sally also visited Lottie Brenneman.

I know it will come, but I dread having to deal with it: a demand from the postal service to replace my mailbox after someone beat it with a baseball bat or something.

Denver and Naomi Beitzel had a great trip down south to Alabama last week. Denver got two wild turkeys, and the pear trees and even the azaleas were in bloom. They stopped in Harrisonburg, Va., on the way down to visit their son Terry and his family. Terry's daughter is no longer a tiny baby; she is already five months old, an adorable age. Of course, all the stages from newborn to school age are wonderful. I guess she is already crawling.

LaDawn Yoder teaches dance classes for a group of young ladies at Cherry Glade Mennonite Church each week. The classes, called "Expressions of Hope," combine classical ballet and praise and worship dancing. The girls are preparing for their spring show, "Beautiful Warrior," which is scheduled for May.

I was disappointed that Monday was quite cold, with a not cool, but cold, wind blowing from, of course, the north. The reason I was disappointed was, after I was able to get a few more physical therapist visits from the health department home health, I was hoping to take our longest walk on the lane, but the cold wind drove us inside.

I am delighted to be able to see Marina twice a week for a few weeks. I enjoy her company very much, especially since these days most people I see often are all from Bittinger and are very conservative. But she is a true liberal, even though she is a registered Republican. Her husband calls her a "ReNO" – a Republican in name only.

I am very happy for my world traveler, Caitlin, because she learned today that she can get a $4,000 grant from W.Va. for her trip to Vietnam next summer. She qualified for it because of her good grades. However, I am very disappointed that she will be away all summer, because I am never as happy as when Caitlin is around. I wish she would have a summer job. She says it's very important for her future plans, and that's bad news for me too, because it looks like she wants to pursue a career in Third-World countries, far away from me, and maybe in danger. I'm proud of her for her interest in devoting her life to making life better in the most struggling areas. I know her Uncle Scott's spirit is alive and strong in her.

Spring appeared and then disappeared, then reappeared again. One day last week was quite warm, but the next day was back to cool... not cold, thank goodness. This Sunday was kind of medium, not really warm, but not that cool, either. But it started with a very frosty morning. When I got up around 7 a.m., everything was white with frost.

I intended last evening to call Caitlin's cell phone about 1 a.m. when she was supposed to have landed in the good old United States after a week or so in Costa Rica. But unlike lots of nights, I didn't wake up every few hours. I did call first thing this morning. Unfortunately, she was sleeping, but even so she sounded happy to hear from me. About the only thing she said about the trip was that she missed me and it was very beautiful. I realized that she probably was sleeping, but I couldn't wait to hear her sweet voice, and that she got back safely.

She and her fellow West Virginia University students who were on the trip came home to somewhat disappointing news about their beloved Mountaineer basketball team, which bowed out in the first round of the NCAA basketball tournament. I'm glad to say that my true team, the Maryland Terrapins, won their first round. But alas, they lost to Memphis in the second round.

Against my better judgment, I finally decided to go ahead and fill in a bracket sheet for the tourney in a pool to benefit the Garrett College basketball team, so I guess the $10 spent to enter was not totally wasted.

In the mid 1980s, I did almost win the whole thing. That year, the winning prize was $1,000. But the top team I picked to win in the semi-final lost, so I got nothing. But it was exciting. However, my Claire was tied for the most first-round correct picks, and she won the tie. She had more correct picks on the left side of the sheet before a miss. She won $50, which is a nice thing for someone who has not started her first job post-college. She will begin training for her census job next week, so she will get some paychecks soon.

The worst thing about doing the pool is that they publish the results, and if you are on the second page (back page), it is a major shame on you. But if you are near the bottom of the back page, you are in disgrace among the circle of the county's basketball fans. And right now, it doesn't look good for my sheet... maybe not a disgrace, but close enough. It's mainly because I chose my winning teams on the basis of how much I like them. My worst pick was WVU in the second round. I did the same

LIBRARY HAS YOUNG VISITOR – Children attending Story Time at the Grantsville library were recently visited by a young lamb named Carl, as well as his owner Mary Walcek, Hidden Valley Farm, and Dale (Whitey) Beck. The children learned about what Carl ate and how he stays warm while each took a turn petting him. Walcek brought a straw, grain, and a milk bottle to demonstrate how she cares for Carl. She also entertained the group with music played on her flute, while the children participated with instruments of their own and sang "Mary Had a Little Lamb." From left to right are Brianna Yoder, Keirsten Lapp, Walcek with Carl, and Beck. Story Time is held regularly at the Grantsville branch of the Ruth Enlow Library on Mondays from 11 to noon. For more information, persons may call the library at 301-895-5298.

LOCKS OF LOVE, ROUND TWO – For the second time, Jenna Ruggiero recently donated 10 inches of her hair to Locks of Love, the non-profit organization that provides hairpieces to children suffering from long-term medical hair loss. Jenna first donated her hair in October 2007. She is the daughter of Reuben and Brenda Ruggiero, Accident, and is a fourth grader at Grantsville Elementary School. The haircut was done by Bethany Garlitz at Deb-est U Can Be In Grantsville.

thing with Maryland... maybe it was wishful thinking.

I was pretty sure I made a big mistake when I heard that President Obama picked Memphis, the team that beat Maryland, for one of his final four. I am in no way more qualified to analyze college basketball than probably the finest mind in America, plus a fine hoop player himself. Even though I heard the president's picks before I handed in my sheet, I didn't change that one bone-head pick.

Right now, the Republicans are trying to blame him for everything, including the state of our economy, even for the AIG bonuses, which is totally ridiculous. But I can't or won't blame him for anything, certainly not my disgrace on the NCAA tourney bracket sheet. If I did change my sheet after I heard his picks, I would feel like I was cheating, like if you follow the big-time sports commentators' opinions. I'd rather do badly than have my sheet copied from Dick Vitale's opinions.

Some people said it was a terrible waste of his time doing a bracket when the president should be concerned with the economy's mess. I can hardly watch the news these days. There is so much dismal data about the state of our economy that I feel depressed and hopeless. At least it's not my job to fix the mess. I would want to take any harmless escape I could find, wouldn't you?

He realized during the campaign that the job he sought would not be a cake walk, especially about mid-September when the big financial system was busy collapsing. It shows a remarkable courage that he did not just say to McCain, "You can try to deal with this." But he cares about America too much to do that.

Imagine if you can how the grandparents of little Calley Anthony must feel. It is a tough row to hoe. I'm sure it is very painful to lose a beloved young grandchild to such a death. The grandparents appear to be decent people, and I feel deeply sorry for them. I'm grateful that the terrible story is out of the news now because the unimaginable horror of it haunted me deeply and persistently. The less I think about it, the better off I am. Maybe writing about it will allow me to escape the horror of it.

Phyllis Bowser returned to Ohio last Sunday. She was replaced by daughter Ruth and her son Adam to lend a hand to Ruth's mother, Mary Brenneman-Frey. Of course, Mary is still trying to do everything she used to do before her fall. But she did cut her activities sharply. I know she wished she could join Ruth and Adam while they planted some onion sets on this very cool Monday, but they say, "You can't kill an onion, even with a hammer." Onions and peas are the first vegetables you plant in early spring. In fact, it means an unusually good crop of peas if they get snowed on.

Our pastor, Randy Richardson, is already on a wild boar hunt in Tennessee with a gang of his cousins. He will return in time for this Sunday's services.

By the way, the mid-Lenten service will be held at St. John's Meadow Mountain.

If you can look that far in the future, the next week's service will be at Emmanuel at 6 p.m., followed by soup and bread.

Maybe I'm just liberal, but I don't understand why anyone can buy a submachine gun at a gun show, or what the buyers will do with them. Unfortunately, the news is full of the coverage of the violence along Mexico and America's border. It's hard to believe Americans are smuggling those kinds of guns to sell to the violent drug dealers.

Of course, some of them stay in the U.S.A., like the one used in the big shooting rampage in Alabama a couple weeks ago. Doesn't that seem crazy to the gun lobby and gun-rights supporters? The constitution guarantees the right of "a well-regulated militia," but that's not who has those deadly guns. I can understand why hunters want to keep their hunting guns. It's less clear to me why people want to keep handguns in their homes for self-protection, but the odds of getting killed by a gun go up dramatically with your own gun.

Opposition to gun regulations does not make any sense to me. I am sure that sentiment makes me unpopular in Bittinger, just when I am about to get a new mailbox. It's probably a waste of money to replace it. In case you're interested, it's a felony to destroy a mailbox.

I think it is a very sad commentary about the state of America that I am so scared just because I utilize my right to freedom of speech, but I can't help it, especially with the shooting of three policemen in California. It just doesn't make any sense.

I'm not surprised that the Obama family put an organic kitchen garden at the White House, because they always struck me as my kind of people. No vegetables taste as good as the ones you produce yourself, especially organic. Why would you want to eat pesticides and other chemicals? And, of course, growing your own is much cheaper. You can dine like rich people on a budget if you also raise your own livestock. I don't see any cattle or swine on the grounds of the White House. That would go too far. It's true that the Kennedy family had a pony... I believe its name was Macaroni... for Caroline.

I just got a fundraising call from the American Homeless Veterans. I'm appalled that America is so proud of its military, yet allows some of them to live in the street. Although I didn't put out any big yellow ribbons, which allegedly symbolizes "Support our Troops," I believe they really mean, "I support the president's war in Iraq."

But I did donate as much as I could afford to the Paralyzed Veterans Association. I believe that is true meaningful support more than just flag waving. But my family forbade me to give any money to any charity, and I have to get permission to write a check. But, all the flag wavers who have money could call the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs at 800-488-8244. I am sure they could give the address or phone number for homeless veterans or paralyzed veterans.

I wish I could make it easy for you, but I am writing this on Sunday afternoon, so of course all federal offices are closed today. Or else if you have a computer and are skilled with it, you could type the name of those organizations and .org.

One top priority of the Obama administration is improving service to our veterans, but like other important programs, that would cost a lot of money. It would have to be put on the back burner, because it would require raising taxes... a big gasp from all the conservatives, because everyone says you can't raise taxes during a recession. But gasp loud enough to reach the ears of those former soldiers who served honorably for America and are now living on the street, penniless.

Read. Then Recycle.

Multiple Therapies for Ankylosing Spondylitis

Ankylosing spondylitis is a condition of pain and inflammation involving the joints of the body. Joints between each vertebra and the joints between the spine and pelvis are commonly involved. Genetics may play a role in the development of this condition. Symptoms of ankylosing spondylitis include chronic lower back and hip pain and stiffness. The condition may lead to eventual difficulties in walking, standing, and/or breathing.

Available treatments for ankylosing spondylitis include nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory drugs such as ibuprofen and naproxen. These are commonly recommended for treatment of inflammation, pain and stiffness. Disease-modifying antirheumatic drugs such as sulfasalazine and methotrexate may be prescribed to alleviate joint inflammation in the arms and legs. Corticosteroids, such as prednisone, also may be prescribed for a short period of time to decrease inflammation, as well as to reduce the progression of joint damage. Tumor necrosis factor blockers such as adalimumab and etanercept work to reduce inflammation, pain, and stiffness in individuals affected.

Extension Noted For NAP Buy-In

Producers who did not obtain crop insurance or Non-Insured Crop Disaster Assistance Program (NAP) coverage for 2008 can pay a buy-in fee through May 18 to become eligible for 2008 disaster assistance programs authorized by the Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008. The announcement was made recently by Linda Slacum, acting executive director of USDA's Farm Service Agency in Maryland.

"Producers have an additional opportunity to become eligible for several programs if they suffered 2008 agricultural losses due to natural disaster," Slacum said.

Producers who have not already taken the necessary steps to become eligible for the Supplemental Revenue Assistance Program (SURE), Emergency Assistance for Livestock, Honeybees, and Farm-Raised Fish (ELAP), and the Tree Assistance Program (TAP) are required to complete the following steps by May 18:

1) Pay a $100 "buy-in" fee per crop. The maximum fee is $300 per county, per producer, not to exceed $900 for multi-county producers;

2) In the case of each insurable crop, excluding grazing land, agree to obtain a policy or plan of insurance for the next insurance year for which crop insurance is available; coverage level should equal 70 percent or more of the yield at 100 percent of the price.

3) In the case of each non-insurable crop, agree to file the required paperwork and pay the applicable administrative NAP coverage fee by the applicable state application closing date for the next available year.

Producers who choose to "buy in" under this provision will be considered, for insured crops, to have obtained a policy or plan of insurance for the 2008 crop year at a level of coverage not to exceed 70 percent of the yield at 100 percent of the price. For non-insurable crops, producers will be considered to have a level of coverage equal to 70 percent of the yield. These levels of coverage will be used to calculate the 2008 SURE guarantee.

Producers who meet the definition of "Socially Disadvantaged, Limited Resource," or "Beginning Farmer or Rancher," are not required to pay the buy-in fee.

USDA EXTENDING BUY-IN WAIVER

The recently approved American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 (ARRA) allows producers to become eligible for 2008 disaster assistance authorized by the 2008 Farm Bill, even if they did not previously obtain otherwise statutorily required crop insurance from the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC) or Non-insured Crop Disaster Assistance Program (NAP) coverage for 2008 by now paying a buy-in fee through May 18, 2009.

Paying such a buy-in fee does not provide the producer with crop insurance or NAP for the 2008 crop year; it merely permits the producer to become eligible for the 2008-crop disaster assistance programs.

Producers who have not already taken the necessary steps to become eligible for the Supplemental Revenue Assistance Program (SURE), Emergency Assistance for Livestock, Honeybees, and Farm-Raised Fish (ELAP), and the Tree Assistance Program (TAP) may now become eligible for such programs by completing the following steps by May 18:

•Paying a $100 buy-in fee per crop. The maximum fee for insurable or non-insurable crops is $300 per county, per producer, not to exceed $900 for multi-county producers.

•In the case of each insurable crop (those for which insurance is available from FCIC), excluding grazing land, agreeing to obtain a policy or plan of insurance for the next insurance year for which crop insurance is available; coverage level should equal 70 percent or more of the yield at 100 percent of the price.

•In the case of each non-insurable crop, agreeing to file the required paperwork and pay the applicable administrative NAP coverage fee by the applicable state application closing date for the next available year.

Producers who choose to buy in under this provision will be considered for insured crops for the 2008 Farm Bill disaster assistance programs only, to have obtained a policy or plan of insurance for the 2008 crop year at a level of coverage not to exceed 70 percent of the yield at 100 percent of the price. For non-insurable crops for the 2008 Farm Bill disaster programs only, producers will be considered to have a level of coverage equal to 70 percent of the yield. These levels of coverage will be used to calculate the 2008 SURE guarantee. Producers who buy in will not be eligible for actual crop insurance or NAP benefits for the 2008 crop.

Producers who meet the definition of "Socially Disadvantaged, Limited Resource" or "Beginning Farmer or Rancher" are not required to pay the buy-in fee.

To enroll in the 2008 Buy-In Waiver, producers should visit the Preston County FSA Office, located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza, by the deadline of May 18. The FSA office may be reached by telephone at (304) 329-1923.

Named Semifinalist For Comcast Parent Involvement Award

State supermtendent of schools Dr. Nancy S. Grasmick and Comcast recently announced the 24 semifinalist for the 2009 Comcast Parent Involvement Matters Award, one of which is Grantsville Elementary School teacher Christine Brenneman. The 2009 award will be presented on Friday, May 8, with five finalists and a statewide winner announced at the ceremony.

A collaboration between Comcast and the Maryland State Department of Education, the Comcast Parent Involvement Matters Award is the nation's first statewide initiative of its kind, recognizing parents and legal guardians for their exceptional support of public education. Parents are nominated for demonstrating significant, positive impact in their communities.

"I am truly humbled by the commitment and dedication to Maryland's public schools that these 24 semifinalists have displayed," state Dr. Grasmick. "The partnership with Comcast allows us the opportunity to celebrate and honor these inspirational parents who continue to find innovative and creative ways to make our schools stronger through parent involvement."

The Comcast Parent Involvement Matters Awards Program recognizes parents from local school systems across the state of Maryland who were nominated in five areas of parent involvement: communication, volunteering, learning, decision making, and community collaboration. The statewide winner and five finalists will be awarded a cash prize to further their efforts to improve the public schools they represent.

Many of last year's semifinalists have become parent involvement advocates on the statewide level, serving as members of task forces, presenters at statewide meetings, and participants in education events, such as the recent Summit on School Safety Solutions.

"Comcast is committed to fostering healthy, vibrant communities, with a focus on creating opportunities for youth leadership and development," said Fred Graffam, senior vice president of Comcast's Beltway Region. "We recognize the important role that parents play in nurturing our future leaders, and we're proud to work with the Maryland State Department of Education to honor them for their spirit, dedication, and inspiration to others."

Skillman was placed under arrest and charged with driving while impaired by alcohol, driving under the influence of alcohol, failure to be restrained by a seat belt, and operating on an expired registration.

He was transported to the Garrett County Detention Center to await a hearing before the District Court commissioner.

WINS GOLD FOR USA – Former Garrett County resident Jesse Broadwater recently competed in the indoor world archery championship in Rzeszow, Poland, and returned home with both a gold and a silver medal. In the compound bow team competition, Broadwater and his two teammates won the gold and set a new world record with a perfect score of 240. The Northern High School grad, who has won numerous state and national archery honors, also won the silver medal in the individual championships. The USA was one of 39 nations represented in the competition. See story and additional photos on the sports pages.

STOKING THE FIRE and keeping it hot is one of the key components when boiling down the sugar water collected from maple trees, and the Steyer family knows just how important it is. Family members just celebrated their 100th year of making maple syrup in Garrett County, taking over the business in 1909, and this week they are finalizing their product. Fresh syrup will be stocking the shelves within days. Pictured above is Michael Steyer stuffing the firebox with as much wood as he can, as Kay Steyer, back right, and Sue Steyer discuss this year's "harvest." The sugar farm is run by the family's third generation, headed by Randall Steyer and his cousin Mike Steyer, along with many other family members. Maryland SHA To Resurface Part Of Rt. 219

The Maryland Department of Transportation's State Highway Administration (SHA) announced yesterday that it will begin a $1.5 million resurfacing and safety improvement project along approximately 2½ miles of U.S. 219 (Garrett Highway).

Keystone Lime Company of Springs, Pa., won the bid to do the work, and, weather permitting, will complete the project in late summer.

The project area is located between north of state Rt. 42 (Friendsville Road) and just south of Bumble Bee Road near Accident.

This section of Rt. 219 carries approximately 4,400 vehicles each day and serves many area schools and businesses, such as Deep Creek Lake and Garrett College, noted an SHA spokesperson.

"When driving through the work zone, motorists should expect single lane closures and delays along U.S. 219 between 6:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday," he said.

SHA will provide variable message signs, drums, and flag persons to guide motorists through the work zone.

This project is funded through President Barack Obama's American Recovery and Reinvestment Act and is made possible by the Maryland Congressional delegation's passage of the economic recovery legislation.

"Projects such as this will stimulate Maryland's economy by preserving or maintaining thousands of jobs," said the spokesperson.

During the next several months there could be more than 350 work zones, he added.

"Remember that work zones are not only large construction projects possibly taking years to complete, but smaller, mobile operations such as mowing, pothole repair, and litter pick-ups," he said.

Persons who have questions about traffic operations along Rt. 219, or other state numbered routes in Garrett County, may call SHA's District 6 Office at 301-729-8400 or toll-free at 1-800-760-7138.

FRIENDSVILLE TEEN MAKES CUT FOR USA JR. WILDWATER TEAM – Sierra O'Brien, a 17-year-old Northern High School junior, has clinched a position on the United States Junior Wildwater Team, having competed last weekend in the 2009 US Open Wildwater Race on the Nantahala River in North Carolina. Sierra is continuing a family tradition, as her mother, Chara Whittemore, and stepfather, Jess Whittemore, were senior USA Wildwater Team members some years ago. Sierra is now on track to travel to Switzerland in July, where she will compete in the ICF Junior Wildwater World Championships in Buochs. The teen, who is also the daughter of Kevin O'Brien, McHenry, trains in Morgantown with Rodney Rice, traveling there six days a week. She works alongside her best friend, McKenzie Hatcher, who also made the team. See story on sports pages. Photo by Jess Whittemore.

Federal Stimulus Package Includes $126,911 For Mtn. Laurel Med Ctr.

The federal American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA) includes more than $1.6 million for eight community health centers across Maryland, including one in Garrett County, Senators Barbara A. Mikulski and Benjamin L. Cardin announced Friday.

The Western Maryland Health Care Corporation will receive $126,911 for its Mountain Laurel Medical Center, located along Memorial Drive, Oakland.

"Community health centers provide an important safety net for the people who need it most," Mikulski said. "This is especially important in these economically trying times when there is more need and fewer resources. These American Recovery Act funds will help community health centers keep their doors open to make sure Maryland families have access to reliable health care in their communities."

The federal funds will be distributed through the Maryland Department of Health and Human Services, which supports community health centers through the Health Resources and Services Administration. Health centers provide comprehensive primary health care to medically underserved communities. Centers are governed by a community board and are required to meet performance and accountability requirements.

In addition to Mtn. Laurel, the following Maryland

Three Arrested After NTF Finds Cocaine In Vehicle

The arrest of three West Virginia residents for controlled dangerous substance violations was recently announced by Garrett County state's attorney Lisa Welch, spokesperson for the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force. The arrest was the result of a traffic stop at the intersection of Garrett Highway and George Washington Highway, Red House.

Timothy Allen Whitacre, 48, Bayard, and Sherea Dawn Messenger, 40, and Robert Glenn Powell, 53, both of Tunnelton, were stopped in a 2002 Nissan Frontier by the Narcotics Task Force and Garrett County sheriff's deputies. As a result of an investigation and positive K-9 alert, a search of the vehicle was conducted. A quantity of cocaine, marijuana, and

Arrested For Poss. With Intent To Distribute Heroin

Sheriff Gary Berkebile, spokesperson for the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force, announced the arrest of two Oakland residents for controlled dangerous substance violations.

Guy Daniel Miller, 23, and Heather Renee Nazelrod, 21, were stopped in a 2000 Dodge Neon along Gorman Road south of Chisolm Road by the Narcotics Task Force. As a result of an investigation and positive K-9 alert, a search of the vehicle was conducted revealing a quantity of heroin and digital scales. Both Nazelrod and Miller were arrested. The Dodge Neon was also seized.

Later that same day, the NTF, assisted by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, executed a search and seizure at the couple's residence in the Gorman area. As a result, marijuana and heroin paraphernalia were seized from the residence.

Miller and Nazelrod were both charged with possession with intent to distribute heroin, possession of heroin, possession of marijuana, and possession of CDS paraphernalia. Both were taken to the Garrett County Jail to await bond hearings.

ERM Awarded Bid To Revise Garrett Co. Land Development Ordinances

Environmental Resources Management (ERM) of Annapolis has been assigned the task of completely revising Garrett County's land development ordinances. The revisions are necessary in order to implement new policies and objectives outlined in the recently adopted 2008 Garrett County Comprehensive Plan.

"State law provides some principles of planning that require ordinances be brought inline with changes to comprehensive plans, so every time we update our comprehensive plan, ordinances have to be adjusted to be consistent with that plan," said Director John Nelson, Garrett County Department of Planning and Land Development.

County officials published a "request for proposals" in February for firms to prepare the revisions. Sealed bids were due March 10 at the Garrett County Purchasing Department.

The department's buyer, Charlie Junkins, told the Garrett County commissioners during the bid award meeting on Tuesday that he received responses from ERM; Davis, Bowen, and Friedel of Salisbury; and another company that submitted its bid one day too late.

Junkins said the two valid proposals were evaluated by the county's Selection Committee, which recommended that the commissioners accept ERM's bid of $84,506. The buyer noted that the Planning and Land Development Department allocated $85,000 for the project in its fiscal year 2009 budget.

GCS PRESENTING "LIGHT ETERNAL" – The Garrett Choral Society will present a concert this weekend titled "Light Eternal," featuring John Rutter's Requiem, a seven-movement choral work, plus five anthems. Carolyn Deverse is the featured soprano soloist. The one-hour concert will be given at St. Paul's United Methodist Church (located at the corner of Third and Oak streets in Oakland) on Saturday, April 4, at 7:30 p.m. and Palm Sunday, April 5, at 2 p.m. Under the direction of Julie S. Turrentine, the Garrett Choral Society (GCS) involves singers from all parts of Garrett County. "The music of John Rutter is always very singable with some good challenges, and has great audience appeal," Turrentine said. "The anthems were inspired by the Mormon Tabernacle Choir, and the pairing of them with the Rutter Requiem makes for a lovely Palm Sunday weekend concert." The group is accompanied by Lynn Grimm, with assistant accompanist Muriel Franc. Moe Turrentine will play percussion. Tickets are available from any choral society member, or at Jan Florist or Gregg's Pharmacy in Oakland. Photo by Walt Copeland.

Brandon Pickrel Speaks At Braille Coin Ceremony

A UNIQUE COIN was unveiled on March 26 to commemorate the 200th birthday of Louis Braille. The coin, which is the first to contain tactile readable Braille, will help support a nationwide campaign to promote Braille literacy. Pictured above with the coin is Brandon Pickrel of McHenry, who was one of three children who spoke at the ceremony. He is also pictured below with Dr. Abraham Nemeth, creator of the Braille math code. See story for details.

Brandon Pickrel, a 7-year-old from McHenry, was recently one of the speakers at the U.S. Mint and National Federation of the Blind's unveiling of the Louis Braille 200th birthday commemorative silver dollar coin, held in Baltimore.

The coin was issued to recognize Louis Braille, inventor of the reading code for the blind, and to support a nationwide campaign to promote Braille literacy. It is the first coin to contain tactile, readable Braille.

Brandon was one of three children who helped to read a proclamation that expressed their concern that only 10 percent of blind children in America are being taught Braille.

"Lack of a solid commitment to teach Braille to blind students is a serious problem in the education of the blind in our nation's schools," a spokesperson said. "This leads to the shocking and tragic fact that only about 10 percent of blind and low vision children are being taught to read and write Braille. By contract, research demonstrates that more than 90 percent of employed people use Braille. Therefore, increasing the Braille literacy rate is a key factor in helping the blind to become employed and productive."

Many blind or legally blind children are being taught to rely on the little vision they have to try to read. However, learning Braille adds another tool to help them be successful and to be able to give back to society by being able to be a tax-paying member of the workforce.

During the coin unveiling ceremony, which was held on March 26, a NASA spokesperson announced that the new commemorative coin will fly on a future space shuttle mission.

"The Louis Braille Bicentennial Silver Dollar symbolizes the power of knowledge and future opportunities for blind children across America," said Dr. Marc Maurer, president of the National Federation of the Blind. "It is therefore fitting that this historic coin will be part of a mission to uncover the secrets of the universe. Perhaps someday a Braille reader will also be part of such a mission."

At the ceremony, Brandon met Dr. Abraham Nemeth, the creator of the Braille math code. At the age of 90, he is currently rewriting the code.

Also speaking at the ceremony was Kareem Dale, special assistant to the president on the disability policy. He is legally blind.

Brandon is a first grader at Accident Elementary School. He is the son of Bill and Trudy Pickrel of McHenry and the grandson of Delos and Wanda Carpenter of McHenry and Rev. Douglas and Shirley Pickrel of Texas.

Trudy is the vice president of the Maryland Parents of Blind Children organization.

Brandon has spoken several times at various events, and was recently the recipient of a gift from the Deep Creek and Friendsville Lions clubs to help him purchase a laptop and software.

He has also been invited to attend the Easter egg roll at the White House on Monday, April 13.

Mtn. Lake Park Woman To Serve One Month For CDS Possession

In recent Garrett County District Court hearings, Karen Jean Hovatter, 52, Mtn. Lake Park, was found guilty by Judge Leonard J. Eiswert for a controlled dangerous substance (CDS) possession not marijuana charge and was sentenced to one year with 11 months suspended, 18 months of supervised probation, and $257.50 in fines.

In September 2008, Garrett County sheriff's officers and members of the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force executed a search and seizure warrant of a Mtn. Lake Park residence. Officers located Hovatter inside the residence along with three other unidentified adults.

A search of the residence revealed a bag containing two Adderall pills, a schedule II CDS, and two Vicodin pills, a schedule III CDS, located inside Hovatter's handbag. She did not have a prescription for these pills. She was not prosecuted on a second CDS possession not marijuana charge.

In another district court hearing, Eric S. Brumberg, 20, East Brunswick, N.J., was handed a guilty verdict for a CDS possession of marijuana charge and was sentenced to 90 days with all being suspended, unsupervised probation for 18 months, and $300 in fines.

Brumberg's charges stemmed from a July 2008 traffic stop initiated by Maryland State Police and GCNTF. After completing the stop, a K-9 scan of the vehicle was performed and a positive alert for the odor of drugs was given.

A search revealed, in various places throughout the vehicle, seven bags of suspected marijuana; four smoking pipes with trace marijuana; a metal grinder containing suspected marijuana; two jars containing suspected marijuana; rolling papers; a bag containing 16 capsules with suspected trace of heroin; a capsule containing suspected heroin; a suspected Ecstasy MDMA pill; and a bag of suspected psilocybin mushrooms.

Brumberg was not prosecuted on a charge of CDS possession of paraphernalia and three charges of CDS possession not marijuana.

In an unrelated case, David Scott Brown, 19, Oakland, was found guilty for a charge of theft less than $500 and was sentenced to 60 days with 58 days suspended and 18 months of supervised probation. Fines were suspended.

He was charged after GCSO responded in August 2008 to a theft complaint. It was reported that the victim of theft said that two other adults had possibly stolen deer cameras and a deer feeder from the victim's property. After an investigation, it was found that Brown had participated in the theft of the cameras, along with one of the other suspected adults. No other charges were filed.

Ronald Joel Rosoff, 51, Baltimore, was handed a guilty verdict for a driving under the influence (DUI) charge, and was sentenced to 60 days with all being suspended, 18 months of unsupervised probation, and $315 in fines.

In August 2008, GCSO responded to a suspicious vehicle report. The caller advised that the vehicle had been sitting at an intersection for a while and said the car door was open and a subject was hanging out of it. Upon arrival, officers approached the vehicle and made contact with Rosoff, who appeared to be intoxicated. Officers performed field sobriety tests on the defendant and found Rosoff to be under the influence. He was placed under arrest. A search of his vehicle revealed two oxycodone pills and four lorazepam pills.

Rosoff was not prosecuted on charges of driving while intoxicated (DWI), driving while impaired by drugs or alcohol/alcohol and drugs, and two charges of CDS possession not marijuana.

Leroy Albert McCrobie Jr., 46, Oakland, and Tina Elizabeth McCrobie, 43, Oakland, were both found guilty for charges of contributing to the condition of a child, with sentences of 30 days with 30 being suspended and three years of unsupervised probation. They were also charged with failure to send a child to school, with sentences of 10 days with 10 days suspended and three years of unsupervised probation, with all sentences to be served concurrently. Further details of the case were unavailable.

Lauren Elizabeth Read, 20, Mechanicsville, Va., pleaded guilty to a CDS possession of paraphernalia charge, was handed a probation before judgment (PBJ) verdict, and was sentenced to one year of unsupervised probation and $107.50 in fines. She was not prosecuted on a CDS possession of marijuana charge. She was charged by MSP in July 2008 after a traffic stop.

David Richard Armstrong, 36, Kitzmiller, was found not guilty for an October 2008 second degree assault charge, stemming from a domestic dispute.

James Lee Railey, 27, Salt Lake City, Utah, was charged with fourth degree burglary and malicious destruction of property valued at $500-plus, with his case being placed on stet. He was charged in September 2008 after allegedly breaking into and entering an apartment and proceeding to damage property within.

Richard Allen Kinzey, 41, Grantsville, was charged in September 2008 for failure to register as a sex offender with the Garrett County sex offender registry. His case was placed on the stet docket.

Albert Neil DeWitt, 42, Oakland, was charged in January with failure to send written notice of a change of residence within five days to the state registry as a registered sex offender. His case was placed on stet.

Brett Wayne Fratz, 29, Accident, was not prosecuted on charges of driving on a revoked license and privilege, DUI, DWI, and driving an off-road vehicle on government property. He was charged in October 2008.

DUI/DWI HEARINGS

The following driving while under the influence (DUI) and driving while impaired (DWI) case was heard in Garrett County District Court, with Judge Eiswert presiding.

Scott Vernon Aronhalt, 28, W.Va., was found guilty for a DWI charge from November 2008, and was sentenced to 60 days with 56 days suspended, one year of supervised probation, and $307.50 in fines. He was not prosecuted on a DUI charge.

SCHOOL BUS VIOLATIONS

Danita Jean Friend, 41, Md., pleaded guilty to a January charge of failure to stop for an official stopped school vehicle displaying alternately flashing red lights, was handed a PBJ verdict, and was sentenced to one day of unsupervised probation and $125.50 in fines.

LOAR AUXILIARY RECOGNIZED FOR CONTRIBUTION – Members of the Loar Auxiliary of Garrett County Memorial Hospital were honored recently for making a $65,000 commitment. The funds will be used toward the renovations necessary to open the New Wound Care Center at the hospital. A plaque recognizing the auxiliary's generosity will be displayed in the center, which is slated to open in mid-April. "The Wound Care Center brings a new level of outpatient care services to the community," said a GCMH spokesperson. "The center will specialize in the care of patients with chronic wounds that do not heal with traditional treatment methods." The Loar Auxiliary is a volunteer organization. Its primary function is the management and day-to-day operations of the hospital gift shop, with all proceeds being used to benefit GCMH. Additional information about the Wound Care Center can be obtained by calling 301-533-4270, or the Loar Auxiliary by calling 301-533-4041. Realtors Collecting Food, Supplies To Help Dove Center

The Garrett County Board of Realtors is conducting a food and supplies drive to benefit the Dove Center. Collection boxes have been placed at GCBR affiliated real estate offices throughout the county.

"If you would like to show your support for the Dove Center, we invite you to visit a real estate office near you or the Garrett County Board of Realtors office, located next to Little Caesars, Oakland, now through April 15," said a GCBR spokesperson. "We will deliver all donated items to the Dove Center on April 15."

According to the spokesperson, the items most needed by the center are trash bags, paper towels, cleaning supplies, personal hygiene products (shampoo, soap, toothpaste, etc.), canned vegetables (corn, green beans, peas), dry foods (pasta, rice, oatmeal, mashed potatoes, etc.), spaghetti sauce, reams of 8.5 by 11-inch white copy paper, toilet paper, laundry detergent, bath towels, and cloths.

The Dove Center's mission is to empower victims of domestic violence and sexual assault, to develop in victims a sense of self-worth and enable them to take control of their lives, and to promote and foster public awareness of these issues.

For more information about the drive, persons may cal Erin Strubin, publicity chairperson, at 301-616-3907.

A Magical Place...

A relative of one of our news writers who does not live in Maryland, but subscribes to our paper and reads it from cover to cover, has on a few occasions made the comment that she believes Garrett County must be a "magical place." The basis for her statement centers on what in her opinion is an unusually high level of achievement in such a rural, low-populated area, which she reads about week after week.

If ever there were an issue of this newspaper that supports such a notion, it is today's, which is chock full of incredible achievement by folks here on the Mountamtop. Our front page pictures two local athletes who have reached world-level achievement in their sports, with Jesse Broadwater earning both gold and silver medals for the United States at the world archery championships, and Sierra O'Brien capturing a spot on the Junior United States Wildwater Team.

Turn to page A-2 and find a story about 7-year-old Brandon Pickrel, an outstanding young man who was selected by the National Federation of the Blind to speak at and participate in a ceremony at the U.S. Mint to unveil the Louis Braille 200th birthday commemorative silver dollar coin.

Readers will fmd elsewhere in this issue information about our youth robotic teams who will be in Atlanta in about 10 days to compete in the national robotics championships. The Garrett County teams are considered by scores of other teams from many states to be "the team to beat," as our kids have amassed numerous state and regional honors.

Also in the area of sports, there is coverage of two more young GC soccer players who excelled at a multi-state regional shootout, where two local youth finished in first place in their divisions and another finished fifth.

There is more coverage of the Southern High wrestling team for its having won two team and four individual state championships a few weeks ago.

There is coverage of the Northern High Junior ROTC Leadership Team earning a spot in the championship round of the College Options Foundation's Leadership and Academic Bowl in Washington, D.C.

Oh, and don't forget our school system, which is one of the best in the state of Maryland, which ranks at or near the top nationally in various areas of achievement.

There are photos and stories of excellent work of many more residents, such as successful fundraising efforts for a host of worthy programs, hall of fame inductees, and students earning scholarships. It goes on and on.

Yes, we have our share of bad news to report as well. But all of that is put into perspective when reading about the "magic" of Garrett County, Maryland.

Letters to the Editor

Writers of letters to the editor are reminded that letters will not be published if they exceed 400 words, do not include contact information, and/or are deemed to be libelous.

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to Dorothy Beckman's letter in the March 12 issue regarding trash and litter on North Glade Road.

I live on Harvey's Peninsula, and also note the litter and trash in the ditches of North Glade as well as Glendale Road. Unfortunately, the litter will not stop and will continue from selfish people who want a clean vehicle in lieu of a clean roadway and county.

I would be willing to help with a volunteer road clean-up crew that would "adopt" North Glade Road and pick up and dispose of the litter several times throughout the year.

To the Community:

In good times and in bad times, vandalism has no place in our Garrett County community. Total Biz Fulfillment now has its second act of vandalism at our Southern Garrett Business & Technology facility on Resource Avenue since its opening in 2008.

Sometime between March 27 and March 31, there was vandalism to our building. Outside lights and electric outlets were broken, and boom cables to restrict access to private land were cut. A report has been filed with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, and there will be increased police patrols.

I offer a $200 reward for information leading to the arrest and the conviction of the person or persons who did this damage. The phone number of the G.C. Sheriff's Office is 301-334-1911.

Parents and the public are also requested to remind others to respect all property. The employees of Total Biz Fulfillment are proud of their company and its facilities. The cost of vandalism or theft goes against the cost of operating the business and directly affects what wages and benefits are paid to employees. As the economy is now in a bad time, such losses are a heavier burden to bear.

The employees of Total Biz Fulfillment and other property owners in the community appreciate your help.

Sincerely,
Gary R. Ruddell
President
Total Biz Fulfillment Inc.

To the Editor:

Fervor and rhetoric around issues often cloud our good thinking and, consequently, constructive discourse. Taking sides in an argument is not the same as presenting clear and science-laden facts. Feel-good talk appeals to perceptions, but rarely makes good policy.

Here are a few legislative observations. Sometimes, legislation fails because of redundancy, or sometimes because of fiscal and policy implications. Other times legislation fails because of its lack of forethought for potential unintended consequences, including moral hazard. Legislation also fails where the veracity of supporting arguments rings hollow.

This session, redundancy was found in the initial domestic violence legislation pertaining to temporary protective orders. The court already has the discretion in state law via Maryland's Gun Violence Act to order the surrender of firearms when issuing temporary protective orders, not to mention federally mandated safeguards in VAWA (e.g., stop grant recipients must certify judicial notification).

In hindsight analysis, proponents had concerns about potential setbacks in hard-won strides in obtaining temporary, and later, permanent, orders for victims of violence. While there are many reasons for it, the rate for the issuance of protective orders has been a statewide problem.

With the passage of HB296/SB267, surrendering firearms and refraining from use for the duration of the permanent protective order becomes mandatory. On the face of it, excellent news; data will continue to tell the story.

Legislation can become short-lived because of poor construction and forecasting. Assigning a no-cost fiscal note in a time of economic distress is understandable, but doing so sends troubling signals to an already stressed employee base. Couching a no-cost note in cost reallocation discussions might have allayed concerns, but requires a mindset for inclusivity, interest-based dialogue, and time.

Those devilish details get in the way every time.

Help us all, though, if our statewide performance-setting efforts become as impotent as the clawback provision in taxpayer-funded business loans – a rarely enforced contractual element to protect the public where there is failure to meet contract deliverables or public promises.

On the subject of "green" and contributions to solving the energy crisis, I can't find the logic in equating the proverbial canary in the coal mine with tilting at windmills. From a policy perspective, our selective concern, when it comes to degradation of viewscape and landscape, has been about as thoughtful as our positions on regulating public utilities and taxpayer subsidies to free market endeavors.

Sincerely,
Susan Athey-Oxford

To the Editor:

Someone told me that the people of Garrett County are unique in the fact that they don't want a better life for their children than the one they (the parents) grew up in. Her statement made me furious and defensive.

Our children are nurtured in so many ways; they learn early on that we take care of our own, that nature plays an important part in all of our lives, that we are our brothers' keepers. Yet I wonder if I'm being naïve about our kids and their upbringing. Do we really teach them that bad things do happen to good people, and that there are ways to get help when things are overwhelming?

So many problems in the world – we become immune to them. After a while they all sound alike, and so do our responses:

"Here's some money to make it go away!"

"You think you've got problems?"

"If I ignore it, it'll disappear!"

"I don't care!"

How often do we hear, "Okay, help me to understand the problem; let me listen and try to help"?

There are only so many ways one can talk about domestic violence and abuse before it sounds like (am I dating myself?) a broken record. April is National Child Abuse Prevention Month, a time to raise awareness about child abuse and neglect, and encourage individuals and communities to support children and families.

Our Town Theatre will try a new approach in looking at these problems. We're performing the work FV Workshop and combining it with live music, local stories, and different perspectives to take a look at the causes of violence in our lives, and what we can do about those causes.

The April 16 performance is earmarked for high school students. It is free of charge, and by attending, each student will earn two hours of community service. Students must sign up in their guidance offices at SHS and NHS.

The Friday and Saturday, April 17 and 18, performances are for the general public. Tickets are $5 per person, with all proceeds going to the Dove Center. Reservations are required.

Everyone needs to be aware of the importance of the Dove Center in our community, and certainly we need to combat violence and abuse, and realize their negative impacts. Bring yourself, your parents, your children – bring everyone who is a part of our community. Call 301-334-5640, ext. 1, for reservations.

To the Editor:

I'm sure I'm not the only one who has seen the skyrocketing prices they're charging these days for the privilege to smoke, and I can understand how frustrating that must be for those who still smoke. As for myself, I quit smoking years ago. But concerning these high prices for tobacco, it has made me reminisce about the good old days when I first experienced smoking for the first time with a homemade corncob pipe and dried corn silk. It worked pretty well.

Then I started sneaking my dad's rolling papers and rolled my first cigarette. That worked pretty well too, and was very reasonable cost-wise.

So I thought I'd share this with you smokers out there as a cheaper alterative to the high cost of tobacco. Let's not forget how back in cowboy and Indian days, the Indians smoked dried horse manure. But I think we can do a little better than that today, and corn silk I believe would be a little more tasteful, don't you agree?

To the Editor:

In response to Jack Cougle's letter in the March 26 edition, it's a shame that there will be fewer performances at the Little Yough Summer Music Festival this year. But why does the committee that schedules the entertainers have to get "big-name" or "high-cost" groups? There are many musicians and performers who live in the area. They range from bluegrass to country to gospel to rock. They can offer a variety of entertainment for all age groups.

Many musicians and singers gather at the Deer Park VFW on Fridays at 6 p.m., and pass around the microphone, taking turns playing gospel, bluegrass, country, and so on, and they don't charge any fees to perform, and are just as good, if not better, than the groups who perform at the Little Yough Summer Music Festival. The bar is closed off, no drinking is allowed, and children are welcome. Some people dance. It's really a nice atmosphere.

Donations are taken to help the VFW cover overhead costs, like electricity. They sell really good food, too.

To the Editor:

I grew up in Berlin, Pa. I am hoping that you will put this in your paper, so as to raise awareness about the teen driving laws in Pennsylvania verses other states.

The recent tragedy in the Meyersdale community hit close to home, because the boys who were killed were friends of my nephew. I have lived in Connecticut for 15 years, and in the past several years we have experienced similar tragedies that Meyersdale has suffered. Connecticut's governor Jodi Rell decided that it was time to take action, so she formed a task force to take a look at the teen driving laws and raise the awareness among teens and adults about the serious responsibilities that come with getting a driver's license.

In August 2008, the Connecticut teenage driving laws and restrictions were changed. A teen's curfew is now 11 p.m. instead of midnight. No one is allowed to be in the car with a teen driver unless it is a parent or legal guardian who holds a valid driver's license, a licensed instructor, or a person providing instruction who is at least 20 years old and has held a license for at least four years. No one else may ride in the vehicle with the teen, until the teen has held a license for one year. Siblings may not ride in the vehicle until the teen has held a license for six months.

These changes, and various other laws and restrictions I have not mentioned, will make a huge difference in the number of teenage driving injuries and fatalities. I urge every parent, grandparent, aunt, and uncle to go to their computer, look at the Connecticut teen driving laws, and then e-mail or write to their congressman and their governor, asking them to please make similar changes to the Pennsylvania teen driving laws. These laws will not stop teen driving injuries and fatalities, but I do believe they will decrease them significantly.

Scam Targets

vation.

"Our objective to beat this scam is twofold," said CMB's president, Brian Thomas. "First we want to spread awareness about this scam to get it across to everyone that these callers are posing as employees of many different banks, not just ours. And secondly, if someone does fall victim to this scam, persons should contact their bank immediately so that the transactions can be stopped before they happen."

Thomas went on to say that if a teller from a bank is calling a customer, that person will not ask for the account information because the bank already has it. Victims should use this as an indicator of a scam.

"These scams happen all the time, and it's a bank's duty to make the community aware of it and to protect our customers," said Thomas.

There have been no reported calls in the Oakland area in the past two weeks, but customers should remain cautious.

DR. MICHAEL GLOTH

The Oakland Nursing and Rehab Center and its parent company, Mid-Atlantic Health Care, have announced the addition of F. Michael Gloth III, MD, FACP, AGSF, CMD, as corporate medical officer and senior vice president for medical affairs.

"We're very fortunate to have a physician of Dr. Gloth's caliber associated with our company," said Kris Miller, ONRC administrator. Gloth will oversee the medical directors at each of Mid-Atlantic's six facilities, offer guidance in efforts of quality assurance, and review medical and clinical quality in each of the facilities. He will also be available for grand rounds at the hospitals in each facility's market area.

"The addition of Dr. Gloth to our organization is part of an ongoing drive to be the best provider of skilled nursing services in our area," said Miller.

Gloth is a Johns Hopkins fellowship-trained geriatrician, and is the former director of the Geriatrics Ambulatory Service at Johns Hopkins Medical Institution. St. Mark's Notes Holy Week And Easter Services

St. Mark's Lutheran Church of Oakland has announced its schedule for Holy Week and Easter, which will include a variety of special music at a range of worship services, including a sunrise service atop Wisp Mountain on Easter morning.

On Palm Sunday, on April 5, a traditional palm procession will open the 10 a.m. service. Special music and congregational singing will be led by St. Mark's choir. It is a service of Holy Communion.

Prior to the service, there will be a children's Easter egg hunt during Sunday school, which begins at 8:45 a.m. Members and guests are invited to take part.

Maundy Thursday will feature a reading of the Passion narrative as part of worship at 7 p.m. This will be a service of Holy Communion, with music provided by the choir and hand bell choir. The service concludes in silence with the traditional stripping of the altar in preparation for Good Friday.

St. Mark's will hold its annual Tenebrae service of music and scripture on Good Friday at 7 p.m.

"'Tenebrae' means 'darkness,'" said Pastor C. Scott Robinson. "This service, which has its roots in the 8th century, is a worship experience that gradually fades to total darkness. It retells the story of Jesus' last moments on earth in a dramatic way that can be quite moving."

Special music for this service will include the organ, choir, Jackie Skeweris on oboe, and Pastor Robinson on guitar.

Easter Sunday's worship will begin with a sunrise service on the mountaintop at Wisp Resort, beginning at 6:30 a.m. Wisp will operate chairlift #1 starting at 6 a.m. for those who want to ride the lift to the top for the service. Parking will be available at the top of the mountain for those who choose to drive. A brass ensemble will accompany the service, weather permitting.

Breakfast will be available at the lodge following the service. (There will be no regular Sunday school classes on Easter morning so that all may attend the early service.)

"The Festival of the Resurrection of Our Lord" will be celebrated at the traditional Easter service with Holy Communion at the church at 10 a.m.

The service will feature organ, brass, hand bells, and special music and congregational singing led by the choir. Susan Peterson is music director and choir director at St. Mark's. Muriel Franc serves as organist, and Lynn Grimm directs the hand bell choir. The brass ensemble will feature Royce Warnick, Adam Sincell, Joe Ashby, Moe Turrentine, and Don Sincell.

The community is welcome at all services.

"St. Mark's is a congregation of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America, and as such practices 'communion hospitality.' Everyone is welcome at our table," the pastor said.

The church is located at 6 S Second street in Oakland, across from the Ruth Enlow Library. Further information is available by calling the church office at 301-334-2668.

State Senate Advances $13.8 Billion Budget

by Dylan Waugh
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS – The Senate gave preliminary approval to a $13.8 billion operating budget for next fiscal year Wednesday evening, calling for more than $900 million in cuts including reductions to local government, environmental and stem cell research spending.

Last week the House passed its version of the budget, cutting $825 million from Gov. Martin O'Malley's original proposal to settle on a $13.9 billion plan.

The Senate is expected to take a final vote on the budget and an accompanying budget reconciliation bill by today. Representatives from the two chambers will then meet before this legislative session ends on April 13 to hammer out their differences and present a final product to O'Malley for his signature.

Both versions of the budget include $1.7 billion in federal stimulus money for this year and the next, with most of it going toward Medicaid and education spending. They also preserve a tuition freeze for in-state students at Maryland's public universities for a fourth straight year, and the Senate version includes provisions for an in-state tuition freeze for community colleges as well.

Both the Senate and House versions of the budget include deep cuts to local government and environmental spending.

The House budget plan cuts $102 million in state funding for local road maintenance projects, while the Senate version slices $162 million. The House version also has the state keeping $60 million in income tax payments usually sent to the counties.

Funding for the Chesapeake Bay 2010 Trust Fund is slashed from $31.5 million to $10 million in both versions. The fund was originally scheduled to receive $50 million per year when it was approved during the 2007 special session.

The House plan also calls for $118 million in transfers and cuts from a land preservation fund accrued through a tax on real estate transactions. The Senate version cuts an additional $65 million from Program Open Space.

Some of the reductions to the land preservation fund could be restored through funding from state-issued bonds.

Both chambers have targeted a roughly $5 million state public campaign financing fund last used by Republican gubernatorial candidate Ellen Sauerbrey in 1994.

The Senate's budget takes almost $3 million from the fund in order to pay for new optical scan voting machines. Meanwhile, the House is advancing a plan to use $2 million from the fund to pay for early-voting expenses.

Republicans have fought both chambers' proposals, calling them politically motivated since it's highly unlikely O'Malley will use public financing in his expected bid for re-election next year.

Sen. Andrew Harris, R-Baltimore County, voiced concerns over the state's willingness to use tax revenue for purposes other than initially intended and its reliance on bond money to replace cuts to program funding.

"Long term, keeping the spending up, keeping our taxing up, and borrowing our way out of the problem is kind of what got us in the problem that we're in," Harris said.

The Senate passed an amendment offered by Harris requiring at least a $2 million balance in the public campaign finance fund.

The budget cuts come in response to the recently announced $1.2 billion decline in tax and other revenue projections for this fiscal year and the next. O'Malley's original budget included provisions for only $600 million in write-downs over that time.

"We've seen record declines in general fund revenues," said Sen. Ulysses Currie, D-Prince George's, and chairman of the Budget and Taxation Committee.

Once the Senate gives final approval to its budget plan, a conference committee will reconcile the numerous differences between the bills.

While the House approved full funding for an education formula that provides additional funding to K-12 schools in high-cost areas, the Senate version diverts $50 million from that fund to public school construction.

The House dedicated $18.4 million to stem cell research while the Senate limited stem cell grant funding to $5.4 million. Senators rejected an amendment that would cut all state funding for stem cell research.

The Senate also differed from the House by voting to pass 50 percent of costs associated with property valuation along to the counties, which would save $20.8 million for the state.

The Senate budget provides for $142 million in cash reserves in case of further revenue decreases, almost three times the $51 million called for in the House version. House leaders earlier in the session called for a $200 million to $250 million fund balance.

Nat'l Library Wk. Being Celebrated At Ruth Enlow

National Library Week is April 13 to 18, and the Ruth Enlow Library and all its branches will celebrate the commemoration with a variety of activities. The designated week is a time to celebrate the contributions of libraries, librarians, and library workers in schools, campuses, and communities nationwide.

"At our library, people of all backgrounds come together for community meetings, lectures, and programs, to do research with the assistance of a trained professional, to get help finding a job, or to find homework help," said library director Cathy Ashby.

Launched in 1958, National Library Week is a national observance sponsored by the American Library Association (ALA) and libraries across the country each April.

The week will begin at Ruth Enlow with a free writers' workshop titled "Getting Started on Your Mystery Novel." This event is scheduled for Monday, April 13, from 6 to 7:45 p.m., at the Oakland Library with Susan Froetschel, author of the mysteries Royal Escape, Interruptions, and Alaska Gray.

At the Oakland Children's Hour on Wednesday, April 15, Addie Glotfelty and Patty Wells will talk about their trip to India and show photos. Glotfelty will also attend the Teen Creative Writing group on Wednesday, April 15, at 7 p.m. to discuss the cultural exchange book project in which the group is engaged with South Africa. This involves the book The ABCs of Garrett County.

Caroline Blizzard, director of the Deep Creek Discovery Center, will speak at the Oakland Home School program on Friday, April 17, at 2:30 p.m. about the Monarch Tagging Project. The center participates in this project to tag and track the monarch butterflies through Monarch Watch, a cooperative network of students, teachers, volunteers, and researchers dedicated to the study of the insect.

MOISTURE-RESISTANT INSTRUMENTS
Beginning about two years ago, hearing instrument manufacturers began producing hearing devices that are designed to address the number one cause of hearing-instrument repairs: moisture. This problem can arise even in dry environments due to perspiration, rain, condensation, earwax buildup, and other causes. Different manufacturers address this problem in different ways. Some apply coatings on the cases of hearing instruments that cause water to bead up and roll off. Others utilize a sealant that protects the instrument's internal components. Yet others use a special microphone coating or a barrier over the speaker inside the ear canal. While these measures will not protect an instrument that [illegible] moisture.

Adorable Adoptables

THREE BEAUTIFUL DOMESTIC SHORTHAIRED felines are available for adoption this week at the Garrett County Animal Shelter. Two of the cats are females less than 1 year old (above left) and the other is a very friendly brown tabby male (above right). Also looking for a new home is the young chocolate Lab mix pictured below. "He is very friendly, but also high energy and needs to be adopted to someone who can actively exercise him and take him to obedience classes," noted a shelter spokesperson. Other pets are also available for adoption at the animal shelter. One of the two huskies and an adult female cat featured in last week's paper were adopted this week. The spokesperson also noted that kitten season is here. "It's important that people spay their female cats before they become overwhelmed with kittens," she said. For more information, persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553. Located along Oakland Sang Run Road, the facility is open Monday through Friday.

Savage River Watershed Assn. Crafts Statement

The Savage River Watershed Association (SRWA) recently crafted a vision statement after receiving a variety of input from members and other citizens interested in the current and future state of the watershed, its rules and regulations, environmental conditions, future land uses, and why it is "such a cherished and unique part of Maryland."

According to association spokesperson Kevin Dodge, participants came from different locations throughout the state and shared a diverse range of opinions about what they would and would not like to see in the watershed. A series of questions developed by SRWA and partnering organizations was asked and the vision statement was drafted.

A final visioning statement, approved at an SRWA public meeting held March 19, is as follows:

"Our vision for the Savage River watershed is a rural area filled with well-managed forests, well-maintained farms, and high-quality ground and surface water resources."

"This visioning statement represents the goals, attitudes, and future aspirations of the community towards the Savage River watershed," said Dodge, "and is an integral part in protecting and restoring the watershed, because without a clear vision of what is wanted, no actions can be taken accordingly to get there."

He said that developing a visioning statement was "just one of the first steps in a long process" being pursued by the association, with the help of the Izaak Walton League, to assess the watershed for environmental degradation and to find ways to further protect and restore these lands and waters.

"SRWA is always looking for more ways to better assist landowners and public land managers with environmental stewardship efforts and to address the concerns of our community," said Dodge.

He invites others to express their thoughts about the state of the Savage River watershed and to provide suggestions as to how SRWA could be more effective in its efforts of environmental stewardship. Persons may contact SRWA by telephone at 301-689-7156 or via e-mail at SRWAcoordinator@gmail.com.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

My family is overjoyed about some good news about my mother's health. She had a scan and the doctor told her that he never saw a tumor shrink as fast and as much. So apparently the chemotherapy, prayers, and her fighting and optimistic spirit are doing some good. So he will continue her chemo. I really hope she will continue improving, because I can't imagine how I could get along without her.

There was some debate about what the best memorial would be for the September 11 Ground Zero. The proposal for "Freedom Plaza" sounds like a fancy tourist trap, which probably means some big money to construct it. But I agree with the majority of Twin Towers survivors that a better idea would be to rebuild the twin towers. That would send a message, "You can get us, but you can't keep us down."

As a former New York City resident, I would by happy to see the New York skyline return to its pre-9/11 glory. But some people think it would invite another attack. That is a possibility, but on the other hand, we are forewarned, and maybe we could catch in the act any terrorist who tries to do it again. I hope they could build the Twin Towers stronger and less vulnerable to that kind of attack. If an architect could design a sky scraper that was less vulnerable, that would be good for the whole world. I admit that I don't know enough about the construction of the massive tall buildings that are so common in big cities.

Of course, some federal money would have to be used for whatever memorial is chosen for the Twin Tower disaster, but the rest was supposed to be paid for by volunteer contributions from American citizens. For whatever reason, the fund-raising effort did not go that well, and the building of Freedom Plaza requested a few more billion dollars from the government. I believe the reconstruction of the Twin Towers would be a big inspiration to Americans.

For those who are impatient to see the economy improving: If anyone pays attention to the news, there are several large spots of good news. The sale of existing homes is up, housing prices are rebounding, and after a month of decline, the sale of durable goods is up. Even Wall Street is up for about a week, and not just tiny gains. Yesterday, the gain was 500 points. The banks are stable. Just AIG, the unregulated financial/insurance firm, is unstable.

Maybe we have seen the bottom of the housing market, since we see that the sale of new homes is up for the first time in a long time. Obama last night in his news conference urged patience, because the economy will improve, not completely or immediately, but the light at the end of a long, dark tunnel is in sight.

That's a hopeful sign for the future. I guess more credit is flowing ... how else would durable good sales be up? Who would have enough ready cash to buy big ticket items?

I am very worried that Americans are not among the many, maybe most, societies in which the younger generation believes they have a duty and are proud to take care of their elders, even if it requires some sacrifice from the young. I didn't choose to become disabled in my 40s; in fact, in my prime of life. I thought I still had at least 20 years of working and being a productive member of society. But that is not how it worked out. And I am very scared. Even though I'm still only in my mid-50s, I can't work in any kind of job. And, of course, Social Security and Medicare are essential to me, but unfortunately they are a big part of the deficit and the nation's debt. I am lucky to have a small state pension from my years as a teacher. I'm glad I signed up for a disability insurance policy, and thank God it was not from AIG.

I was so lonely after Naomi left and I couldn't think of anyone I could really talk to, except women with families, and of course after work is family time. And Claire and Mere didn't show up. Then the phone rang (a small miracle), and I heard the sweet voice of my Caitlin telling me about some new friends from other countries that she made recently. She has a rare gift to reach out to people who are somewhat lost here in America. The last one was a girl from Egypt who looked different and was stuttering.

Caitlin really cares to make sure the lonely and alone feel not so alone. I am very happy that she got that from me. She is so kind and so compassionate. Someone told her that she has too many values. Is it a bad thing to have values? Values like kindness, open-mindedness, generosity, compassion, and justice? These things are some pretty good characteristics.

She is so excited that for the first time she feels like she is a very good student. She no longer expects herself to get an "A" on an exam. A "B" is good enough, and she lives up to her own expectations. She also was excited that she will go to a Young Democratic Club meeting this evening. She was busy researching an issue that she wanted to speak about. She also plans to run for secretary of that organization.

That shows how far she has come since she was in kindergarten when I was very sick in the hospital. But she got through those hard times, thanks to her teacher Sharon Platter. Caity still dearly loves Mrs. Platter. What made Mrs. Platter so very special and excellent was that she looked at each student to discover what they needed to succeed, then gave that to them. Caitlin needed warmth, kindness, comfort, and encouragement. She was unconfident about writing, and now she grew up to be a great student who gets A's on essay exams in very different college subjects.

Good teachers are not paid with a high salary; instead, they are rewarded with making a difference in a student like achieving something good or important. I believe Caitlin will accomplish some fine things in her future, especially now since she at least believes in herself. She will not fear to take on a difficult task, but she already realizes that she will not be rewarded with big money.

The ripple effect of the stripped funding for the Endowment for the Arts is felt even here in Garrett County and Bittinger. The programs of the Garrett County Arts Council are threatened. They may not be able to keep the gallery in Oakland open, which is just about the only place for artists to sell their works.

Sue Arnson of Bittinger is very busy working with other art-types in Garrett and Allegany counties to fight for the arts. Even though there are fewer cuts for the arts from the Maryland state government compared to the cuts in education funding, still the cuts are real and deep.

Our county's art activities help us to lose the label of "backwater culture." Things like Our Town Theatre, the theater productions at the college, and the classical music festival funded by the Arts Council make our county an appealing destination for tourists and any businesses that are considering relocating here.

For a long time, Garrett County was regarded by the rest of Maryland as the red-necked stepchild. I know when Little Joe and I won an important class at the State Fair in 1971, the announcer said that it was a big surprise that we were from Garrett County.

And our schools most of the time are at the top of the list of counties in school performance. There is no reason we should still be considered as "backwater," because we have many talented and accomplished people here,and we need to showcase them.

Also, an important art-related aspect of our county's life is the outstanding performance of our high school marching bands in regional competitions.

I heard from Sheila Southerly that we have an even larger population of Canada geese on the Peat Bog Lake, so hopefully we will not have many airplanes flying over here. We learned very clearly the hazards of planes encountering birds.

If Alaska sustains serious damage and requires clean-up from the volcano erupting now, maybe the funding for volcano monitoring will seem less foolish. In several regions, volcanoes do present a serious threat to the people who live in that part of the country. Imagine if Mt. St. Helen's were close to a major urban area. They would certainly need advance warning.

My good friend Joe Volakis was in Afghanistan doing whatever he does with computers. It was a great relief and joy for him to be able to leave that country for a much more appealing place: Peru. His next stop is Saudi Arabia. He also worked in the Green Zone in Iraq. I believe he actually enjoys visiting and working in some very exotic places, plus it makes his job very well-paid. But all his friends worry about him. I wouldn't trade places with him for all the money in the world.

The most scary and most dangerous thing that ever happened to him was while he was visiting Bangkok, Thailand. A blood clot migrated into his lungs; probably not the best place to experience that serious health problem. But believe it or not, he did survive. I assume that Peru and Saudi Arabia have better hospitals and medical care than Thailand or Afghanistan for sure.

His birthday is Christmas Eve, and he has an annual birthday party for himself in Washington, D.C., which he always comes home for. And it was amazing when he flew in from for our annual Labor Day barn party. He is truly a remarkable individual with many unusual tales of his adventures in faraway lands.

He was in Egypt on Sept. 11, 2001, and he was deeply touched by the expression of grief and sympathy for America. Some people actually cried about the attack.

Around Bittinger, it was difficult to call whether March came in like a lamb or lion. I recall that it was something medium, maybe like our older cat Tigger, who is just somewhat grouchy. When someone greets him or tries to pet him, he often either swats at them with his paw or bites them, but he never causes much harm. But he does love my girls and enjoys lying on their laps. But he is not a lamb or a lion, and this is probably how March will go out here in Bittinger.

On the other hand, in Kansas and the rest of the Midwest around the Red River, they are suffering big time. Of course, everyone knows about North Dakota having way too much rain that resulted in a major risk of a bad flood.

The people of North Dakota responded to the threat of flood by a major effort to use sand bags to reinforce the levees that were supposed to hold the Red River and keep it under control. And God brought a very cold snap, freezing the sandbags as hard as cement. The cold also prevented any more snow from melting. Although things look better, they are still watching the Red River very closely for at least the immediate future.

Although Maryland's men's basketball team didn't fare well in the tournament, the women's team just went into the Elite Eight. Maybe they are moving to another national championship.

I am enjoying this afternoon more than most, since I have two daughters home with me, Mere and Caitlin. But Claire caught a ride downstate with a friend who was on the way. She went to visit her Sussman grandparents in Silver Spring. Her grandmother Ruth is very lonely in their Leisure World apartment because her husband of 50 plus years is in a nearby nursing home. They really wish he could come home, but Ruth is not quite up to caring for him by herself, and she can't afford to pay for full-time help. That's one way to reduce the cost to Medicare – having someone as a home-care attendant instead of staying in a nursing home.

Since I am not on the roads much at all, I don't know if the service trees are in bloom, but I sure hope so. If so, then this morning's snowfall is probably our last for this winter, even though it is technically spring now.

This year, Easter falls on April 12. If tradition is any valuable way to forecast the weather, we may get a snow quite a few weeks in the future. Probably often back in the past, the Easter and the service snow were maybe the same snow, since the serviceberry got its name because it was the only flower to decorate the church for Easter.

ARBOR DAY PROCLAIMED IN MARYLAND – The Garrett County Forestry Board presented the Garrett County commissioners on Tuesday with a proclamation from Gov. Martin O'Malley, recognizing April 1 as Arbor Day. Traditionally, Arbor Day in Maryland is the first Wednesday in April. Mike Kozier, Garrett Forestry Board member, read the proclamation and presented it to the commissioners. Kozier noted that this year marks the 126th celebration of Arbor Day in Maryland. Pictured left to right, in the front row are Commissioners Ernie Gregg, Denny Glotfelty, and Fred Holliday, who is also a Forestry Board member. In the back row are Forestry Board members Kozier, Karin Miller, and Phil Kisner. Photo courtesy of Ernie Metz, Forestry Board member/Maryland Forest Service employee.

Miss Skeweris Becomes Bride Of Mr. Wildesen In June Ceremony

Mayjel Elizabeth Skeweris and Darrin Mason Wildesen were united in marriage on June 14, 2008, at the Oakland Church of Christ. Rev. Randy Cook performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is a daughter of Ernest and Teresa Gregg, Mtn. Lake Park, and Thomas Skeweris, Bessemer, Pa., and the late Rebekah Skeweris. The groom is a son of Gerald and Sheila Wildesen, Mtn. Lake Park.

Escorted down the aisle by her fathers, the bride was attended by her sister, Samantha Brooke Skeweris, Williamstown, Pa., as maid of honor and friend of the bride Jeanne Meyers, Friendsville, as matron of honor. Friend of the bride, Marcia Knepp, Oakland, was a bridesmaid, and cousin of the bride Brianna Evans was a junior bridesmaid.

Brother of the groom, David Wildesen, Loch Lynn, was best man. Ushers were Jonathan Wildesen, cousin of the groom, and Synjun Skeweris, Bessemer, brother of the bride.

Flower girls were Harleigh Wildesen, niece of the groom, Bethany Evans and Haley Judy, and cousins of the bride Raelyn Bowser, Alexis Meyers, Kierra DeWitt, and Kaylee Bowser. Melissa Meyers attended the guest book, and Bethany Meyers handed out bubbles.

The bride wore a white Swiss dot tulle A-line gown, with beaded lace applique, satin empire band, lace-up back, and a chapel train. She also wore a pearl necklace belonging to the groom's mother, a two-tier elbow-length veil with a beaded scalloped edge, a silver tiara with pearls and crystals, and a sapphire frog. She carried a bouquet of sage, navy, and white roses, with pearl accents.

A dinner reception was held at the Oakland Elks Lodge catered by Sheila O'Neil. Music Express was the DJ for the event.

The bride is a 2001 graduate of Southern High School and a 2004 graduate of Garrett College with a degree in social and behavioral sciences. She is currently employed with the Law Offices of Angela Blythe. The groom is a 2002 graduate of Southern High School, a 2005 graduate of Garrett College, and a 2007 graduate of Franklin University with a degree in business administration and human resources. He is currently employed with SuddenLink.

The newlyweds spent seven nights in the Caribbean. The couple reside in their newly purchased home in Oakland.

Marriage Permits Recently Issued

Four couples recently applied for their marriage licenses, according to Sondra R. Buckel, clerk of the Garrett County Circuit Court.

Joseph Daniel Wakefield, 24, and Amanda Nichole Sisler, 22, both of Accident.

James Michael Dowler, 37, and Marta Dawn Friend, 36, both of Friendsville.

Allan Lee Kisner, 21, Oakland, and Suzannah Ariel Miltberger, 18, Mtn. Lake Park.

Eli Frederick Dahmer, 28, and Sheena Marie Secrist, 22, both of Keyser, W.Va.

Miss Niner To Wed Mr. Butler

Mr. and Mrs. Roger L. Nirer, Oakland, have announced the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter Stephanie Lee to Cody Lynn Butler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Randy S. Butler, Grantsville.

The bride-elect is a 2003 graduate of Southern High and graduated from Frostburg State University in 2007 with a bachelor of science degree in early childhood/elementary education. She is employed by the Garrett County Board of Education.

The prospective groom is a 2003 graduate of Northern High School. He is employed by Randy Butler Automotive.

A July 25 wedding at St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland is being planned. Invitations will be sent to family and friends.

REPRESENTING GARRETT COUNTY in the 375th Maryland Day Anniversary was Kristin Britner, a 4th grader from Broad Ford Elementary School. She recently participated in the celebration in St. Mary's City, where Gov. Martin O'Malley was also in attendance. All counties in the state had representatives who carried their county's flag. Britner was also chosen to participate in a Comcast commercial that will be aired at a later date. The school will be notified when the commercial is to be aired.

Discovery Center Offering Natural Egg-Dyeing Event

Western Garrett County State Park Volunteers Inc. (WGCSPVI) will host its annual natural egg-dyeing program at the Discovery Center, Deep Creek Lake State Park, on Saturday, April 11, during the hours of 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Children will be instructed on how to dye hard-boiled eggs using natural dyes from material found in the home and nature. Guests will learn about natural dye products, as well as how Native Americans used these materials.

The Easter bunny will be on hand to distribute treats to the guests. Guests may bring their own cameras for photographs, and volunteers will be taking photos for a nominal charge.

Participants are asked to bring no more than six hard-boiled eggs. The eggs should be wiped off with a mild vinegar solution so the shells will take the dye.

The event will take place during a spring open house at the center. Guests may look at new items in the nature shop, and may visit the many exhibits.

For additional information or to learn of other programs offered, persons may call 301-387-7067, Friday through Sunday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Ask Sheila

Decorating Dilemma?
Sheila offers helpful advice.

Dear Sheila:

Everywhere we look we see doom and gloom. The TV and news are always going on and on about how bad things are. I have been saving up for a facelift on different things in my house for several years now and I really want to make the changes NOW while I can still enjoy them. I feel a little guilty. Should I wait?

Guilty in the Park

Dear Guilty:

If you are taking food or shelter away from yourself or family by all means wait. If, on the other hand, you have saved for this facelift and it is not affecting your living expenses in any way, I say go for it.

Stop in and we can show you how to maximize your investment in your home while you can still enjoy it!

ART SHOW PLANNED – Lynn Yoder of Springs, Pa., will show his oil paintings in the J. Glenn Beall Jr. Memorial Hall at St. John's Episcopal Church, Frostburg, from April 18 to 30. Included in the show will be original paintings such as the one pictured above, which is titled "Lazy Day of Brahms." See story for details.

Lynn Yoder Art To Be Exhibited In Frostburg

Lynn Yoder of Springs, Pa., will show his oil paintings at the J. Glenn Beall Jr. Memorial Hall, located at St. John's Episcopal Church, Frostburg, from April 18 to 30.

A reception will open the show on Saturday, April 18, from 5 to 7 p.m. The exhibit can be viewed Monday through Thursday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Afternoon or evening viewings can be arranged by calling 301-689-6634. The church is located at 58 South Broadway in Frostburg.

Yoder is a graduate of Frostburg State University, where he majored in art and design with a focus on painting and graphic design. He graduated in 2002 with a bachelor of fine arts degree and departmental honors.

Yoder currently markets giclee (the process of making fine art prints from a digital source using ink-jet printing) reproductions of his oil paintings, and he teaches art. He works as a custom picture framer at Whispering Pines Furniture in Springs, where his new studio will soon be open to the public.

Yoder noted that paint is the medium for him to express ideas, experiences, and emotions that he values.

"My paintings are meant to help the viewer relate to particular aspects of the real world," he said. "Optimistic themes or narratives come from a desire to enrich the lives of my viewers. Inspirations from nature and beauty reflect the beauty that I find in God. The peaceful atmosphere which pervades much of my work may be attributed to my personality and quiet lifestyle."

Included in the show will be original paintings featuring musicians, spiritual themes, and other figurative subject matter. Prints of these and other images will be available.

Persons may visit www.yoderart.com to see Yoder's work online.

TOTL Theater Company Notes Summer Season

Now in its fourth year, the TOTL (Theatre on the Lake) Theatre Company announces its 2009 summer season of plays, musicals, and theatrical camp opportunities.

Opening the season will be the musical, Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat, which is scheduled to run July 9-11, 7:30 p.m., at Garrett College. The musical will be performed with a mixture of actors from the TOTL Theatre Company and students from the first TOTL Theatre Camp of Theatrical Arts, which will be held daily from June 29 through July 10 at the college. According to TOTL artistic director Lynn Broderick, students will have the opportunity to work side by side with the TOTL actors through the rehearsal and performance process.

For more information and a registration packet, persons may telephone the TOTL Theatre Company at 304-680-1002.

The second offering will be the Tony Award-winning play Steel Magnolias, which will be presented July 21-26, 7:30 p.m., at Garrett College. This play became even more famous after the premiere of the movie starring Sally Field, Dolly Parton, Olympia Dukakis, Shirley MacLaine, Daryl Hannah, and a young Julia Roberts. It is the story of six southern women who frequent a beauty salon where life's joys and sorrows are the subjects of spirited weekly repartee.

TOTL will conclude the 2009 summer season with the Broadway musical Big River, which is the story of Huckleberry Finn, July 30, 31, August 1, 2, 5, 6, 7, and 8, at 7:30 p.m. It will be presented "on location" at the Barn at Ridgeview Valley, one mile off Route 219 along Gravelly Run Road in McHenry.

According to Broderick, audience members "will experience Mark Twain's wonderful story amidst the rustic timbers and flooring of the old barn. The music and lyrics, written by singer/song writer Roger Miller, reflect the truly American spirit of the story, and will be played live each evening by talented local musicians."

Broderick explained that, given the current economic times, TOTL Theatre Company has elected not to raise its prices for the 2009 season, but still needs the financial support of the local community.

The cost of season tickets for preferred seating is still $25, and they may be purchased by using the order form on this page. Season tickets will be sold exclusively until May 1, after which patrons may continue to purchase season tickets as well as individual tickets to specific shows. After May 1, ticket prices for the musicals are $10, while tickets for Steel Magnolias will cost $8. Tickets may also be ordered through the TOTL Theatre web site at totltheatre.com.

Patrons wishing to make a contribution to the TOTL Theatre Company may do so using the form on this page.

"There is no contribution amount that is unappreciated," said Broderick. "Every dollar helps the TOTL Theatre Company fulfill its mission to present live theatrical opportunities to the local community and to its visitors."

Md. Exemplifies Integrated Early Child Programs

by Maren Wright
Capital News Service

Maryland is a model of integrating early child learning programs and traditional schooling, Maryland State Board of Education member Karabelle Pizzigati told a national education conference on Tuesday.

The W.K. Kellogg Foundation hosted the gathering to promote successful birth-to-third-grade learning models. The foundation is concerned that achievement depends not only on what happens in school, but on what happens long before a child gets there.

Maryland has been at the forefront of integrating the pre- and post-kindergarten environments, Pizzigati said. In 2005, the General Assembly voted to unify the state's early-care programs under the Maryland State Department of Education.

The 2005 legislation centralized policy making, she said. It was supported by a wide range of children's advocates, including Head Start, the state education department, child care providers and the Maryland Business Roundtable.

That cooperative approach has Maryland kindergarten students showing positive progress. A recent Maryland report found that 74 percent of children in the state were fully prepared for kindergarten, up 24 percent from 2001.

"It provided the policies that allow us to ensure continuity and to provide for connectedness between education settings."

Secretary of Education Arne Duncan told conference attendees that the road to college begins at birth.

"Ensuring continuity between early learning programs and early elementary school is critical," Duncan said.

Maryland's education governance structure is an advantage, Pizzigati said, especially as funds from the stimulus bill are allocated to both education and early-childhood programs.

"Because of the integrated system, we've had the opportunity to consider that through the whole lens of the system," said Pizzigati, indicating the state board has already had conversations about stimulus allocations.

But implementing programs still requires ground-level action in schools and homes. Advocates were encouraged to engage parents and coordinate efforts.

Sterling Speirn, president of the W.K. Kellogg Foundation, said that enhancing student achievement isn't just a cognitive issue, but also a health issue, a food issue and a community issue.

Patients Urge Legalization Of Med. Marijuana

by Michael Frost
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS – When a police officer asked her what she was doing behind a van in the park, Pamela Hughes told him the honest truth.

"I said I was smoking a cannabis cigarette," she said.

She presented the stunned policeman with a written recommendation from her doctor and a copy of Maryland's "Compassionate Use Act," which reduces the penalties for possession of medical marijuana.

"I honestly thought that I wasn't breaking the law," Hughes said.

Rather than take her word for it, the officer called for backup that included a canine unit, she said.

Hughes ended up spending several hours in jail. She fought the charges and won, but only after a lot of time, stress and money – three things that her fibromyalgia, a chronic condition characterized by widespread pain and fatigue, and a reoccurrence of stage IV cancer were already monopolizing.

Hughes and several other patients told the House Judiciary Committee last week that while Maryland's Compassionate Use Act was a step forward for its time, the law merely provides them with a false sense of security.

The patients testified on behalf of a bill that would establish a task force to evaluate the effectiveness and fairness of the current law and consider whether medical marijuana should become legal in the state. They said medical marijuana provides relief for certain ailments in ways no other medication can replicate.

No one testified against the bill, and a vote on the legislation has not been scheduled.

Medical marijuana has been legalized in 13 states, including California, Maine, Rhode Island and Vermont. U.S. Attorney General Eric Holder said recently that federal law enforcement will no longer target providers that are operating within state law, a major departure from the Bush administration's stance on the issue.

The Darryl Putnam Compassionate Use Act, passed by the General Assembly in 2003, was a compromise between those advocating the legalization of medical marijuana and those against such a move.

The act is named after Putnam, a former Green Beret and Howard County Farm Bureau director who advocated for the legalization of medical marijuana. He died of cancer in 1999.

The Compassionate Use Act reduced the penalties for marijuana possession to a maximum $100 fine, provided a patient has a recommendation from a medical doctor. However, patients still have to buy their "medicine" on the street and face the health and legal risks inherent in doing so.

Those with drug offenses on their records could also face eviction from subsidized housing.

John McCarthy, an AIDS activist who has been HIV-positive for 18 years, said that medical marijuana has allowed him to reduce his pill intake from 45 to 13 pills a day. Most of those pills had been prescribed merely to alleviate the side effects of other pills, which include vomiting, headaches and neuropathy, a condition "where the nerve endings burn."

McCarthy, who lives in subsidized housing, said a drug conviction under the present law could cause someone to be evicted from public housing no matter how old they were or what their condition was.

Eric Sterling, a Chevy Chase lawyer and president of the Criminal Justice Policy Foundation, said the law needs to be revised.

"It's really barbaric to think that we would prosecute sick people," he said. "These (cases) should never go to court."

The American College of Physicians, which calls itself the "largest medical-specialty organization and second-largest physician group in the United States," has endorsed the use of non-smoked marijuana in cases where it has been proven to have therapeutic value.

A 2008 policy paper said the organization "strongly urges protection from criminal or civil penalties for patients who use medical marijuana as permitted under state laws." It advocated further research on the issue and said that "the science on medical marijuana should not be obscured or hindered by the debate surrounding the legalization of marijuana for general use."

Americans for Safe Access, a group that advances legalizing marijuana for therapeutics and research, and brought many of the witnesses together in Annapolis last week, was careful to clarify its intentions.

Caren Woodson, director of government affairs for the group, said the goal was to have safe and legal access to medical marijuana for patients and researchers -- "and that's it."

"That's the line, and we don't cross over it," she said.

However, some say others are crossing that line every day.

Jerrod Menz, president of A Better Tomorrow Treatment Center Inc., a drug and alcohol rehabilitation center in Murrieta, Calif., said some young people in his state are faking back pain and other hard-to-prove ailments in order to legally obtain marijuana. He said a client in his early 20s recently admitted telling his doctor he was suffering from foot pain, which helped him obtain a medical marijuana card after a five-minute examination.

Menz said doctors need to use more care in their examinations to better prevent people from abusing the intent of medical marijuana laws. He said that some problems could be prevented by having the federal government regulate medical marijuana like any other drug, although he did not endorse such a move.

For Judiciary Committee Chairman Joseph Vallario Jr., D-Prince George's, federal law is the line that shouldn't be crossed -- and the reason for the 2003 compromise legislation in the first place.

"How can you pass something that's against federal law?" he said. "That really is the bottom line."

Delegate Henry Heller, D-Montgomery, the sponsor of the bill, said the task force would also consider establishing research programs at Johns Hopkins University and the University of Maryland medical schools. He said this would not only allow further research on medical marijuana, but also help provide a safe product.

As the law stands, Heller said glaucoma and cancer patients at Leisure World, a retirement community in Silver Spring where he lives and represents, have to buy their marijuana on the street.

"It's not the safest way to buy medicine," he said.

WHY WE SAVED FANNIE AND FREDDIE

Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac - who or what are these entities, and why are they mentioned so often when discussing the current mortgage crunch? These two organizations either own or guarantee nearly half of all outstanding home loans. That's over twelve trillion in debt (that's a 12 followed by 12 zeros, or twelve million million dollars)!

So maybe you can see why the government took over and began overseeing their operations, bringing stability and continued liquidity to the national mortgage market. Both companies are placed in a government conservatorship, with the Fed taking up to an 80% stake. Progress is reviewed each quarter, and money injected into operations as needed.

Since the government is now explicitly backing the loans, the market for these securities is more like that for Treasuries, which lowers rates and benefits home buyers and sellers enormously.

Lower rates encourage more investors to return to the market. As that happens, rates continue to drop, and more funds go into the lending machine, further encouraging buyers to apply for financing. The result is increased housing sales, which helps to stabilize home prices.

As these companies and the Federal Housing Finance Agency plan a massive overhaul of operations, you can be assured that real estate agents and the National Association of REALTORS® will provide feedback and help shape a better future for our housing industry.

Sierra O'Brien Earns Spot On US Kayak Team

Sierra O'Brien, a 17-year-old Friendsville resident, will represent the United States this summer in the 2009 ICF Junior Wildwater World Championships, set for mid-July in Buochs, Switzerland. O'Brien won a spot on the USA Junior Wildwater Team this past weekend, having competed successfully in the trials held in North Carolina.

O'Brien is the daughter of Chara Whittemore, Friendsville, and Kevin O'Brien, McHenry. Her mother and stepfather, Jess Whittemore, are veterans of the kayaking sport, having both been part of the Senior USA Wildwater Team several years ago, competing in Germany.

"We have passed along our love for this sport of competition to Sierra," Jess said. "We are all so proud of her."

Sierra is in the 11th grade at Northern High School. She travels to Morgantown six nights a week to train with Rodney Rice. She works alongside her best friend, McKenzie Hatcher, who also made the team.

"I was so excited that we both made the team," Sierra said. "Now we will go to Switzerland together." Hatcher's family and Sierra's have been friends for many years, and the two girls have grown up together, Sierra said.

The two are currently working with Rice on the Monongalia River, which Sierra categorized as "flat water."

"Soon we will move on to the Cheat Narrows," she said.

There will be several competitions this spring and early summer, and both O'Brien and Hatcher will participate in as many as they can to gear up for their international contest.

Achieving the spot on the team was a surprise to the young kayaker, who said she didn't think she had made it. There were two parts to the contest, one involving short sprint runs, and then the "classic," a longer, more complicated course.

"I had a horrible sprint run the first day, and I was sure then that there was no way I could make it," she said. "But they figured out the scores differently than in the past. So when I found out I was on the team, I was thrilled."

More information about the junior USA team can be found at www.usawildwater.com/news/2009/090322_jr_worlds.htm.

Jesse Broadwater Wins Gold, Silver At World Archery Event

Former Garrett County resident Jesse Broadwater recently competed in the indoor world archery championship in Rzeszow, Poland, and came home with both a gold and a silver medal.

The 25-year-old professional was part of the United States Men's Compound team that won gold by setting a world record with a perfect score of 240. Broadwater and his teammates Chance Beaubouef of Tennessee and Braden Gellenthien of Virginia topped the previous record of 239 during the gold medal match with Great Britain.

Each archer shot three arrows for a total of 24 per team, with the U.S. team hitting a perfect 10 on every shot to beat Great Britain, 240-232. Broadwater's team earned a bye in the first round, and advanced to the finals by beating Switzerland, 234-230, in the second round, and Spam, 234-233, in the third.

There were 39 nations represented in the competition. Great Britain won the silver, and France, the bronze.

"It is a timed event, and we had only two minutes for the three of us to shoot three arrows, one at a time," Broadwater explained. "We shot through it perfectly, and ended up with a world record perfect score that can never be beaten, only tied."

Broadwater noted that he and his teammates did not have an opportunity to train together.

"It was the first time that all three of us shot together for any type of team shoot," Broadwater continued. "So the fact that we all adapted, worked together as well as we did, and walked away with a perfect world record score in the gold medal match is pretty amazing, I think."

Broadwater was almost as good in the individual competition, in which he won the silver medal.

"Every shot of the whole event meant something," he said, "and each time I faced a competitor in the elimination rounds, I put everything I had into those shots, because the competition I had was tough, and there was no room for error.

"I was happy that I shot 119s the whole way through all of the eliminations," he continued, "but I still ended up tied on one of the matches with one of the guys from France, and had to shoot it off. I won and moved on to the next guy, who was the best of the best. So I'm proud to have finished with the silver, especially since it was my first time in the competition."

Broadwater said that, while he was proud of his accomplishment, he is still not completely satisfied.

"But that's what keeps you improving and practicing harder and harder," he said. "I will do it again, and I want the gold individual next time."

Broadwater plans to compete in the Arizona Cup this weekend, which is one of the qualifying shoots for the World Cup next year.

He shoots as a pro for Hoyt Bow Company, and has been competing since the age of 11. He holds a number of state, national, and world records.

The graduate of Northern High School is the son of Tom and Brenda Broadwater. He currently resides in Pennsylvania.

Northern Varsity Hands Mtn. Ridge First Season Loss

The Northern High School varsity baseball team handed Mtn. Ridge its first loss of the 2009 season after a 7-1 Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference game last Friday in Frostburg.

The Huskies gained six runs in the first three innings and had the final two at the top of the sixth. Despite recording five hits, the Miners' only run came at the bottom of the first inning.

Pitcher Brandon Beachy started the scoring with a two-run double in the first. He added another double and two singles and allowed just one run from Mtn. Ridge and struck out four. Trey Beasom took over in the sixth and struck out four in two innings of relief.

Dan Warnick smacked a two-run homer in the second inning to advance Northern 4-1.

Mtn. Ridge's Cody Hovatter recorded three singles and scored the Miners only run at the bottom of the first inning.

The Huskies' junior varsity lost 5-3 to the Miner jayvees. The game went scoreless for five innings until Jake Bosley hit an RBI single in the fifth and scored on a Justin Shaw double.

Cody Rodeheaver added a double and a single, and both Shaw and Bosley had a single.

For Mtn. Ridge, Cody Sindy recorded two RBI singles, the first coming at the top of the sixth and the second in the seventh, and teammate Dan Streitbeck had a two-run single.

NHS Jayvees Crush Spartans For Second Win

The junior varsity baseball team of Northern High School coasted to a 17-3 victory over host Bishop Walsh on Tuesday to up the Huskies' record to 2-1.

Cody Humberson and Pat Sines combined on a four-hitter, while the Husky offense pounded out 14 hits.

Humberson also led his team at the plate, as he rapped three singles for three RBI. Justin Shaw and Austin Tombley each had two singles, and Josh Bittinger rapped a two-run double.

The game was called after five innings because of the mercy rule.

The Huskies are slated to play a doubleheader at Hampshire this Saturday and host Fort Hill for a single game next Wednesday.

Rams Have 12-Run First Inning Lead In 17-3 AMAC Win Over Sentinels

The undefeated Southern High School varsity baseball team crushed Fort Hill with a commanding 17-3 win Tuesday night during an Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference game.

The Rams set the tone with a staggering 12-run lead in the first inning while the Sentinels managed just one. Southern went scoreless for three innings, and Fort Hill managed to add two more runs at the bottom of the second. The Rams added five more runs to end the night.

Southern's pitcher Jeremy Sharpless allowed just four hits in five innings for the win, and teammate Nathan King slammed a two-run homer in the fifth inning and also provided a single.

Corey Helbig recorded a double and two singles for the Rams. Cody Parsons doubled and singled, and Ryan Sweitzer had two singles.

The Sentinels used three pitchers in the first inning, with Nathan Steckman starting, Dakota Welsh in the relief, and Trevor Korns taking over until the fifth when Nathan Malloy came in. Fort Hill's Forhest Crass managed an RBI single.

Southern's junior varsity team recorded a 3-0 victory over the Fort Hill jayvees with Tyler Sweitzer firing a two-hitter. He struck out four and had a single. Teammate Hunter Haskiell doubled.

Ryan Briner led the Sentinels with a double.

The Ram varsity, now 4-0 and 4-0 AMAC, are scheduled to play at Frankfort tomorrow, and at Northern on Monday. The Rams will host Allegany on Wednesday.

Lakers Drop Three Games, But Then Record Sweep Of Rockville

The baseball team of Garrett College dropped three straight games this past week, getting edged by host Potomac State on Friday, 6-5, and dropping a doubleheader to host Catonsville on Saturday, 5-4 and 7-4, but then rebounded for a twinbill sweep of Montgomery Rockville on Tuesday, 7-0 and 12-6, in Rockville.

The results evened the Lakers' record at 14-14 and gave them a 4-5 record in Maryland JUCO play. They were slated to play a single game yesterday at Hagerstown, but results of that contest were not received.

The Lakers outhit the Catamounts of Potomac State College last Friday by a 13-9 margin, and held a 5-3 lead going into the bottom of the seventh. PSC recorded one run in that frame, and then took a 6-5 lead with two runs in the bottom of the eighth.

Dominick Hayes led off PSC's eighth with a single, moved to second on a sacrifice by Kurtis Voytell, and then scored on a double by Jason Lombard. After an intentional walk to Kevin Griffin and a double steal, Lombard came home via a sacrifice fly by Torian Cyrus for what would be the winning run.

The Lakers had broken a 3-3 tie with two runs in the top of the seventh, as Ricardo Cordido, Jordan Tetrick, Brett Martin, and Corey Carr hit consecutive singles. Martin had the first RBI, and a bases-loaded walk drawn by Zach Nair plated the second run.

Alex Anderson went 3-for-5 for the Lakers with three singles and two RBI, while Garrett Rogers contributed a triple and a double.

Lombard also had a triple for the Catamounts, Gary Williams provided two singles, and Griffin hit an RBI double. The win upped PSC's record to 10-9.

Getting the win was Eric Hinkle, who pitched three relief innings, striking out five.

In Saturday's first game against Catonsville, it appeared that the Lakers would take the first game, as they took a 4-1 lead into the bottom of the final inning. But the Cardinals erupted for four runs in their half of the eighth to record the 5-4 win.

The Lakers took a 2-0 lead in the fourth, and a solo homer by Brett Martin in the fifth made it 3-0. Martin also had two singles.

Corey Carr also smacked a solo shot for the Lakers in the top of the seventh.

Mike Flacco, the brother of Baltimore Ravens quarterback Joe Flacco, stroked a double and a single and had one RBI for the Cardinals.

After a brief 1-0 lead by the Lakers in the second game, the Cardinals took the advantage for good with three runs in the bottom of the first behind a two-run homer by Mike Burrows. They added two more runs in their half of the second to take a 5-1 lead.

After the Cardinals went up by a 7-2 margin, the Lakers rallied for a pair of runs in the fifth, but it was not enough.

Ricky Cordido rapped a pair of doubles and a single for the Lakers, who outhit the Cardinals by an 8-5 margin. Martin contributed two singles for three RBI, and Alex Anderson also had a pair of singles.

In Tuesday's first game against Rockville, Laker hurlers John Opencarne and Scott Harmon combined to record a five-hit shutout. The pair recorded a total of seven strikeouts.

The Lakers took a 4-0 lead into the seventh, and Brett Martin sealed the victory with a three-run homer in that inning.

Corey Carr finished with a pair of singles.

The Lakers maintained their momentum going into the second game, as they put four runs on the board in the top of the first, and added six more in the third.

Recording a double and a single each for the Lakers in their 12-hit performance were Stephen Peters, Garrett Rogers, and Sebastian Niemand.

Laker pitchers Peter Garcia, Albert Bosch, and Jason Ashby combined for a six-hitter.

The Lakers are slated to host Cecil CC this Saturday in a noon doubleheader, entertain CCBC Dundalk on Sunday in another noon twinbill, host Hagerstown CC in a 3 p.m. single game on Tuesday, and host Allegany College of Maryland in another 3 p.m. single game next Thursday.

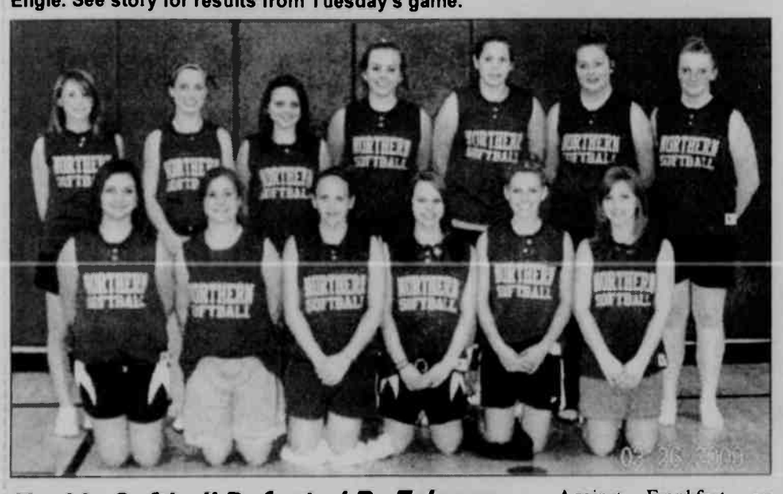
Management of Epilepsy with Drugs

An individual with epilepsy experiences abnormal electrical signals in the brain. The condition is diagnosed after at least 2 unprovoked seizures have occurred. Seizures are generally characterized by a temporary change in consciousness, motor activity, or behavior. Children and individuals over 65 years of age are most likely to be diagnosed with this condition. Those who experience only one seizure are not considered to be epileptic. Although genetics may play a role in the development of epilepsy, triggers such as a traumatic accident or stroke may also contribute to the development of this condition. The cause in many individuals is unknown.



Anti-epileptic medications are available to either completely eliminate seizures or to reduce their frequency and severity. The specific medication chosen depends on many factors, including age, and the type and severity of epilepsy. Valproic acid, carbamazepine and phenytoin are different types of antiepileptic drugs that may be prescribed. Carbamazepine and phenytoin decrease seizures by inhibiting the body's voltage-gated sodium channels. Valproic acid decreases seizures by increasing gamma aminobutyric acid, an inhibitory neurotransmitter. It also may affect potassium channels.

SHOOTOUT CHAMP, FINALIST – It was incorrectly reported in last week's issue that Peyton Missimer of Oakland placed fifth in his division at the Mid-Atlantic Elks Soccer Shoot in Carlisle, Pa., on March 14. In fact, Peyton, pictured left, was the champion of the boys' U-8 division, while Nathaniel Longest, right, also of Oakland, finished fifth in the boys' U-14 division. The two represented Maryland, Delaware, and the District of Colombia, and competed against the champions of Pennsylvania, West Virginia, New Jersey, and Kentucky. Peyton and Nathaniel won their local, regional, and state competitions in order to qualify for the Mid-Atlantic event. The contestants and their families were provided two nights' accommodations in Carlisle. There was a banquet and awards ceremony, with each participant receiving a monogrammed warm-up suit. Peyton is the son of Chris and Shelley Missimer, and Nathaniel is the son of Tim and Denise Longest, also of Oakland. Alica Roth of Red House was also a Mid-Atlantic champion, as reported last week.

LAKERS SOFTBALL UNDER WAY – Into its second year is the Garrett College Laker fastpitch softball team, coached by Terry Chapman and assisted by John Miller and Amy Shaffer. An inaugural team competed in 1999, and that was the last year Garrett attempted a softball season. The team was brought back as a result of interest expressed by the female student body. Team members pictured above, front row, left to right, are Tiara Washington, Crystal McDade, and Kambra Lantz. Second row, left to right, are Nichole Harvey, Breona Manley, Danielle Brenneman, Alyssa Dick, Erica DeShields, and Ebony Fountain. In the back row, left to right, are Miller, LaVina Payne, Melodie Stolbom, Sidnee Williamson, Ashlee Myers, Charnika Walker, Andrea Miller, Shaffer, and Chapman. The Lakers will play at Potomac State today at 3 p.m. and at Westmoreland on Saturday at noon.

Maryland Spring Turkey Season To Begin On April 11

Maryland's statewide spring turkey hunting season will begin on Saturday, April 11, with a one-day Junior Turkey Hunt. The regular turkey season will open the following Saturday, April 18, and will continue to May 23.

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) survey data show that wild turkey numbers vary through out the state.

"Some areas of the Eastern Shore and southern Maryland continue to see significant population growth," said Bob Long, DNR wild turkey biologist. "However, turkey numbers have remained stable or declined slightly in other regions due to several consecutive years of below average reproduction."

Turkeys can be found in every Maryland county, but the highest harvest typically come from the western region, portions of southern Maryland, and the Eastern Shore.

Adults are encouraged to take a young hunter afield on Junior Turkey Hunt day. This one-day hunt allows hunters age 16 or younger to hunt wild turkeys when accompanied by an unarmed adult of at least 21 years of age. Both participants must possess a valid hunting license or be exempt from Maryland hunting license requirements.

Most public hunting areas provide turkey hunting opportunities, but opening day and Saturdays are usually quite busy, according to a spokesperson.

Turkey hunting accidents are rare in Maryland, but hunters are reminded to hunt safely. Hunters should positively identify the target as a bearded turkey and eliminate the colors of a gobbler's head – red, blue, and white – from clothing. Hunters are also encouraged to wear a fluorescent orange cap while moving and tie an orange ribbon around a nearby tree while calling.

In an effort to minimize problems associated with overcrowding, hunters should note that turkey hunting is now restricted at Millington Wildlife Management Area in Kent County. For more details, persons may visit the DNR's web site at www.dnr.maryland.gov or call 410-928-3650.

Regulations, turkey check-in procedures, and information on public hunting areas can be found at www.dnr.maryland.gov/huntersguide or in the 2008-2009 Maryland Guide to Hunting and Trapping issued with each hunting license.

Re-enactment of DaVinci's "The Last Supper"
Thursday, April 9, 2009, at 6:00 PM
Deep Creek Baptist Church
19841 Garrett Highway
Oakland, Maryland 21550

The fellowship of Deep Creek Baptist Church is presenting a re-enactment of Leonardo DaVinci's "The Last Supper." Invite someone and come and share as each disciple comes to life and shares his personal testimony about Jesus Christ. Bill DuVall will portray Christ and Richard Perrine will fill the role of Judas. While admission is free, there will be an opportunity to give a free-will offering.

Although there have been many representations of the Last Supper, only DaVinci has expressed the emotion and character of each disciple on the occasion of the betrayal of Christ. The painting is set as Jesus makes the announcement of His pending betrayal and the disciples' reactions to that announcement. Each disciple then wonders, "Is it I?"

HOW MANY WILL YOU BREAK FOR CHARITY? A "Break-a-thon" fundraising event will be hosted by the Maryland School of Tae Kwon Do, owned and operated by Master Ron Durham, in the Oakland Health and Racquet parking lot on April 25 at 9 a.m., with proceeds going to St. Jude Children's Research Hospital. Pictured above is head instructor Chip Smith, left, and Master Durham, right, breaking cement blocks, demonstrating two techniques of breaking. Smith used a hammer fist technique to break two blocks with each hand, and Master Durham used his elbow to break four blocks at once. See story for more details. Photo by Angie Sincell.

MD School Of Tae Kwon Do To Hold "Break-a-thon" Fundraiser

The Maryland School of Tae Kwon Do, owned and operated by Master Ron Durham and located at Oakland Health and Racquet, will be hosting a "Break-a-thon" fundraising event for St. Jude Children's Research Hospital on April 25 at 9 a.m. This is the school's fifth year hosting the event, raising roughly $5,000 since it began donating to the charity.

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital is internationally recognized for its pioneering work in finding cures and saving children with cancer and other catastrophic diseases. St. Jude is the first and only pediatric cancer center to be designated as a Comprehensive Cancer Center by the National Cancer Institute. St. Jude is financially supported by ALSAC, its fundraising organization.

The event will consist of a breaking and kicking category for children age 5 to 18. In this event, children will break or kick as many pieces of wood as they can.

There will be three breaking categories for adults 18 and older, with a men's and women's division. The adults will be able to compete in one of three power-breaking events: wood power-break, cement power-break, or free-style power-break.

"In power-breaking, an individual will break one piece and will build up one-by-one until he or she cannot break any more," said Master Durham.

The free-style option will consist of eight breaking stations. Persons will need to have holders at each station, where they can break multiple boards stacked together or one board at a time.

This event is open to anyone, regardless of experience. Participants will have the choice of breaking with their hand, by using knife hand strike, hammer fist, back fist, ridge hand, or elbow, or their foot by use of the heel, ball of the foot, blade of the foot, or their knees.

A minimum donation of $50 is required for the adult categories. There will be awards given to the top three individuals in the men's and women's divisions, as well as in the overall breaking.

A demonstration by the school will take place at the end of the competition, as well as one by the hai dong gumdo (Korean sword) class.

For more information about the event and where to pick up a fundraiser form, persons may contact Master Durham at 301-616-6825 or head instructor Chip Smith at 301-501-6975.

"Our Tribute to Jimmy"

James Vernon Spiker

August 4, 1971 - March 31, 2008

God was gathering flowers, for His beautiful bouquet.
He was searching all around and saw an empty space.
He needed one more flower for His heavenly display.
A flower worthy of His love and God's sunlight on its face.
He saw your way was getting rough, and mountains hard to climb.
He said, "Jim, you've traveled many miles for one so young in life."
You are so very special, I want you to be mine.
Forever– now as if one day– will be our scheduled time.
God looked down upon you– saw the tiredness on your face
Your body always moving– trying to keep pace.
So, He asked His special angel to lift you to your rest.
The heavenlies are now more beautiful, since He only takes the best.
They say time heals all sorrows– on this we don't agree.
For all we've seen with time is emptiness in our family.
Jimmy, when God took you, you did not go alone,
But part of us went with you to that heavenly home.
And now with hearts still broken, we miss you more each day.
We said goodbye, but now we say,
You kept Amanda smiling, Annie and Riley were your joy
You were your Momma's baby and your Mammaw's sweet, sweet boy

You are missed and loved so much by Amanda, Annie, Riley, Mom, Mammaw and all your aunts, uncles and cousins.

After reviewing the Selection Committee's evaluation sheet, the commissioners unanimously approved ERM's bid. The committee's evaluation criteria included points for "scope and quality of services proposed," "current total workload," and cost proposal. It was noted that ERM is the same firm that developed the 2008 Garrett County Comprehensive Plan.

"ERM has proposed . . . about a nine-month, 10-month work schedule to update the Deep Creek Zoning Ordinance, our subdivision ordinance, and our sensitive areas ordinance," Nelson told the commissioners at the bid award meeting.

ERM's main contact will be with the Planning Commission, Nelson noted. The two entities will meet about five or six times before presenting the proposed ordinances to the commissioners.

"About January 2010, we will be making recommendations to you for the new ordinances," Nelson told the commissioners.

After the commissioners review those recommendations, public hearings will be scheduled.

The commissioners also awarded contractual mowing service bids on Tuesday. Junkins said there was a total of 19 bidders.

Pleasant Valley Lawn Care won its $24,789 bid to mow 25 county-owned sites, including the courthouse, animal shelter, and Crellin Waste Water Treatment Plant.

Gearhart Property Services of Oakland also won its $13,320 bid to mow 20 sites. Those county properties include the Bloomington and Kitzmiller waste water treatment plants and Shallmar water storage tank

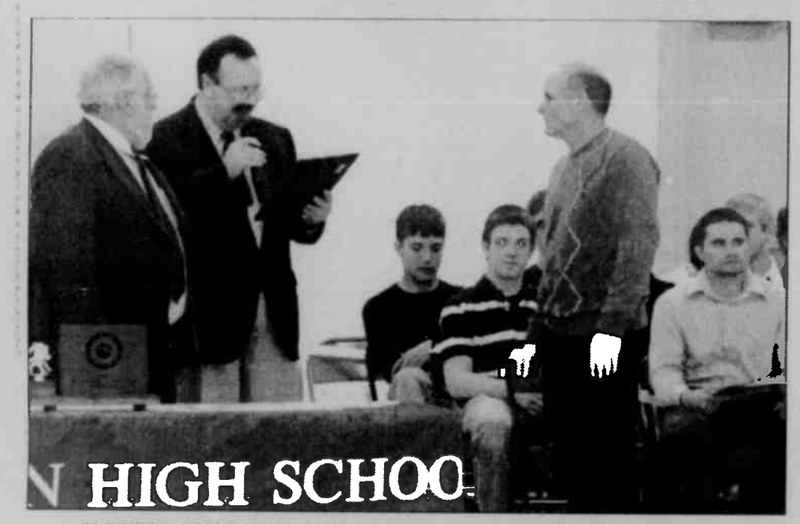
Junkins noted that the savings for this year's mowing contract period will be $8,834 when compared to last year's bid award package.

Commissioner Denny Glotfelty asked how the savings came about.

The buyer explained that his department handled the mowing award package "a little differently" this year.

Junkins said the mowing sites were put into smaller groups based on geographical locations for people to bid on, rather than groups of widespread areas. For example, one of last year's bid groups included mowing sites in Kitzmiller and Oakland. As a result, this year's bids were lower.

"So, it worked out really nice for us," Junkins said about the savings to the county.



Glotfelty noted that the change also benefits the winning bidders, as they do not have to travel as much to their mowing sites.

LOCAL TEAM WINS TOURNAMENT – Northern High School's Ed Herpel drilled a 3-pointer with 5.6 seconds remaining to lift Deep Creek Pharmacy to a 73-71 victory over JR Sports to claim the 2009 Silver Hoops Senior Division Championship on Saturday in Cumberland. Pictured above, from left, are team members Will Hughes, Kamran Khatain, Myles Clifford, Keinen Harper, coach Jerry Herpel, J.P. Binotto, and Ed Herpel. Not present was Trevor Tombley. Herpel scored the last 14 points for his team, including a 4-point play to put his team up 70-69 with 30 seconds left in the game. He and JR Sports' Casey Roberts (Allegany High) were the game's high scorers with 27 points each. Will Hughes (Hampshire High) added 21 points to the cause for Deep Creek Pharmacy. The local players started the tournament by crushing CBIZ, 83-54. In the second game they overcame a 23-point deficit to defeat Personal Best, 80-74, which sent them into the championship round. They lost their first match-up with JR Sports on Friday night, 61-50, which set up the rematch for the championship. Herpel, who averaged 21 points per game, was named the tournament's MVP. JR Sports' Devon Lee (Fort Hill) was named Most Outstanding Player. The two are pictured below. The All-Tournament Team consisted of the Pharmacy's Kamran Khatain (Bishop Walsh), Myles Clifford (Bishop Walsh), and Will Hughes, and JR Sports' Jordon Grady (Allegany) and Roberts.

Garrett County SKIES

By Dr. Bob Doyle
Frostburg State Planetarium

APRIL SUN – In early April, the sun rises in Oakland about 7 a.m. and sets about 7:40 p.m. In the first few weeks of April, the sun is in the star group Pisces, entering Aries in the late afternoon of April 18. The sun will stay in Aries for the rest of April, moving into Taurus on May 13. (These dates are not the astrological dates, but the actual dates when the sun crosses the boundaries of these zodiac groups. When the sun is in a zodiac group, this group will be swallowed in the sun's glare. Also, the dimmer stars of the surrounding zodiac groups will be lost in the twilight. So through most of April, the star group Aries will be invisible and the fainter stars of Taurus and Pisces won't pierce the twilight.) As April draws to a close, Oakland and surroundings will have sunrises about 6:20 a.m. and sunsets about 8:10 p.m. So Oakland's daily ration of sunlight in April grows from 12.7 to 13.8 hours.

APRIL MOON – As April opens, the moon appears half full in the evening sky. This is the best lighted shape to view the moon's craters with binoculars or a telescope. Along the moon's left (straight) edge, the sun is rising over the lunar plains, first catching the raised crater rims and mountain peaks. On April 6, the moon will appear below the planet Saturn. The moon grows to full on the evening of April 9, appearing near the bright star Spica of Virgo. This first full moon of spring triggers Easter to fall on the next Sunday, April 12. After April 13, the moon will be rising after midnight and is best seen at dawn. The moon will appear near the bright planet Jupiter in the southeastern dawn on April 19. On April 22, the crescent moon will appear close to the brilliant planet Venus in the 5:45 a.m. eastern dawn. Below the moon-Venus pair then is the dull planet Mars. On April 24, the moon swings from the morning to the evening side of the sun. On April 26, a very slender crescent moon can be seen to the left of the 7 Sisters star cluster low in the 8:50 p.m. western dusk. Just below the moon-star cluster pair at that time is the planet Mercury.

APRIL PLANETS – In April, the brilliant planet Venus blossoms low in the eastern dawn as its rising time ahead of the sun grows from 45 to 90 minutes. To the right of Venus is the very bright planet Jupiter. (Both planets appear as steadily shining points, not twinkling as the night stars.) The much dimmer planet Mars appears below Venus in late April. Mars appears faint because we are viewing it on the far side of its orbit. In the evening sky, the planet Saturn is well placed for telescope views of its rings. Saturn is now in Leo, below and to the left of Leo's sickle. A telescope magnifying as little as 30 times will begin to show the rings; 50 power is better for a clearer view. In mid April, the planet Mercury creeps upward into the western dusk. In late April, Mercury is higher and setting more than 90 minutes after the sun.

APRIL STARS – On April evenings, the Big Dipper appears high in the north and upside down. Extend the Dipper's handle rightward to the bright golden star Arcturus. Further along this same arc is the white-blue star Spica. High in the south is Leo, the Lion whose western stars resemble a starry sickle with the handle below and the curved blade to the left. Low in the southwest are what remains of the bright winter stars. In the early evening, you can spot Orion with his three-star belt. The belt points leftward to Sirius, the night's brightest star. The belt points rightward to the bright star marking the Bull's eye and the 7 Sisters star cluster.

APRIL PROGRAM – The April public program at the Frostburg State University is "Earth from Powerful Stars," with free Sunday presentations on April 5, 19, and 26 at 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. (There are no programs on April 12, Easter.) The planetarium is in Tawes 302, just off the front lobby and facing the Compton Science Center. To get a free Planetarium bookmark (includes a map showing parking and planetarium), persons may telephone 301-687-7799 and leave name and mailing address, or send an email to rdoyle@frostburg.edu .

FREE PRESCRIPTION REVIEW GIVEN TO G'VILLE SENIORS – Pharmacist Gerry Beachy of Beachy's Pharmacy, Grantsville, recently provided a "brown bag" prescription review for seniors at the Grantsville Senior Center. Seniors were given a chance to have their prescriptions reviewed in a free, private consultation. The review checked for drug interactions, over-the-counter drug interactions, correct dosage for age and weight, and generic alternatives. "We are so fortunate to have a local pharmacist volunteer to provide this valuable service to our seniors," said an agency spokesperson. "Prescription medications can be very confusing, and it is important to find out if you're taking medication properly."

Ask The Everyday Scientist

INTERNAL PAIN AND BAROMETRIC PRESSURE

Q. I had a nasty knee injury skiing last year, and am wondering why when the weather is about to change my knee hurts more than at other times? Does it have to do with barometric pressure? Moisture?

A. This condition affects a lot of people, and has been a puzzle for a long time. Far from being just an "old wives' tale," even the ancient Greeks noticed the phenomenon. People with arthritic joints, those with old injuries that aren't perfectly healed, and various other nuisance afflictions, sometimes experience pain that serves as an excellent weather predictor.

The key element is changing barometric pressure. The occasion on which that is most likely to be noticed is when the pressure drops before a new weather front or rainstorm is coming. That's the time when the pressure is changing fastest. Later on, when the storm has passed and the weather starts to clear up and improve, the pressure changes again, but it usually does so more gradually, and hence is less noticeable.

The possible role of moisture in the air is really vague. There is no plausible mechanism that links external humidity with conditions deep inside your body. Generally, doctors think that because changing weather is usually accompanied by changing humidity, patients just blend the two together in their descriptions of symptoms.

The medical profession doesn't have any perfect explanation that covers all cases. Most of the formal medical literature reporting on studies about this tend to be inconclusive, because psychological factors clutter up the statements by patients – doctors aren't sure the patient's memory isn't influenced by the outcome of weather days later. So the conclusions drawn are always very tentative, hedging for uncontrolled effects.

Non-medical reporting doesn't have to be so cautious. There are many web sites that discuss the entire matter: USAToday, Yahoo, and many more. One of them, www.SixWise.com, quotes meteorologist Kevin Robinson, who can currently be seen on the Weather Channel every morning: "When people feel pain during a weather change, it is often not precipitation or humidity causing the problem, but changing barometric pressure. As storms approach, barometric pressure – the weight exerted by air – falls, resulting in many people experiencing an increase in aches and pains. A decline in barometric pressure may make inflamed joints swell, which in theory could stretch the thin tissue lining the capsule surrounding a joint."

The same web site reports on a study of 1,833 people with rheumatoid arthritis (RA). The doctors looked at the number of swollen, tender joints in the patients, and they measured inflammation. The plausible conclusion seems to be that where there is inflammation, there will likely also be swelling or similar sensitivity to changing barometric pressure.

Other studies note that while nerve endings may be exceptionally sensitive in inflamed areas, you won't actually feel the pain until nerve signals reach receptors in your brain, and those receptors are often located near your inner ear. Of course, the ears are the part of the body most sensitive to changing pressure. Could there be some interference effect? Nobody knows.

Many people, upon first feeling pain, will reach for aspirin, ibuprofen, or similar pills (sold under lots of brand names); and soon the pain subsides – because the inflammation is reduced. What doctors have not yet put together is a controlled clinical trial in which a large number of people feel joint pain, don't take any pills, but tough it through; and meanwhile copy down data on the changing barometric pressure, as well as commenting accurately on how bad the joint or injury feels.

I can't blame you if you don't volunteer to be the first in such a medical study. But if the condition goes away, that's a good sign that internal inflammation from your injury has finally healed.

Appointed Chair Of YALSA's Great Book Giveaway

Krista McKenzie, children's specialist at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland, was recently appointed chair of the YALSA Great Book Giveaway Award Jury for a term beginning July 15, 2009 and ending June 30, 2010. YALSA (Young Adult Library Services Association) is a division of the American Library Association (ALA).

It is YALSA's mission to advocate, promote, and strengthen service to young adults as part of a continuum of total library service and to support those who provide service to this population. "We are proud to have an employee of our library system appointed to this position," noted library director Cathy Ashby.

The YALSA office receives approximately 1,200 newly published books, videos, CDs, and audiocassettes each year. These materials are primarily targeted at young adults. Publishers and producers send these items for YALSA to review and nominate for various awards.

Once these awards are determined, the materials are offered as a contribution to a library in need through the Great Book Giveaway application process. McKenzie will serve as chair of the committee that selects the winning application. She also currently serves on the seven-member legislation committee of YALSA.

In her role as children's specialist, McKenzie manages all children's and teen programs at the Oakland library. For a listing of these activities, persons may visit the web site at www.relib.net.

UM Ministries Schedule Holy Week Services

Holy Week events at Deep Creek United Methodist Ministries of Hoyes and Paradise will begin Palm Sunday, April 5, with worship services at Hoyes Chapel, Hoyes Road, at 9 a.m. and at Paradise Chapel, Sand Flat Road, at 10:30 a.m.

"These services will feature the reading from God's word of the triumphal entry of Jesus into the Holy City of Jerusalem," said a church spokesperson. "Each person will be given a palm branch to wave as they are singing the hymns that tell the story of this special day."

Rev. Sam Wachter will deliver a Palm Sunday message, and Rev. Amy Chesla will have a special message for the children. The service will also include the sacrament of Holy Communion.

Paradise Chapel will hold a worship service on Wednesday, April 8, at 6:30 p.m. This event will feature special contemporary praise music and a multi-media message on "The Lord's Prayer" by Rev. Chesla.

"This service is informal and directed to those who enjoy a contemporary approach to worship, especially families," said the spokesperson. "The service is held early in the evening so that young people can be home at a reasonable time on a school night."

A silent service of Holy Communion will be held at both Hoyes and Paradise chapels on Maundy Thursday, April 9. The elements will be consecrated at 7 p.m., and the chapels will be open for people to come at their leisure and partake of the sacraments until 8 p.m. Persons may stay and meditate for as along as they desire and may depart at any time. Devotional material will be available to assist each worshiper in his or her silent time.

Paradise Chapel will host the annual Easter egg hunt on Saturday, April 11, beginning at 1 p.m. Children will search for the hidden egg treasures, complete a craft project, and enjoy a snack. This event is open to children of all ages. In case of inclement weather, the held will be held inside.

Easter Sunday, April 12, events will begin at 6:30 a.m. with a sunrise service at the home of Ed and Brenda Roszell. Participants are asked to bring a story or inspirational poem to share.

"This will be a celebration of the resurrection with praise and song as we watch the sun rise on the horizon," said the spokesperson.

The Roszells' home is located at 180 Ridgeview Heights Road, Friendsville, which is off Fire Tower Road. This service will be followed by a breakfast at the Hoyes Chapel at 7:30 a.m.

Easter morning worship services will be held at Hoyes Chapel at 9 a.m. and at Paradise Chapel at 10:30 a.m.

"Each chapel will be adorned with Easter lilies, and many familiar joyous Easter hymns will be part of the service," said the spokesperson.

Rev. Chesla will deliver a message for the children, and Rev. Wachter will deliver an inspirational Easter message, which will be followed by everyone sharing the sacrament of Holy Communion.

"Everyone is invited to join in all or part of the Easter services at Deep Creek United Methodist Ministries of Hoyes and Paradise," said the spokesperson. "For more information, feel free to call 301 387-2452."

Sicwebu Selected As '09 Coca-Cola National Finalist

Garrett College sophomore/Phi Theta Kappa Honor Society member Andisiwe Sicwebu of South Africa has been selected as a 2009 Coca-Cola National Finalist.

Sicwebu was selected as a Coca-Cola finalist based on scores earned in the All-USA Team competition. The program is sponsored by the Coca-Cola Scholars Foundation and is administered by Phi Theta Kappa Honor Society. As a finalist, Sicwebu will receive a $1,000 scholarship.

"I am ecstatic about this accomplishment because, for as long as I can remember, I have wanted to compete academically on an international level," said Sicwebu. "When given platforms like Phi Theta Kappa, I make sure I take advantage of the opportunity. I hope this encourages other GC students to continue to work hard to accomplish their goals."

In addition to being a member of the Phi Theta Kappa Honor Society, Sicwebu is also president of the World View International Club, a student ambassador, and a math teaching assistant at Garrett College.

She will graduate in May and plans to transfer to Bucknell University this fall and major in environmental engineering.

Kitzmiller Church Schedules Good Fri. "Cross Walk"

Mount Bethel United Methodist Church in Kitzmiller will commemorate Good Friday, April 10, with a "cross walk." The walk will begin at the church, located at the corner of Kitzmiller Road and East Main Street, at 6 p.m.

Volunteers will take turns carrying a cross along a one-mile route. The event will allow time for scripture reading, prayer, quiet reflection, and singing at various stops throughout the community.

"The Cross Walk gives participants the opportunity to not only remember the crucifixion of Jesus, but also to experience a symbol of the Christian's call to 'take up the cross and follow Him,'" said a church spokesperson.

The walk will end at the church, where a soup supper will be held. The evening will conclude with a time of worship and reflection in the church sanctuary.

Pastor Angela Cosner and the Mt. Bethel congregation invite the public to attend. For more information, persons may call 304-693-7353 or 301-453-3227.

FLL TEAMS PREPARE FOR COMPETITION WITH OPEN HOUSE – The GEARS Center in Accident recently hosted an open house for the Maryland Teachers of the Year, who were here for a retreat led by Garrett County Teacher of the Year Jenny Neville. Both NeXT GEN and G-Force were there to present research and robot missions to the group. Above left, G-Force drivers Aaron Lantz and Nathan Tichnell demonstrate their robot "Phil-Bot," while the team's driving coach Kevin Haenftling looks on. Other team members Derrick Maust, Kendrick Bender, Bryan Rippeon, and Mikail Perrine also participated in the event by talking to the teachers about their team experiences, as well as their 4-H workshops, SuGO Sundays, Underwater Robot Camp, summer technology camps, and other events held throughout the year at GEARS. Above right is Levi Lantz, from Southern Middle School's NeXT GEN team, explaining and running his robot mission on the table. NeXT GEN has taken a few months off, but is now preparing for the FLL U.S. Open National Championships in Dayton, Ohio, next month. "All of the teachers from across the state were very complimentary of each team's presentation skills and technology skills," coach Arlene Lantz noted. "They commented on how the students' skills were conveyed with such enthusiasm and passion about the teams and their learning experiences." Below left, several G-Force members participate in the monthly SuGO event. In between helping families build their robots, they enjoy creating their own robots using new and different strategies each month. G-Force continues to prepare for the FIRST Tech Challenge (FTC) World Championships in Atlanta, Ga., later this month. G-Force team members will be at Wal-Mart this Saturday, April 4, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. selling hot dogs and chili dogs to help with their trip. NeXT Gen members are shown below right with Jane Avery, artistic director of Our Town Theatre, who spent two practices giving them tips to bring creativity and excitement to their research presentation, which is one of the four areas in which the team is judged during competition. With Avery in the middle with her dog Clem, team members from left to right are Rachel Huxford, Andrew Hauser, Levi Lantz, Daniel Adams, Zach Frick, Rebecca Lee, and Devon Jobe. After working with Avery, the team presented their new skills at a dinner with the Aurora Lions Club. The team just received word that it will be awarded a SARE (Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education) grant that will aid in the construction of the team's "Energy Harvesting, Energy Efficient, Green Greenhouse," which Dr. Harry Schwartz will use for his strawberry breeding program throughout the winter months in Garrett County. The public is invited to this weekend's SuGO Sunday, on April 5, 1 to 3 p.m., at the GEARS Center.

Climate Exchange Group Approves Red Rock Project

The Chicago Climate Exchange (CCX) Forestry Committee has approved Red Rock Enterprises' first forest carbon project, which includes a new remote aerial survey inventory methodology. The effort was presented by the National Carbon Offset Coalition and Team Terresense – Red Rock, Terresense Inc., and Zimmerman Associates Inc.

Located in Friendsville, Red Rock Enterprises LLC provides a full range of forestry service through subsidiaries Mid Atlantic Timberland Group and Pennco International Inc. Services include forest land management, forest carbon projects, offset trading, and timber exports to global markets.

For the forest carbon project, Red Rock provided management by introducing an aerial survey with advanced sensors.

The approved methodology for the project is based on the combination of an aerial inventory method flown by Sunshine Air, a subcontractor for Terresense Inc. The methodology was designed by Terresense for forest biomass and carbon inventory and the Forest Vegetation Simulator model for growth modeling.

Red Rock implements a 10-step forest carbon sequestration project model that assists the forest owner through the complex CCX submission process.

"The process starts and ends with the forest owner's vision and desires for long-term management and revenue generation," said Frank Stark of Red Rock.

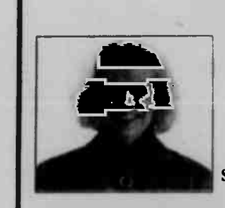
Additional steps include developing a workable management plan, forest certification, forest inventory, project submission, verification, and offset trading.

"Careful consideration is given to project costs," Stark said. "One of the largest project expenses is reduced by using the aerial survey inventory and makes carbon projects more affordable to forestland owners."

The approved aerial inventory method developed by Terresense uses a sensor suite that includes a radar instrument, a hyperspectral camera, a profiling laser, and a video camera to collect forest inventory data from an airplane at 1,000 feet above ground level.

"The inventory covers 100 percent of the area being evaluated and fuses the data from all the sensors for an unprecedented level of accuracy, flexibility, and efficacy," Stark said. "With the Terrasense sensor suite, the measurements of biomass, tree height, and canopy closure are very fast, at 30 square miles per day, and more accurate and reproducible since 100 percent of the forest is sampled with direct measurements."

The aerial inventory is supported by a targeted ground cruise that provides data validation, species delineation, stratification information, and modeling input data for growth and multi-year predictions.



The Chicago Climate Exchange operates North America's only cap and trade system for all six greenhouse gases, with global affiliates and projects worldwide.

According to CCX, members are leaders in greenhouse gas management and represent all sectors of the global economy, as well as public sector innovators.

Northern High's JROTC Team To Compete In D.C.

After advancing through two phases of competition, the Northern High School JROTC Leadership Team will compete in the final championship round of the College Options Foundation's 2009 JROTC Leadership and Academic Bowl in Washington, D.C. Comprising students Kari Wingrove, Cameron Barone, William Gibbs, Jake Savage, and Barrick Uphold, the team will compete on the campus of George Mason University the week of June 26–30.

The team competed in two rounds of competitive online play against thousands of JROTC students from across the world to win a place in the championship and the trip to D.C. During these rounds, students were tested on standard high school curriculum, including math, science, English, and leadership skills. The team is one of only 24 in the nation to advance to the finals.

The JROTC Leadership and Academic Bowl is a nationally recognized academic competition created exclusively for JROTC students. By participating, cadets learn the values of citizenship, academic competition, and college opportunity. The competition also creates opportunities for JROTC and its cadets by demonstrating the academic abilities of JROTC students.

The College Options Foundation is a non-profit organization dedicated to enriching the academic development of high school students and assisting them in their preparation for higher education. Using academic competitions, college exam study guides, college admissions tutorials, and personalized counseling, the College Options Foundation has assisted the nation's 1.1 million JROTC cadets worldwide.

Preliminary Work On'10 Census To Kick Off Monday

by Megan Miller
Capital News Service

It may be a year before the 2010 census, but Maryland residents should start seeing preliminary work happening in their neighborhoods in as little as two weeks.

The first public preparation for the 2010 census kicks off April 6, with census workers hitting the streets to update a comprehensive database of residential Maryland addresses.

Of the three Maryland census offices, only two, Largo and Frederick, will begin address canvassing on that date. The Baltimore office should get started by mid-April.

Start dates in Maryland differ because of the offices' varying progress in hiring and training staff, said Monica Davis, media specialist with the Philadelphia Regional Census Center.

Maryland census offices have reached their hiring goals for address canvassing, according to Davis, and are now contacting people to begin a required five-day training course.

"Each office requires about 500 to 600 employees, about 1,500 total, just for the address canvassing operation," Davis said. "It's the largest census operation we have in 2009."

Nationwide, the address verification project will employ 140,000 census workers to check about 145 million home addresses.

Census officials say this phase should require little contact between residents and census workers.

"Their purpose is to go street to street to identify where people live," said census media specialist Bill Reed. "They're confirming that a building is a house and not something else, like a shop. They only time that they'll knock on the door ... is if the building is listed as something other than a residence."

Census workers might also contact residents to ask if there are other living quarters on a property, Reed said.

The census workers, or "address listers," as they're being called for this task, will carry handheld computers to update an address database that will later be used for mailing the actual census forms.

The computers also allow census workers to enter exact GPS coordinates for each structure. It's a critical feature to improve census data accuracy for things like political redistricting, said Stephen Buckner, census spokesman.

"Although the 2000 census was heralded as the most accurate census ever, there were still some 'geocoding errors' – homes coded to the wrong jurisdiction," Buckner said. "In-stead of putting a pencil point on a map to try to accurately reflect where a house is, now we're using satellite-based technology."

This is the first time census workers will use handheld computers. While the technology should increase the ease and accuracy of data gathering, there's always the chance of unforeseen glitches, Reed said.

Address listers undergo a five-day training that includes instruction on using the equipment to minimize problems.

But Maryland also faces other difficulties, such as its high rate of home foreclosures, which complicate census-taking efforts.

One of the biggest concerns for 2010 is getting an accurate count in traditionally undercounted populations, like poverty-stricken areas and immigrant communities.

"We have a high concentration of efforts directly targeted to what have been undercounted communities," Reed said. "There is a tremendous thrust working with community leaders, community media, church groups, and service groups in order to eliminate the undercount."

The address-canvassing phase is expected to wrap up in July, followed by "group quarters validation," when census workers verify who's living in places like college dorms, prisons, and hospitals. Census forms will be mailed in March 2010, and Census Day, when workers go around collecting the data, is April 1, 2010.

INTERNS RAISE MONEY FOR POLIO CAMPAIGN – Three students from Frostburg State University who are completing an internship at Grantsville Elementary School recently completed a service learning project. The girls teamed with the Grantsville Rotary to help raise money for a polio vaccine campaign. Classes competed to raise the most money, and the winners were Tara Hinebaugh's third grade class and Jackie Daniels's fifth grade class. During the three-week period, over $1,100 was raised. Pictured above, from left, are Joe Bender, treasurer of the Grantsville Rotary; interns Sandy Beachy, Lydia Maust, and Emily Green; and Jo Gilman, president of the Grantsville Rotary.

Signs of spring abound: new life, budding blooms, fresh smells and warmer air. Spring is a time of renewal. It's a running start at life. Catch it quickly and run with it! Soar with the seedlings planted in fertile soil, flowering with faith, petals turned to the sky.

There is another source of renewal, available in all seasons. God! Visit your house of worship weekly for renewal with Him. Depart refreshed and rejoicing, filled with strength for whatever challenges life may offer.

"Faithfulness springs forth from the earth, and righteousness looks down from heaven." (Psalm 85:11). Embrace spring. Embrace God.

Give Drink to the Thirsty

This corporal work of mercy, might at first glace, seem odd, but there are literally billions of people without enough clean water to drink. While we might not think of it as a problem in the United States, the problem of not having enough potable (i.e., drinkable) water in the developing world is a very serious concern. There are still many places in the world where water is a significant source of disease, such as cholera, typhus and diarrheal illness, and where access to sanitary plumbing and clean water is literally a pipe dream, since they lack the plumbing and sanitation infrastructure we take for granted in the developed world. Ironically, the municipal water in every American city and town is healthy to drink, and yet we drink literally billions of gallons of bottled water each year. This bottled water costs roughly a thousand times more than the water coming out of the tap. By simply drinking tap water instead of bottled water, and then donating the money saved to charities that help with water relief, we could make a significant difference. Charitable organizations which address this issue in developing countries often start by providing poor villages with pumps or chlorinators. A $265 chlorinator can produce enough clean water for 10,000 people, making a huge difference in the quality of life for residents of a poor village. We should study and reflect on the problem of potable water throughout the world, and then do something concrete to give clean water to those in need.

To the thirsty bring water, meet the fugitive with bread, O Inhabitants of the land of Tema.

R.S.V. Isaiah 21:14

Arginine Supplements and Obesity

Most individuals's bodies can make the necessary amount of the ammino acid called arginine. However, sometimes, supplementation with that nutrient is required. People with severe burns, malnutrition, severe infections sometimes may need extra arginine. Symptoms of deficiency may include rash, slow wound healing, constipation, and hair loss. The body requires arginine to create urea, a substance which eliminates toxic ammonia from the body. Arginine is also involved in the elimination of creatinine, a byproduct of muscle breakdown.

One recent study evaluated the effect of arginine supplementation on the fat mass of obese laboratory animals. Obese animals were fed low and high fat diets. They were also given arginine supplementation for 12 weeks. The study revealed that the arginine supplementation reduced the body fat gained during the study period by over 60% in both diet groups. It is not known yet if arginine has any effect on fat mass in humans. Studies to evaluate arginine supplementation in obese children and adults are being planned.

Shalhoub won't be a monk from working

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Tony Shalhoub

Q: What will Tony Shalhoub be doing now that he won't be doing "Monk"? –Larry Shook, Logan, Ohio

A: Apparently, a lot of what he also did before the show – and in and around the sitcoms "Wings" and "Stark Raving Mad" – which was to pick up one-shot roles in projects that appeal to him. A three-time Emmy winner for his USA Network portrayal of obsessive-compulsive sleuth Adrian Monk, Shalhoub has spent recent weeks as executive producer and actor on a movie comedy titled "Feed the Fish"; the film's co-stars include his brother, Michael.

Q: Is "Deadliest Catch" coming back, or is it gone for good? –Lillie Himmel, Midlothian, Texas

A: The series continues to be one of Discovery Channel's biggest successes, so it's hardly gone for good. In fact, the fifth season is right around the corner; it's scheduled to begin April 14.

Q: I was wondering if you can tell me if USA Network is planning on any new episodes of "NCIS." –Kelly Driscoll, Fair Lawn, N.J.

A: The ones shown on USA are repeats of episodes that originally aired on CBS, and on that count, you can bank on new CBS episodes come fall. At this writing, that network hadn't announced its full lineup for next season yet, but the strong ratings "NCIS" has been scoring make it an absolute lock to return again.

In fact, continuing the tradition of that show having been sired by "JAG," the network is preparing a spinoff of "NCIS" that is slated to star Chris O'Donnell ("Scent of a Woman") and LL Cool J. Look for their characters to be introduced in an "NCIS" story before the current season ends.

Q: In the new show "Lie to Me," who is the female star? She looks so familiar. –Margie Nataupsky, Jupiter, Fla.

A: She is Kelli Williams, best known for her run as Lindsay Dole Donnell on the ABC law drama "The Practice." She later co-starred in the NBC series "Medical Investigation," and she also had a recurring part in ABC's "Men in Trees" toward that show's end. Additionally, she's turned up in some basic-cable movies in recent years ("A Boyfriend for Christmas," "Murder on Pleasant Drive").

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

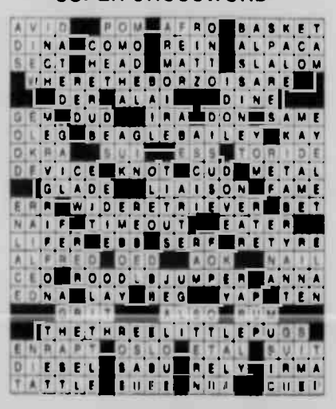
• It was author Michael Pollan who made the following sage observation: "A lawn is nature under totalitarian rule."

• I bet you didn't know there's a word specifically used to refer to the space between your eyebrows. Yep: It's called the "ophryon."

• It's not clear exactly why, but the United States' first first lady, Martha Washington, burned all the letters that President George Washington sent to her. And President Warren G. Harding's widow, Florence Harding, burned nearly all of his papers after his death.

• If you're a runner — and a compulsive counter — you might already be aware of the fact that the average person's feet hit the ground approximately 800 times per mile when running.

• A man who worked as a blacksmith in a small Russian village found what he was told was a dummy cannon shell that had been used for training purposes, and he decided it would make a great anvil. Unfortunately, it turns out that the shell wasn't a dummy after all; it exploded, killing the blacksmith — but not until after he'd been using it for 10 years.



• Those who study such things say that famed German composer Ludwig von Beethoven was a coffee drinker who was very picky about his java. Evidently, exactly 60 coffee beans had to be ground for each cup — and he would insist on having them counted out every time.

• The next time you're tempted to whip out the plastic to make a purchase, you might want to consider this little factoid: The average American spends 20 percent to 30 percent more when using a credit card than when paying with cash.

Thought for the Day: "The trouble with weather forecasting is that it's right too often for us to ignore it and wrong too often for us to rely on it." — Patrick Young

SOLUTION TO LAST WEEK'S SUPER CROSSWORD

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On April 12, 1861, the Civil War begins when Confederate shore batteries under General P.G.T. Beauregard open fire on Union-held Fort Sumter in Charleston Bay in South Carolina. During the next 34 hours, 50 Confederate guns and mortars launched more than 4,000 rounds at the poorly supplied fort.

• On April 7, 1891, American showman P.T. Barnum dies in Bridgeport, Conn. The 81-year-old Barnum's sense of humor never deserted him. He requested that a New York paper run his obituary before he died so he could enjoy reading it, and the paper obliged.

• On April 6, 1909, American explorer Robert Peary accomplishes a long elusive dream when he and Matthew Henson reach what they determine to be the North Pole. Decades after Peary's death, however, navigational errors in his travel log surfaced, placing the expedition in all probability a few miles short of its goal.

• On April 8, 1935, President Franklin D. Roosevelt authorizes almost $5 million to implement work-relief programs. Hoping to lift the country out of the Great Depression, Congress allowed the president to use the funds at his discretion. The act was unprecedented and remains the largest system of public-assistance relief programs in the nation's history.

• On April 11, 1945, the American Third Army liberates the Buchenwald concentration camp, near Weimar, Germany, a camp that will be judged second only to Auschwitz in the horrors it imposed on its prisoners. Among those saved by the Americans was Elie Wiesel, who would go on to win the Nobel Peace Prize in 1986.

• On April 10, 1953, "House of Wax," starring Vincent Price, opens at New York's Paramount Theater. The first color three-dimensional picture, the movie had to be viewed through special glasses.

• On April 9, 1969, the Chicago Eight, indicted on federal charges of conspiracy to cross state lines with intent to incite a riot at the 1968 Democratic convention in Chicago, plead not guilty. The trial turned into a circus as the defendants and their attorneys used the court as a platform to attack President Nixon, the Vietnam War, racism and oppression.

Give Kids Another Chance for Pet

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I am appalled, angered and saddened by the response from Dori to the parent who wrote you after her children's goldfish died because they didn't take care of it. She said the children were set up to fail. Wow.

I hope this person does not have children. If she believes that a child is set up for failure, the child will believe he or she is a failure and will not try to improve and grow mentally. I cannot see how a parent could feel right by instilling this in a child's mind!

So, a goldfish was not cared for, and died. While this is sad and maybe could have been avoided, it is not completely the child's fault. For one thing, goldfish are very susceptible to disease and overeating, which can cause death. Parents should always supervise the care of a pet, for sure, but that does not mean taking complete care of it.

Children need to learn structure and respect for living things. A goldfish is a very good start. They mainly need clean water, nutritional food and possibly occasional medicine. Children have to learn about their pet, and a goldfish can be a great start with the proper supervision from parents and a book to read (or parents can read to them) about the needs of that specific pet.

As for the parent's question about whether to get another pet, I think she could get the child a hamster or Guinea pig. This pet would be much more interactive and enjoyable. I know that if the parents supervise and stick to the structure, the child will take care of the pet. — Lora S., via e-mail

Collecting

by Larry Cox

Q. My great-uncle traveled throughout Asia during the early years of the past century. He began collecting Chinese snuff bottles in about 1910, and I have inherited his collection. How can I dispose of it? — Laura, Homestead, Fla.

A. I suggest you contact the International Chinese Snuff Bottle Society at http://snuffbottle.org. Two established dealers are Michael C. Hughes, 116 E. 65th St., 3-D, New York, NY 10065; and Susie Lorin, Asiantiques, P.O. Box 1707, Winter Park, FL 32792.

Q. I have a small Royal Doulton bowl and pitcher that feature characters from the nursery rhyme "Little Tommy Tucker." The set was given to my mother-in-law more than 70 years ago. I can't find anything like it in any of my area antique shops. — Beatrice, Albuquerque, N.M.

A. What you have is a set of dishes marketed for children. The fact that it is marked Royal Doulton means that it is a fairly good set. The Royal Doulton Bunnykins pieces and those that feature the work of Mabel Lucie Attwell are particularly prized by collectors. A Bunnykins breakfast service that includes a bowl, plate and mug from the 1930s generally sells in the $50 to $80 range. I suspect your Little Tommy Tucker set would be worth about the same.

Drought Watch Real Possibility For Maryland

by Lauren C. Williams
Capital News Service

Maryland could be put on a drought watch if April doesn't bring lots of showers.

This year, Maryland is behind in precipitation, with deficits of a little more than .75 inch for the month of March – less than .50 inch in Hagerstown – and nearly 6 inches for the year to date, according to National Weather Service data from BWI-Marshall Airport.

If conditions continue, "we're likely to issue a (moderate drought) watch," said Deputy Secretary Robert Summers of the Maryland Department of Environment's Drought Watch.

Maryland has received half of its normal rainfall this year, said Dan Soeder, hydrologist for U.S. Geological Survey in Baltimore. That rainfall amount is considered abnormally dry, a step below a moderate drought when a drought watch would be issued. And if conditions persist, he said, a deeper drought could lie ahead.

"We were fairly normal through the winter up until January," said Soeder. A drought now, is "a bit of a concern ... The water that we get this time of year is what sees us through the summer."

Up near the Mason-Dixon Line, groundwater levels are more or less normal, Soeder said. But in southern Maryland, where they never recovered from the 2002 drought, levels are very low.

In 2002, it did not rain through the summer.

"It was a lot drier in 2002 than it is right now," Summers said.

Maryland's 2002 drought was preceded by a drought in 1999 and average or below-average rainfall in 2000 and 2001, said Summers. The state was in need of more than 18 inches of rain at BWI by the end of August of 2002, according to the Maryland State Climatology Office.

That drought was moderately severe, said Soeder, and was not quenched until a hurricane in October brought in almost three inches of rain, as reported by the National Weather Service.

"The timing was bad. It started in the winter and went through the spring," similar to conditions now, said Soeder.

In 2002, the drought was so severe that water restrictions were in place for most of the year, according to the National Climatic Data Center.

It was dubbed a drought "like we've never seen" in an article from the Baltimore Sun at the time. Marylanders were banned from washing their cars or watering their lawns with sprinklers, and they had to boil water to ensure drinkability in many areas. Farmers watched their crops turn to dust.

"We had to stop irrigating the playing fields," said John Terrell, deputy director of recreation, parks, and tourism in Wicomico County. He recalled the "bald spots" from where players would stand on the field and the lack of "lush" turf.

It was so dry fires erupted in tinder-like woodlands, the Sun said.

In some communities, the climatic center said, water was hauled in to meet water supply needs, as many reservoirs reached very low levels.

There are three types of droughts: meteorological, when there is a rainfall deficit; hydrological, when groundwater and stream flow levels are only 10 percent of normal; and agricultural, when a lack of water supply affects vegetation growth.

In 2002 the state experienced all three. So far, Maryland is in meteorological and hydrological droughts, but could see an agricultural drought with a few more dry weeks, said Soder.

In winter and early spring, when vegetation is dormant, groundwater supplies tend to "recharge" and most of the water precipitated soaks into the ground, said Soeder.

Low groundwater levels, which peaked in February and continued to drop, have translated into low stream levels and dry soil, which can impede gardening and farming.

"We're looking at relatively low stream flow conditions and groundwater," said Soeder. "The streams are dropping when they should be rising."

But it's not time to start boiling water just yet.

"It's way too early to push the panic button on this," Soeder said. "But it's certainly something we want to keep an eye on."

Arrested For DUI, DWI, And Related Driving Violations

A Crellin area man was arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies Monday evening after a report was made that he had driven his Ford truck into a ditch off Hutton Road.

Donald Lynn Corby, 41, was identified as the driver of the vehicle, which deputies located at approximately 6 p.m. A traffic stop was executed, and once contact was made with Corby, field sobriety tests were conducted. He was subsequently arrested.

He was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, driving while impaired by alcohol, driving under the influence of drugs or alcohol and drugs, and driving on a suspended license and privilege. He was later released from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office pending a hearing.

Thank You

Sam Thomas Jr., driver of Bus #2, would like to take this time to thank the Garrett County Board of Education, Northern Rescue Squad, Garrett Memorial Hospital staff, Accident Elementary School, parents, friends and family for your support during the tragic bus accident that occurred on March 25, 2009. Thank You,

"Kayaks, Tunes, And Brews" Returns To ASCI For DCL's Summer Kickoff

HART for Animals will hold its second annual Kayaks, Tunes, and Brews (KTB) at the Adventure Sports Center International (ASCI) on Saturday, May 23, from noon to 6 p.m.

Event organizers announced this week that they will launch its KTB information page for visitors and vendors. Accessible from the HART web site, hartforanimals.org, the KTB web page describes event activities and times, vendor information, and a map to the site at ASCI on Marsh Mountain above Wisp Resort.

Billed as "Deep Creek Lake's Kickoff to Summer," KTB is, according to the organizers, "a fun day for the entire family, including the family dog." Last year, the event attracted over 1,300 participants to a variety of activities that included pony rides, children's games, vendors, food and beverages, dog shows, a Moon Bounce, and live music throughout the afternoon.

Organized as a fundraising event to benefit the HART Animal Adoption Center, this year's KTB will include:

• Kayaks: Kayaking and rafting on the ASCI whitewater course (make reservations through ASCI)

• Tunes: Three live bands – Boathouse, Brother Short, and Lake Effect

• Brews: Beer tasting, courtesy of various microbreweries, poured by "celebrity" hosts

• A children's area complete with a Moon Bounce, an inflatable slide, face painting, story-telling, and pony rides

• A dog area with activities scheduled throughout the afternoon, including a dog show and dog agility and obedience demonstrations

• Vendor areas, including food and beverages, crafts, souvenirs, as well as a return of Wayne Dillsworth, the air tattoo artist

• Access to the mountain coaster, Diggler scooters, and mountain buggies, among others.

Admission tickets are still $20. The price of admission includes a souvenir beer mug and 10 tickets to be used for beer or for any of the family-oriented activities. Children and young adults under 18 accompanied by an adult are admitted free. Additional tickets can be purchased throughout the afternoon.

For full details, interested persons may visit hartforanimals.org and click on the KTB logo or go directly to hartforanimals.org/ktb.

Vendors wanting to participate in the event may contact the organizer by calling 301-334-4278 or by sending an e-mail to mercedes@hartforanimals.org.

HART for Animals, Inc. is a 501(c) (3) organization, established in Oakland in 2003 to rescue homeless animals in Garrett County. All contributions to HART are tax-deductible and can be made by mail to HART for Animals Inc., P.O. Box 67, Oakland, MD 21550 or by visiting the HART web site (see above).

"A FUN DAY FOR THE ENTIRE FAMILY, including the family dog" is how organizers describe their second annual Kayaks, Tunes, and Brews. The fundraiser is scheduled for Saturday, May 23, from noon to 6 p.m. at Adventure Sports Center International on Marsh Mountain. Proceeds benefit HART for Animals. This year's event will include kayaking and rafting on the ASCI whitewater course, live bands, beer tasting, a children's area with pony rides and face painting, a dog show, food and craft vendors, and access to a mountain coaster. See story for details. Pictured at left is HART mascot Sunny the Dog welcoming guests to last year's Kayaks, Tunes, and Brews. Above is an exhausted four-legged guest taking a break during the activity filled day.

Parents Warned Of SAT Scam

Garrett County school personnel wish to make parents aware of an SAT (Scholastic Aptitude Test) credit card scam that has been circulating in the area.

A local parent reportedly received a phone call by a person identifying himself as a school guidance counselor promoting SAT registration, as well as a preparation program for the test. The person asked for a credit card payment in order to secure the student's registration.

Parents are advised that Garrett County schools do not operate in this manner. Personal information should never be given to unknown individuals over the phone.

Your tax Refund: Invest Today for Tomorrow's Goal

The tax-filing deadline arrives this week. Will you be getting a refund? If so, take the time to consider how best to use it — because, when used wisely, your tax refund can give you a few added steps on the road toward achieving your financial goals.

Of course, if you filed your taxes weeks ago, you might have already received a refund. But given the current economic environment, you might have kept the money in a "holding place" while you waited for an uptick in the financial markets. At any rate, if you have access to a refund this year, you now have the opportunity to put that money to good use.

How? Here are a few ideas:

• Help fund your IRA. In 2008, the average federal tax refund was $2,429, according to the Internal Revenue Service. If you were to receive that amount, it would cover almost half of your IRA contribution for this year, as the annual limit is $5,000. (You can put in $6,000 if you're 50 or older). A traditional IRA grows tax deferred, while a Roth IRA grows tax free, provided you have held your account for at least five years and don't take withdrawals until you reach age 59½. Your IRA may have taken a hit last year, but if you fund it with quality investments and avoid making withdrawals until retirement, you can take important steps to help rebuild your portfolio.

• Help build an emergency fund. You could use part of your refund for an IRA and part to help build an emergency fund. Ideally, you should have six to 12 months' worth of living expenses in a liquid account to help pay for unexpected costs, such as a major car repair, a new furnace or a costly medical bill. Without such an emergency fund, you might be forced to dip into your long-term investments to pay for these costs — and that can hurt your progress toward your financial objectives.

• Help rebalance your portfolio. Based on your risk tolerance, time horizon and long-term goals, you may have decided to put a certain percentage of your assets in "growth" vehicles and a certain percentage in income-oriented investments. At that point, your portfolio was in equilibrium. But during the long bear market, your portfolio may have sustained enough losses to become "unbalanced." In other words, some of your investments may have lost so much value that they no longer make up the percentage of your holdings that you had originally intended. Of course, you could wait for these investments to bounce back — and they may, given enough time — but if you wanted to speed up the rebalancing process, you could use your tax refund to add the right types of new investments to your mix.

Ironic as it may seem, there may not be a better year in which to invest your refund. You can find many quality investments at reasonable prices today, so your refund can help you add extra shares to your accounts — and the more shares you own, the better off you may be when the market turns around. So put your refund to work soon.

MSDE Awarded Grant To Upgrade State Data System

The Maryland State Department of Education (MSDE) has received a three-year, $6.5 million grant from the U.S. Department of Education to improve its student data system. The competitive grant allows MSDE to establish a longitudinal data warehouse that will link educational information for individual students across years, and will follow each student, regardless where a student moves within the state during his or her schooling.

The grant also paves the way for the design and implementation of a statewide system for reporting student course participation and performance.

Currently, virtually all student course data is stored and managed at the school and system level, making it difficult to track students if they change schools or school systems.

"Improved data is critical to strengthening student performance," said State Superintendent of Schools Nancy S. Grasmick. "This new grant will help us construct a system that will better illuminate what works in our schools. It will help us assure that we can better follow the progress of students statewide, regardless where they move during their educational career."

MSDE plans to complete this phase of its ongoing data project by the end of March 2014. The department began working on the initial components of this statewide data system in 2006, using a three-year, $8 million federal grant that helped the state create a unique student identification number that is now being used with all students statewide.

The new grant will allow the state to build on its foundation work on the data system to create a fully operational data warehouse that will hold the student data and permit the longitudinal analysis of education programs over many years.

According to the MSDE, the grant will provide the ability for the state to better monitor individual student and subgroup achievement, which will help educators to ensure progress. It allows for a centralized educational record for each student, which can assist schools in meeting the individual needs of transfers from one system to another. States with such statewide data systems are better able to assure that transfer students receive appropriate instruction in their new schools because educators have quicker access to more complete student records from their sending schools.

Maryland's new data will help build an infrastructure for some additional research and data management components that will position the state well for future improvements, added a department spokesperson.

USDA Extends Deadline Dates For DCP, ACRE

The USDA has extended the sign-up deadline from June 1 to Aug. 14 for both the Direct and Counter-cyclical Program (DCP) and the forthcoming Average Crop Revenue Election (ACRE) Program, according to Michael R. Kozier, executive director of USDA's Farm Service Agency in Garrett and Allegany counties. This action extends the sign-up deadline by 10 weeks to give producers ample time to decide whether to participate in ACRE or remain in DCP.

"Extending the sign-up deadline for both these programs ensures that America's farmers have enough information and time needed to determine if ACRE is the right program for their operational needs," said Kozier. "The DCP and ACRE programs play a critical role in the farm safety net, and it is vital that we act to support the hard work of the farmers we depend on."

Sign-up for ACRE is expected to start in late April, with an official sign-up announcement to be made in the coming weeks. Producers can elect ACRE at their FSA county office after the sign-up period commences.

"The original June 1 deadline may have forced producers to rush their decision, which is why this extension gives producers more time to make an informed decision about staying with DCP for 2009 or participating in ACRE for crop year 2009 and beyond through 2012," Kozier said.

The ACRE program, authorized by the 2008 Farm Bill, provides eligible producers a state-level revenue guarantee, based on the five-year state Olympic average yield and the two-year national average price. ACRE payments are made when both state and farm-level triggers are met. By participating in ACRE, producers elect to forgo counter-cyclical payments and receive a 20 percent reduction in direct payments and a 30 percent reduction in loan rates.

The decision to elect ACRE binds the farm to the program through the 2012 crop year, the last crop year covered by the 2008 Act.

For more information about ACRE, DCP, and other price support programs, persons may visit the local USDA Service Center or FSA county office. Information can also be obtained online at www.fsa.usda.gov.

In Loving Memory of My Dad & Pappy
Willis (JR) Glotfelty
Who went home to Heaven on March 31, 2008

You left us so soon and nothing is the same.
The family is so distant now
I really don't know why or how.
You instilled us to love
no matter what the circumstance
You were our stronghold here on earth.
family gatherings are no more.
I miss you that's for sure there isn't a day I do not think of you.
How forgiving you were no matter what was said or done.
And Staci thinks of you every time she has to bowl, for she loves the sport
her Pappy's favorite— bowling.
I'm sure you would be proud.
But in my heart I know you're in a better place.
You got to see Jesus face to face by His amazing grace.
Your chains are gone; you've been set free.
Someday we will be with you and share in your happiness, free of heartache and pain
by His saving grace.
I miss you Dad.
And we love you,
Your daughter Sandy
And your granddaughter Staci

"Lunch Bunch" To Meet Tuesday At Deer Park Inn

The next Networking Lunch Bunch meeting is set for Tuesday, April 7, at 12:30 p.m. at the Deer Park Inn in Deer Park.

"Our March luncheon was held at Sorellee's Pizza Pub & Ice Cream Parlor, located along Rt. 219," said group spokesperson Mark Greene. "There was a large amount of networking going on, as we had a packed house. There was also continued discussion of our strategic partnering."

Lunch Bunch meetings are held the first Tuesday of each month and rotate between different restaurants throughout the county. Meetings are open to any business person who is interested in meeting with other businessmen and businesswomen from Garrett County and surrounding areas.

"The format of the meeting is to give a 30-second introduction about your business and yourself, a brief presentation on our monthly topic, and lunch, where the topic is further discussed amongst your table, followed by a recap of ideas that is shared with the whole group," Greene said.

Each luncheon is approximately one hour in length. There is no fee involved, except for the cost of lunch.

"We start on time and end on time, and the topic changes from month to month," Greene said.

For more information about the April 7 luncheon or future meetings, persons may contact Beverley Williams at bevspeaks@earthlink.net or Greene at 301-533-0330 (Bello's Portraits), or just come out and join the next event.

"We follow the schedule of Garrett County schools, so in the event that there is a school cancellation due to weather, our luncheon will also be canceled," Greene noted.

Cancer Society To Hold Workshops For Caregivers

The South Atlantic Division of the American Cancer Society has scheduled two one-hour telephone workshops for caregivers.

"They are offered to anyone caring for a loved one with cancer," said an ACS spokesperson.

The first workshop, "Coping with Caregiving When Treatment Changes from Cure to Care" will be held today Thursday, April 2, beginning at 7 p.m.

The topics will include "When Treatment is No Longer the Goal," "Six Steps Caregivers Can Use to Solve Common Problems," and "Where to Turn for Help."

The second workshop, "Coping with Caregiving and Pain Control," will be held on Tuesday, May 12, at 10 a.m. and Thursday, May 14, at 7 p.m.

The topics covered will be "The Role of Caregivers in Relieving Cancer Pain," "Six Steps Caregivers Can Use to Solve Common Problems," and "Where to Turn for Help."

The workshop speaker will be Julia Bucher, RN, PhD. an associate professor for the Department of Nursing at York College in Pennsylvania and co-editor of the American Cancer Society's Complete Guide to Cancer Caregiving.

As a caregiver herself, Bucher will share tips and resources on caring for persons with cancer. There will also be time for questions and discussion.

The telephone workshops are free, and no phone charges will be applied. However, preregistration is required to secure a place in the workshop. Information and instructions on how to join the event will be e-mailed to participants prior to each workshop. The instructions will include a toll-free dial-in number that participants will need to join the workshop.

To register, persons may phone 1-800-966-3586 or go to tinyurl.com/caregiveracs.

Funding for this program and many others are partially funded by donations collected through the American Cancer Society Relay For Life.

The Relay For Life of Garrett County will be held on Friday, June 12, starting at 5 p.m. at the Southern High School track.

"It's not too late to form a team," said the spokesperson.

Team packets can be picked up at First Home Mortgage, 317 E. Oak Street in Oakland or by calling Tina Warnick at 301-722-2145. One may also register online at relayforlife.org/garrett.

Donations can be submitted online or sent to the American Cancer Society, c/o Relay For Life of Garrett County, 182 N. Mechanic Street, Cumberland, MD 21501. Checks should be made out to the American Cancer Society and are 100% tax deductible.

The next Relay For Life meeting will be held at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, April 21, at Garrett College.

"Anyone and everyone interested are welcome to attend, ask questions, and get involved," said the spokesperson. "We won't stop until we find a cure."

TWO OF FIVE CHOSEN IN STATE – Broad Ford Elementary School students Katelin Rank and Autumn Crosco were recently chosen as nominees for the National Youth Storytelling Showcase for the state of Maryland. Only five nominees are chosen from the entire state. They're shown above being congratulated by teachers Nancy Stewart and Jackie Stuck.

WINS ESSAY CONTEST – Broad Ford Elementary School fifth grader Jack Corbin was recently announced the first place winner of Garrett County's essay contest "What Freedom Means to Me." The contest was sponsored by the Oakland Elks Lodge, and Corbin placed first in the fifth and sixth grade division. He also placed second place on the state level. He is shown with teacher Nancy Stewart.

AWARENESS OF A CRISIS is always the necessary first step toward resolution, and that is the primary goal of a production of Our Town Theatre that is scheduled for next week. "Everyone in our county needs to understand and combat violence and abuse and the negative impacts of that behavior on our children and our society," said OTT artistic director Jane Avery. "The Family Violence Workshop, a composite of local stories and different perspectives, is designed to examine the causes of violence in our lives (especially the lives of our children) and possible ways to address those causes." Appropriate selections by a live band will be interwoven with the scenes and monologues. Performances for the general public are scheduled for Friday, April 17, and Saturday, April 19, both at 8 p.m. Tickets will be $5 per person, with all proceeds going to the Dove Center, Garrett County's domestic abuse shelter. Reservations are required, and can be made by calling 301-334-5640, ext. 1. There also will be an 8 p.m. performance on Thursday, April 16, that is earmarked for high school students. Not only is it free of charge, but by attending, each student will earn two hours of community service. Students must sign up in their guidance offices at Southern and Northern high schools. Cast members in the above photo are, front row, from left: Kelsey Geer, Adam Sincell, Woody Knotts, Winston (the puppet), and Ashley Roush. In the middle row are: Lyz Biser, Patty Wells, Paula Salamon, Sara Woolslayer, and Deirdre Kildow. In the back row are: Susan Athey-Oxford, Charles Stinson, Don Sincell, Betty Schmitt, Jack Spencer, Amy Piper-McConnell, Jeff Gilbert, and Richard Hill. Not present for the photo was Liz Gilbert.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THIS PICTURE? Well, not much for Garrett County on an early April morning, when just about anything can happen weather-wise. After a beautiful weekend of sun and temperatures in the 60s, Old Man Winter returned with a vengeance on Monday with blowing snow that forced a delay in Garrett County schools on Tuesday. Betty Riley of Jasper Riley Road took this photo of her Easter decorations that she had placed on her back deck. More normal spring-like conditions returned yesterday, meaning the real Easter Bunny should have no problem making his (her?) rounds this coming Sunday, when millions of Christians around the world will celebrate the resurrection of Jesus Christ, the founder of their religion.

Swan Meadow Named Winner Of Reading Award

Swan Meadow School, Oakland, was recently named the winner of the 2009 International Reading Association's (IRA) Exemplary Reading Program Award.

The school will be presented the award at IRA's 54th annual convention in Minneapolis, Minn., at the Council Awards Ceremony, slated for Sunday, May 3, from 6 to 8 p.m. at the Minneapolis Convention Center. The selected schools are considered examples to other schools of literacy approaches, programs, and creative education techniques that work.

Swan Meadow School serves 55 students in first through eighth grades, primarily of Amish and Mennonite backgrounds, in three multi-grade classrooms. Dedicated teacher-leaders infuse instruction with a variety of research-based literacy practices, instructional strategies, and differentiation techniques across the curriculum to meet the needs of all learners.

Family and community members further support students' literacy development through various school and community projects. "While students achieve high performance levels on state assessments," noted a spokesperson, "a truer testament to the success of this reading program is students' genuine love for

Single-Vehicle Accident In McHenry Takes Lives Of Two Pa. Residents Sunday

A single-vehicle accident in McHenry Sunday took the lives of two Pennsylvania residents, and left another in critical condition.

Investigation determined that Blake Kelley, 24, Mt. Morris, was the driver of a 2006 Mercedes traveling westbound on Sang Run Road, near Barbara's Way, at approximately midnight Sunday. He failed to negotiate a curve, and the vehicle left the roadway and overturned in a nearby pond. Kelley was hauling passengers Kenneth Opfer, 29, Garard's Fort, Pa., Kaitlyn Machensky, 23, Carmichles, Pa., Erin Hurley, 22, Waynesburg, Pa., and Jason Witt, 25, Dillner, Pa.

Kelley, Opfer, and Machensky were trapped in the vehicle, while Hurley and Witt managed to escape with minor injuries. Maryland State Police Cpl. Pritts and Tfc. Bennett arrived at the scene and were able to extricate Machensky from the vehicle. Fire department and rescue squad personnel arrived shortly after and extricated Kelley and Opfer.

Machensky, Kelley, and Opfer were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where both Kelley and Opfer were pronounced dead. Machensky was flown to Ruby Memorial Hospital, where she was listed in critical condition earlier this week. Hurley was treated and released.

Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company, Accident Volunteer Fire Department, Northern and Southern rescue squads, and Wisp Security all responded to the scene.

Woman Flown To Ruby Memorial Following Wreck

A Swanton woman was found trapped in her vehicle by a newspaper delivery person early Sunday morning. Garrett County sheriff's deputies were called to the 4 a.m. scene.

It was determined that Donna Lee Cumerlato, 40, had been traveling east on Hazelhurst Lane, when she lost control of her 2006 Toyota SUV and crashed into a tree. She was entrapped until Deer Park firefighters and Southern Rescue Squad personnel responded to extricate her from the vehicle.

Cumerlato suffered extensive injury and was flown to Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown, W.Va., by medevac helicopter. The accident remains under investigation. No charges have been filed.

Two-Story House Leveled By Fire Early Wednesday

The cause of a fire that leveled a two-story, wood-frame house near Loch Lynn early yesterday is still under investigation by the office of the Maryland State Fire Marshal.

Some 25 volunteer firefighters representing seven area departments responded to the 4:35 a.m. alarm and found the structure engulfed in flames. The single-family dwelling was located along Baker Farm Road off Rt. 560 just southwest of Loch Lynn.

The occupant of the house, Robert Smith, escaped without injury. The house was owned by Stanley Baker.

According to a report by Deputy State Fire Marshal Randy Chapman, the fire was discovered and reported by Smith. Chapman estimated the loss to be $60,000 for the structure and an additional $10,000 in contents.

Units and personnel responding to the scene came from the Oakland, Deer Park, Gorman, Deep Creek, Bayard, Mt. Grove, and Terra Alta fire departments. Also responding was the Southern Rescue Squad.

Suspect Wanted For W.Va. Stabbing Found In Loch Lynn

Garrett County sheriff's deputies assisted the Preston County Sheriff's Office in the search and arrest of a suspect who was involved in a stabbing incident in Corinth, W.Va.

Shortly after receiving the information on the suspect, another assault was reported in the Loch Lynn area involving the same suspect. Juan Edwardo Fonseco-Malave, 24, fled on foot when deputies arrived and was apprehended in the Mtn. Lake Park area.

He is charged with second degree assault in Maryland and has charges pending in West Virginia for malicious wounding. He remains in the Garrett County Detention Center pending extradition to West Virginia.

47 Marijuana Plants Found At Accident Home

An Accident man was arrested last Thursday after the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force executed a search and seizure warrant at his Accident Bittinger Road residence.

A search warrant for the home of Troy Chase, 47, was obtained after uniformed Maryland State Police troopers responded to the residence on an unrelated complaint and observed suspected marijuana plants at the home. The search, led by NTF officers, revealed a total of 47 suspected marijuana plants, approximately 10 lbs. or suspected processed marijuana, marijuana growing equipment, and suspected drug paraphernalia.

Chase was arrested and charged with possession with intent to distribute marijuana, manufacturing marijuana, possession of marijuana, and possession of drug paraphernalia. He was transported to the Garrett County Detention Center to await a bond review with the District Court commissioner.

NTF personnel were assisted by uniformed officers from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, MSP McHenry Barrack, and MSP Crime Lab.

Dr. Jeanne Neff Named Interim President Of Garrett College

The Garrett College Board of Trustees announced this week the appointment of Dr. Jeanne H. Neff as interim president, effective May 4. Dr. Neff, who is a resident of Garrett County, replaces Dr. Paul Dauphinais, who took administrative leave from the position back in February.

Dr. Neff recently retired from 13 years of service as president at Sage Colleges in Troy and Albany, N.Y.

"Dr. Neff comes to the college with exceptional qualifications and experience in higher education," said Linda Sherbin, GC board president. "The board considers the college very fortunate to have Dr. Neff to guide it through this transition period and to assist in the search of a new president."

Dr. Neff is a native of West Virginia and a graduate of Wheeling Jesuit University. She holds a master's degree from Rice University and the doctorate in English from Carnegie-Mellon University. She began her teaching career at Carlow University in Pittsburgh, then returned to her alma mater as a faculty member.

After being selected in 1978 as an American Council on Education (ACE) Fellow in Academic Administration, in 1980 she became the first woman to hold the position of academic vice president at a Jesuit institution. In 1986, she moved to Susquehanna University (Pa.) as vice president for academic affairs and in 1995, was appointed president of the Sage Colleges in Troy and Albany, N.Y., a position from which she retired in 2008.

During her career, Dr. Neff served in many national leadership roles, in-

PROBABLY THE OLDEST INDUSTRY in Garrett County is the production of maple products, and the Steyer family has been at it for 100 years. There is evidence that even Native Americans figured out a way to reduce the sugar water from the sugar maple into the sweet syrup still enjoyed today on a stack of pancakes or buckwheat cakes. The fourth generation of the John Wesley Steyer family is now involved in the operation along with their parents. Pictured above, from left, kneeling, are Jessica, Andrea, Jennifer, and Sue Steyer. Standing are Randall, Kay, Mike, and Michael Steyer, and Andrew Pritts. See feature article on the back page of this section. Photo by Angie Sincell.

LIKE THREE STONE SENTINELS, the only things left standing after fire leveled this farm house along Rt. 560 just southwest of Loch Lynn yesterday morning were three chimneys. The cause of the fire, which was battled by about two dozen members of several fire departments, remains under investigation by personnel from the Maryland State Fire Marshal's office. Robert Smith, the occupant of the house owned by Stanley Baker, escaped the 4:35 a.m. blaze unharmed. See story for details. Photo by John McEwen.

Community Trust Foundation Hopes To "Inspire Creativity" In Garrett Co.

by Mary Sincell McEwen

"Making charitable dreams come true" is the idea behind the Community Trust Foundation, a fairly new entity founded in 2006 in the Cumberland area. First serving just Allegany County, the group was quickly extended to include Mineral County, W.Va., and Garrett County. Now the young organization is looking to make itself known in the local area, and begin to "inspire creativity" between donors and those engaged in a wide range of endeavors.

Basically the Community Trust Foundation (CTF) invites persons to donate funds with specific designations — or not so specific. The CTF board then accepts requests from the public for funding a wide range of projects involving anything from the arts and education to protecting animals. The definition as noted on its web site is as follows: "The CTF is a publically supported, non-pro-fit Maryland corporation organized to receive and administer funds for philanthropic purposes for the welfare of the citizens [of Allegany, Garrett, and Mineral (W.Va.) counties]."

COMMUNITY TRUST FOUNDATION ASSISTS LANDON'S LIBRARY – The Community Trust Foundation (CTF) is a new organization reaching out to the counties of Garrett, Allegany, and Mineral, W.Va., with the hope of "inspiring creativity" among persons wishing to donate funds to positively affect their communities. One project the CTF has helped fund is the institution of the Imagination Library, a program initiated by Dolly Parton with the mission of fostering early reading. The CTF presented Landon's Library with a $900 donation to help complete the local organization's affiliation with the national effort. Through this project, 40 local children are now enrolled in the program. They will receive a brand new, quality children's book each month. See story. Pictured from left are Dr. Peter Halmos, the CTF board president; Shane Grady, vice president (and resident of Garrett County); Trish Yoder, CTF executive director; and Crystal Roberson-Boal and Brian Boal, founders of Landon's Library.

"Donors can be very specific about how they wish their contributions to be used," said Trish Yoder, executive director of the CTF board of trustees. "Or they can choose to be very general about their intentions. We leave it up to the donor."

Serving on the board from Garrett County are Shane Grady, who is the vice president of the CTF; William B. Grant; and Commissioner Ernie Gregg. The volunteer board, which involves about 13 others, meets once a month, or more often depending on what projects are under way. The members are all contributors to the CTF as well.

"We have just a terrific board," Yoder said. "They honestly provide a true face of the entire community."

While many of the young organization's efforts have come to fruition in Allegany County, the CTF recently funded a project in Garrett County that Grady is particularly happy about.

"Imagination Library is a program created by Dolly Parton to inspire reading at an early age," Grady said. "The CTF wished to address literacy in Garrett County, and now, through the Imagination Library and Landon's Library, we are sponsoring 40 children in the program. Each of these local kids receives one new book per month. The first one was mailed out in January. The cost is about $30 per child per year."

Grady has a soft spot for the project, as he is a father and is also on the staff at Brian Boal's CPA office. Boal is the founder, along with his wife Crystal Roberson-Boal, of Landon's Library. To become an Imagination Library, the CTF had to meet a range of specifications, which was accomplished.

"We were just really happy to be able to fund this project. It's a perfect model for the CTF," Grady said.

CTF representatives were special guests at the Landon's Library March playdate. The organization will continue to fund the reading program, and hopes to see it grow.

A question many people may have regarding the CTF concerns its difference from the United Way, which also collects donations to then be distributed through a variety of grants. Yoder explained that the United Way is chiefly geared toward human services, while the CTF has a much broader granting plan.

"It's important to note that we work very closely with the United Way," Yoder said. "We certainly never want to duplicate or compromise any of that organization's important work, and we work very hard not to."

Indeed the CTF and United Way do function as a team of sorts, as Yoder serves on the UW board, partly in order to keep the two entities "on the same page." She explained that UW is currently working on a needs assessment for the area.

"We will be informed of the results of that survey, and will be very careful not to duplicate services," she said.

Grant explained that the genesis of the CTF occurred a number of years ago, sparked by the Greater Cumberland Committee. Robert Little Ebert was the founding donor (now serving as a trustee on the board). He created a number of funds initially, with his hope of "ending poverty one family at a time" in Allegany County. Soon the board of trustees was formed, with Dr. Halmos as the first president.

The Tri-County Council got involved early on as well, for which Yoder serves as a staff person. The organization is based at Frostburg State University.

The CTF manages basically two types of funds: Endowments, permanent funds for which the principal is not invaded and the interest is awarded to charitable organizations; and "Pass Through" funds, which is a total amount donated for a specific project. Currently the organization has $600,000 in assets.

The total funds distributed through grants from 2007 to 2008 was $50,569. This money was used for a wide variety of allocations involving the arts, education, family therapy projects, and others.

The mission of the CTF is to strengthen the region by working in partnership with donors and community groups to build philanthropic resources, connect donors to organizations they care about, make effective grants that truly meet specific needs, and provide leadership to address community issues.

"We are excited about the potential of our foundation and the positive impact it will have on Garrett County," Grady said.

Grant noted that all donated funds are very safe, and that the board utilizes a number of asset managers to best invest the contributions.

"And we are dedicated to making sure all donors' wishes are carried out," Grady said.

The CTF has developed a web site that explains the foundation in full, offers a variety of avenues for prospective donors, and gives directions on how to apply for grants. The site is located at www.CTFinc.org. Persons may also call the foundation office for information at 301-777-2158. The address is PO Box 6328, Cumberland, MD 21502.

juana. Related charges were dismissed upon his plea.

Sherbin then sentenced Duckworth to 30 days in the Garrett County Jail and suspended the sentence. Duckworth was placed on probation and fined $500.

He was charged by officers of the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force after a search and seizure warrant was executed at his residence last August. A quantity of marijuana was located in a closet, as well as a variety of smoking devices located throughout the residence.

Matthew Aaron Cuppett, 26, McHenry, pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana. Related charges were dismissed upon his plea. Cuppett was sentenced to one year in the Garrett County Jail, all of which was suspended, and he was placed on probation. A fine of $1,000 was also imposed.

Cuppett was arrested and charged at his residence by Maryland State Police last December. Troopers were investigating a traffic complaint, in which Cuppett was the suspect. Observations of drug activity inside the residence led to a search and the recovery of a quantity of marijuana, the state's attorney said.

Steven Harold Kitzmiller, 48, Mtn. Lake Park, was sentenced to four years in the Division of Corrections for a charge of possession with intent to distribute marijuana. Three years of the sentence were suspended, and Kitzmiller will be on probation when he is released from the Garrett County Jail. Fines and court costs totaling $365 were also imposed.

Kitzmiller was arrested and charged by officers with the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force in August 2008 when a search warrant was executed at his residence and quantities of marijuana, packaged for sale, were located. He had pleaded guilty in the case in February, but sentencing was postponed for a presentence investigation report to be completed.

Alcohol, Drug Cases Heard In Circuit Court

Numerous alcohol and drug related cases were heard in Garrett County Circuit this week.

Gregory Phillip Kim, 25, Potomac, pleaded guilty to driving under the influence of alcohol per se. Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced him to six months in the Garrett County Jail and then suspended all but six days of the sentence. Kim was fined $500 and placed on one year of probation.

Kim was arrested and charged by a Maryland State Police trooper after the vehicle Kim was driving was stopped for speeding along Garrett Highway near Foster Road.

Observations of the officer and Kim's failed field sobriety tests led to the arrest. Kim later took a breath test, with the results of .12 blood alcohol count (BAC), according to the state's attorney.

Rodney Gene Rounds, 43, Grantsville, pleaded guilty to driving under the influence of alcohol per se. Sherbin sentenced Rounds to one year in the Garrett County Jail and suspended all of the sentence but 30 days, which Rounds will serve on weekends. Rounds was fined $1,000 and placed on supervised probation.

Last July, a Maryland State Police trooper traveling on Rt. 40 near Grantsville observed Rounds and a second person, both on farm tractors and each pulling a piece equipment, traveling side-by-side.

Rounds was traveling west in the east bound lane and was stopped by the trooper. Observations of Rounds and his failure of field sobriety tests led to his arrest. He later took a breath test with the results of .14 BAC, the state's attorney noted.

Christopher David Theibault, 41, Lonaconing, pleaded guilty to driving under the influence of alcohol per se. Sherbin then sentenced Theibault to one year in the Garrett County Jail, which was suspended. Theibault was placed on probation and fined $500.

Theibault was stopped by a Maryland State Police trooper along the Avilton Lonaconing Road last July, after the vehicle he was driving was seen operating erratically and had a broken taillight.

Theibault was arrested and charged based on the trooper's observation and his failure of field sobriety tests. He later took a breath test, with the results of .13 BAC.

Could Be a Win-Win...

One of the so-call "sin" taxes that took a big jump on April Fool's Day was the tax on cigarettes. A couple of letters to the editor written by disgruntled smokers have appeared on this page since then.

While smokers probably deserve some level of sympathy because of their addiction to nicotine, there is also an element of fairness here. Because there are so many serious illnesses that are a direct result of the use of tobacco products, it seems that the persons who partake of them should be held responsible for bearing the burden of paying for their extra health care that is virtually inevitable. If everyone who smokes or chews tobacco would stop the habit today, there is no question that the cases of heart disease, lung cancer, stroke, and a host of other illnesses and conditions would decrease dramatically in a relatively short time. With that we would – or should – see a drop in our health care insurance premiums. Everyone, including non-smokers, are now having to share in the enormous cost of treating ailing smokers, and frankly, that's not fair.

But there seems to be another positive aspect of this tax increase that was perhaps unexpected. According to the American Lung Association and other similar agencies, in direct relationship with the tax increase there was a corresponding spike in the number of inquiries by smokers wanting assistance in breaking the habit. Apparently there have been similar occurrences with previous tax increases and price hikes on tobacco products, but because of our current negative economic situation, many smokers have decided that they simply cannot afford to continue using.

So this could turn out to be a win-win situation for all of us. The additional income generated by the tax hike can be used (we hope) to help cut insurance costs, cover the expense of additional research, and better fund smoking cessation programs. And smokers will ultimately win if the increase forces them to become non-smokers, thereby restoring their health and extending their lifespans.

To the Editor:

In response to Ken Livengood's letter, you're right! The cost of smokers' privileges is sky-rocking. We are so exasperated by for all our extra tax dollars that it buys us the privilege and right to stand out in the rain and snow to enjoy it.

Teens and criminals have more rights and privileges then we do; only difference is, theirs are tax free.

By the way, thanks a lot for the corn-silk tip, but now I wonder if Uncle Sam will begin taxing our gardens.

After I wrote about trash being tossed out along the road ways, especially the North Glade Road, I am proud to say that some Good Samaritan has collected some trash along the road. It sure has made a big difference.

It is nice to know there are still some people who care about their surroundings and countryside. Keep up the good work. I commend who ever it was, and may God bless you.

National Volunteer Week marks a special time of year for the Fresh Air Fund, and I would like to take this opportunity to extend my deepest thanks to our dedicated Fresh Air hosts, volunteers, and supporters in Garrett County. They truly embody the meaning of the 2009 National Volunteer Week theme "Celebrating People in Action" by demonstrating their commitment to helping New York City children.

Fresh Air volunteers work in several capacities throughout the year in 13 northeastern states and Canada. Caring Fresh Air host families open their homes and share the everyday joys of summertime with their Fresh Air guests. Our local volunteer leaders – many of whom are also hosts – give by serving on our local committees, planning summer activities, publicizing the program, and interviewing prospective host families. Additionally, individuals and businesses give generously of their time and resources to make the Friendly Town host family program throughout this area a great success each and every summer.

The Fresh Air Fund, an independent, not-for-profit agency, has provided free summer vacations to more than 1.7 million New York City children since 1877. For more information on how you can help to continue this wonderful tradition of volunteering, please call the Fresh Air Fund at 800-367-0003 or visit www.freshair.org.

The Southern Garrett High School class of 2002 missed its five-year reunion. To avoid the risk of losing touch with more of our classmates, we will have our reunion this summer, instead of waiting till our ten-year to organize.

The date is set for Saturday, June 13, at 3 p.m. (probably lasting until 6 or 7 p.m.). We'll be at Smiley's Pizzeria Restaurant and Fun Zone. This is a family event, so feel free to bring your kids and significant others.

We ask all local relatives of class '02 members to inform them of the reunion. To the '02 class: Please RSVP either Shana Sines at 240-321-1044 or Kara (Rush) Droppleman at 301-616-6585 by May 31. At this point, we don't need any donations, but we will inform you if this changes.

This week, April 6-12, is National Public Health Week. Take a minute and ask yourself, "What is public health?" Or maybe "What does public health do for me?"

Public health is all around us. From the clean water we drink, to the seat belts we wear in the car, to the fluoridated town water systems, public health affects our communities.

Our families rely on public health for everything from prenatal care to at-home services for the elderly. As we prepare the next generations for brighter futures, healthy policies at school will help them to do their job – learning in a positive environment. In our communities, we work together for the common good, creating walking paths and establishing local policies that help us live happier, healthier lives.

There are many community partners that contribute to the public's health. Consider the screening and treatment services provided by Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Think about the safe roads and bridges maintained by state highway and county roads department. Remember the affordable housing and transportation services provided by Community Action. Everyone has a role to play.

Look around you at the ways public health affects your life. Think about the people who help make you healthy: They are all around us: at home, at work, and at school. Thank them for bringing you vaccines, teaching you the importance of bike helmets, helping you to quit smoking, or providing a safe and supervised place for your children in after-school programs.

National Public Health Week is designed to raise awareness nationally and locally of public health's critical role in ensuring a healthy America. If you'd like more information about local public health efforts, please visit our web site at www.garretthealth.org or call the Garrett County Health Department at 301-334-7730.

Sincerely,
Rodney Glotfelty

To the Editor:

The passion and commitment shown by the opponents of wind turbine development throughout Mountain Maryland underscores genuine concern for both the environment and the region's heritage. The poetic eloquence with which some write, engaging and provocative, fascinates the reader. All should aspire to put words to a page with equal mastery.

Clearly, as is the case in all tough matters, each side tries to convince the other of merits. Each wishes to win, and presumably, to benefit the public at large.

But what honor and honesty are found where the victory is sullied by reductio ad absurdum and doctrinal annihilation? When writers, and spokespeople, put forth such energy that it compels others to take the time to listen, to have heart for a particular point of view, they must also accept responsibility when their words are taken out of context and twisted – made revisionary and tautological.

While it is fanciful and delights the imagination, we cannot, with any scholarly merit, draw environmental parallels between the historical origin of the coal mining industry – boom and bust – and the wind turbine industry of today. It is a red herring. There is no tangible resemblance to the transactional impact – the "systematic whipsawing" – between our "ignorant" kinfolk and the "greedy" coal predators of yesteryear and the transactions that have taken place in the 21st century between private landowners and wind-industry representatives.

Wind energy isn't intended to reduce greenhouse gas per se, but rather, is an alternative to those energy sources that have historically been the primary producers of greenhouse gas emissions; big difference. Words matter.

It is as if the forest is getting lost in the trees.

The public has been made painfully aware – the road from Enron to AIG – that unchecked profit maximization spur ethical dilemmas – including unadulterated greed. Tax shelters and taxpayer subsidies to free market endeavors create a too good deal for business; private win on the back of socialized loss. Nationally, and on the mountaintop, it isn't hard to point to a number of strange juxtapositions; the ttyst between money and policy.

Nevertheless, as Americans, we continue to enjoy a certain level of liberty – applied here in the context of Berlin's notion of liberty and its polar opposite, power. Fortunately, it is no different at home. We can, and in my opinion, should, express our liberty through civic engagement by speaking up about issues that interest us, and through our vote on election day.

Sincerely,
Susan Athey-Oxford

To the Editor:

The economy is on everyone's mind these days, and National Car Care month is the perfect time to remind car owners that putting off vehicle maintenance now can lead to more extensive repairs down the road.

R.L. Polk & Co. recently reported that the median age of passenger cars in operation has increased to a record high of 9.4 years in 2008. This trend, coupled with the current economic environment, has led motorists to seek affordable vehicle maintenance to add more years of add years of reliable life to their vehicle.

Because value is on the minds of most Americans, many are turning to their local repair shop for maintenance and service. According to a study by the Automotive Aftermarket Industry Association, vehicle repairs cost an average 34 percent more at new car dealerships than at independent repair shops, resulting in $11.7 billion in excess costs annually to consumers.

Neighborhood repair shops are the backbone of the automotive repair industry, offering value and convenience, and since a vehicle is the second largest investment for most car owners, it makes sense to take the time to select an auto repair facility that will take the best care of that vehicle investment.

The Car Care Council's Web site, www.carcare.org, features a "Find a Shop" locator to help motorists find a repair shop in their area. Many independent repair centers also have Web sites that include information about their services and credentials. In addition, the Better Business Bureau and AAA are excellent resources to locate a repair facility.

Sincerely,
Rich White

To the Editor:

As evidenced by the community support at the recent meeting called by Garrett County state's attorney Lisa Thayer Welch concerning the case involving Brad Stewart, there are a number of local individuals who have been discussing how to help individuals who have lost their pre-paid funeral funds. Several fundraising ideas, such as spaghetti dinners, concerts, community yard sales, etc., have been proposed to help victims with funeral expenses.

A committee is being formed to develop a plan as to how to proceed. Any and all ideas are welcome and will be considered.

More information will be forthcoming as to how you can help the victims of this alleged crime. Let's rally together and let this be an opportunity for our community to pull together. For more information and to make suggestions, please call 301-533-1133 or write to me at P.O. Box 285, Oakland, MD 21550.

The American Legion applauds Senator Mikulski for her support of S.423, Veterans Health Care Budget Reform and Transparency Act of 2009. This legislation is supported by nearly every major veterans' service organization in the United States. When enacted, S. 423 will help achieve timely, predictable, and sufficient VA medical care funding.

The American Legion salutes Senator Mikulski for her steadfast support of this critical veterans' issue.

Sincerely,

To the Editor:

In response to your comment about Maryland U.S. Senator Barbara Mikulski, where do you think she and the rest of her Democratic pals were when the TARP bill, the first stimulus bull, and the omnibus bill were voted on? They were voting on bills without reading them and putting in more "pork." They were there in Washington along with the Great Obama and his friend Tim Geithner trying to think of more ways to expand government. The "mad as hell" show was just that, a show.

AIG didn't get us into this mess; the president and the Dems and three turncoat Republicans did. And if Mikulski and her cronies went against the Constitution and imposed a 90% tax on AIG, who do you think will be next? Anyone who works for a living should be as livid as I am and saying, "No more taxes! No more bailouts! We have had enough!

If you like Barbara Mikulski so much, I don't have to guess what politics you adhere to. If anybody out there wants the government to take care of them from the cradle to the grave, then congratulations. That's what you'll get with the Great Obama and his partisan/socialist politics. This is my politically educated opinion.

To the Editor:

Spring is finally here! We're all pumped about getting outside to work on the lawn and other outdoor activities, hitting the trails by bike or on foot, and looking forward to warmer and longer days. There are numerous other activities to explore in our area.

Events planned for spring and summer at our local Maryland state parks are especially exciting and will appeal to young and old alike. Easter-egg dyeing, wild ramp festival, monarch butterfly tagging, Art in the Park, historic Thayerville Fire Tower tours, fishing rodeos, Chat with a Ranger, and, coming soon, the forest canopy walkway!

These events/projects are all sponsored and staffed by volunteers who love working to support our state park system. To ensure the continuation and success of these programs, the Western Garrett County State Park Volunteers Inc. invites all to help with these and other activities at the Discovery Center and Deep Creek Lake, Swallow Falls, and Herrington Manor state parks. We welcome your participation, and no matter your skills, if you are interested, there is a role for you! Check out our new web site at http://discoverycenter-dcl.com, or call the Discovery Center at 301-387-7067 for event details or to learn how you can join in the fun while making an important contribution to your community! Thanks.

To the Editor:

It has come to the attention of the Board of Garrett County Commissioners that rumors are circulating (again) stating misinformation regarding wages paid by local businesses. More specifically, the rumor alleges that county government dictates explicit wages paid by Wal-Mart and Lowe's. This misinformation has it that both Wal-Mart and Lowe's wanted to pay higher wages, but the board of county commissioners "bullied" them into offering lower wages. This is absurd.

The thought that Wal-Mart, the world's largest employer, with over two million employees and 7,800 locations in 16 markets worldwide, or Lowe's, with 1,650 stores in the United States and Canada and ranked 48 on the Fortune 500, would operate their retail businesses under salary requirements set by the local governmental authority is mind-boggling.

Yet some individuals continue to voice this opinion. Why would the commissioners want to limit wages for local residents when higher wages generate more tax revenues to the county and allow those respective employees to enjoy a higher standard of living? It makes no sense whatsoever.

We suggest that when your readers hear this type of rumor they challenge the speaker to provide the source of their information. Our assumption is that the rumor trail will quickly end.

As with any issue involving Garrett County government, the logical process would be to contact the commissioners' office where accurate information will be provided.

Thank you.

To the Editor:

There is no more beautiful sight than our American flag – "Old Glory" – painting the breeze. Now that winter is over (we think), this is a good time for those of us who display the American flag to take a good look at it and see if it needs to be retired.

When displaying the American flag, it should not be faded or torn or tattered. Goodness knows how the winter winds in Garrett County can ravage a flag, but with spring here, it is time to replace those flags that are not in perfect shape.

SHS Student Wins 'Honorable Mention' In National Contest

As a participant in the South Atlantic region, Joanna Guy, a senior at Southern High School, was awarded Honorable Mention and $250 in the "Being an American" essay contest sponsored by the Bill of Rights Institute, a nonprofit educational organization based in northern Virginia near Washington, D.C. Guy's sponsoring teacher, Dave Bender, received a matching cash prize.

"At a time when many Americans are focusing on our differences, more than 31,000 students demonstrated that we can unite behind the Constitution and the principles we share as Americans," said Victoria Hughes, Bill of Rights Institute president. "Having so many young people join in this important discussion about the founding of America and the meaning of American citizenship should reaffirm our faith in the founders' vision and give us reason to be optimistic about the future."

The contest is supported by a grant from the John Templeton Foundation and sponsored by the History Channel; State Farm Insurance; Jack Miller Family Foundation; McGuire Woods LLP; and the Stuart Family Foundation. Beginning in the 2006-2007 school year, the current school year was the first to include every state, the District of Columbia, and U.S. territories. To date, nearly 50,000 students have participated, and more than $300,000 has been awarded to teachers and students.

To participate, students were asked to share their thoughts on American citizenship by answering the following question: "What civic value do you believe is most essential to being an American?"

In her winning essay, Guy, who selected "tolerance" as the civic value topic of her essay and thought Roger Baldwin most embodied the American character, wrote: "Tolerance is multi-faceted; it encompasses not only the acceptance of surface traits, but also respect for the right of others to voice differing values and views. No matter how wrong one perceives another person to be, she must realize, as Voltaire, Madison, and Roger Baldwin did, that difference of opinion is vital to the functioning of a free society. Our First Amendment freedoms keep American society vibrant and viable; the civic value of tolerance ensures that those freedoms remain indelible."

"We are proud to honor these student essayists and their teachers, who work tirelessly in the classroom to provide the students with a greater understanding and appreciation for the rights and responsibilities of American citizenship," Hughes said.

More information on the "Being an American" Essay Contest can be found at www.BeingAnAmerican.org. Copies of winning essays and photographs of students are available by request.

The United States Flag Code, Title 4, Chapter 1, Section 18 (k), states: "The flag, when it is in such condition that it is no longer a fitting emblem for display, should be destroyed in a dignified way, preferably by burning." If you are uncomfortable doing this, contact any local chapters of the VFW or American Legion, and I am sure they can assist you with this.

A torn flag can be mended, and a flag may be washed. If it is faded and beyond repair, it is time to replace the flag. Check out the following web site if you need more information: flag@americanflags.org.

And certainly, if you do not retire the colors at night, the flag should be properly illuminated.

As I drive around our county, I see quite a few flags that need to be retired. Our flag is considered a "living entity" and should be treated as such. So let's do our part and replace those flags that should no longer be publicly displayed.

Upon his release, Stricker will be on probation with conditions that include the payment of restitution.

"He is jointly and severally responsible for payment of $17,288 of uninsured damages to the victims in all charges originally placed," said State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch.

In February of last year, Garrett County sheriff's deputies were notified by a nearby property owner that numerous campers and a storage building in an area known as the Wilderness Campground had been burglarized and one camper had been burned.

A seven-month investigation by Sgt. Clark Warnick of the Sheriff's Office and Deputy State Fire Marshal Ryan Chapman revealed that Stricker and a juvenile had been staying at a nearby residence over the President's Day weekend and had committed the crimes.

Both were reportedly drinking alcohol at the time.

Stricker had pleaded guilty to the four crimes in January and his sentencing was postponed until a presentence investigation report was completed for the Court.

In other court proceedings, Ryan Scott Friend, 25, Friendsville, was sentenced to two years in the Division of Corrections for a charge of possession with intent to distribute marijuana.

Judge Jim Sherbin then suspended all but 60 days of the sentence, which Friend had served in the Garrett County Jail since his plea was entered in the case in February.

He was placed on probation and fined $500.

Friend was arrested and charged by officers with the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force who executed a search and seizure warrant at his residence last July. A large quantity of marijuana was located, according to the state's attorney.

In an unrelated case, Amy Elaine Hedrick, 26, Oakland, admitted to violating her probation. Sherbin then sentenced Hedrick to 18 months in the Garrett County Jail.

In April 2007, Hedrick was originally found guilty of burglary and public assistance fraud and sentenced to a total of seven years in the Division of Corrections.

In June 2008, her sentence was revised and she was placed on probation, with the balance of the sentence suspended, and ordered to complete a treatment program.

Hedrick was later discharged from the program for violating rules of the program.

Man Sentenced In Campground Destruction Case

A 20-year-old Ellicott City man was sentenced in Garrett County Circuit Court on Monday for offenses including burglary, theft, and malicious burning at a local campground.

Kevin Robert Stricker was sentenced to three years in the Division of Corrections for a third degree burglary charge and to 30 days each, to run concurrently, for charges of destruction of property over $500 and of theft over $500.

A one-year sentence, also to run concurrently, was imposed for a malicious burning offense. All of the sentence was then suspended, except for 30 days.

Stricker, therefore, will spend a total of 30 days in the Garrett County Jail.

PAMELA J. VAN IDERSTINE

With great peace and thanksgiving, we celebrate the life of Pamela Jo (Schmidle) Van Iderstine. Pamela, known as "Pam" to her family and friends, passed away in her home on Saturday, April 4, 2009, in New Smyrna Beach, Fla., at the youthful age of 65.

Born to Joseph F. and June (Childs) Schmidle (both deceased) on Aug. 20, 1943, in Kingwood, W.Va., Pam lived a full and vibrant life. In 1960, she graduated with honors from Kingwood High School, where she participated as drum majorette and won "Maid of Honor" at the Preston County Buckwheat Festival. She married her sweethea t, Harry E. Van Iderstine, 40 years ago and with him raised two children, Michael and Megan.

Pam used the wonderful talents that God gave her by serving and loving others through her work as a volunteer. As a homemaker in Kmgwood, she devoted her time to the PTA, was a Cub Scout and Brownie Leader, and ran the kitchen and hot dog stand at the Buckwheat Festival. Her compassionate heart and strong will led her to work as an EMT at K.A.M.P. Ambulance. She brightened people's days with flowers and her cheerful smile while working at Mainstreet Florist.

In New Smyrna Beach, Pam volunteered with the Cape Canaveral National Seashore and the Pink Ladies organization at Bert Fish Memorial Hospital. Never forgetting those m need, she dedicated her time to Meals on Wheels, Halifax Urban Missions, W.O.R.C. (Work Oriented Rehabilitation Center), and P.A.C.E. Center for Girls. She continued to bless others with her love even until the last moments of her earthly life.

As those among the numerous who encountered her love and care, her family members cherish the time they enjoyed with Pam. She devoted her beautiful life serving as a faithful and loving wife to her husband, Harry E. Van Iderstine; a wonderful and dedicated mother to her children, Michael Masters (Jennifer), Morgantown, W.Va., and Megan Van Iderstine, Port Orange, Fla.; a loving grandmother to her grandchildren, Brooke and Stephen Masters, and her "granddog," Bailey (deceased); a cherished sister to Joseph F. (Joyce) Schmidle III, Kingwood, and a sister-in-law to Evelyn Van Iderstine; a stepmother to Brent Van Iderstine (deceased), Leslie (Donald) Mix, New York, and Russell (Anita) Van Iderstine, Palm Bay, Fla.; a step-grandmother to eight; an aunt to Sally (Todd) Hare, Joseph F. Schmidle IV, Staff Sgt. Michael (Angela) Contic, and Jason Schmidle; a great-aunt to five; a niece to Mrs. Kit and Dr. G.A. Martin, Daytona Beach, Fla., Mrs. Lawrence Schmidle, Daytona Beach, JoAnn and James Omernick, Oregon, Helen and Kenneth Chidester, Martha and William Taylor, James Schmidle, Mary Jane Schmidle, Alice Schmidle, and Lou Sterling, all of whom are from West Virginia; and a strong example of God's love to an abundance of friends.

We would like to express gratitude to Anna and Roger Schmidt and family, Aunt Kit Martin, Sheila Knox, Shelly and Beau Shiflet, Linda Peddicord, Darby McDowell, Sandy Marrara, Sandy and Taryn Light, Pete and Jane Johnson, all the neighbors on Timberlane Dr., and all who supported Pam and her family with thoughts, prayers, and love during this journey.

Pam's desire and joy for life is reflected in the beautifully vibrant plants and flowers she cultivated in her garden, delighting anyone who had the pleasure of encountering them. Amidst her intense struggle with cancer, through days of pain and through days of joy, Pam never ceased her faithful service to God and to his creation. Let us celebrate Pam's life by living our own lives with the same passion and vigor that she emanated though living simply and loving deeply.

A remembrance and celebration of Pam's life will be held on Saturday, April 18, at 4 p.m. at 275 Country Circle Dr. W., Port Orange, Fla. (a quiet place in the country; casual dress is appropriate).

A memorial service will be held at the Lobb Funeral Home Chapel, Kingwood, on Saturday, May 16, followed by an interment ceremony at Maplewood Cemetery, Kingwood.

A MORE PROFITABLE ALTERNATIVE

You've probably heard the term "reverse mortgage," which refers to a loan that allows homeowners aged 62 and older to tap the equity in their home, without repaying it. This has become an increasingly popular way for retirees to generate extra income for living expenses and paying off debt.

However, high fees and aggressive sales tactics prompted the Senate Special Committee on Aging to recently issue an investor alert. The intention behind the warning is not to discourage reverse mortgages, but rather to encourage homeowners to make sure it's the right loan product for them.

The biggest downside to such an agreement is that the up-front costs for application, legal fees, document recording, and loan origination fees can sometimes top 10% of the loan's value. For this reason, the federal government requires meeting with a financial counselor prior to applying for a reverse mortgage, helping ensure that it's the best loan product for your situation.

In addition to a financial advisor, you are strongly encouraged to consult with a local real estate agent. Simply put, you might generate more income by selling your home and moving to a less expensive one, directly pocketing the equity you've worked so hard to build over the years. An agent can compare your home's value to other attractive properties on the market, and guide you to a profitable conclusion!

If you are thinking of buying or selling a home but feel "out of touch" with real estate, give me a call today.

Tap Dancing, Jazz Extravaganza To Open GLAF Season

Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) has announced the kick-off concert for the 2009 GLAF season, which will take place on Friday, April 17, at 7:30 p.m. in the Garrett College auditorium. The Shelley Oliver Tap Dancers and the Dave Leonhardt Jazz Group will be present a tap dancing and jazz music extravaganza that evening, and tickets are still available.

"The Shelley Oliver Tap Dancers is a high caliber ensemble of female rhythm tap dancers with dynamic improvisation, synchronized ensemble dancing, and stunning solo work," a spokesperson said. The dancers perform in concert with the David Leonhardt Jazz Group.

"Through sophisticated musical arrangements and strong visual choreography, there is a dynamic interaction among dancers and musicians," the spokesperson said. "This exuberant dance spectacular has been enjoyed by audiences worldwide and to high critical acclaim."

Shelley Oliver has over 20 years of professional experience with dance. She is a Canadian-born tap dancer, choreographer, and educator. She has worked with artists Savion Glover, Jimmy Slide, and Charles "Cookie" Cook, as has David Leonhardt, a professional pianist for over 35 years. The David Leonhardt Jazz Group features a pianist, percussionist, and bass player.

Tickets are $20 for adults, $5 for students, and free for youth 5 years and younger (but tickets are required). The sponsor partners for this show are Frank and Linda Lancelotta and Mettiki Coal LLC.

Individual tickets may be purchased by calling the GLAF office at 301-387-3082, or through the GLAF web site at www.artsandentertainment.org.

The Shelly Oliver Tap Dancers and the Dave Leonhardt Jazz Group will also conduct daytime performances for all 4th and 5th grade students in Garrett County on Thursday and Friday, April 16 and 17. "The children's show entertains, educates, and excites young audiences," the spokesperson said.

The school performances are being made possible through cooperation between GLAF and the Garrett County Board of Education.

This project is partially supported by a grant from Pennsylvania Performing Arts on Tour, a program developed and funded by the Heinz Endowments; the William Penn Foundation; the Pennsylvania Council on the Arts, a state agency; and the Pew Charitable Trusts. "What If?" Show On Display At GCAC Gallery

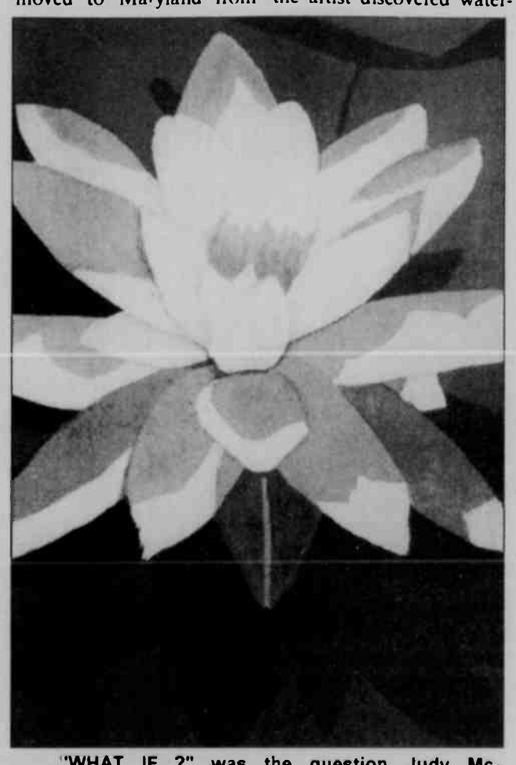
The Garrett County Arts Council is currently hosting an exhibit at the Gallery in Oakland titled "What if?" The show, which will run through May 16, features watercolors and monotypes by artist Judy McCaughey.

The artist explained that the show is in two parts: recent watercolors using the pouring of paint method, and new monotypes using a variety of printing techniques.



"The theme was developed as one idea led to the next because I asked myself, 'What if...?' and then tried something new," McCaughey said.

McCaughey and her husband Wayne retired and moved to Maryland from Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, in 1991. While exploring new and old interests coming from teaching kindergarten, the artist discovered watercolor initially as a means of illustrating stories for her grandchildren, she said. Since then, she took courses offered by the Howard County Recreation and Parks Department and the Columbia Art Center, and, after moving to Garrett County, attended workshops by Alexis Lavine and Jim McNeil. She has also gone to South Carolina to study under Linda Doll and Jean Grastorf and to Baltimore for a Martha Mann workshop. Now she is a signature artist member of the Baltimore Watercolor Society and of the Miniature Painters, Sculptors, and Gravers Society of Washington, D.C.

Through the Grastorf workshop, McCaughey experimented with pouring wet paint over wet paper in a semi-controlled manner, "to brilliant effect or a great mess," she said. All the watercolors in this show were painted using this technique.

Her interest in monotype printing was sparked in workshops by Jean Barnes Downs, using a gelatin plate and water soluble paints; and Kathleen Kuchar, applying watercolor paints on plexiglass and pressing the image onto damp paper using a printing press. The monotypes in this show were done mostly by using a cluding: chair of the board of the American Conference of Academic Deans (ACAD); co-founder and chair of the Presidents' Council of the Associated New American Colleges (ANAC); member of the board ot the Association of American Colleges and Universities (AAC&U); and, most recently, chair of the board of the Council of Independent Colleges (CIC).

A graduate of the Harvard University Institute for Educational Management, she has been a consultant/evaluator for the U.S. Department of Education and the Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools.

During her tenure as president of the Saga Colleges, the institution added bachelor's degrees at Sage College of Albany, accelerated undergraduate-graduate sequences at Russell Sage College, and doctoral degrees at Sage Graduate School. She presided over $40 million capital fundraising initiative to renovate and upgrade facilities on two campuses and create a larger technology infrastructure.

Also under her leadership, two-year and four-year undergraduate programs in Albany and Troy were combined into a single NCAA Division III athletics unit, with men's and women's teams competing successfully in the Skyline Conference. Upon her departure from Sage, the new Athletic Center in Troy was named in her honor.

Neff also played a key role in the Capital Region community and its development as "New York's Tech Valley." As a founding member of the Business-Higher Education Roundtable, she served on the board and executive committees of the Council for Economic Growth, Albany Medical Center, and Capital Bank and Trust. For 10 years, she was chair of the Historic Troy 2020 community planning group, receiving awards for her work in neighborhood revitalization and historic preservation. In Albany, she led the planning for development of a 31-acre common campus shared by Sage and neighboring professional schools of law, pharmacy, and medicine (the University Heights Association) and served several terms as chair of its board.

After bringing an innovative nano-science business incubator to Sage's Troy campus in 2006, she was among the "Tech Valley Hot 10" recognized by the Albany-Colonie Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. Neff lives with her husband Edward, a risk management consultant, in Oakland, where she continues to be active in higher education as a consultant and is of counsel to the higher education practice of Witt/Kieffer, an executive search firm.

Since the departure of Dr. Dauphinais, Dr. Rebecca DiLiddo has served as the college's acting president.

"The board also thanks Dr. DiLiddo, dean of academic affairs, for stepping forward and handling the everyday operation of the college, as well as tackling matters requiring immediate attention during the past month while serving as acting president," said Sherbin.

However, asking herself "What if?" McCaughey said she was able to incorporate some of the plexiglass painting techniques on the gelatin plates.

"Doing that, I asked myself, 'What if you brush on the paint instead of using a brayer? What if you outline a drawing on top of the paint? What if you tip the gelatin plate on top of the paper? What if you do a series of these paintings?'"

The exhibit will be open to the public from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday at the Gallery, located along Alder Street.

There will be an artist's reception on Thursday, April 16, at 5 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

Lakers Win One, Lose One In Twinbill With Dundalk

Inclement weather forced postponement of several baseball games for the Garrett College Lakers; however, Coach Eric Hallenbeck's squad did get one Maryland JUCO doubleheader in on Sunday with visiting CCBC-Dundalk.

The Lakers recorded 18 hits and coasted to a 14-4 victory in the first game, but the Lions bounced back to take the second contest almost as convincingly, 12-4.

Cordido doubled twice and singled, Regalado provided three singles for three RBI, and Martin also singled three times.

John Opincarne and Kevin Leitzel combined for a five-hitter on the mound for Garrett.

Dundalk took a 4-0 lead in the top of the first inning of the second game and never trailed, adding four more runs each in the fifth and sixth frames.

Pacing the Lions' 14-hit performance was Chris Moore, who stroked a two-run homer and two doubles for three RBI.

The Lakers got solo shots from both Zach Nair and Garrett Rogers in the sixth inning, while Alex Anderson contributed two singles in Garrett's eight-hit effort.

Getting the win for Dundalk was Josh Davis, who struck out nine in 5 and 1/3 innings of work.

The Lakers are 18-14 overall, and 6-7 in JUCO play. They are slated to host Allegany College of Maryland in a single game today at 3 p.m., entertain Potomac State College in a single game tomorrow, and travel to Prince George's CC for a noon doubleheader on Saturday.

DCWST Sends 11 To Colorado For NASTAR Nationals Ski Race

Eleven members of the Deep Creek Winter Sports Team traveled to Steamboat Springs, Colo., to compete in the Nature Valley NASTAR Nationals Ski Race held March 27 and 28. Members qualified for the event by being ranked in the top three of their respective age, gender, and ability categories at NASTAR qualifying races hosted at Wisp resort.

Local competitors represented Wisp Resort as a team and on an individual level. As a team the group of local skiers finished 21 out of 101 mountains represented. To determine the team score, the top six performing competitors' scores were averaged together to generate a team score.

All competitors were ranked based on a handicap system that factors in each competitor's age and gender. The handicap system was created by NASTAR (National Standard Race). NASTAR is a program that was developed in 1968 by Ski Racing Magazine as a way for skiers across the country to compete against each other using a handicap system.

God looked Around His Garden And Found An Empty Space
He then looked down up this earth and saw your tired face.
He put His arms around you, and lifted you to rest,
God's garden must be beautiful, for He only takes the best
So He closed your weary eyelids, and whispered "peace be thine
It broke our hearts to lose you, but you never went alone
For part of us went with you,
The day God called you home.

Ask Sheila
Decorating Dilemma?
Sheila offers helpful advice.

Dear Sheila:

I have a beautiful view of the mountains from my windows, and in the summer, wonderful! However, during the winter and spring before the trees leaf out the sun is brutal! While I don't want to cover my view I would like to have something on the windows that would act as a pair of sunglasses. Is this possible?

Glaring View

Dear GV:

YES, YES, AND YES AGAIN! We have a wonderful product that does exactly that! It is called a "Screen Shade" and is extremely effective! And when you don't need it, it disappears into a nice small roll!

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

I was seriously challenged for several weeks because my couch was too low to allow me to get up, not just easily, but reasonably. I needed to get someone to get some blocks to raise it up to a reasonable height.

Thank goodness for my Heath Department physical therapist Marina Getz, who looked at how I tried to get up, and it was not my technique, but that my couch was too low. She looked at her and her husband's network of friends and associates to find someone with basic woodworking skills.

She came up with an old friend of mine, Gerry Snelson, formerly a Northern High English teacher, now a member of the English faculty of Frostburg State University and also a member of the same bluegrass band as Marina's husband Woody.

He did much more than the minimum. He made four walnut pieces with depressions to accommodate the wheels on the bottom of my couch's legs. And it wasn't easy for Marina to put them in place when she came last Monday for my therapy session. Although she isn't that big, she is strong for a woman of her size, so she was able to put the risers under my couch. So my problem was solved, thanks to a network of friends.

Now it is not a huge struggle for me, which makes me more independent. When the couch was too low, I had to ask my daughters to do little but essential tasks, like fill my water pitcher or my coffee decanter. So these blocks not only improved my physical functioning, but also improved my relationship with my girls. I never enjoy being a burden to them.

I called Gerry to thank him. Because Gerry was busy teaching at Frostburg, his wife Jackie and I touched bases occasionally, but after a long time we lost touch. We had a lot of catching up to do.

When she said she had good news about their daughter Corey, I was more or less assuming that it was the usual good news about a wedding or a new baby, but it was not that kind of good news, not at all. It was that Corey just got a PhD in genetics from Vanderbilt University!

Corey was once a member of my English 101 and Composition I classes. As a daughter of an English teacher, she got good grades most of the time. Those two factors caused her to not take very seriously the demands of English 101, and she handed in a not terrible, just not very good, paper; at least not good for a student who would continue her education past Garrett College.

I believed it was my job to prepare all students for their future, so I made Corey redo the paper. According to her mother Jackie, that was a highly valuable lesson to push her into the kind of high quality work that enabled her to go so far, especially in a field like genetics, so technical and complex. I am very proud that I played even a small part in her educational process. You never know what ground-breaking discovery she might be responsible for in fighting some deadly disease.

It is difficult to choose among my former students, but none of them made me as proud as Bittinger's own Terry Beitzel. I pushed hard to get him to speak up in class, because it was very clear that was an exceptionally bright boy with a lot to contribute to class discussions, and I thought it was important that he build more confidence. I urged him to aim high, even as high as Harvard, where he earned his B.A. Then he stayed at Harvard to earn two PhDs at the same time!

The work involved for just one PhD is massive. It is almost unbelievable that he could do two at the same time, in philosophy and theology. Both fields of study undoubtedly required much writing. A lot of boys have a negative attitude toward bookish boys who are more comfortable in a classroom than on an athletic field.

Another very bright student who is a good bit older than Corey and Terry was Crystal Shaffer-Merrill, who grew up in Kitzmiller. She is busy with a full-time job in social work while she is working on an online PhD program.

When Crystal was in my classes, she was newly divorced with several children, which is a very challenging circumstance, but she never handed in anything but A work. In spite of very different political beliefs (she was very conservative, and of course, everyone knows how very liberal I am), based on mutual respect, we developed a deep and long-lasting friendship.

It's amazing to think of the wide variety of students I taught in my days at Garrett, from so many different social, family, and educational backgrounds. I'm glad to hear that our national leader recognizes the important role of community colleges. Some students get a shot at a technical career in only two years, like nursing and other medical-oriented fields. And many good, bright, well-prepared people get a head start on their bachelor's degree at a four-year college or university.

And some from a poor educational background can get the basic skills in English and math in community colleges' developmental or remedial programs, giving them the possibility that they can go farther in college.

And for lower income families, sometimes it is the only option to send their kids to college. If they work hard and earn good grades, they can hopefully graduate from a community college with an associate's degree. There are many excellent scholarships reserved for transfers from community college to a four-year college or university, and as shown by the three students I talked at length about, it could even lead to graduate school and advanced degrees.

Many former students of mine tell me that they learned more at Garrett than at their four-year college, perhaps because of the level of individual attention given by the faculty. And in no way was it just more high school. My Meredith complained that it will be the same old students from high school in her class at Garrett.

Even though there are a large number of local kids at Garrett, there are also students from all kinds of places and backgrounds. Garrett is now attended by many international students, especially from South America, and its excellent basketball team has some African players as well. Their performance is usually very good, and it's good for kids from a single-race home community to know, make friends with, and share a classroom with a diverse student population. If all kids in America had a chance to know personally a member of a different ethnic race, America would be a better place, a more tolerant, open-minded place with less conflict and prejudice, and with young people who are able to work with different kinds of people.

My guess is that Bittinger has an above-average number of adult residents, whether natives of Bittinger or not, with college degrees, especially post-graduate degrees, compared to most small, rural communities. We also have an unusual number of teachers in our population, from first grade to college levels.

It appears that Bittinger values education. But I don't doubt that many of our non-degree holders also value education.

There are many reasons not to go to college, especially among our older citizens. Of course, many young men served in the military. Even though my father would have been happy to get a chance to go to college, even though he had plenty of ability and desire, circumstances in his life denied him the chance, like World War II and the necessity to assume the running of our family farm.

On the other hand, the war enabled his sisters to go to college. That was until they got married and had their children. Motherhood makes college harder, but not always an impossibility. Almost all mothers play a very important role in their children's education.

One big goal of Obama's proposal to reform our education is expanding and improving our early childhood education. Many mothers did a wonderful job of preparing their children to start to school, especially the ones who enjoy and believe it is an important duty to read to their children.

Jim Wagner, the former husband of the late Margaret Hershberger, is in a Morgantown hospital. The only detail about his illness that I could find is that he suffered an aneurysm and then a stroke. But I can't confirm that, because so far I did not get a return call from anyone.

That's what I am up against in including more local news. I feel very lucky if I get a human being when I call someone. That is pretty rare. I don't have much luck to reach Claire and Meredith either, and as a result I feel alone, unwanted, and even scared. I don't know who I could call if I needed help quickly.

Something a little puzzling: It's not unusual if a dog likes cat food better than dog food. And that includes Boo. But the strange thing is that our younger cat started to eat Boo's food. Then the other cat started doing the same thing.

When Croatia was in crisis and had many key problems, including refugees and extreme poverty, the Bittinger 4-H Club voted to send some money to help them. I was proud of their social responsibility, and now we see the result of that caring action, as Croatia is stable and prosperous enough to join NATO. Even small seeds of goodwill will grow, and someday Croatia may blossom into an important ally to America.

I think it was only $100, but it does show that all Americans do not just care about their self interests, because the club could have voted to use that money to take a trip to an amusement park. I am not aware of any other 4-H clubs that have helped faraway places, especially not international ones. But it is true that the 4-H pledge ends with the words, "... for my club, community, country, and the world." It looks like we raised some fine future citizens, and that is what 4-H has as its ultimate goal.

in the college 4-H club, especially the emphasis on service. And she can push the Young Democrats organization to place more emphasis on service: she is already on the service committee.

She assumed her duty as the secretary for the Young Democratic Club of West Virginia University.

She really enjoys the University 4-H Club because she can make new friends with similar backgrounds and values. And many of the 4-H'ers are living in the same neighborhood as she. I'm glad she has a wide and varied network of friends. She is back at her job at the homeless shelter. It will require her to stay in Morgantown over Easter weekend, but somehow she got off this weekend.

Last Sunday, April 5, was a big birthday for Bittinger. My twin nephews Darryl and Elliot Glotfelty turned 20. They share a birthday with a frequent babysitter of theirs, Lea Stanton Pochet, who is expecting a new baby late in April. Her son Blake, who is about 4, calls the expected baby "Baby Kate." Hopefully, he knows something that not even his parents know, who chose not to find out what the new baby's gender is.

This Monday, deadline day for this column, I am seeing some snowflakes after a couple of pretty dismal days with heavy rain, and last evening was very foggy. But at last we returned to sunshine, although it is a little too cool for my taste. But like many things, waiting for something good requires lots of patience. I see a clump of daffodils already about eight inches high! I don't see any buds yet, but my lawn is kind of green. I saw my first robin, not in Bittinger, but in Grantsville.

According to Sheila Southerly, the skunk cabbage around their pond is past just the blossom stage. Now it is growing some fairly tall green shoots, which have turned into big leaves, a favorite breakfast for all those hibernating bears that are almost ready to wake up for a new spring. Like all green leafy vegetables, it is loaded with lots of vitamins.

I got a letter from Don Sincell, the editor of The Republican, saying that my columns are too long and to lay off so much political stuff in them. He said it seems that I "abhor all Republicans," which is not true. I have many good friends who are moderate Republicans.

I guess I was too tough about Republicans, but I feel there are plenty of Republicans who are reasonable and sincere in their beliefs. But on the other hand, some people who claim to speak for the conservatives in America go way too far.

I believe that I do need to address some of the things that happened recently in America.

Since I'm supposed to sharply limit stating my personal opinions in this column, maybe I will ask a few questions that the readers can answer for themselves.

1. Are you aware of the tidal wave of mass murder attacks across the nation?

2. Do you know how big the body count is?

3. Do you know a few seriously disturbed people are able to kill so many people so fast that no one can stop them? Did they use regular guns, like hunting rifles or the kind of hand guns kept my many Americans for defense of their homes? I will answer that question. No. The killers were armed with multiple automatic weapons.

4. Do you know of any use for automatic weapons?

5. Why should they be sold to anyone?

6. How can we stop this deeply disturbing trend?

But on a much happier note, this year's season of major league baseball is starting. Quite a few openings needed to be postponed because of snow. I hope that won't happen with the Pirates' home opener, which is scheduled for Easter Monday. I am so excited about the return of Pirates baseball on television.

It's nice to hear the words "a world free of nukes." Of course, it is still just a goal. But it is a lifetime goal of my generation, because we lived our lives under the shadow of a mushroom cloud. When I was young, when a large plane flew over I was terrified that the reason it was there was to drop a bomb.

The president realizes that it is a very lofty goal, and perhaps it may not be achieved in his lifetime.

My father was stationed in the South Pacific when we attacked two Japanese cities, killing thousands of innocent civilians, including, of course, women and children. My father wrote a letter to home, saying that he believed it was wrong for America to bomb and kill so many non-combatant civilians, even while he and the rest of the Americans on that island were shot at by Japanese soldiers.

Maryland Attempting To Stay On Top Of Teacher Shortage Trends

by Maren Wright
Capital News Service

Maryland is prepared for the twin education trends of an aging teaching force and young teachers giving up the profession early, according to data from the National Commission on Teaching and America's Future.

The organization held a briefing Tuesday to release a report showing that half the nation's teachers will reach retirement age in the next 10 years.

Add that to the 50 percent of new teachers who change careers in five years or less, and you have the makings of a teacher shortage, said commission president Tom Carroll.

Maryland is a bit luckier. Teachers trained at the University of Maryland, College Park, stick with the profession more often, with retention rates closer to 70 percent, said Donna Wiseman, dean of the College of Education.

And its teaching force sits about mid-range agewise, at an average age of 44. Nearby West Virginia will see 68 percent of its teaching force retire in the next 10 years, a situation that may force the state to draw teachers away from Maryland.

The poor economy could slow or stall the trend, Wiseman said, as fewer teachers retire and the stability of the teaching profession makes it a strong career choice.

"Part of the answer will be using baby boomers in a real creative way when they decide to retire," Wiseman said.

The commission's main recommendation, creating new options for retiring teachers, is already policy in Maryland.

In 2007-2008, 177 teachers participated in the state's retire/rehire program, specially designed to retain teachers in high-need schools and critical-subject areas. Retiring teachers in Maryland can also choose to work halftime and still collect a pension, said deputy state superintendant John Smeallie.

"Maryland, fortuitously, is maybe a little bit ahead of the curve on this," Smeallie said.

Bringing teachers back into the classroom after retirement requires flexibility in more than pension plans.

"Seventy percent of teachers would be interested in staying if they were able to work in new education roles in phased or flexible retirement," said Elizabeth Foster, director of strategic initiatives for the commission.

The commission advocates teaching teams that pair experienced teachers with young educators, classroom coaches, parents, and industry partners. This format would allow the system to give semi-retired teachers more flexibility in teaching tasks and scheduling.

Randi Weingarten, president of the American Federation of Teachers, said the federation also likes learning teams, saying they can reduce teacher isolation and combine the excitement of new teachers with the sagacity of experienced teachers.

Yet Weingarten has seen other teacher mentoring programs come and go as they failed to achieve system-wide success.

"Top-down accountability without having bottom-up reform and bottom-up buy-in never works," Weingarten said.

Supporters tout the cost-savings of this model, as a team mixes high-cost teachers, part-time teachers, and new-hire teachers with lower-paid school workers. Carroll said the team approach can also reduce the costs of teacher turnover by improving working conditions.

There is a downside to keeping teachers: higher sal-aries as more experienced teachers begin to boost the overall wage scale, said Neil Bergsman, director at the Maryland Budget and Tax Policy Institute.

Teams are an innovative and promising idea, he said, but the state may need more changes to pension eligibility and benefits.

If there is a point of agreement, it is that change is on the horizon of the teaching profession.

"We have to stop thinking that students need to go to school in this little box, for this number of hours, for this number of years," said Gene Wilhoit, president of the Council of Chief State School Officers, "That model has to break down."

Carroll also sees innovation ahead.

"We have a once-in-a-century opportunity to reinvent the make-up of the educational system," Carroll said. "Let's not just recreate the industrial model we've struggled with for 100 years."

SRWA CALLING FOR VOLUNTEERS – Ysuga, the unofficial mascot of the Savage River Watershed Association (SRWA), oversees the planting of a red spruce tree. SRWA is looking for additional volunteers to help plant 2,000 red spruce trees on April 13 and 15 from 9 a.m. to noon and April 19 from 1 to 4 p.m. Red spruce will be planted along high-quality streams in the Savage River State Forest in an attempt to maintain conifer cover. By shading streams, evergreen trees such as hemlock, pine, and spruce help keep water temperatures low, a critical factor for native brook trout survival. Unfortunately native hemlocks, Tsunga canadensis, are being killed by an exotic invasive insect called the hemlock woolly adelgid. It is hoped that these native red spruce seedlings ultimately fill in the gaps where hemlocks have been lost. For more details or to volunteer, persons may e-mail the SRWA at SRWAcoordinator@gmail.-com or call Ron Boyer, SRWA red spruce planting coordinator, at 301-895-3686. The Savage River Watershed Association is a group of local landowners and other citizens dedicated to preserving and enhancing the rural nature and natural resources of the Savage River watershed by assisting interested landowners and public land managers with environmental stewardship efforts and educational outreach.

cake topping is sold within the county, Kay said that they do sell some by mail order to various places throughout the country.

"We also sell a lot of it down around the lake (Deep Creek), and quite a bit right out of the door here at the farm," she said.

Much of the proceeds from the maple syrup harvest help subsidize the operation of the Steyers' other business – a working dairy farm.

Maryland Public Television did a segment on the Steyer Farm maple syrup operation last year. It can be viewed online by going to the web site www.thinkport.org, and typing into the search box "Tapping the Mountain Sap."

Steyer Family Now Into Second Century Of Making Maple Syrup

MAKING MAPLE SYRUP all started for the Steyer family when John Wesley Steyer married Etta Grace Thompson near Gorman in February of 1909. Etta's family had been in the industry for many years prior to that, however, tapping the sugar maple trees on the same land that is now owned by the Steyer family. In fact, many of the same trees that the Thompsons tapped are still producing today.

by Don Sincell

It is a small percentage of businesses that last for 100 years, and only a handful of those last that long under the ownership of the same family.

The Steyer Brothers Farm, which produces maple syrup and maple sugar candy, officially joined the ranks of this elite group this year.

The Steyer farm, which is located along Rt. 560 near Gorman, is one of only 16 remaining licensed producers of maple products in the state. The Steyers just recently concluded another successful harvest of the prized sugar water, of which 40 to 50 gallons are needed to produce but one gallon of pure maple syrup.

The word "officially" was used above in the second paragraph because maple syrup was actually produced on that same farmland and from those same trees – some as old as 300 years – for much longer than the past century. However, it was on February 24, 1909, that John Wesley Steyer married Etta Grace Thompson. It was with that wedding that the Steyer family first became involved in the business, but Etta's family had produced maple products there for many decades prior.

Thus the maple products industry is possibly the oldest in Garrett County, as even Native Americans were apparently familiar with the processes of sap concentration. They learned to repeatedly pour the sugar water through piles of heated stones and ultimately end up with at least a low grade of the sweet syrup.

Cousins Randall and Mike Steyer, and the other children of Harold, Sam, and Arthur Steyer, represent the third generation of the family in the business, but their children are also actively involved, as it takes a combined effort to accomplish the grueling task each year.

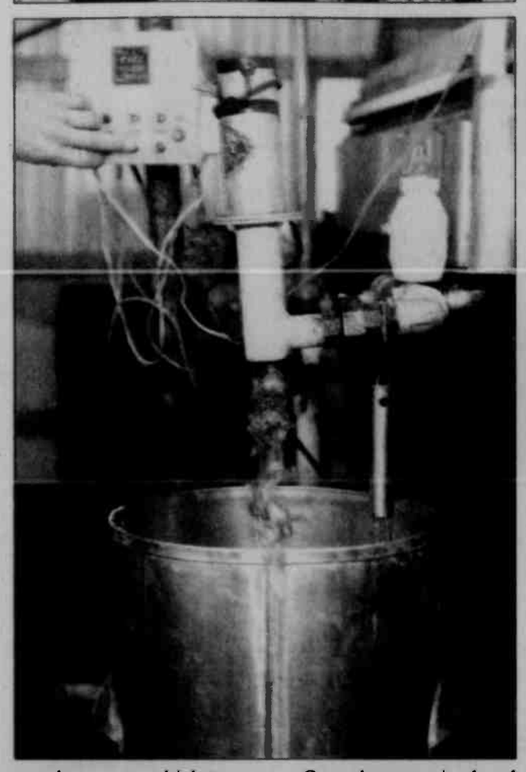
"It a lot of hard work, but it's also like a big family reunion," said Randall. "We have a lot of fun every year."

While the technology involved in producing maple syrup and sugar has changed somewhat over the many years, the general procedure is no different – tap the trees, collect the sugar water, and then boil it down until only syrup (or sugar) remains.

The method of collecting the sugar water from the trees has changed to a degree, however. For more than a century, the water was gathered in buckets that were hung on the trees just under the tapped holes. Once full, the buckets were then gathered and hauled to the evaporator – or back to the sugar camp – by horse-drawn wagons.

Today, while there are still some galvanized buckets seen on the tree trunks at the Steyer farm, most of the water is collected via a huge network of plastic tubing. The ends of the tubing are placed in the tap holes, and the water is drawn from the trees through the tubing both by gravity and a vacuum pump. The individual tubes drain into a larger tube, or mainline, and the water is collected in tanks at the sugar camp.

The Steyers run some 25 miles of the tubing through their 65-acre grove of sugar maples.



"It's still a lot of work, but we're able to collect the water a lot quicker than when we just used buckets," said Mike, "and the faster you can collect it, the better quality of syrup you will have."

Perhaps the most significant change in maple syrup production is the addition of reverse osmosis technology. Before the water is placed in the evaporator and boiled, it is run through the reverse osmosis process, which separates out much of the water before it is boiled.

"It's a lot like what they do on a ship when they desalinate sea water to make it drinkable," explained Randall's wife Kay. "But instead of keeping the water and throwing out the salt, we throw out the water and keep the sugary part. It greatly reduces the amount of boiling time."

She said that before they had the osmosis system, it could take over 40 hours to boil down the water, but with it, they usually need only three to eight hours to get the syrup, which saves both time and firewood.

FROM THE TREE TO THE JUGS, the basic method of making maple syrup has not changed since Native Americans first discovered the process. However, technological advances have made the process considerably more efficient and somewhat less labor intensive. Wooden or galvanized collection buckets hanging on the sugar maples have been replaced by miles of plastic tubing through which the sugar water flows with help from both gravity and a vacuum pump. Above left, Randall Steyer checks on some of the taps. Before the water is boiled in the evaporator (pictured above right), it goes through a reverse osmosis process that removes much of the water before boiling, and thus cuts down on the time and fuel needed for that process. A fresh batch of the pure, sweet syrup is pictured below left being drained into stainless steel containers from the evaporator. Below right are the familiar jugs of the syrup, several sizes of which can be purchased in various locations throughout the county. Photos by Angie Sincell.

Once the water is placed in the evaporator and brought to a boil, it is crucial that the heat be maintained until it has been fully reduced to the pure syrup.

The final piece of the process is bottling, with the syrup being placed in various sizes of plastic jugs that bear the name "Garrett County Pure Maple Syrup" and some picturesque artwork depicting the sugar camp.

As with almost every other crop, the success of the maple syrup harvest also depends heavily on weather conditions. Plenty of moisture, coupled with sub-freezing nights and relatively warm, early-spring days, generally are the optimum conditions for a good harvest, so production time is generally in March and early April.

"Our goal every year is to get 1,000 gallons of syrup," Kay said, "and this year we ended up with just over that. So it was a pretty good year," she said, adding that their record harvest was 1,600 gallons.

Holy Wk. Events Announced By St. Paul's Methodist

Holy Week observances have been planned at St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland. The Rev. Dr. T. Patrick Kerr, pastor, will lead the services, assisted by members of the church.

A Maundy Thursday (April 9) service including Holy Communion and footwashing will be held at 7 p.m. in the sanctuary. St. Paul's chancel choir will provide special music with the anthem "A Green Hill Faraway."

On Good Friday the church will be open for persons who wish to come in and meditate. Pastor Kerr and St. Paul's chancel choir will also participate in the community worship service at St. Peter's Catholic Church, in which the seven last words of Christ will be presented and a brief sermon given on each by pastors from the Mtn. Top Ministerial Association. Pastor Kerr will preach on the second word. The service begins at noon and continues until about 3 p.m. The community is invited to any part or all of this service.

On Easter Sunday, two worship services will be held at St. Paul's, one at 8:30 a.m. and the other at 10:45 a.m. New members will be received at both services, and there will be a baptism.

At the 8:30 service the Early Singers will perform the anthem "Jesus Christ Is Risen Today," and the chancel choir will perform the following songs at the 10:45 service: "This Is the Day," "Open Our Eyes, Lord," and "Celebrate the Joy." Both choirs are directed by Tom Shelton. The organist for both services on Easter will be Pat Shelton, director of music.

Also accompanying at both services will be Erin Erin Martysz on timpani. Martysz, who in 2005 earned a master's degree in percussion performance at the University of Texas, currently performs as principal percussion with the Midland-Odessa Symphony Chorale and as a section percussionist with the Lubbock Symphony and Round Rock Symphonies.

Fifteen minutes prior to each worship service, the church's youth group will show a video that they produced showing various scenes of their many activities. The group of approximately 30 youngsters meets for Sunday school from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. and on Tuesday evenings from 6 to 8 in the McCarty House, located next to St. Paul's. All local youth are invited to be a part of this group.

Also on Easter morning, from 9:30 to 10:30, the children's Sunday school will present The Easter Miracle on the stage in fellowship hall. This program of narration, puppetry, and songs sung by the children in the nursery through 5th grade is under the direction of Lisa Kinney, Karen Slaubaugh, and Pat Shelton. Christina Cortez will accompany one of the songs on trumpet. The new puppet stage to be used was built by Roger Slaubaugh with materials and design work by Keven Kinney.

The children will also present this program at the Dennett Road Manor Nursing Home on Saturday, April 11, at 10 a.m.

St. Paul's is located at 318 East Oak Street. Questions may be directed to the church at 301-334-2391 during office hours, which are 9 a.m. until noon on weekdays. For additional information, persons may visit the church's web site at www.gbbmumc.org/paulsumc/ or e-mail the church at mychurch1@verizon.net.

Local Church To Present Musical Drama This Sun.

Lakeside Assembly of God will present Ransomed by Amazing Grace, a musical drama, this Sunday, April 12, at 10:30 a.m.

"This Easter story Portrays God's special provision for mankind and the supreme sacrifice paid by His son for our redemption," said a spokesperson.

Ransomed by Amazing Grace will feature solo, duet, and quartet specials, narration, and pageantry.

The church is located along Rt. 219 north of Sand Flat Road.

Md. Insurance Agency Slates Local Meeting

The Maryland Insurance Administration (MIA) will hold a community informational meeting on Tuesday, April 21, from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., at the Frederick A. Thayer III Courthouse, Oakland, second floor concourse.

The MIA is a state regulatory agency that offers a variety of consumer materials on all types of insurance products from annuities to title insurance and health, auto, and homeowners insurance.

Trained staff will be available at the Oakland meeting to answer consumer questions.

"Education and consumer awareness are key factors to you financial security and to a healthy insurance market," said Ralph S. Tyler, Maryland insurance commissioner. "The better consumers understand the products and policies available to them, the better purchasing decisions they will make and the better protection they will have in the event of a loss or accident."

The MIA has scheduled community meetings throughout the state. A full schedule of outreach activities and all the agency's consumer materials are available at mdinsurance.state.md.us, as well as by request and at various community events.

St. Mark's Adult Forum To Resume After Easter Wk.

The weekly Adult Forum at St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland will resume on Wednesday, April 15, following its regular break for the seasons of Lent and Easter.

Rev. Dr. C. Scott Robinson, pastor, said the forum is "an academic endeavor open to all members of the community regardless of faith or church affiliation." The sessions provide opportunities for learning and discussion about the Bible, church history, and contemporary faith issues.

"The forum always includes a look at the cultural, language, and historical influences on sacred texts and church traditions," the pastor said.

The topic most recently studied has been the women of the Bible, and the spring session will begin with an indepth look at women in the New Testament, the pastor said. Forum presentations always include a PowerPoint presentation prepared by Robinson, and a handout covering important points and relevant facts.

The forum is held weekly on Wednesdays, starting at 6:15 p.m. A worship service of contemplative evening prayer follows at 7 p.m. for those interested.

St. Mark's is located at 6 S. Second Street in Oakland, across from the Ruth Enlow Library. For more information, persons may call the church office at 301-334-2668.

Different Types of Therapy for Leukemia

Leukemia is a type of cancer that affects the bone marrow and the body's lymphatic system. Production of abnormal white blood cells is increased in individuals affected by the condition. Leukemia is classified based on how fast the condition progresses (acute or chronic) and by the type of white blood cell affected (lymphocytic or myelogenous). The major types of leukemia include acute lymphocytic leukemia (ALL), acute myelogenous leukemia (AML), chronic lymphocytic leukemia (CLL), and chronic myelogenous leukemia (CML). Acute forms are more likely to occur in children, while adults are more likely to be affected by chronic forms. Common symptoms of leukemia include swollen lymph nodes, excessive sweating at night, and/or bone pain.

Leukemia treatment is very complex. The therapy chosen depends on many factors, including the individual's age and state of health. Chemotherapy is a common type of treatment for leukemia. Daunorubicin and idarubicin may be used to treat AML. Kinase inhibitor medications, such as imatinib, may be used to treat CML. Dasatinib and nilotinib (Tasigna) are other approved kinase inhibitors. Radiation therapy, bone marrow transplant, and stem cell transplantation are other possible treatment options.

GARRETT COUNTY NOTICE OF A PROPOSED REAL PROPERTY TAX INCREASE

The Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County, Maryland, proposes to increase real property taxes.

1. For the tax year beginning July 1, 2009, the estimated real property assessable base will increase by 5.8% (a) from $3,853,159,939 (b) to $4,074,956,482 (c).

2. If Garrett County maintains the current tax rate of $1.000 (d) per $100 of assessment, real property tax revenues will increase by 5.8% (e) resulting in $2,217,965 (f) of new real property tax revenues.

3. In order to fully offset the effect of increasing assessments, the real property tax rate should be reduced to $.946 (g), the constant yield tax rate.

4. The County is considering not reducing its real property tax rate enough to fully offset increasing assessments. The County proposes to adopt a real property tax rate of $1.000 (h) per $100 of assessment. This tax rate is 5.7% (i) higher than the constant yield tax rate and will generate $2,217,965 (j) in additional property tax revenues.

A public hearing on the proposed real property tax rate increase will be held at 10:00 a.m. on April 21, 2009, in the County Commissioners' Public Meeting Room, County Courthouse, Oakland, Maryland. The hearing is open to the public, and public testimony is encouraged. Persons with questions regarding this hearing may call 301-334-8970 for further information.

There are certain municipalities within the County which have different county tax rates. The above revenues and tax rates are county wide, excluding municipalities with different county tax rates. The following chart provides the corresponding information and tax rates for those municipalities.

One Year, One Day Handed To Oakland Man For Theft Charge

In recent Garrett County District Court proceedings, Judge Leonard J. Eiswert sentenced Mitchell Cyril Gibellino, 51, Oakland, to one year and one day after handing down a guilty verdict for theft of $500-plus value. Gibellino was ordered to pay restitution costs of over $36,000 to the victims of theft. Fines were suspended.

It was reported that starting in Oct. 2006, Gibellino had gained various people's trust and then used the means of deception to steal large sums of money. The alleged victims would provide him with control of their finances, to include stock certificates, with the understanding that he would make investments on their behalf. These individuals became aware that he was not fulfilling his fiduciary obligations and had misrepresented what he was doing with their money.

Gibellino was not prosecuted on an embezzle misappropriate charge.

In other district court proceedings, Matthew Harman White, 19, Oakland, and Jonathan Vance Feaster, 18, Oakland, were found guilty for charges of malicious destruction scheme valued at $500-plus, and were sentenced to six months, with five months and 20 days suspended, 18 months of supervised probation, and fines of $57.50, and are to complete 80 hours of community service. They were also found guilty for charges of malicious destruction of property valued at less than $500 and were sentenced to 60 days with all being suspended, 18 months of supervised probation and $57.50 in fines. The sentences will be served concurrently.

From October to December 2008, multiple reports had come into the Garrett County Sheriff's Office about a series of vandalisms and destruction of properties in the areas of Oakland and Swanton.

After an investigation, officers interviewed White. He admitted to his involvement and indicated that Feaster had also participated in these crimes. Most of the property damaged were vehicles that had been egged and tires slashed, as well as residences being egged.

White and Feaster were not prosecuted on nine charges of malicious destruction of property valued at less than $500 and three charges of malicious destruction of property valued at $500-plus. Feaster was also not prosecuted on two charges of contributing to the condition of a child, a separate case from December 2008.

In an unrelated case, Rikki Pelta, 22, Owings Mills, was charged with controlled dangerous substance (CDS) possession of marijuana and for driving a vehicle on the highway at a speed exceeding the posted speed limit. Her two charges were placed on stet, with conditions for the driving charge being to complete 60 hours of community service. No fines were given. Her charges stemmed from a traffic stop by Maryland State Police in July 2008.

Tracy Scott Leasher, 37, Grantsville, was charged with second degree assault and disorderly conduct in December 2008. Her charges were placed on stet with conditions being restitution to the victim of assault.

DUI/DWI HEARINGS

The following driving while under the influence (DUI) and driving while impaired (DWI) cases were heard in Garrett County District Court, with Judge Eiswert presiding.

Michael Lee Taylor, 24, Md., was found guilty for a DWI charge from November 2008, and was sentenced to six months, with five months, 26 days suspended, 18 months of supervised probation, and $200 in fines. He was not prosecuted on a DUI charge.

Russell Edward Patterson IV, 23, Md., was handed a probation before judgment (PBJ) verdict for his DWI charge from September 2008, and was sentenced to 12 months of unsupervised probation and $250 in fines. He was not prosecuted on DUI and DUI per se charges.

Jimmy Marvin Teets Sr., 48, Md., was charged with DUI and DWI in September 2008. His charges were placed on stet.

CAN'T HOLD A CANDLE

There has been a recent upsurge of interest in an ancient healing practice known as "ear candling," which is promoted as a natural way to cleanse the ears. Also known as "coning," the procedure involves inserting the narrow end of a hollow cone, which is filled with paraffin or beeswax, in the ear canal, and lighting the other end of the cone with a match. The combustion/smoke generated by the beeswax is supposed to create a vacuum that draws earwax and toxins out of the ear. Many question whether this practice provides any health benefits, and some say that it can do harm (burn the ear canal and perforate the eardrum). Hearing specialists can suggest more effective and safer alternatives.

We bring you this column on hearing healthcare in order to better educate our friends and neighbors on the importance and benefits of taking care of their hearing, thus enhancing their quality of life. If you are having trouble hearing, or if a family member seems to be experiencing hearing difficulties, we welcome your call at AUDIBEL. We offer comprehensive services by a skilled and specially trained hearing specialist.

P.S. Impacted earwax, often due to the improper use of cotton-tipped swabs, can block hearing.

Ask The Everyday Scientist

HEAT DEATH OF THE UNIVERSE?

Q. I read that the universe is eventually going to lose all its energy and wind down someday – this is called the "heat death" of the universe. Can this really happen?

A. Ah, what a cheerful thought for springtime! This is a theory that's been around for about a century, but should not worry anyone, for several reasons.

First, the prediction is a long way off: tens of billions of years in the future, longer than the universe has existed so far. The whole idea is just a matter of philosophy or metaphysics, and provides college humanities professors with a conversation topic when they meet physicists and astronomers at faculty parties.

Second, this theory begins on the basis of what we know about thermodynamics here on Earth – not necessarily what takes place among galaxies far away. Still, it is standard practice in science to assume that the physics we observe in our laboratories on Earth is the same physics that works throughout the most distant corners of the universe. If we didn't start with that axiom, we would be unable to say anything at all about things far away. The fact that light reaching us from distant galaxies matches what we predict on the basis of our physics gives credibility to the claim that physics is all the same everywhere.

There are two principal "laws of thermodynamics." First, energy is conserved – you can change from one form of energy to another, such as heat to motion to electricity, but the total energy is still the same. Second, energy degrades (becomes less usable) as it goes through changes. We say that entropy always increases.

"Entropy" is an unfamiliar word and needs some explaining: Entropy is a measure of disorder. When something is very orderly (like molecules of water tightly locked together in an ice cube) the entropy is low, but when it is disorderly (like the water sloshing around after an ice cube melts) the entropy is higher. Generally, adding heat to any system increases its entropy.

If you bring two objects into contact, you can observe heat flow from a hot object to a cold object, but you cannot make heat leave an object that is already cold (making it colder) and travel to an object that is already warmer (making it hotter). Nature doesn't work that way. Everybody already knows this, and this bears the lofty name of "the second law of thermodynamics." Thermodynamic systems tend to become more disordered over time.

When you turn on a car's air conditioner, the inside (already moderate) gets cooler as heat is "rejected" to the outside (already warm). That seems to contradict the paragraph above! But remember that you're burning gasoline to run the air conditioner, and the energy in the gasoline is being degraded as it is burned. When you look at the entire "system" of the automobile, the grand total of all the energy involved becomes more disordered. The entropy of the system increases in any thermodynamic process.

From there it's easy to jump to the "big picture." Imagining the universe as one big system, with thermodynamic processes going on everywhere, the philosophy professors conclude that the entire universe will eventually have all its energy degraded, and everything in total disorder. That's the condition labeled the "heat death of the universe."

Philosophers who stop there go away feeling very gloomy, and write books about the futility of mankind's existence. Never mind the part about the countless billions of years required.

Physicists, on the other hand, remember that our scientific laws began with Earth-based observations, and there may be limits that ordinary thermodynamics hasn't run into yet. The eminent physicist Freeman Dyson, who was recently celebrated in a long article in the New York Times Magazine, made a very interesting observation a decade or so ago. Dyson noted that when a star is contracting under the force of gravity (not collapsing, just contracting), the volume of the star gets smaller. When a substance occupies a smaller volume, its state is more orderly. Its entropy has decreased. But at the same time, the star gives off light and heat; that is, energy is leaving the star.

According to standard thermodynamics, that shouldn't happen. You're supposed to have to do work on an object to squeeze it into a smaller volume. But instead, the force of gravity is doing that work, and thermodynamics doesn't account for gravity on the scale of a star.

The light given off by a star originates in the nuclear fusion process that turns hydrogen into helium in the core of the star. Simultaneously, gravity is causing the contraction. Meanwhile, thermodynamics was designed to account for ordinary Earth-sized energy processes, but not for stellar-sized gravitational processes.

Some light emitted by a star may arrive at planets. Through more thermodynamic processes, life on Earth is sustained by that starlight. All such processes degrade the energy they use, but more light keeps arriving. Until the star finally runs out of fuel.

At that point, some stars explode (supernovae) and scatter new elements far and wide, while others turn into cold dark cinders, and still others collapse into black holes. When that happens, all bets are off, including conventional thermodynamics. Things get very far removed from anything we can verify in the lab, and possibly some processes could even reduce entropy. Slowly but eventually, clumps of dust and gas drift together due to gravity, and a new round of stars is born. How long can this keep going on? Your guess is as good as mine.

The important point to remember is that thermodynamics is a finite and limited science that came about from scientists looking at ordinary processes on Earth. We don't actually know what twists, variations, or corrections might be involved when gravitational forces are huge, on the scale of galaxies. Presuming that conventional thermodynamics always works is the easiest assumption, but it is also the most arrogant. When thinking about the entire universe, it's better to be humble.

Dr. Sheahen is a physicist who was educated at MIT. He lives at Deep Creek Lake and has taught physics at Garrett College. Persons wishing to submit questions for this column may e-mail them to newsroom@therepublicannews.com.

PALM SUNDAY

As He rode on a donkey, Jesus' disciples spread their garments and branches of the palm tree in his path to honor His entrance into Jerusalem. "Blessed is the King who comes in the name of the Lord!" they exclaimed (Luke 19:38).

On Palm Sunday, we celebrate Jesus Christ's majesty on Earth. He sought not glory for Himself, but the fulfillment of God's will. Had He not been declared the King...the Son of God...the crucifixion and resurrection could not have occurred.

Praise Him this Palm Sunday!

Shelter the Homeless

Worldwide, it is estimated that there are over 100 million homeless people. On any given day in the United States, it is believed that at least 800,000 people are homeless, including approximately 200,000 children. In the United States, homelessness is considered a "revolving door" crisis. That is, although many people find themselves homeless for only short periods of time, each day there are new additions to the legions of the homeless. And, while there are some who are classified as "chronically" homeless, many more fall into the category of the temporarily homeless. Like many of the conditions which call for the corporal works of mercy, homelessness is made worse by poverty, physical and mental disabilities, and the lack of affordable housing and good jobs. However, there is much that can be done to alleviate this problem, both individually and as a society. Individually, we can volunteer to help at local homeless shelters, donate money and/or supplies to help keep shelters operating, and make a personal commitment to treat the homeless with dignity and respect. As a society, we can work to remedy the factors which lead to and exacerbate homelessness: lack of affordable housing and living wage jobs; physical and mental disabilities, including substance abuse and alcohol problems; and the lack of good schools and training programs which help people acquire and retain decent-paying jobs.

Is not this the fast that I choose: to loose the bonds of wickedness, to undo the thongs of the yoke...Is it not to share your bread with the hungry, and bring the homeless poor into your house...

Caution When Taking Ginkgo Biloba

The seeds and leaves of the herb ginkgo biloba have been used for thousands of years in Traditional Chinese Medicine. Ginkgo has been used to treat asthma, fatigue, and ringing in the ears. Ginkgo is used to improve memory, prevent and treat dementia, and improve circulation. The National Center for Complementary and Alternative Medicine is currently studying ginkgo biloba for the treatment of asthma, multiple sclerosis, and insulin resistance. An extract from the leaves of the plant is used to make tablets, capsules, teas and added into some skin care products.

Ginkgo biloba is usually well tolerated. However, it may cause nausea, stomach upset, headache, or allergic skin reactions. Ginkgo may also increase bleeding risk; therefore, it should not be used by individuals taking blood thinning medications. For this same reason, ginkgo biloba should also be discontinued for at least 36 hours before surgery. Consuming large amounts of ginkgo seeds should be avoided since they contain ginkgotoxin, which may cause seizures if consumed in large amounts.

Sheen really isn't even 'Half' a piano man

By Jay Bobbin
● Zap2it

Charlie Sheen

Q: On "Two and a Half Men," is Charlie Sheen really playing the piano or just pretending? –Sharon Knudsen, Menomonee Falls, Wis.

A: He's just pretending, but he's been quoted as saying he thinks he should learn the instrument sometime, since he plays a jingle writer on the hit CBS sitcom.

Q: I've been waiting forever for a DVD of the series "Perfect Strangers" to come out. Do you have any information? –Cindy Calabro, Lone Tree, Colo.

A: "Forever" could have ended for you in February 2008, which was when Warner Home Video issued a boxed set of the first and second seasons of the ABC sitcom that starred Mark Linn-Baker and Bronson Pinchot. If you can't find it in a local store, it shouldn't be hard to locate it via the Internet.

Q: Are the three O'Donnells – Lawrence, Norah and Kelly – who appear regularly on MSNBC – related, and if so, how? –Jim Sbouse, San Antonio

A: NBC News and its affiliated networks do, indeed, have their share of O'Donnells. However, none of them is related to the others.

Q: We recently watched the movie "Saving Grace" with Tom Conti. Could you tell us if it ever has been released on DVD or VHS? –Frank and Linda Burkhard, Reading, Pa.

A: While it's not on DVD, it was issued on VHS tape in 1990 (and also on laserdisc, for anyone with interest in that format). Copies of the tape can be found by shopping the Internet – but be sure not to confuse it with a same-named movie that starred Brenda Blethyn and current late-night host Craig Ferguson, nor with the TNT drama series that stars Holly Hunter and also has had a video release.

Q: Is Tom Selleck the voice on commercials for Florida Orange Juice? –Ryan Britt, Seattle

A: He is. The Emmy-winning "Magnum, P.I." veteran actually has a tradition of working in ads, dating back to the late 1960s and early 1970s, before he became a star. He also has been heard in recent times doing voice-overs in commercials for the recreational vehicle industry.

Q: Is "Providence" available on DVD? –Rose Lindley, Paramus, N.J.

A: The only thing that's been released to date is the four-disc 2004 "Providence Collection," a selection of 12 episodes from the series that Melina Kanakaredes did prior to her current stint on CBS' "CSI: NY." The set includes a retrospective documentary with comments from the show's stars and creators.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• It was 20th-century Indian writer and philosopher Jiddu Krishnamurti who made the following sage observation: "It is no measure of health to be well-adjusted to a profoundly sick society."

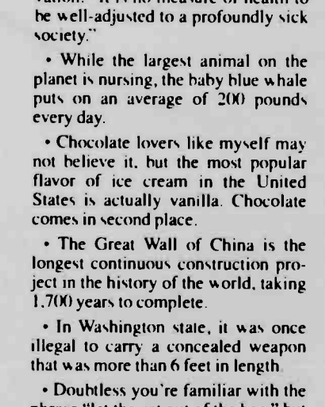
• While the largest animal on the planet is nursing, the baby blue whale puts on an average of 200 pounds every day.

• Chocolate lovers like myself may not believe it, but the most popular flavor of ice cream in the United States is actually vanilla. Chocolate comes in second place.

• The Great Wall of China is the longest continuous construction project in the history of the world, taking 1,700 years to complete.

• In Washington state, it was once illegal to carry a concealed weapon that was more than 6 feet in length.

• Doubtless you're familiar with the phrase "let the cat out of the bag," but did you ever wonder where such an odd turn of phrase came from? It seems that at one time when people bought small livestock, particularly young pigs, the animals were often carried in cloth sacks. It was a not-uncommon practice for unscrupulous salesmen to cheat the purchaser by stuffing a live cat into the sack instead of the promised pig. To "let the cat out of the bag" was to give away the dishonest scheme.



• You might be surprised to learn that famed lover and heartbreaker Casanova eventually became a librarian.

• Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas provides 8,000 parking spaces for its guests. And hopefully extensive maps so they can find where they parked.

Thought for the Day: "Gold in its native state is but dull, unornamental stuff, and only lowborn metals excite the admiration of the ignorant with an ostentatious glitter. However, like the rest of the world, I still go on underrating men of gold and glorifying men of mica." — Mark Twain

Shedding a Problem With Mixed Breed

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: We bought a black-and-white Pomeranian/Chihuahua cross when she was 9 months old. "Sheila" has long legs and is very pretty — she actually looks like a Papillon. She is now 16 months old and is shedding. Is this common with this mixed breed? — Marilyn from Canada

DEAR MARILYN: Sheila sounds very pretty indeed, though I'm sure the shedding is distressing. While shedding is not that common in purebred Chihuahuas, it is noted in purebred Pomeranians.

According to petpom.com, Pomeranian puppies shed their baby coats between three and seven months of age, allowing their adult coats to come in. Adult (or in your case, young adult) Pomeranians are known to shed their undercoat. This sometimes depends on seasonal changes, but some Pomeranians, particularly indoor dogs, shed lightly all year. Unspayed females may shed at different times, as well.

If Sheila is shedding fur so heavily that patches of fur are missing or her coat is so thin you can see her skin through it, take her to a veterinarian and have her checked out. Heavy shedding often indicates a medical problem.

If the shedding is not severe, comb Sheila's coat daily to prevent matting. Do keep an eye on her to see if she is showing any signs of stress or illness, and check her fur and skin closely from time to time to check for any excessive shedding or signs of irritated skin.

If she has not yet been spayed, go ahead and schedule this procedure with her veterinarian. As a mixed breed, Sheila should not have puppies and so shouldn't have to go through issues like heat cycles, which also can cause excess shedding.

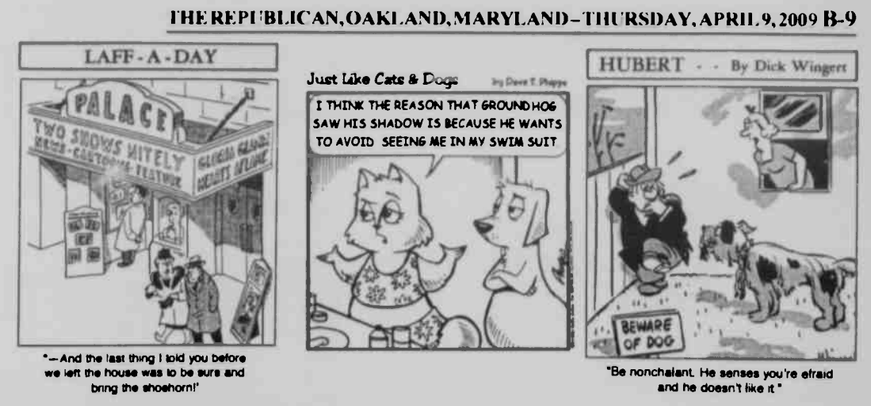
Collecting



by Larry Cox

Q. I began buying older beer cans several years ago and now have more than 100 in my collection. Can you recommend a good club for collectors so I can trade my duplicates for ones I do not have. — Mike, Stigler, Okla.

A. First, let's review a little history. Prior to prohibition, beer was shipped in kegs. The first patent for a lined can was issued to the American Can Company in 1934. Gotfried Kruger Brewing Company was the first to use the new container. Cans were an inexpensive alternative to kegs and an immediate success. The cone-top can was introduced in 1935, and the aluminum pop top in 1962.

Serious collectors search for cans that are free of dents and rust. Some collectors only purchase cans that have been opened from the bottom. Typical prices for rarer cans include Fox Deluxe Beer, cone top, $300; Frankenmuth Premium Dry, $90; Lion Pilsner Crowntainer, cone top, $350; Velvet Glow, $55; Wiedeman's Special Bohemian Brew, $350; and Tivoli Western, $45.

One of the better clubs is Beer Can Collectors of America, 747 Merus Court, Fenton, MO 63026, and www.beca.com. There are several guides. My personal favorite is the Official Price Guide to Beer Cans by Bill Mugrage, published by House of Collectibles and now in its 5th edition. Although this book is a little dated, it contains a great deal of current information and should be helpful, especially for the new collector.

MUSEUM VOLUNTEER LOGS 10,000 MILES – Dr. John Rathgeb, Oakland, was honored last Thursday evening during the National Museum of Civil War Medicine's annual Volunteer Recognition Dinner in Frederick. Rathgeb received one of the event's top awards, "Most Miles Driven," and four tickets to a Frederick Keys baseball game. "Living in Garrett County and volunteering at the museum is not an easy thing, as John drove almost 10,000 miles coming to and from the museum to volunteer," said Robert Burton, one of the museum's directors of education. Rathgeb, a practicing orthopedic surgeon, volunteered 291 hours at the museum last year. "The amount of dedication, passion, and knowledge that John brings to our organization is truly amazing," Burton said. The museum is a nonprofit organization located at 48 East Patrick Street in downtown Frederick. More information is available at civilwarmed.org. Pictured, left to right, are Burton, Rathgeb (in Civil War surgeon's attire), and Susan Rosenvold, another museum director of education.

Act To Provide College Funding To Post 9-11 Vets

Veterans interested in taking advantage of reportedly one of the best educational benefit programs since World War II should begin applying to the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs for the Post 9-11 Veterans Educational Assistance Act of 2008 beginning May 1. Maryland's two- year and four-year public and independent colleges and universities that do not already know about the program should be ready as well, according to officials at the Maryland Higher Education Commission (MHEC).

MHEC is the state agency that approves the schools and programs where veterans can receive their educational benefits and passes that information on to the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs.

The Post 9-11 Veterans Educational Assistance Act of 2008 is a new educational benefit program for individuals who served on act-ive duty on or after September 11, 2001. Supported by then-Senator Barack Obama and Maryland governor Martin O'Malley, this bipartisan law passed last year by Congress and signed into law by President Bush has been hailed as "the most significant educational benefit bill for veterans since the first G.I. bill was enacted more than 60 years ago."

"The veterans who have given their all to preserve this country's freedoms deserve this new law," Secretary of Higher Education James E. Lyons, Sr. said. "I strongly encourage any veteran who is interested in pursuing a postsecondary education to take advantage of this outstanding opportunity. I believe it is also important for officials at our colleges and universities to be prepared now to help our veterans take advantage of these benefits which will go into effect on August 1, 2009."

Veterans eligible for the benefit must have served at least 90 aggregate days on active duty after September 10, 2001; be still on active duty or have been honorably discharged from active duty; released from active duty and placed on the retired list or temporary disability retired list; released from active duty and transferred to the Fleet Reserve or Fleet Marine Corps Reserve; or released from active duty for further service in a reserve component of the armed forces.

Based on a veteran's length of service and meeting the eligibility requirements, he/she is entitled to a percentage of the following:

- Cost of tuition and fees, not to exceed the most expensive in-state undergraduate tuition at a public institution of higher education. This is paid by the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs directly to the school the veteran is attending.
- Monthly housing allowance equal to the basic allowance for housing payable to a military E-5 with dependents in the same ZIP code as the college or university they are attending. This is paid by the VA to the veteran.
- Yearly books and supplies stipend up to $1,000 per year (paid to the veteran).
- A one-time payment of $500 paid to certain individuals relocating from highly rural areas.

For more information, veterans and college financial aid directors should access: www.GIBILL-.VA.GOV and click on the education benefits link on the left-hand side of the web site. They can also telephone 1-888-GI-BILL-1 (1-888-442-4551) or Ted Porter at MHEC, 1-800-974-0203, 410-260-4532, or by e-mail at: tporter@mhec-.state.md.us.

The Maryland Higher Education Commission is a 12-member coordinating board responsible for establishing statewide policies for Maryland public and independent colleges and universities and private career schools. It serves as an advocate for more than 325,000 college students in Maryland, for the state and its needs, and for business and industry in Maryland.

Maryland DNR Invites Families To Participate In Park Quest Adventures

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) invites families to sign up for the second season of Park Quest, a Maryland Park Service outdoor adventure-based program designed to encourage families to spend more time together in the great outdoors.

"We are fortunate to be blessed with quality public lands in diverse settings throughout our state," said Governor O'Malley. "As Maryland families begin to plan for summer activities and vacations, we hope they will consider the outstanding destinations right here at home."

Park Quest is a free 11-week competition, beginning on Saturday, May 9 and continuing through Sunday, July 26, which challenges families to complete designated outdoor activities and challenges at 14 specific state parks throughout Maryland. Participants who complete 8 of the 14 challenge activities will qualify to compete in the Park Quest Finale on Saturday, Aug. 8, at Tuckahoe State Park.

"Maryland State Parks and our Park Quest adventures offer a conduit through which citizens of every age can experience the outdoors and connect with our natural world," said John Griffin, DNR secretary. "An invaluable bond with nature is strengthened when adult mentors inspire and motivate children to become stewards of our environment."

Up to 300 teams, made up of at least one team member 16 years of age or younger and one adult, may visit 14 Maryland state parks and take part in a variety of activities. Upon completing the assigned activities, such as paddling quiet streams, hiking trails in search of historic clues, finding items on a scavenger hunt, and even disc golf, the team members will receive a stamp on their Park Quest passport.

At the conclusion of the 11-week period, teams that have at least eight completed Park Quests logged in their passport will be invited to attend the Park Quest Finale. At the finale, teams compete in games of chance, environmental knowledge, and outdoor skills for the opportunity to win one of several great family prize packages. Prizes at the final competition are made possible by many private and corporate sponsors.

Registration for Park Quest opens Friday, April 10. Interested participants may register online at www.dnr.maryland.gov/parkquest, by contacting the Maryland Park Service at 410-260-8186, or toll-free at 1-800-830-3974, Monday through Friday.

Maryland Pre-K Program Among Nation's Finest

Maryland's state-funded prekindergarten program ranks in the top 10 states for percentage of children enrolled in the program, according to the State of Preschool 2008 released Wednesday.

The annual report produced by the National Institute for Early Education Research (NIEER) ranks all 50 states on the percentage of children served and spending per child for 2007-2008. It also compares the number of quality benchmarks met.

With 37 percent of the state's 4-year-olds in state-funded preschool, Maryland ranks 9th out of 38 states that provide preschool education. The program saw a significant jump in the amount of state funding provided, now ranking at 19th (compared to 27th last year). With all sources of funding accounted for, Maryland jumps to third place nationally on resources. The program also met two more quality benchmarks this year, for a total of nine out of 10.

Nationally, the annual survey of state-funded preschool programs showed impressive expansion in enrollment and spending. However, it cautioned that the recession may reverse the trend, curtailing early education opportunities for children in lower and middle-income families.

Key findings include:

•Enrollment increased by more than 108,000 children. More than 1.1 million children attended state-funded preschool education, 973,178 at age 4 alone.

•Thirty-three of 38 states with state-funded programs increased enrollment.

•Based on NIEER's Quality Standards Checklist, 11 states improved the quality of their preschool programs. Only one fell back.

•State pre-K funding rose to almost $4.6 billion; from all reported sources to $5.2 billion, an increase of nearly $1 billion (23 percent) from 2007.

Whether or not a child receives high-quality preschool education depends on where his or her family lives. Twelve states provided no state-funded preschool in 2008. The report found a decline in the number of states providing sufficient funding to meet NIEER's quality benchmarks.

Based at Rutgers University, NIEER has produced an annual report on state preschool programs since 2002.

Because of declining state revenues, the immediate future of state-funded preschool is uncertain. Generally, expenditures on pre-K are discretionary and easier to cut than expenditures for K-12 education and other programs.

NIEER Director Steve Barnett said states are considering cutting enrollment, reducing program standards, and postponing expansion plans, even with the availability of new federal stimulus funds.

Of 38 states with state-funded preschool, cuts are likely m at least nine.

"A federal initiative is needed to support early learning and development," said Barnett. "We propose that the federal government commit to doubling growth in state pre-K while raising quality standards so that by 2020 all 4-year-olds in America will have access to a good education."

To do this, the federal government should match state spending with up to $2,500 for each enrolled child in state pre-K programs meeting basic quality standards. The federal government also should facilitate increased integration of child care, Head Start, and state pre-K.

Research shows that high-quality pre-K can help improve the educational success of all children, decrease dropout rates and crime and delinquency, and improve economic productivity and health.

Southern States Cooperative To Hold Meeting

The Southern States Oakland Cooperative will hold its annual membership meeting on Thursday, April 23, at 7:30 p.m. in the Pleasant Valley Community Center.

"The annual meeting is the best single opportunity to outline our plans for the future to our membership and discuss our progress in meeting our financial goals," said Tom Hart, manager of Southern States Oakland Cooperative.

With the theme "Let Me Help You," the cooperative's management will use the meetmg to report on both local and company-wide operations, as well as projected budget results from next year. Local board members and Farm Home Advisory Committee (FHAC) members will be elected, and retiring FHAC and board members will be recognized.

Oakland board nominees are John D. Fint, Gary E. Fratz, William Grose, and W. Brooks Hamilton.

FHAC nominees are Dorothy Bernard, Kay Steyer, and Lois Strawser.

President and CEO Thomas R. Scribner commented on the financial health of Southern States Cooperative Inc.

"The news is good," he said. "The cooperative had a great year in 2008 with earnings exceeding plan by the largest margin in a decade. The outlook for 2009, even with the current challenges, remains positive."

Founded in 1923, Southern States is based in Richmond, Va., and now has more than 300,000 farmer members.

USDA Releases MILC Payments To Dairy Farmers

Because of low dairy prices across the country, producers participating in USDA's Milk Income Loss Contract (MILC) program will soon begin to receive payments, according to Linda D. Slacum, acting executive director of USDA's Farm Service Agency in Maryland.

"As a result of low dairy prices, we will soon begin distributing MILC payments to ensure that dairy producers have the financial assistance they need," Slacum said. "This action will also stimulate local economies."

USDA makes MILC payments on a monthly basis when the Boston Class I milk price falls below $16.94 per hundredweight as adjusted for feed costs. USDA determines the per hundredweight payment rate for the applicable month by subtracting the Boston Class I price for that month from the $16.94 MILC payment trigger price established in the 2008 Farm Bill, as adjusted for feed costs, and multiplying the difference by 45 percent.

The monthly Boston price, along with the final MILC payment rates, are posted online at http://www.fsa.usda.gov/FSA.

The MILC payment trigger price of $16.94 is adjusted upward when the National Average Dairy Feed Ration Cost for a month is greater than $7.35 per cwt.

USDA's National Agricultural Statistics Service released the data for determining the Average Dairy Feed Ration Cost for the month of February on March 30. Using this information and the formula contained in the 2008 Act, the MILC payment trigger for the month of February has been adjusted to $17.33, for a final MILC payment rate of $1.5132.

Beginning last week, USDA expected to issue approximately $150 million to dairy producers for milk produced in February.

USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service announced the Boston Class 1 price for the moth of March on Feb. 20, and for the month of April on March 20. In both instances the Boston Class I price was below the MILC payment trigger price of $16.94 per cwt.

USDA expects to issue MILC payments on milk produced in March in early May and MILC payments on milk produced in April in early June, after USDA has adjusted the MILC payment trigger price for feed costs and determined the final payment rate for those months. MILC payments may also be triggered in future months if the MILC payment trigger price is below $16.94 per cwt.

FSA makes payments up to the maximum eligible pounds of milk produced and marketed by each operation per fiscal year. The annual maximum eligible pound limit per dairy operation is 2,985,000 pounds per fiscal year.

For more information about the MILC program, persons may visit the FSA county office or www.fsa.usda.gov.

FRIENDSVILLE NAMED TREE CITY USA COMMUNITY – The town of Friendsville was recently named a Tree City USA Community by the Arbor Day Foundation to honor its commitment to community forestry. The Tree City USA program is sponsored by the Arbor Day Foundation in cooperation with the National Association of State Foresters and the USDA Forest Service. Friendsville has met the four standards to become a Tree City USA community: having a tree board or department, a tree care ordinance, a comprehensive community forestry program, and an Arbor Day observance and proclamation. Communities that receive Tree City USA recognition not only have taken the time to meet these four standards, they recognize that trees promote healthier communities; trees moderate climate, conserve water, and provide habitat for wildlife; trees in urban areas reduce the heat island effect caused by pavement and buildings; and properly placed trees can increase property values. Studies show that buildings in wooded areas rent more quickly and tenants stay longer. "A community, its elected officials and its citizens that provide needed care for its trees deserves recognition and thanks," said John Rosenow, chief executive of the Arbor Day Foundation. "Trees are a vital component of the infrastructure in our cities and towns, and they also provide environmental and economical benefits." Above are tree committee members Ina Hicks, Jennifer Pletta, and Alice Spear, mayor Spencer Schlosnagle, committee member Terry Peterson, and Becky Wilson with the Maryland DNR. Below are Mayor Schlosnagle, the tree committee, and 4th and 5th grade students and teachers from Friendsville Elementary School. The Arbor Day Foundation is a nonprofit, environmental, and education organization of nearly 1 million members, with a mission to inspire people to plant, nurture, and celebrate trees. More information on the Foundation and its programs can be found at www.arborday.org.

Projects For Your Lawn & Garden

With the weather beginning to warm across the country, many people are venturing out into their yards to begin the process of transforming what was once a barren wonderland into a lush green escape. The task might seem overwhelming at first glance, but with a little help from the experts, you can have a fresh-looking lawn and garden in no time.

According to Fredinand Manfredini, Jr., author of "Home Improvement Projects that Every Homeowner should do to spruce up your lawn and garden: Prune your shrubs and trees, grow new grass and plant brightly projects that anyone can do and once they are complete, they will add value to your home.

Pruning works by cutting away the excess growth and dead weight that keeps your shrubs and trees from filling out. By this away, be able to you to cultivate a stronger, more vibrant plant.

"One thing to remember is not to over-prune," says Manfredini. "Too much pruning will shock your plant and could inhibit growth." To avoid this, hold out your first two fingers; if these were stems on a plant you would never want to cut below your first knuckle.

As with most home improvement projects, it's very important to have the right tools on hand. Certain pruners, such as rose pruners, are made specifically for roses, while head shears can be used on most heavy-duty pruning projects. Make sure you purchase pruners that are sturdy enough to do the job and feel comfortable and manageable in your hand. If you already have pruners, consider having them sharpened at your local hardware store before you begin working. You'll notice the difference immediately.

Grow New Grass

After lying dormant for a few months, your grass might need a little coaxing to get it to its pre-winter state. To prepare your lawn, thatch it by lightly running a rake across the top to pick up any sticks, leaves, debris, or dead grass.

Next you will need to purchase grass seed that is indigenous to your area and that will grow with the amount of shade your lawn has. You'll need to purchase between two to four pounds of seed for every 1,000 feet you are planting. Spread the seed either by hand or with a mechanical spreader that you can rent at your local hardware store, but be sure to keep it even.

Once your seed is down, it's a good idea to lay fertilizer and water the entire lawn. In the weeks and months to come, be sure your lawn gets at least one or two inches of water a week, either naturally or from a sprinkler.

Plant Flowers

Flowers can spruce up any landscape design. Consider adding them around the base of a tree or on either side of your walkway.

"Consider purchasing established plants rather than seeds as they are easier to grow," explains Manfredini. "And look for bright colored plants like impatiens or black-eyed Susans."

Before planting, you'll need to make sure your soil is prepared. Loosen the soil in the area where you plan on planting and add an organic matter like peat moss to help give the plant more nutrients.

Next, dig a small hole, just deep enough to fit the roots of your plant, and place the plant inside. Once the plant is in the hole, fill it in with dirt and lightly pack it down.

What To Know When Buying A Deck For Your Home

When it comes to home improvements, deck systems top the hst with an estimated four milhon new decks built annually in the U.S. and 40 million remodeled decks gracing today's homes. This rising trend has led manufacturers to offer a wider variety of deck materials, styles, and options, but choices can be overwhelming.

While wood has traditionally won the popularity contest for decks due to its natural appearance, vinyl is becoming a choice material for outdoor home entertaining due to its combination of carefree maintenance, aesthetics and value. Vinyl isn't just for windows and siding anymore.

Why are more people "decking out" their homes with vinyl? One big reason is time. Working families value leisure time more than ever because they have less time to maintain their outdoor environments. Vinyl decks are virtually maintenance-free, requiring only a yearly power-wash to maintain, whereas wood fades and deteriorates with costly regular stain and sealant apphcations. Unlike wood or composite, vinyl is color-fast and non-porous, so dirt and stains don't collect to compromise appearance. Vinyl decks retain their original fresh appearance for many decades.

"Consumers are also choosing vinyl to save money. While vinyl has a higher up-front cost than wood, it lasts longer and delivers a total return on investment in just 5 to 7 years versus wood, which delivers no payback due to its prohibitive maintenance costs," says Deron Manwaring, national sales and marketing manager, Royal Outdoor Products. "Busy consumers who want to enhance their home's value feel vinyl is well worth the investment."

When shopping for the right deck supplier, keep several things in mind. Not all vinyl deck systems are the same. Find a supplier with a complete vinyl package that includes not only basic deck materials, but compatible vinyl rails, posts, and trim to create an integrated look that

Kitchen Remodel Tips From The Pros

Your Most Common Kitchen Remodeling Questions Answered

Now is a great time to invest in your home, and renovating your kitchen is usually the most cost-effective upgrade you can make. As the room where families spend the most time together, the kitchen can be enjoyed on a daily basis, and much of the renovation cost can be recouped when you do decide to sell.

Get the most out of your remodel by keeping the answers to these common remodeling questions in mind.

Where's the best place to begin?

According to My Home, My Money Pit by Tom Kraeutler and Leslie Segrete, you should start at the end – by determining how you want to use the remodeled space. Although your primary inclination will be to pick out the style of kitchen you like best, you need to first consider how your kitchen fits your lifestyle and how you need it to function. Think about whether or not you have ample space to work efficiently or enough storage for your kitchen tools. If you use the space to pay bills and handle other household business, think about adding an office area. Once you know what you need from your new kitchen, you'll be able to solve the problems when you're remodeling.

What makes a kitchen remodel more or less expensive?

Kraeutler and Segrete say that cabinets can be the single largest expense in a kitchen remodel. If you're looking to cut back on expenses, existing cabinets can often be repaired, reinforced or refinished instead of replaced.

Remodel Tips

Just be sure to check your cabinets' construction; if they're made of veneers, they can't be sanded or stained, so painting will be your only option.

Surfaces are also another area where you can splurge or save – it all depends on the materials you choose. Look for more cost-effective options for counters, backsplashes, and floors to keep your budget in check. But like any major purchase, you should only spend what you can afford.

What is the kitchen "work triangle" and why is it important?

When remodeling your kitchen, keep the "work triangle" in mind – the kitchen area from the refrigerator to the main cooking area to the sink. It's important because all of the key kitchen activities – food preparation, cooking, and clean-up – take place in adjacent locations, improving the functionality of your new kitchen by streamlining the meal-making process.

Look to include budget-friendly options that allow you to upgrade your work triangle without incurring a huge expense. Include an undermount sink and pullout faucet to increase efficiency. Moen's Lancelot stainless steel sinks are available in multiple sizes and configurations and are constructed from durable 18-gauge stainless steel. All Moen stainless steel sinks feature SoundSHIELD noise-protection undercoating for a quieter experience while working at the sink.

Pair your new sink with the Colonnade pullout kitchen faucet from Moen, a single-handle faucet featuring an ergonomically designed pullout wand for easy access to all corners of even the largest sinks. Available in four great finishes, including the versatile LifeShine Classic Stainless, Colonnade fits any fresh new decor. It also offers several flow patterns, making prep and clean-up effortless.

What is the most desired kitchen feature?

The kitchen island has become the must-have item in any kitchen. Since it's centrally located, the island is easily accessed and ideal for various kitchen tasks. The island can also double as an eating and entertaining area – making it a smart, stylish and functional addition to any space.

For more information on Moen's stainless steel sinks or Colonnade pullout kitchen faucets, visit www.moen.com or call 800-BUY-MOEN (800-289-6636).

limit is your imagination."

So imagine yourself entertaining guests around a built-in grill in your back yard. Using a retaining wall system like Versa-Lok, you can create a freestanding kitchen island wrapped around a grill and refrigerator and topped with a granite slab. The solid concrete blocks can be modified and configured to accommodate appliances and utility connections.

One of the most popular backyard features for DIY landscapers is a fire pit surrounded by a patio and seat walls made from retaining wall units.

"A circular or square patio is built around a cast-iron fire ring, and matching seat walls ring the patio," says McGregor. "It's a terrific project for someone who wants an affordable, easy-to-install backyard makeover."

Several courses of pavers may be used to encircle the fire ring. The seat walls are simply freestanding walls built at an appropriate sitting height. These may be capped with bullnose pavers for added comfort.

Freestanding columns constructed from split wall units stacked and glued in a four-square pattern make an attractive landscape feature that can be used to perform a variety of functions. Standing alone at the end of a driveway or on either end of a freestanding wall, columns can be finished with natural or cast stone caps. Install wrought iron between columns to create elegant fencing. Columns can be built around the posts of a pergola to add a touch of class to a garden space, spa, or even front entry. Or make a table from a column topped with a natural or cast stone slab.

"The Versa-Lok system is especially design-friendly because it uses solid units that can be easily cut or split to fit any application," explains Austin Keay, owner of AKeay Landscaping in North Branch, Minn. "Even stairs can be built with this system."

Retaining wall units are stacked in tiers to make the stair's base pedestal. Stair treads are made from wall cap units, pavers or precast treads. The stairs can be fully inset into a wall or exposed on one or both sides.

"These are kind of like the building blocks of landscaping. You can do almost anything with them," says Keay. "Hot tub enclosures, raised

Homeowners Should Check Contractors' Licensing Status

Spring has arrived, which means many Maryland homeowners will soon hire contractors to perform home improvement work. Department of Labor, Licensing, and Regulation Secretary Thomas E. Perez reminds homeowners to check a contractor's licensing status and avoid being scammed by unlicensed contractors operating illegally.

"Scam artists abound in the home improvement industry, and they seek to take advantage of trusting homeowners who don't know their rights," Secretary Perez said. "In these times of economic distress, homeowners should be wary of unlicensed contractors offering deals that sound too good to be true, because they probably are."

Homeowners who hire Maryland Home Improvement Commission (MHIC) licensed contractors are protected by the Home Improvement Law, and are eligible for coverage by the Home Improvement Guaranty Fund. The Guaranty Fund provides homeowners with up to $20,000 for actual losses caused by unworkmanlike or incomplete work by MHIC licensed contractors. However, homeowners who hire unlicensed contractors are not protected by the Guaranty Fund, and their only recourse is through the courts.

"We encounter far too many homeowners who are victims of unscrupulous individuals who take money and walk away without ever completing the work for which they've been paid," said Occupational and Professional Licensing Commissioner Stanley Botts. "Homeowners can protect themselves easily by hiring a licensed contractor and following a few easy steps, such as reading the home improvement contract, never paying more than one third of the contract price as a deposit, and making sure the contractor pulls the necessary permits. Also, homeowners should check a contractor's references before handing over the money."

Each year, MHIC investigates approximately 3,000 complaints against licensed and unlicensed contractors. In the last fiscal year, MHIC helped recover close to $2.5 million for homeowners who were cheated by unlicensed contractors. Acting as a contractor, subcontractor, or selling a home improvement without a license is a misdemeanor and, upon conviction, is subject to a fine up to $1,000 or imprisonment up to 30 days, or both. Each subsequent conviction is subject to a fine up to $5,000 or imprisonment up to two years, or both.

Consumers can check a contractor's license status and access other information and services from Maryland Home Improvement Commission by calling 888-218-5925. They can also visit DLLR's Web site at www-dllr.state.md.us.

Top 10 Spring Tips For Pet Owners

Planting a garden, spring cleaning, fertilizing the lawn – we all have lots of work to do with the coming of spring. But pets also have health and safety needs this time of year that their owners should know about.

"I see it all the time in my clinic in the springtime. Animals get into fertilizers and pesticides, those used on a home or on a farm, and it makes the animals sick," says Dr. James Cook, president of the American Veterinary Medical Association. "People need to be aware of these potential hazards. Along with better weather, the spring brings with it the use of a number of common lawn chemicals and the blooming of plants that can be hazardous to pets."

Here are the AVMA's top 10 spring hints for pet owners:

Fleas And Ticks

They can be tiny, little more than a pinhead in some instances, but they grow and spread quickly once they find a host. The preventive treatments that you may have discontinued in the winter should start early in the spring to keep your pet's coat, and your home, free of pests.

Gardening Gets Green Thumbs Up From Furrow-Browed Consumers

by Lauren C. Williams
Capital News Service

Victory gardens are back, but they aren't the version of your grandfather's time, when growing food in your backyard was a sign of sacrifice and tribute to the war effort against the Nazis.

Now, Marylanders are looking to their backyards to bolster their bottom line agamst the recession and capitalize on the healthy, local food trend.

Interest in backyard gardens is "on the rise from what I can tell," said Dale Johnson, of Keedysville, farm management specialist for the University of Maryland. "It makes sense."

The recession, which started in December 2007, has spawned citizen cost-cutting and delaying unnecessary purchases. Food prices have risen 4.8 percent each year since 2007 and nearly 3 million American workers have lost their jobs smce the recession began.

"We received 90 calls today," said Lewis Shell, a certified professional horticulturist, of the unusual call volume on Thursday to the Maryland Cooperative Extension's Home and Garden Information Center hothne. "People are asking how to start their own gardens."

The trend is so hot, even the White House is doing it, with first lady Michelle Obama on Friday breaking ground on the first kitchen garden there since Eleanor Roosevelt's World War II victory garden. Obama told the grade-schoolers at the groundbreaking that whole point of the garden was to make sure her family had access to fresh vegetables and fruits.

"My girls like vegetables more if they taste good," Obama said, according to pool reports. Later she added: "Especially if they're involved in planting it and picking it, they were willing to give it a try."

Consumers' interest in growing their own food seems to be bigger than ever.

"We've had twice as many questions about fruits and vegetables this year," said Jon Traunfeld, extension specialist.

Because of the recession, people want access to better food and say, 'Hey, what can I grow myself?' Traunfeld said. "But it will be hard work, and people can save money."

In response to rising interest, the information center launched the statewide "Grow It Eat It" gardening program on Mar. 9 to help new gardeners and is offering basic gardening classes taught by the master gardeners themselves.

"Callers want to know what things will grow well in Maryland," said Traunfeld, who said the center has received more than 150 e-mails from residents who want to start gardening in January and February.

"We want people to start small and grow the things they eat," said Traunfeld, who suggests beginners start out with vegetables and herbs.

"If everyone in Maryland went out and planted a small garden, imagine all the produce we would be producing?" Johnson said. "It takes a little bit more energy than watching the plasma screen (television) and the same amount of time."

Jennifer Dostal, of Silver Spring, is hoping that growing her own food will save time and reduce the cost of buying fresh.

"My family has always had a garden . . . but this is my first year trying to garden on my own." said Dostal, who is renting a plot in the Rockville community garden.

Growing up, her father grew strawberries, kohlrabi (German turnips) and Lincoln peas, which Dostal said

Lawn Fertilizers

Lawn fertilizers are very toxic to pets. Store fertilizers in a place far from where your dog or cat – and children – can get at it. After applying it to your lawn, follow manufacturer instructions on how long you should wait before allowing your pet into the area. If you see a sign posted on a lawn that tells you to keep your pets off, abide by it.

Pesticides And Herbicides

It's probably not surprising that these chemicals can be toxic to your pets, but even when they're not lethal, there are some long-term health concerns. Studies indicate the use of pesticides and herbicides may be tied to increased rates of specific forms of cancer in dogs. If your pet is exposed, wash it with soap and water immediately and call your veterinarian.

Cocoa Bean Mulch

It's becoming common to mulch a garden with the fragrant spent shells of cocoa beans. But just like chocolate, dogs like to eat them, and they are toxic.

Lilies

Lilies are a flower common in the spring, and they are very, very toxic to cats. Cats will often chew them, and even small amounts can lead to kidney failure and death.

Rhubarb Leaves

Rhubarb makes a fine pie, and it's a staple in many vegetable gardens, but the leaves are poisonous and can cause kidney failure. For a complete list of plants and plantings that can be dangerous to pets, visit www.avma.org.

Rat And Mouse Poisons

Controlling vermin becomes an issue again in the spring. Be aware that the same properties of common rat and mouse poisons that make them irresistible to pests will also attract your pet. If consumed, these can be fatal to your animal.

Cleaning Products

Spring cleaning is an annual tradition in many households, but make sure the cleaning products don't hurt your animals. If the label states "keep pets and children away from area until dry," follow those instructions carefully, and store all chemicals out of reach of children and pets.

Paint And Paint Thinners

If you're putting a fresh coat of paint on the house, keep the pets away. Paint thinners, mineral spirits and other solvents can cause severe irritation or chemical burns if swallowed or even if they come in contact with your pet's skin. Latex house paints typically produce a minor stomach upset, but some specialty paints may contain heavy metals or volatile substances that could be harmful if ingested.

Preventive Medications

Consult with your veterinarian about seasonal medications to keep your pet healthy. For example, in many parts of the country, heartworm medications for dogs are often discontinued in the winter. Springtime is the season to restart this medication to keep your dog free of this parasite. But keep in mind that manufacturer's instructions warn that heartworm medications should not be given without first visiting your veterinarian to ensure that your pet has not developed the heartworm parasite. A simple blood test will give you that peace of mind.

For more information, visit www.avma.org. For a full-length video on common household poisons and hazards, visit www.avmatv.org.

I'm not arguing with you — I'm telling you."

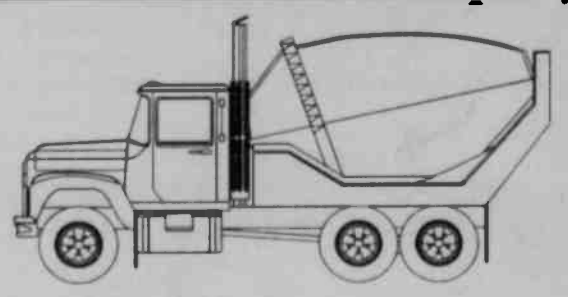
Window Shopping Made Easy

This year, as people are staying closer to home, why not try a home improvement project that involves little effort, makes your house more beautiful and efficient, and can provide benefits for years to come – replacing your windows.

Beauty, comfort, and energy efficiency are excellent reasons to replace your old windows. Not to mention, when windows are old, leaky, and don't work properly, they can also be frustrating to operate.

If you've determined it's time to seriously consider a window replacement project, Paul Delahunt, president of Renewal by Andersen, says replacing your old windows is easier than you think, and offers the following considerations to help make your project as easy as opening a new window.

Choose Windows That Are Energy Efficient



Traditionally, poor performing windows and doors have been the weak energy link in homes, often accounting for up to 40 percent of a home's heat loss during the winter. Make sure you choose windows with energy-saving benefits. Two simple ways to check a window's energy efficiency and performance are to look for an Energy Star label and a label from the National Fenestration Rating Council (NFRC).

Choosing Energy Star qualified windows can help reduce your energy bills by up to 15 percent, according to Energy Star. The NFRC label shows a window's U-Factor, which tells you how well the window keeps in heat. U-Factors generally fall in the range from .20 (most energy efficient) to 1.20 (least energy efficient). The lower the number, the better the window is at keeping heat in. In colder climates, a U-Factor of .30 or lower is recommended to get the most energy efficiency from your window.

Choose Windows That Offer Low-Maintenance

Today, homeowners can choose from several framing material options, including wood, vinyl and composite frames. Because ongoing maintenance can be daunting, many of today's homeowners are looking for windows that require little or no maintenance.

"ATTENTION BUILDERS! If you want your next boiler room to like this one, call me at 301-334-2323," says Steve Green of S.E. Green Plumbing & Heating LLC. Steve has been installing radiant floor heating and boiler systems in custom homes and commercial facilities for over 25 years. The well-organized piping system pictured above illustrates Steve's attention to detail for function and ease of service.

Windows made from composite materials can be a good option for homeowners who like the look and strength of wood windows but also want the low-maintenance features of vinyl. Because of the unique

In addition to canning, she freezes corn, peas – Lincoln peas, to be precise – broccoli, cauliflower and spinach, all of which she's planning to grow in her 500-square-foot plot in Rockville.

"I do it as I hobby," said Dostal whose canned delights can last up to two years on the shelf, but she usually tries to eat them within a year. "I get to adjust things for the way I want."

"Some people go kayaking, some people go on photo safaris – I can (food)," Dostal said with a laugh.

Open registration for the Rockville garden plots began on Mar. 4 and slots were filled two days later, according to Nanette Belice, Civic Center secretary, Rockville City Garden Plots at Woottons Mill Park. There are still five people on the waiting list.

"They had a number of empty spaces last year," said veteran gardener John McKee, Rockville, who was surprised at how quickly the plots filled this year.

In his four plots, McKee, 75, grows tomatoes, flowers, pumpkins and other squash, and potatoes.

"It's like painting – you plan ahead, you visualize and if it all goes right it comes together like a painting," McKee said of gardening.

McKee, who grew up during World War II, took care of the family victory garden along with his parents.

During the war, the government rationed foods to assure supplies to soldiers overseas and labor shortages made it difficult to harvest produce for grocery stores. The government then encouraged citizens to plant "victory gardens" and to provide their own food.

McKee's father maintained the vegetables and McKee

Home Theater: The Improvement That Pleases The Whole Family

Your home is bursting at the seams, but buying something bigger is out of the question in this economy. And your improvement budget is hmited, so you can't please every member of the family with whatever renovation you choose to fund. Or can you?

Polls show that many American families prefer to watch movies in the comfort of their own homes rather than public theaters. Yet actual home theater systems – complete with projection screen and surround sound – are costly.

Many people are opting for a more cost-effective approach by connecting several audio-visual components – including a flat-screen TV, DVD player, and speaker system – to create a home theater experience.

While transforming an extra bedroom, basement, or even garage into a home theater may be the ideal, many of us simply don't have a spare room to devote to just one function. Many home theater owners choose to set up their systems in the family room. Wherever you decide to place your system, plenty of comfortable seating – positioned so that everyone can clearly see the screen and enjoy the sound – is the first essential ingredient.

ARA

Flat-screen TVs are now a favored option to an actual projector and screen. Each year, the quality of these electronic showpieces improves while prices drop. Most flat-screen TVs can easily be connected to other AV components, including external speaker systems.

Properly mounting a flat-screen TV on the wall can really create a theater-like effect. You'll need a special mount to secure your TV, and there are several kinds to choose from. You could opt for a full-motion mount which allows you to move the TV for optimum viewing from any angle. Or, a tilting mount might be right for your setup if the TV is positioned higher on the wall, such as above a fireplace. Sanus Systems is a leading manufacturer of mounts for flat-screen TVs. Visit www.sanus.com to see the range of options.

Sound components will elevate your simple flat- or big-screen TV to home theater status. A good home theater system should have at

Smashing Lighting Upgrades On Your Shoestring Budget

The economy may be in the doldrums, but that doesn't mean your decor has to be there too. It's possible to turn dark, dreary and dated decor into hght, lively, and "now" on just a shoestring budget.

What's the secret to sprucing up on a shoestring? Lighten up – literally.

Upgrading your home's lighting can impart a whole new atmosphere, and you don't need to spend big bucks on pricey new fixtures to do it. Simple, budget-friendly changes can make a big difference in how your home looks and feels, and how much you enjoy living there.

The experts at the American Lighting Association (ALA) offer a few tips for creating a big impact on a small budget.

ARA

First, consider the first impression guests (or potential buyers) have of your home.

"Upgrading exterior lighting or entryway lighting can improve the curb appeal and first impression of your home," says Monty Gilbertson, manager of Lighting Designs by Wettsteins in La Crosse, Wis.

Michael Berman, a lighting consultant with Chatsworth, Calif.-based Lamps Plus, agrees.

"Replacing old, worn-out fixtures, purchasing inexpensive landscape lights to highlight interesting architectural elements or plantscapes can make it 'love at first sight' for potential buyers," he says.

Once you've upgraded the outside, take a look at the first parts of the house that guests see – often the entryway or dining room on modern floor plans.

"Changing the dining room chandelier and/or the foyer light will make major strides in improving the look and, in some cases, the efficiency of your home," Gilbertson says.

"Fixtures in the entryway should set the style for the rest of the house," Berman adds. "Even a small flush-mount fixture can add style to an otherwise lackluster entry."

Next, install dimmers throughout the house, even in rooms where you might not normally think of using them, like the kitchen and bath, suggests Joe Rey-Barreau, an education consultant for the ALA and an associate professor at the University of Kentucky's School of Interior Design.

An upgrade that's well within the skills of most do-it-yourselfers, installing a often helped his mother tend their flowers. (One of his first words was ageratum, a small bluish-purple flower.)

But since then: "It's been a good hobby," said McKee, who's been gardening at the Rockville Community Garden Center almost consistently for more than 20 years.

For McKee, it's not a matter of economics, despite the current trend.

"I don't see it as saving (money), it's the quality," McKee said of growing his own food.

When you have a homegrown tomato you know it, McKee said. There is nothing like going outside on a hot day, he said, picking up a tomato fresh off the vine, rubbing it on your sleeve and biting into it.

Lighting Upgrades

dimmer can completely change the character and quality of a space. For example, dimmers in a bathroom enable you to use the facilities in the middle of the night without the jarring impact of turning on bright, overhead lighting. In a master bedroom, they can create a soothing or even romantic mood.

In other rooms, take a look at your table lamps, advise both Rey-Barreau and Jeff Dross, senior product manager for Kichler Lighting in Cleveland.

"One way to make an impact on a small budget is by changing outdated lampshades with newer trend-forward versions that incorporate fashion-friendly colors, fabrics, or patterns," Dross says. "Many companies sell stand-alone shades at budget-friendly prices."

Consider how you use table lamps as well, Rey-Barreau says.

"How many do you use in a room? What types? Table lamps can create a more diverse quahty of light, and adding a few accent lamps in a room can really change the quality of a space," he adds.

Simple upgrades in kitchens and baths can also deliver big impact and enhance your home's value on a shoestring budget, the experts agree.

Modern kitchens often hide lighting under cabinets or in the ceiling through recessed lighting.

"Adding fixtures that can be shown off and enjoyed can make a big impact." Dross says. "Adding mini pendants is a good place to start. They add aesthetic appeal and build an interesting focal point at a fair price."

Or, upgrade ftom a single bulb fixture in the kitchen to a multi-bulb unit with a dimmer, Gilbertson suggests.

In baths and kitchens, consider replacing fixtures with dated finishes with more contemporary choices. Many manufacturers now make light fixtures in fmishes that complement some of the more popular choices for plumbing fixtures, Rey-Barreau points out.

Finally, when you're lighting a room, keep in mind that you need to use more than one light and more than one kind of light. A balance of overhead lights (on dimmers), floor lamps and/or table lamps will produce the most aesthetically pleasing, livable atmosphere.

least five main speakers, according to sound innovators Dolby Laboratories. A center speaker should be mounted just below the screen. Two speakers should be positioned in the front of the room in the corners on either side of the TV, at the same height as the center speaker. Finally, two speakers should be placed slightly behind the seating area and above ear level but facing horizontally and not down toward the listener. These five components give the "surround sound" effect.

Speakers can be placed on bookshelves but may yield better sound if mounted on the walls. Sanus makes speaker stands and mounts that can attach to walls or ceilings, and side speaker mounts or center-channel speaker mounts that attach directly to the TV mount.

Finally, add on your AV components like a DVD player or a satellite TV receiver. While many people simply place these components on a piece of furniture beneath their wall-mounted TV, a wall mount can help streamline the look of your system, eliminate a lot of wire clutter and still provide easy access to the components. Sanus' Vertical Foundations line of on-wall furniture provides stylish, simple and efficient mounting options for AV components.

In addition, today's window technologies offer a new generation of low-maintenance glass, featured on Renewal by Andersen replacement windows, that helps reduce dirt build-up and water spots on your window's exterior when activated by sunlight – making your view better and cleaning easier.

Choose A Reputable Company That Provides Installation And Warrants It

In addition, the company provides a limited warranty on both its products and installation.

A YOUNG UPWARDLY MOBILE COUPLE wanted to have fun with this house, located in northern Virginia, and the artists from the Decorator's Nook, located on Second Street in Oakland, knew just what to do. The sunroom was done to feel like a French village and the background was painted with reference to the different areas. Awnings were made for the window treatments, incorporating the couple's names, even the pets' names, into the establishments. Accessories, rugs, and pillows completed the ambiance. The Dirt On Gorgeous Grass Hint: The Secret's In The Soil

Spring is here and soon you'll toss your coat into the back of the closet, break out the Bermuda shorts, and stride out onto your lawn . . . which is even more thin and weedy than last year. You faithfully fertilize, seed, apply weed killer, and water. What are you doing wrong?

Here's the real dirt on what makes a lawn lush – it's what's under the grass that counts. Your lawn can't flourish without a foundation of healthy soil. If your lawn is sparse and weed-filled, the real issue might lie just below the root zone, in the soil.

So how do you achieve healthy soil? By tackling common soil issues like poor drainage, soil compaction, thatch buildup, and poor pH. Grass can't thrive if its roots are waterlogged, struggling in dense or nutrient-poor soil, or smothered under a thick barrier of thatch, a layer of plant debris at the base of the grass blade.

Before wasting time and money on a no-win lawn care program, consider whether soil problems are standing between you and gorgeous grass.

*Poor drainage – Water puddling on the surface after rain or irrigation means moisture isn't draining freely to deeper soil levels. Healthy soil is porous, allowing air and nutrients to reach plant roots. Roots can actually drown and rot away in waterlogged soil.

*Soil compaction – Soil is easily compressed under constant foot traffic and by the heavy equipment used to care for lawns – riding mowers and heavy wheelbarrows, for instance. Compacted soil keeps air and nutrients from reaching the root system, leaving it shallow and weak. Test for compaction by digging up a shovelful of turf and soil. If the ground is hard to pierce or the soil sample is dense and hard to break up, the lawn bed needs to be aerated.

*Thatch – Take a second look at your test hole. If you've revealed a layer of debris thicker than half an inch, it may be time to remove the thatch. In ideal conditions, grass clippings, leaves, twig fragments, and other debris that falls on the lawn break down, providing nutrients to the grass. But if the soil organisms responsible for decomposition aren't present, thatch builds up, creating a layer at the soil surface that sheds water and nutrients.

* pH – Simply put, pH is a measure of how acidic or alkaline your soil is. If your soil's pH is out of balance, you can correct it by adding the proper amendments.

There are time-tested tactics to tackle these problems by mechanical means, and much newer, effective, and easy treatments developed by soil scientists to improve conditions beneath the turf.

Mechanical core aerators, available for rent, pull up finger-sized cores from the lawn, leaving them on the surface to dissolve. The plugs will dissolve over time, but paver or natural stone patios, mail box stands – we've done it all."

Some homeowners prefer the look of greenery to hardscaping but still need a high-performance retaining wall. The new Versa-Green plantable wall system by Versa-Lok gives them the best of both worlds.

"Versa-Green is a natural option in situations where significant soil retention is required in a wall but visibility of the wall isn't wanted," says McGregor. "Plantings in each individual wall unit grow up to conceal the courses above or hang down to cover the wall below. Eventually, the wall appears to grow right into the landscape, much like a vertical garden. The result is a functional wall that becomes a living part of your landscape."

Working with segmental retaining wall systems doesn't require a lot of expensive tools. Those that may be needed – concrete saw or block splitter, for example – can be rented on a daily basis or your supplier may have them available.

Many retailers like Patio Town offer DIY seminars on retaining wall and paver installation as well.

"Investing in landscaping is a sure way to add value to your home," McGregor concludes. "That, coupled with an increasing trend toward entertaining at home, make segmental retaining wall systems an appealing solution for the do-it-yourselfer with a bit of imagination."

they're ugly until they do. Plus, mechanical aeration can bring up weed seeds from the soil bank. Renting an aerator or a power thatching mower can be expensive, and the process is labor-intensive.

New preparations like LazyMan Liquid Gold make improving problem soils as easy as treating turf with a hose-end sprayer. This liquid treatment includes ingredients that help open air passages in compacted soil as well as increase beneficial organisms that feed on thatch and support living grass. The product works over time to create healthier soil, and will lead you to a lush, green lawn.

Can it really be this easy? Tests show that in most cases surface water will drain away with a single treatment. The aerating elements that open up compacted soil (technically, polymers that react with water molecules) contmue their work until they break down. Research also shows that thatch is reduced by half with three applications at four-week intervals.

This season if you want gorgeous grass, the answer is to start taking care of it from the ground up. The secret's in the soil.

For about $35 you can treat a 10,000-square-foot lawn with the new generation of soil boosters and see the benefits of lawn improvement, the LazyMan way. To learn more, visit www.outsidepride.com.

Planter Gardens Are Easy, Green And Inexpensive

Now more than ever we are all looking for ways to find affordable, earth-friendly hobbies and leisure activities to bring us moments of pleasure in a stressful world. Investing in a planter or two (or more!) this spring can provide you with colorful blooms or delicious vegetables to brighten each day throughout the summer months.

Start From Scratch To Save

Pre-planted containers at the garden center are beautiful, but you often pay a premium. Consider planting your containers from scratch instead. Spending time in your backyard or balcony amidst your own creations this summer can be a wonderful respite from life's daily stresses without the expense of leaving home for entertainment. You'll feel good because you've saved money and helped the environment too.

Consider using some edibles in your containers. Vegetables, leafy greens and herbs grow well in smaller containers and can decorate your dinner table all summer long. If you have a furry friend in the house, reuse an old watering or food dish and plant cat nip or grass to offer some feline treats.

In order for plants to thrive, a high quality potting soil is recommended, but that can start to add up at the cash register. Save money by mixing your own. Purchase a more affordable generic brand and mix it 50/50 with finely ground bark mulch.

Other potting soil recipes can include perlite, peat, vermiculate, sand or lime, but if you're planting a seasonal container, simpler is cheaper and just as effective.

Help The Environment

Composting kitchen waste is one of the easiest, fastest and most affordable ways that each person in America can help our environment. The valuable nutrients contained in kitchen scraps are wasted when put into a landfill. Since it is literally free, adding compost to your container's soil is a great way to reduce or avoid store bought chemical fertilizers and still provide your plants with the nutrients they need.

Select Your Container

Pre-planted containers usually come in petroleum-based plastic pots that end up in the landfill after just one season. By planting your own containers, you are free to select interesting vessels to use for many years to come. Try old kitchen kettles or buckets you no longer use, salvaged old pots found in your garage, or colorful containers found at your local thrift store.

Planting Your Container

Be sure your planter selections have proper drainage. If they don't have drain holes, you'll need to drill them. To ensure proper drainage for your plants, add a material to the bottom of your container to create an air space. This allows oxygen to more easily reach the plant's roots which helps the plant absorb the nutrients it needs with each watering. A great alternative to rocks or broken terra cotta pieces is Better Than Rocks. This planter dramage material is placed m the bottom of contamers. It creates a pocket of air within the planter, so it helps provide the critical oxygen your plants need to thrive. Optimal drainage leads to superior plant health and an abundance of blooms. Your pots will be lighter and you'll use up to 1/3 less soil in each container. The product is made in North America from 100 percent post-consumer recycled plastic. Since you can use it year after year, not only will your potting soil savings add up over time, but you'll help keep some of those water and soda bottles out of landfills.

"I wanted my containers to be lighter and drain better," says inventor Sarah Atkins. "The results were better than 1 imagined. My plants were noticeably healthier and my containers provided even greater personal rewards."

Once your drainage system is in place, fill the container with potting soil until two-thirds full, leaving four to five inches for plants. Next, take the plant plugs and set them in the pot. Rearrange until you are satisfied, fill in with potting soil and water thoroughly.

Water Every Day

Tending your container garden is a daily reward in itself. It's fun to spot new buds, nurture by removing spent blooms and take time to smell the flowers. Daily water is a must. You can save a great deal of water (and money if you pay for your water) by investing in a

Call Of The Wild (Flowers)

At a time when "green" is the color of thoughtful lifestyles, gardening practices are going greener, too. Some gardens awash in the biggest, brightest, newest flowers are sadly lifeless, lacking the buzz of the bees, the fluttering of butterflies and the zip of hummingbirds. To make these creatures welcome, gardeners need to go a little wild themselves, setting aside their visions of gardens groomed and sprayed into submission.

Gardeners need to reimagine their gardens as an outdoor cafe and build safe havens for birds, bees, and butterflies. How? By setting the table with nectar and seeds that are on the menus of local wildlife. This spring, plant a patch of wildflowers and watch the garden come alive.

Wildflowers and their dependents – insects and birds – work together in harmony with local climates. Naturally adapted to soil, sun, and moisture conditions, wildflowers offer more than simple grace and unaffected charm.

They represent an earth-

Budget-Friendly Bathroom Updates

Does your bathroom resemble the bathroom of your childhood? Does it have the same unappealing colors, cold tile floors, and dated decor as the day you bought the house?

If your bathroom is stuck in the '60s, '70s, and even '80s, then it's time to upgrade. But don't worry, you can transform it into a modern day showplace on a budget. Here are some tips to get you started:

Apply A Fresh Coat Of Paint

Nothmg cleans up damaged and dingy walls better than a new color. Because the bathroom is a high-humidity area that is also enclosed, look for paints that are mildew-resistant but don't contain harsh chemicals. Be a little artistic with your painting as well. Find textured paints to create barely there patterns on the walls, or friendly, attractive alternative, thriving without fertilizers, pesticides, and constant irrigation.

Call Of Wild

In nature, wildflowers mark the seasons with glorious bursts of color. Spring bluebells and columbines might give way to yarrows and rues, which in turn leave the season's last word to coneflowers and asters.

The wildflower patch is typically an exuberant and ever-changing continuous carpet of carefree blossoms. Since the look is more relaxed than that of formal garden beds, wildflowers can beautify areas that are very difficult to maintain – hillsides, woodland edges, lake borders, or that awkward strip between the driveway and the property line.

While the aim is a casual, unstudied appearance, wildflower gardens do require some planning. One key is choosing a seed mix created for your region, taking into account the hardiness zone, elevation and typical soil, sun, and moisture conditions.

Wild-flower-seed.com offers a wide variety of blends for nine areas of the country, from the rainy Northeast to the dry Southwest. The company also has specialty mixes specifically designed to attract beneficial insects and butterflies – as well as a blend deer find unappealing. Each mix includes 10 to 20 plant species, providing flowers season-long and a mix of annuals and perennials for both quick color and staying power.

Site preparation is important, and a little up-front effort can pay big dividends. Follow these steps:

* Choose a sunny, well-drained location. Most wildflowers want six to eight hours of direct sunlight and few will tolerate "wet feet."

* Remove any sod and till to a depth of just 1 or 2 inches. More will only bring additional weed seeds to the surface.

* Weed control is crucial to get wildflowers off to a good start. Instead of using a strong, chemical pesticide to kill weeds, manage weeds naturally. Encourage weeds to grow with regular watering and then pull the weeds before sowing wildflowers, or use a low-toxicity herbicide.

* Sow seeds according to directions – the maximum amount recommended will produce a dense patch, the minimum a more scattered look.

* For easier sowing, mix seed with dry sand, which is more visible against the soil. Blend well, using a ratio of one part seed to one or two parts sand.

* Good seed-to-soil contact encourages germination. A lawn roller is ideal, but stepping across the bed, compressing soil underfoot, will do the job.

* No fertilizer is necessary, but the seedbed should be kept moist for about four weeks until seeds sprout. Then watering can taper off unless conditions are unusually dry.

Once established, a wildflower garden requires little routine maintenance. A once-a-year mowing to 4 to 6 inches in late fall will keep tree seedlings from intruding and spread the season's crop of seeds.

Bathroom Updates

Update Your Hardware

Bathroom faucets and accessories have evolved over the decades, and style is the new design. Today's products are able to match tastes ranging from exquisite vintage to ultra modern so you can transform your out-dated style into something perfect for a guest bath, master bath, or children's fun bathroom. Visit Faucet.com to find the right style for you.

Change Your Lighting

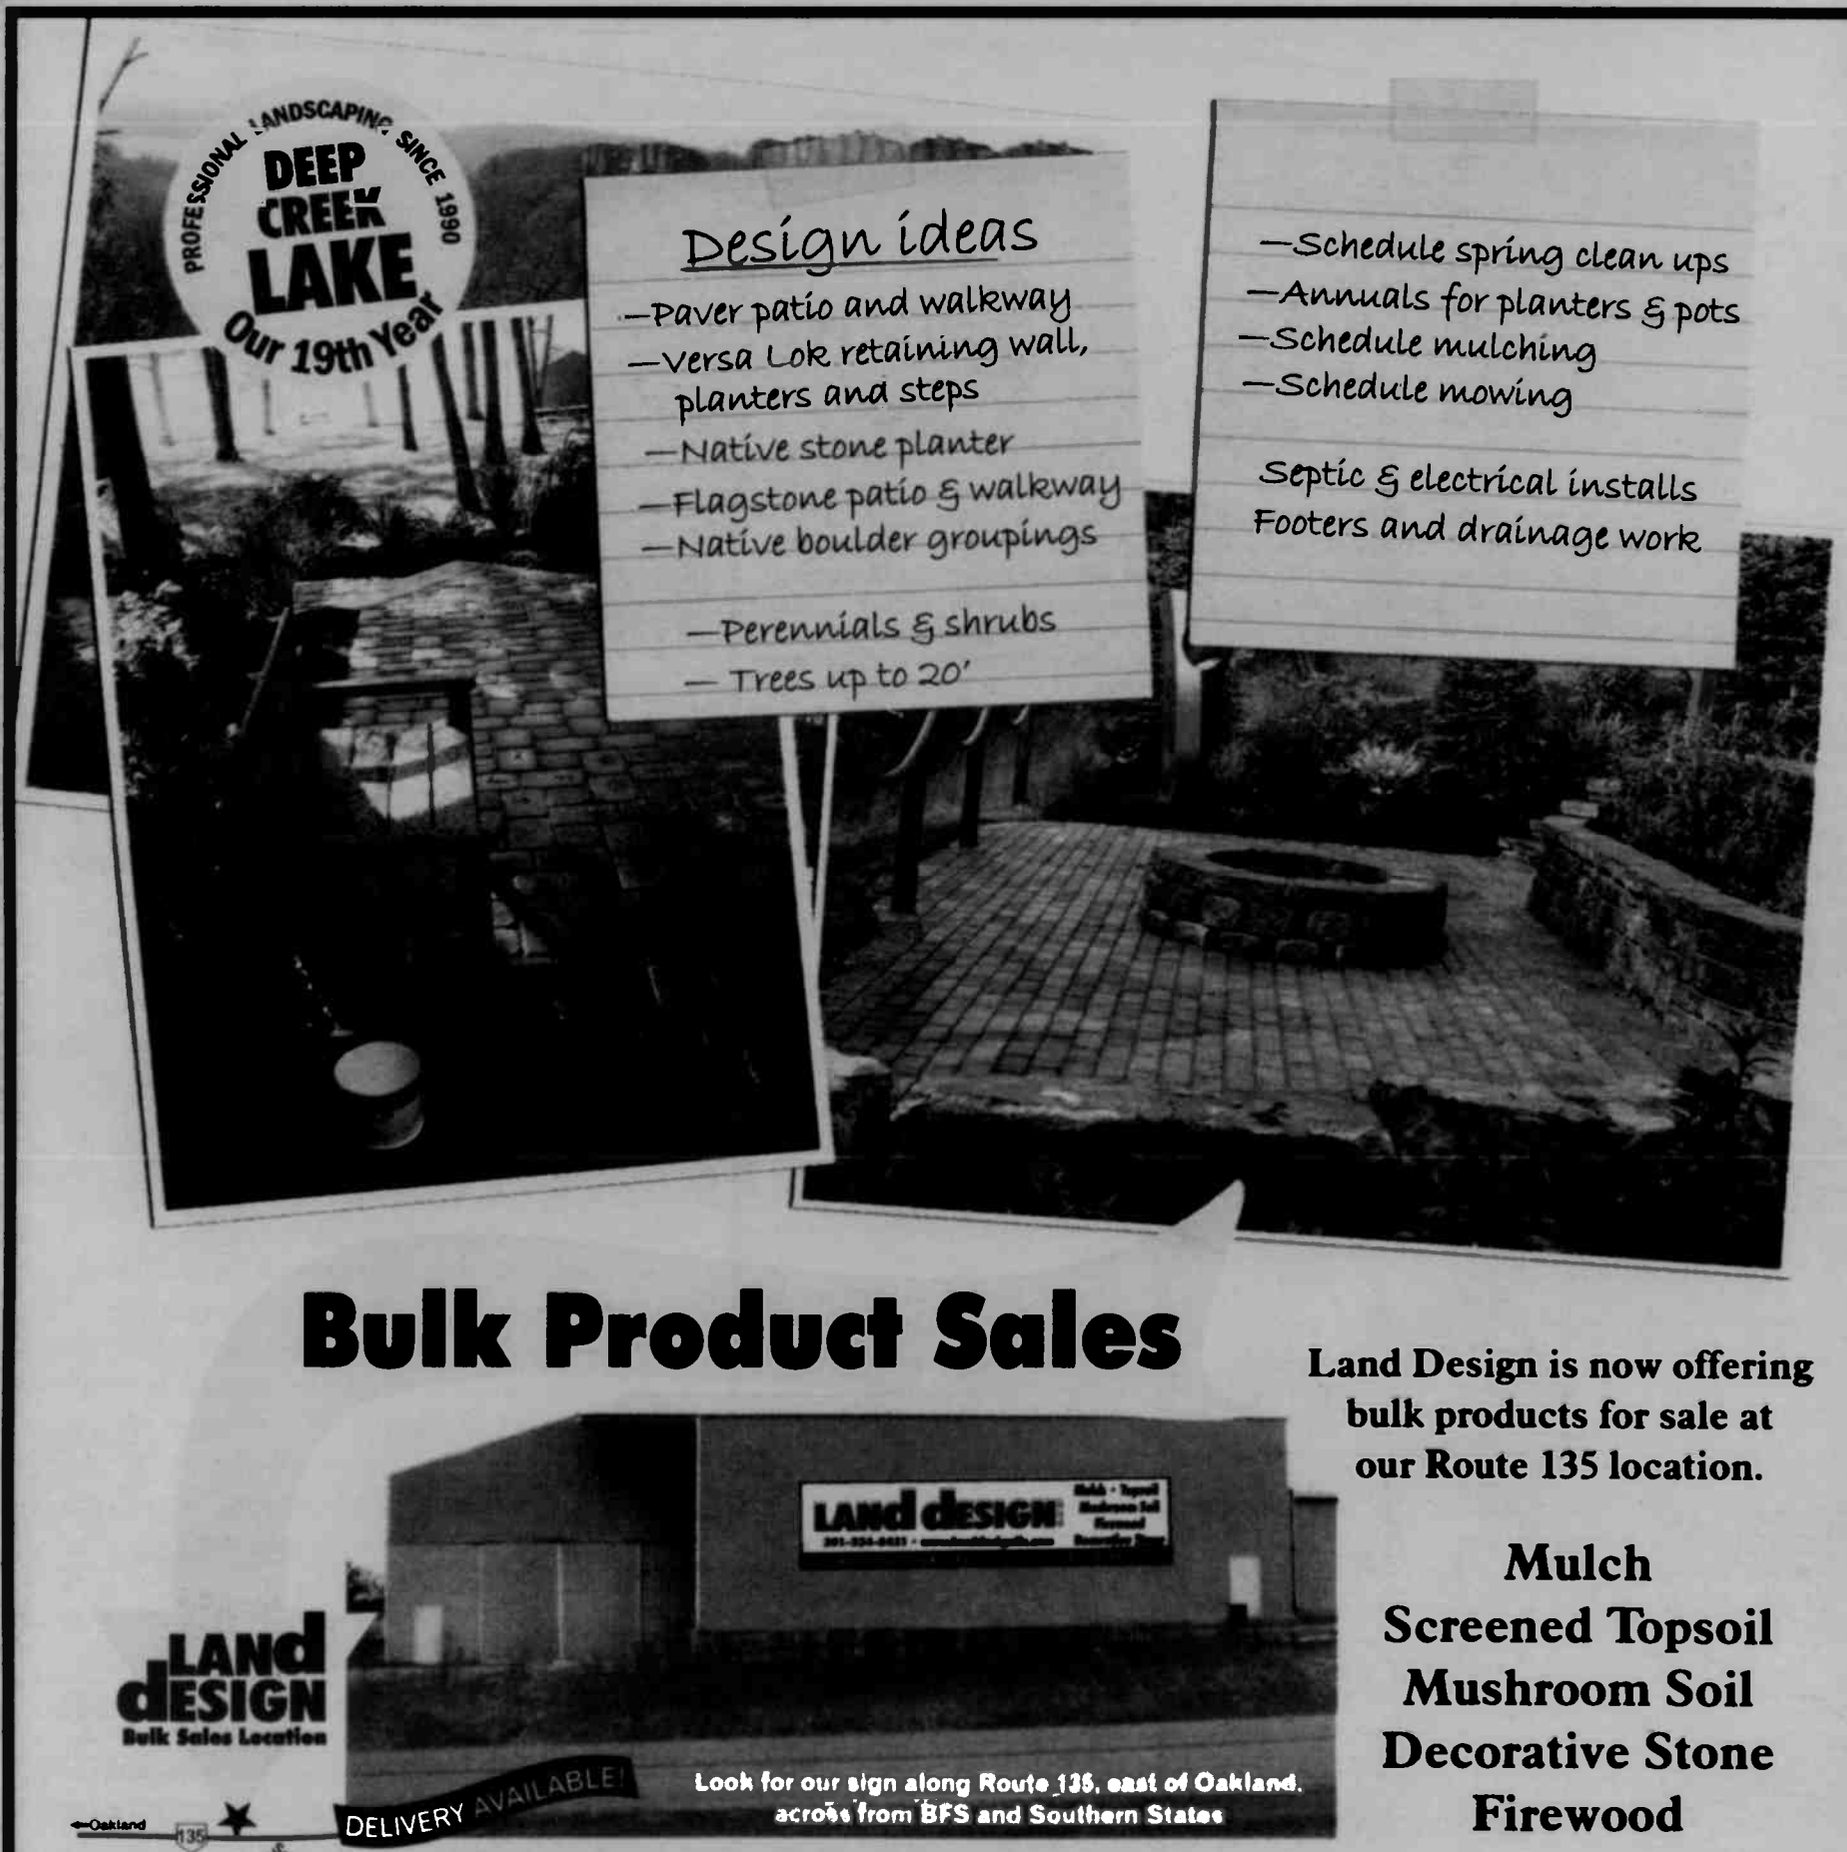
A single light fixture or a worn-out overhead lamp just doesn't give a bathroom the illumination or style you need. A properly lit bathroom provides comfort, charm, fashion, and function. You may need lights above the sink or wall sconces to illuminate any dark shadows. Find all the latest lighting styles at LightingShowplace.com.

Bring Comfort Into The Shower

A new massaging shower head is vital to making your shower inviting. Accompany the new fixture with a beautiful curtain and curved shower rod to match the rest of the room's decor. Look for curtains that do not contain vinyl or PVC materials, because a 2008 study found vinyl curtains contain many toxic chemicals which can be released into the air when opened and hung. But don't block out all that new light you just installed. Use a shower curtain that allows light into the tub area.

Warm Up The Floor

Don't forget the cringe you feel every time you step onto your cold bathroom floor. If the tile is in good shape, or you don't have the finances to install radiant heat throughout the bathroom, try a decorative rug instead to keep your feet warm. You can forget about the old shag carpets with rubber backing. The styles, shapes, and colors available are endless, in materials ranging from cotton to wool. Find a theme carpet for your children's bathroom, or a beautiful bouquet of flowers to spice up your guest bathroom. To find your style, visit RugShowplace.com.



"You will be better able to enjoy your bathroom once you get it brought into the 21st century," says Daniel Auer from Faucet.com, a leading online retailer of decorative plumbing products. "And you can find the necessary items for your remodel quickly by shopping online while saving money at the same time."

A SURE SIGN OF SPRING IN GARRETT COUNTY is the emergence of ramps and the scheduling of events featuring this pungent wild onion. The Apostolic Church in Mtn. Lake Park will hold its ramp dinner this Saturday, April 18, from 4 to 7 p.m. and the Deep Creek Lake Discovery Center has scheduled its annual Ramp Cook-Off for Saturday, April 25, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Check The Republican for other ramp dinners that will be taking place during the next few weeks in Garrett County and the surrounding area. SO APRIL SHOWERS DO BRING FLOWERS, and it's not even May yet. The showers have been plentiful recently, though, and today's sunshine and warmer air are welcomed by a population tired of wet and cold. The weekend's outlook is all sun and warmth, too, which is happy news, especially in light of this morning's cold rain, fog, and even ice. The daffodils have come up anyway, as they always do, along with the crocuses and other early flowers. Now the tulips are starting, and hyacinths and forsythia. Spring is here, even on the mountaintop. Photo by Glenn Tolbert.

GC Roads Dept. Superintendent Provides Update

Garrett County Department of Roads superintendent Jay Moyer presented an update report to the county commissioners on Tuesday about recent activities in his department. Items discussed included sweeper trucks, paving projects, budgetary issues, and a proposed utility ordinance.

Moyer reported that three sweeper trucks had recently been purchased. One is now stationed at each of the county's three roads garages. Workers are using the equipment to sweep up and recycle some of the anti-skid that was spread on roads this winter.

"They're working out really well," Moyer said about the trucks. "The guys are pleased with them."

He told the commissioners that up to 24 percent of the anti-skid may be recyclable.

Commissioner Denny Glotfelty noted that the trucks would "pay for themselves in no time."

Moyer also indicated the sweepers would help offset the high cost of purchasing anti-skid material in the future. He said his department exceeded its budgeted amount for the material by more than $242,000 this winter.

Despite that significant cost overrun, however, Moyer said the overall budget numbers are where his department "likes to see them." The county is about 85 percent through the fiscal year 2009 budget, but the Roads Department has spent only about 81 percent

Road Resurfacing Project On Rt. 135 Now Under Way

The Maryland Department of Transportation's State Highway Administration (SHA) began a $2 million safety and resurfacing project along more than three miles of Maryland Rt. 135 (Maryland Highway) between Chestnut Grove Road and Lee Road yesterday. Weather permitting, the project is expected to be completed by late summer.

While traveling on that section of Rt. 135, motorists should expect single-lane closures between 6:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. SHA said it is providing variable message signs, drums, and flag persons to guide motorists through the work zone. This section of highway carries an average of 3,500 vehicles each day.

This project is funded through President Barack Obama's American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA), and is made possible by the Maryland Congressional Delegation's passage of economic recovery legislation. ARRA projects are designed to stimulate Maryland's economy by preserving and creating jobs.

SHA awarded the contract for the local project to Keystone Lime Company.

Persons who have questions about traffic operations along Rt. 135, or other state-numbered routes in Garrett County, may call SHA's District 6 office at 301-729-8400, or toll-free at 1-800-760-7138.

GC Commissioners Hear Update Report On Public Utilities Projects

Director Linda Lindsey, Garrett County Department of Public Utilities (DPU), presented an update report to the county commissioners on Tuesday about five local water and two sewer projects.

Lindsey said the Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE) was reviewing permit applications for several of those projects. She noted that the MDE review process has become very lengthy and arduous in recent years.

The MDE, she said, must go through all the bid advertisements, bid comments, and possible cover hearings about those comments.

"Getting permits from the MDE is turning into at least a six- to nine-month process," Lindsey said.

Water Projects

The director said the MDE looked at the proposed Crellin water treatment plant improvements and has determined the project will require a construction permit.

"Therefore, the appropriate application and documentation has been submitted to MDE for its review and issuance of the permit," Lindsey said.

Plans and specifications for the McHenry water storage tank and chlorination station have also been submitted to the MDE for review, comment, and issuance of construction permits.

"We are also awaiting issuance of the stormwater management and NPDES (National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System) permits from MDE," the director said about the McHenry project.

She explained that an NPDES outlines how runoff from construction sites will be handled.

House Destroyed By Blaze; Cause Undetermined

Investigation continues into the cause of a fire that destroyed a house at 2837 Shady Dell Road south of Loch Lynn Sunday afternoon.

Volunteers from the Oakland, Deer Park, Gorman, Deep Creek, Aurora, and Bayard fire departments were summoned to the residence of Andrea and Randy Overstreet and their 13-year-old son at 3:09 p.m. after the occupants discovered fire in the basement of the one-story wood-frame house.

Approximately 20 firefighters responded and brought the blaze under control in just under a half-hour; however, the structure was virtually destroyed. The loss was estimated by Maryland state fire marshal investigators Ryan Chapman and John Nelson to be $50,000 to the structure and $20,000 to contents.

Also responding was the Southern Rescue Squad. There were no injuries reported.

The family has been receiving assistance from the American Red Cross and relatives.

Curtain Drops On Busy Session Dominated By Financial Woes

Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS – A legislative session dominated by financial woes ended Monday night just minutes after the General Assembly approved a compromise on a controversial immigrant driver's license bill, fittingly capping a frenzied final day of a busy session which saw several major policy debates.

Lawmakers also gave final approval to a Preakness rescue bill and the state budget Monday before confetti fell from the balconies of the ornate State House chambers, celebrating the end of this year's 90-day session. The last-day action followed a session featuring heated debates on the death penalty, education funding, and partial energy re-regulation.

Leading Democrats said they managed to protect taxpayer priorities despite making $867 million in cuts to next fiscal year's budget made necessary by a declining economy.

"We were able not only to maintain (our) safety net, we were able to strengthen it," said Gov. Martin O'Malley.

The state used more than $1.4 billion in federal stimulus money to balance the $13.8 billion operating budget, plugging holes created by plunging revenue projections. The federal money prevented 700 state employee layoffs and drastic cuts to education.

But despite the injection of stimulus money, the state

Sen. Mikulski Announces $2.2 Million In Education Funding For Garrett Co.

U.S. Senator Barbara A. Mikulski visited Grantsville Elementary School yesterday, where she announced that $7.2 million has been included in the federal checkbook to support Allegany and Garrett counties in educating students with special needs.

Garrett County is projected to receive approximately $2.2 million of that funding through the Individuals with Disabilities in Education Act (IDEA). This includes $1.2 million from economic recovery funds and $968,000 from the 2009 federal government appropriations bill.

At Grantsville Elementary, Mikulski met with the county commissioners from both Garrett and Allegany counties, as well as Duane Yoder, Community Action president, and Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent of Garrett County schools. The meeting was held in the school's new Head Start addition, which opened recently.

"I wanted for us to meet so I could see what's happening in the mountain counties so that I can be helpful, and also to get you up to date on what's going on in Washington with our new president and stimulus funding," Mikulski told the local officials.

IDEA funding will be distributed to Maryland in two installments – one in the spring and the other in the fall – based on formulas that take into account the number of children receiving special services, as well as any increases in the

Friendsville Man Dies In Single-Vehicle Accident

A Friendsville driver was pronounced dead at the scene of an early Friday morning accident. Randy Lee Dwire, 21, was identified as the driver of a 1997 Nissan truck that had reportedly been traveling southwest on Dixon Road, Friendsville, when the accident occurred.

Maryland State Police determined that for unknown reasons, the vehicle left the right side of the road. It then came back onto and across the road, off the left shoulder, and over an embankment. The truck overturned, pinning Dwire partially beneath it. Passenger James Robert Frye, 23, also of Friendsville, escaped the accident unharmed. Dwire's body was transported to Newman Funeral Home, Grantsville.

The accident is under investigation by Tfc. V. Upole, McHenry Barrack, and Cpl. D. Frank, Cumberland Barrack. Also responding to the accident were Friendsville Volunteer Fire Department, Northern Rescue Squad, and forensic investigator John Frank.

Dwire's full obituary appears in the A-section of this week's issue.

THOMAS WINS QUILT IN MEALS ON WHEELS RAFFLE – Tom Thomas of Friendsville was declared the winner of a quilt raffle staged by the Friendsville Library Quilters to benefit the local Meals on Wheels program. Genevieve Serio created the "Ladies of the 1900s" quilt over several years, working on it while dealing with health issues. She created the hand-appliquéd quilt squares, with a different lady representing each month of the year. She asked the Friendsville Library Quilters to piece together and bind the quilt. Tickets were sold around the county, with 100% of the proceeds benefiting the Meals on Wheels program. The raffle raised $733. The Meals on Wheels program, administered by the Area Agency on Aging (AAA) at Garrett County Community Action, continues to provide an average of 3,000 hot meals per month to frail, elderly homebound residents despite decreases in funding and increases in the cost of food and gas. Organizers have struggled for years to maintain sufficient funding to provide the service and maintain a five-day delivery schedule. "We are delighted with the success of this project spearheaded by Mrs. Serio and aided by the Friendsville Library Quilters," said Adina Brode, AAA director. "Genevieve has been a congregate participant at the Friendsville center for many years and has always been supportive of the agency and its services. She has demonstrated a true act of generosity and kindness by donating the quilt for the benefit of the Meals on Wheels program. We are sincerely appreciative." For more information about Meals on Wheels or the many AAA programs and services, persons may call AAA at 301-334-9431 (toll free: 888-877-8403) or visit www.garrettcac.org/aaa.html. "JOIN US FOR THE ANNUAL WALK FOR HOSPICE," say event organizers. The fundraiser will be held next Saturday, April 25, at Garrett 8 Cinemas, Deep Creek Lake. Registration will begin at 9 a.m., with the walk scheduled for 10 a.m. This year's event will again feature Jonny Rock of Sounds Fun Entertainment. Prizes will be awarded for the top three teams and top three individuals. A team is two to four members. Prizes are awarded to those who bring in the most money the day of the walk. Top team prizes are a New York trip package, $1,000 Wal-Mart gift card, and a limousine trip to Uno Restaurant for a dinner for four people. The vehicle will be provided by 301-601-LIMO. The individual prizes are a $1,500 Wal-Mart gift card, Talking Caller ID telephone by Panasonic with four handsets, and a Nintendo Wii. The top individual fundraiser gets first pick of the prizes; the second gets second choice; and the third gets the remaining prize. "We will be giving out many door prizes for all walkers who participate in the drawings," said an event spokesperson. "Everyone will receive a sweatshirt and a bottle of water." For more information or to receive a registration form, persons should call the Hospice office at 301-334-5151 or in the Grantsville area at 800-521-5252, or e-mail hospiceofgc@verizon.net. Pictured, left to right, are John Cobb, Department of Natural Resources reserve officer; Beth Cervi, RN; Junior Ferguson, Hospice volunteer; Elaine Marple; Lisa Friend, Hospice secretary; Amy Welch, office manager; Mildred O'Haver, bereavement director; and Brenda Butscher, Hospice executive director.

Educ. Funding

state's student-aged population.

First enacted by Congress in 1975, IDEA helps states to ensure that children with disabilities receive the services they need to achieve in school. IDEA was initially intended to fund 40 percent of states' cost of education for students with special needs, but has fallen short over the years.

Mikulski is a senior member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, and has championed efforts to put more funds in the federal checkbook for IDEA.

"For too long, the federal government hasn't kept its end of the IDEA bargain, forcing local districts to pick up the tab of educating students with special needs," Mikulski said. "As a result, Maryland school districts have had to cut from other critical education programs or raise taxes in order to make up for the federal funding shortfall.

"This unfunded mandate not only hurts local budgets, it hurts the children the law was designed to help. I am pleased today to announce that this Congress, and this president, have taken bold steps to remedy this wrong.

"In the next two years, Maryland will receive an unprecedented amount of funding to make sure their special needs kids receive the special education they deserve. I was proud to play a role in securing this funding to meet Maryland's special education needs."

Maryland stands to receive, in Mikulski's words, an unprecedented $373 million in funding to support special education in Maryland by way of the Economic Recovery Bill and the 2009 federal government appropriations bill, which will help districts in meeting the obligations of IDEA.

According to Mikulski, this funding will save and create teaching jobs in Maryland and provide more resources for students with special needs by helping Maryland counties retain special education teachers, hire more aides to help teachers in the classroom, and provide more tutoring for kids with special learning needs.

Mikulski is also an original cosponsor of the IDEA Full Funding Act of 2009, which requires the federal government to pay for 40 percent of states' cost of education for students with special needs by 2017. The bill will be introduced when the Senate returns from its April recess.

A list of recovery funding available to Garrett County includes the following: $1.2 million for IDEA; $1.1 million in Title I education; $17.5 million in highway funding, including $16.3 million for state highways and $1.2 million for local highways; $250,100 for transit funding; $733,000 for water and sewer; $13,251 for law enforcement safety; and $126,911 in community health center grants.

Other items of discussion included funding to extend broadband to rural communities and various funding for fire departments.

Maryland NRP Honor Pair Of Local Officers

The Maryland Natural Resources Police (NRP), the law enforcement arm of the Department of Natural Resources (DNR), honored both officers and private citizens from across the state, including two officers from Garrett County, with certificates of merit and appreciation on April 7, for life-saving actions and their dedication to the mission of the Natural Resources Police.

Those in attendance at the event were: Deputy Secretary Eric Schwaab, NRP Superintendent Col. George F. Johnson IV and NRP Deputy Superintendent Lt. Col. Alphonso W. Hawkins. Also attending was Maryland Park Service Deputy Superintendent Lt. Col. Chris Bushman. NRP Capt. Robert Davis was the emcee for the evening, and NRP Lt. Joe Offer gave the invocation and benediction.

Among those awarded certificates of appreciation for the designated actions were:

Corp. Michael Friend, Friendsville, National Wild Turkey Federation Officer of the Year for 2008 in recognition of his efforts to enforcing the wild turkey laws and regulations that assist in the management of the wild turkey species, and;

Corp. Jeffery Sweitzer, Swanton, 2008 Boating Safety Officer of the Year in recognition for his efforts in enforcing and promoting boating safety laws and regulations.

THREE SCHOOLS RECEIVE RECOGNITION FROM BOE – The Garrett County Board of Education recently recognized three local schools for Outstanding Maryland School Performance in 2009. Crellin and Grantsville elementary schools received cash awards of $5,533.93 each from the Maryland State Department of Education. Swan Meadow did not qualify for the cash award because it is only offered to Title 1 schools, which Swan Meadow is not. In the front row, from left, are Erica Foley and Liz Gilbert, Swan Meadow; Amanda Spiker, Crellin; Randee Craig, Swan Meadow principal; and superintendent Dr. Wendell Teets. Back row: BOE president Rodney Durst, Grantsville principal Matthew Eggleston, Megan Pike, Crellin, and Barbara Baker.

BOE RECOGNIZES SWAN MEADOW FOR READING AWARD – Swan Meadow School was recently awarded the Maryland State Exemplary Reading Program Award for 2008-09. Each year, the International Reading Association recognizes one public, private, or parochial school in each state with this award. The award acknowledges the school's commitment and ability to create an outstanding reading/language arts program at all grade levels. The Garrett County Board of Education recognized the school and its staff at its April meeting. Principal Randee Craig noted that the exemplary dedication of Swan Meadow students, their families, district leaders, and school staff members all contributed to the success of the reading program. From left, are Craig, BOE president Rodney Durst, staff members Dora Shafer, Liz Gilbert, and Erica Foley, PTO president John Yoder, PTO member Cora Yoder, and superintendent Dr. Wendell Teets.

Arrested For CDS Poss. Of Marijuana And Paraphernalia

A West Virginia man was arrested Monday by a Garrett County sheriff's deputy following a traffic stop at the intersection of Sand Flat Road and Maryland Highway.

John Thomas Gordon, 33, Scherr, was asked for his license, registration, and insurance cards. The deputy reportedly smelled marijuana on the documents and conducted a search of Gordon's vehicle. A quantity of marijuana and related paraphernalia were located in the car.

Gordon was arrested and charged with CDS possession of marijuana, CDS possession of paraphernalia, failure to stop at a stop sign, and failure to drive right of center. He was taken to the Garrett County Detention Center to await a bond hearing.

Large Amount Of Copper Wire Stolen From Quarry Site

Maryland State Police are investigating a burglary involving the theft of a large amount of copper wire from a quarry site owned by Maryland Minerals. The theft is thought to have occurred sometime between Friday and Saturday of last week.

The copper wire stolen is estimated to be valued at over $8,000. Anyone with information regarding this incident is asked to contact Tfc. Bond at the MSP, McHenry Barrack, at 301-387-1101 or 301-895-1101.

Chamber Reports Increase In Jan. Tax Collections

Despite the national economic situation, Garrett County experienced a 6% increase from last year in its January accommodations tax numbers. The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce announced the increase this week.

Half of the accommodations tax collections go to the county's economic development office.

"The increase in January's accommodation tax revenue points to a strong winter season for the area," said Charlie Ross, chamber president. "This follows a 3% overall increase in 2008 in the county's accommodations tax revenue over 2007, which means more visitors are coming to the area each year, leading to additional economic revenue for Garrett County businesses."

For more information about the chamber, persons may visit the web site at www.garrettchamber.com, or call the office at 301-387-4386.

90% Of Local Alcohol Licensees Pass MSP Compliance Checks

Compliance checks completed by Maryland State Police recently found that of 62 Garrett County alcohol licensees, 90% did not sell alcohol to underage cadets between February and April of this year.

The project is an ongoing effort to reduce the illegal sale of alcohol to minors. The compliance checks were conducted by the Maryland State Police and funded by the Garrett County Health Department through money from the Governor's Office for Crime Control and Prevention.

Only six local establishments were cited for an illegal sale. Those businesses receiving citations were Table Rock Inn, Archie's Barbeque, Wisp, Luke's Liquors, El Canelo's Restaurant, and Swanton Grocery.

As a way to support retailers in their efforts to be compliant with alcohol sales laws, the Garrett County Health Department through the Drug Free Communities Support Program is sponsoring a free training for retailers on identifying fake IDs.

The training will be held at Garrett College on Monday, April 20, from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. in the Continuing Education Building. Those interested must call the Garrett County Health Department at 301-334-7730 to register.

Plans Finalized For International Dinner At Garrett

The Garrett College World View International Club has finalized plans for its its annual International Dinner, which is scheduled for Saturday, April 25, in the college café from 4 to 6 p.m. Food from countries such as Latvia, Estonia, South Africa, Ethiopia, and Bulgaria will be served.

Tickets can be purchased at Arrowhead Market, Gregg's Pharmacy, the Garrett College library, and the Garrett College admissions office. of its budget.

Moyer also reported that there has been a change in leadership in the Grantsville area.

"Reese McKenzie, who has been a faithful employee for the county roads for the past 43 years, opted to retire," Moyer said.

Mark Wells, who was the acting shop foreman at the Accident roads garage, has now filled McKenzie's position as general roads foreman of the Grantsville garage.

The superintendent also reported that crews were currently doing clean up work, which includes shoulder and ditch projects and culvert replacements. Paving will also soon begin on Gravelly Run Road.

Moyer noted that federal stimulus funding has been awarded to the county to pave New Germany Road. He and the commissioners then discussed what areas of the road should be paved, given that the state and county will be improving the New Germany Road/Rt. 495 intersection.

The officials did not want the road paved near the intersection if it would just end up being destroyed during the improvement project. Moyer indicated he would try to get a project timeline from the State Highway Administration to determine if the area should be paved.

The New Germany Road/Rt. 495 intersection project will be funded through state and county money. The cost will be between $900,000 and $1.5 million. County officials noted, however, that the cost share would not be evenly split. As with other recent county/state projects, SHA will most likely pay a larger percentage of the cost.

Moyer presented the commissioners with three design options that SHA came up with for the project. The commissioners chose "Option No. 1." Moyer will now instruct SHA to move forward with the intersection improvements.

The superintendent and commissioners also discussed their proposed utility ordinance. Modeled after SHA policies, the 20-page document outlines permits, setbacks, and reclamation work for utility lines that are placed along county roadways.

Moyer described the proposed ordinance as "involved."

Commissioner Fred Holliday said the ordinance was needed to protect county roads from being destroyed by utility companies.

Commissioner Ernie Gregg added that some setback exceptions would be possible to make situations more conducive for county department projects. The departments, however, would still need to adhere to the ordinance's permitting and reclamation guidelines.

The commissioners and Roads Department personnel will meet in the near future to discuss the ordinance further.

Money and Politics...

Because various forms of energy are so crucial to business, industry, and households throughout the country, the pursuit of energy-producing resources has almost always been extremely aggressive. History has shown that such aggression without controls typically comes back to haunt us, with one of the best examples of this scenario being the coal mining industry. In the early days the focus was basically to do whatever it took to get the coal out of the ground, with virtually no regard for the environment or even the safety of the miners themselves. Our nation then had to pay an enormous price for such wanton disregard in the form of both money and human life. It was only after massive pollution of our atmosphere and waterways, and much loss of life in the coal mines that we wised up and enacted regulations to make the industry cleaner and safer. With even minimal foresight and some intelligent planning in the beginning, much of this horrendous loss could have been avoided.

Did we learn from that example? Judging from the recent actions – or inaction – of our own local and state elected officials, the answer to that would be a resounding "No!"

It is the pursuit of another energy source – wind – that is now going to be allowed to progress in our state and county with little or no regulation whatsoever, regardless of the various warnings and uncertainties related to the giant turbines that are necessary to capture the wind. While the effects may not be as detrimental as the coal industry was in its early stages, there are still a number of legitimate concerns that are basically being ignored.

A week or so ago there was great hope for some safeguards being passed by the Maryland General Assembly. Senate Bill 771, pushed by Senator George Edwards, would have at least required consideration of regional and statewide performance standards for industrial wind turbines, including setbacks, noise, and lighting. The bill received not only a favorable vote by the Senate Finance Committee, but also passed in the full Senate by a unanimous vote, 45-0. However, the companion House bill, and thus the entire legislation, was effectively killed on Friday, the last real work day of the Assembly, when the House Economic Matters Committee simply did not vote on it.

Meanwhile, our county commissioners continue to do nothing on this matter. Not only did they not endorse SB 771, but they didn't even testify on their own proposal before the House and Senate committees, a measure that would have at least provided some setback restrictions.

With Friday's non-vote in the House, the opponents of having wind turbines in Garrett County watched their several years of time, effort, and expense go right down the drain. The developers now basically have a clear path ahead of them, and we residents are left with no safety, health, or environmental protections against industrial wind turbines at the local or state level. Even those in favor of wind energy should want some protective regulation and restrictions to be in place before the turbines are erected.

Proponents of wind energy and various elected officials will always say publicly that wind energy is desperately needed in order for us to meet the growing need for electricity. While there may be some element of sincerity in that claim, there are two much bigger reasons that they are allowing the developers to plow ahead virtually unrestricted – money and politics.

Letters to the Editor

Writers of letters to the editor are reminded that letters will not be published if they exceed 400 words, do not include contact information, and/or are deemed to be libelous.

Editor's note: The writer of the following letter to the Garrett County commissioners requested that it appear in this column.

Dear Commissioners:

This is to reply to and oppose your plan to raise property taxes in Garrett County and to request that you immediately schedule a public hearing on your plan so that others can comment on this increase.

The advertisement you placed in last week's edition of The Republican, as you are required to do by state law, states you intend to raise property taxes above the constant yield by 6%, or approximately $2 million.

With the state of our local economy, this is not the time to raise property taxes. Individuals, families, and businesses are struggling, are having a difficult time making ends meet, and cannot bear this increase in taxes.

Your current hearing is scheduled for Tuesday, April 21, at 10 a.m. in your offices. We object to your scheduling a public hearing on your proposal for your convenience rather than scheduling a hearing when working people can attend and participate. This does not permit the majority of county residents and taxpayers to attend.

We request that you immediately schedule an additional public hearing on the tax increase for an evening and at a location that is accessible to county residents.

We also urge all county residents to express their opinion on this issue, to attend the public haring, and to call the county commissioners' office to request an additional public hearing.

James R. "Smokey" Stanton
Chair
Garrett County Democratic Central Committee

To the Editor:

Since our county commissioners continue to follow wild spending and reckless disregard for the taxpayer, it is time we seek at least two men who will understand the meaning of "No." Taxes are going up again! There will be a hearing soon; however, our citizens will continue to get gored with higher taxes. Only a few will attend the meeting, as we begin to see that they will do as they please, without regard to us.

As Garrett County folks, we will continue to struggle. Most will survive; however, our commissioners are immune to the burdens we have, and care not that hundreds are living marginally.

Our only hope is for us to find two serious, conservative, honest, strong-willed men who have the ability to say no, and mean it. They need to begin to campaign now for the office of county commissioner.

We have the best county in the state, with good education and good reasons to come here; however, money thrown at new buildings, multi-million-dollar water races, and new million-dollar walkways is not relative to education or tourism. Our county became famous and tourism flourished when we had that $500 promotion building at the lake. Recklessly spent money does not help the county; it puts a greater burden on us. Help!

Thomas E. Doyle

To the Editor:

I would like to respond to the recent letter of Heather L. Hanline, executive director of the Dove Center, by making a few minor points.

1. Del. Beitzel is correct in his statement about the deterioration of 2nd Amendment rights. Any law that gives police the right to confiscate weapons from a household is a direct violation of both the 2nd and 4th amendments.

2. Weapons are already seized when charges of domestic violence are brought.

3. Anyone can file a restraining order against anyone for any reason, which would mean we are all now at risk.

4. A stultifying majority of victims of domestic violence return to the abusive situation voluntarily for unknown reasons.

5. Firearms are not necessary for the perpetration of domestic violence. Baseball bats, fists, cooking utensils, gardening implements, sex toys, TV remotes, telephone cords, children's accessories, curtain rods, clothes hangers, hand tools, pointy sticks, frozen-food items, asphalt shingles, household pets, office supplies, and mailbox flags also make wonderful assaultive devices.

6. Perhaps if our ever benevolent government didn't make it next to impossible to purchase, own, or carry, much less use, a firearm in self-defense, some of these victims could – horror of horrors – protect themselves and not have to depend on the police, who very often aren't there anyway, because they're too busy giving out traffic citations.

Anyway, just wanted to help by pointing out some things that Heather Hanline seems to be conveniently ignorant of.

By the way, to whom do I apply when the cops kick in my door because I looked at someone funny? Can I file a protective order against them? What about this door? Hey, who's going to save my life? Hmmm. Maybe I should buy a firearm.

Thanks, and have a great day!

To the Editor:

The wind turbine debate is multi-faceted. One aspect is the cost; operational, aesthetic, and environmental. Is renewable energy – in this case, wind – cost worthy?

The discussion is also highly emotional. It ventures into several high-stakes arenas like land use, zoning, and commerce. Locally, it will be followed up with code home rule.

For those of us who try to stay informed on issues that will have lasting impact on Garrett County, the bigger problem with the wind turbine discussion has been the tone.

Public accounts on the subject are becoming riddled with variations of the same faulty reasoning and partial truths.

Summarizing these exchanges and their speed of contagion is reminiscent of the childhood game of gossip. Remember? Start with "the blue jay is pretty" and end with "Jay is pretty blue."

Headline stories with statements like "wind electricity doesn't reduce greenhouse gases" serve to set up a straw man. It establishes fallacy. Utilizing wind electricity as an alternative to fossil fuels will demonstrate, over time, reductions in both CO_2 emissions and health-care related costs.

So, why pursue roads to nowhere? If, as cited by wind-industry representatives, independent environmental and technical studies have been completed and contracts require a decommissioning bond, what good was served in spinning circles only to muddy the water?

It leaves two unflattering thoughts: either the state doesn't have the ability or interest in designing proper contracts, or posturing and pandering is being put into high gear for election season.

The more cogent discussion is whether wind energy makes sense in Mountain Maryland.

Beyond the pale in the debate, however, has been the use of ad hominems; attacking the person presenting a particular point of view rather than the merits of that view.

One could rightfully argue that there is room for improvements in private and public operational governance – arm's-length transactions, due diligence, employee relations, accountability, and transparency, to name a few. It is frustrating.

However, comments aimed to paint community friends, including elected officials, as a bit of an "Aunt Sally" are enough to cause the open-minded to bristle. It is counterproductive, not to mention unkind. It is not how we customarily do things; well, not publicly, anyway.

Let's raise the bar in the discussion by sticking more to facts, less to hyperbole, and by showing the good sense to let go of the hubris and the ego. The public deserves better.

Sincerely,
Susan Athey-Oxford

To the Editor:

I am writing to express an injustice and possibly bias toward Garrett County residents.

I and approximatelv 30 other residents were hired by the U.S. Census Bureau under the Department of Commerce to undertake the verifying and mapping of Garrett County. We had 3½ days of classroom training, starting on March 30, and field work, including a mandatory Saturday that same week.

As of that Monday we were in the field. The census is very important to our county, as it is an indicator of what type of revenue we receive for schools, roads, etc. It has to be very accurate.

This is a big county and we have had a lot of building in the last 10 years. It is extremely important to locate and verify every site. This was highly stressed.

Even so, we were using our Garrett County work ethics and getting the job done. We are over 30% complete and are constantly being pushed by the Frederick office for more production.

Then on Monday of this week, four people were fired for lack of production.

On Tuesday of this week, I was fired for basically over producing and finishing a project instead of going back another day to finish. I was 15 minutes over, for the entire week, according to them – whoever they are. This was their reason for termination. However, my records indicate I was right at 40 hours, and I turned in no overtime.

Today (Wednesday), six more people were fired, including two crew leaders for the reason of "under producing," and their job is to support the field workers.

We as a group have learned that census takers in Alleganv County are being asked if they will be willing to work in Garrett County!

From the original 30, Garrett County has lost over 20 jobs.

This seems to be a slap in the face for Garrett County. We are defmitely much more capable of mapping our county than Allegany County residents are, and we need for these jobs to be kept in Garrett County! Plus, they would have to pay mileage for them to come here.

Something is definitely stinking! Thought you would like to know.

might face a budget gap of $1 billion next year, leading some lawmakers to see the session as a missed opportunity.

"We have not solved our long-term budget problems," said Senate Minority Leader Allan Kittleman, R-Carroll. "We lost the opportunity to make a real change in the way we structure our budget."

The session came to a close only after the House and Senate reached an agreement on a bill to bring Maryland driver's licenses into compliance with the federal Real ID Act Monday night. The compromise legislation passed 76-60 in the House and 29-16 in the Senate.

The final legislation will go into effect June 1, when new applicants will have to provide proof of lawful status in order to receive a license. Those already possessing a license will be allowed to renew it without such documentation, but cannot use it for federal purposes or airline travel.

By July 1, 2015, all licenses in the state will require proof of lawful status.

In another late-session move, the General Assembly approved a bill backed by O'Malley authorizing the state to purchase or use eminent domain to take over Pimlico Race Course, Laurel Park, and the rights to the storied Triple Crown race.

O'Malley signed the bill Tuesday, less than a week after it was introduced.

Canada-based Magna Entertainment Corp., which owns the racetracks and the rights to the Preakness, filed for bankruptcy in early March and has asked a judge for permission to auction off its assets. State leaders are worried Maryland could lose the Preakness Stakes in a bankruptcy auction, either through a direct sale or from the sale of Pimlico to an owner not interested in hosting the race.

Throughout the session, O'Malley stressed the need to protect education spending from deep budget cuts.

The budget includes provisions to freeze in-state, undergraduate tuition for a fourth consecutive year, one of O'Malley's top legislative priorities.

Funds for public school construction will surpass $1 billion over a three-year period, and the Thornton Bridge to Excellence in Education Plan, which provides more money to counties where the cost of education is greater, will be fully funded.

Community colleges were spared some of the deep cuts proposed at the start of the session and ended up receiving nearly a 4 percent increase in funding. However, that increase is still $34 million less than prescribed by state funding formulas.

Clay Whitlow, the executive director of the Maryland Association of Community Colleges, said "we feel very fortunate" the legislature recognized the role community colleges play in helping the state weather a recession.

"I think the funding we received is recognition by the governor and the legislature of the importance of community colleges," he said. "We're part of the solution to the problem, and I think they recognize that."

A few of O'Malley's major initiatives failed to reach his desk for signing.

Lawmakers rejected a proposal that would have given the state the ability to pursue civil lawsuits against people filing fraudulent claims with state health insurance programs. They also turned back an electricity re-regulation bill that would have allowed the state to order utility companies to build new power plants or buy electricity.

"There hasn't been any new generation of energy in years and years and years," O'Malley said. "And there won't be any new generation in our state until the Public Service Commission has the authority to order it."

O'Malley said he plans to bring back the re-regulation and Medicaid fraud legislation next year.

O'Malley also failed to win a full repeal of the death penalty, instead settling for a compromise that merely restricts its use. The final bill, as amended by the Senate, limits use of the death penalty to cases with biological or DNA evidence, videotaped voluntary confessions, or video linking defendants to a crime.

Lead sponsor Sen. Lisa Gladden, D-Baltimore, said she would introduce a full repeal bill again next year, and offer an amendment for repeal to every bill related to the issue.

The session also saw disappointing returns on the state's efforts to bring in bids for slots machines, a move O'Malley touted as necessary to support the state's schools and its horseracing industry. The state received qualified bids for only 6,550 of the 15,000 machines legalized in a November referendum.

Two of O'Malley's other initiatives proved more successful. The General Assembly passed a bill authorizing the use of speed cameras in highway construction zones and school areas throughout the state, as well as domestic abuse bills that would require the seizure of guns for final protective orders and grant judges the discretion to remove them for temporary ones.

Environmental groups gained a major victory with the passage of the Greenhouse Gas Emissions Reduction Act of 2009, which pledges a 25 percent reduction from 2006 greenhouse gas levels emitted in the state by 2020. The General Assembly also passed legislation requiring new septic systems in areas immediately surrounding the bay and its tributaries to have nitrogen-removing technology.

However, the state cut funding to the Chesapeake Bay 2010 Trust Fund to $10 million, a $15 million reduction from the governor's initial budget proposal. And while the General Assembly passed a bill requiring annual progress reports from local governments on smart growth initiatives, the Senate removed a key provision that would require counties to concentrate 80 percent of new construction inside designated growth areas.

At a bill signing ceremony Tuesday, O'Malley called the session "difficult," but praised the General Assembly for its work.

"It's easy to make progress in easy times," O'Malley said, "but it's even more important to make progress in hard times."

STREAM-WADERS JUMP INTO PROJECT – The Friends of Deep Creek Lake, a volunteer organization with the purpose of preserving and protecting the watershed of the lake, is currently engaged in a water-sampling project. The members participated in a Maryland Stream Waders workshop led by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources in late February. The volunteers are checking the many tributaries of Deep Creek Lake for various organisms that help determine the "health" of the water. In the photo above, Jeff Craddock is pictured left as he unloads his sampling net into a filtering bucket, as Craig Haseler, Barbara Beelar, and Daniel (last name not provided) look for small organisms. Chris Haseler, at right, is shown holding the small bucket where the samples are collected and then sent to the DNR lab for analysis. This photo was taken in the upper reaches of Deep Creek near the Moss Creek development off Sand Flat Road. In the photo below, Frank Shap from Garrett County Economic Development is pictured with Craig Haseler, who is a high school senior from Fairfax, Va., as they examine their findings. This photo was taken near the Ardsley Farms. For more information about the Friends of Deep Creek Lake, persons may e-mail Beelar at contact@friendsofdcl.org. Persons may also visit the web site at friendsofdcl.org. (Note: The organization is not directly affiliated with the Department of Natural Resources.)

Ask Sheila

Decorating Dilemma?
Sheila offers helpful advice.

Dear Sheila:

We got a nice tax refund and I would like to freshen things up. I really do not know where to start! I know I like wallpaper but I don't think I can do all the areas I would like to do. Is there any way to mix paper and paint in the same area?

Questions

Dear ???s:

It is very common to mix paint and wallcoverings. We do it all the time. Wallcoverings just give a room that extra punch that is needed. We co-ordinate the paint to compliment the room and VOILA! A great look! Stop in and check out our designer collections for spring

ROWLESBURG SCHOOL WINS $5,000 – When Jennifer Short of Terra Alta found out that Big Lots Stores was conducting a national contest to benefit schools, she set her sights on helping Rowlesburg School win the grand prize of $10,000 that was to be awarded to a school in need. Her video entry was deemed one of the best, making the school a finalist in the competition along with 170 other schools throughout the country. Voting on the finalists via the Internet was the next step, and while Rowlesburg School just missed out on the grand prize, it was one of three first-place schools, each of which received $5,000. The prize money increased, however, as viewers of the video from around the country began sending money, soup labels, and box tops for education. The school also received donated boxes of supplies from places including Oakland, New Jersey, and Nevada. "A woman in Mississippi who enters contests won a computer for herself and one for a school of her choice, and she selected Rowlesburg," said Short. "All in all, the school received over $7,000 in cash and supplies." In the photo above, from left, are: Howie Long, manager of the Big Lots in Morgantown; Dale Elam, Big Lots regional manager; Jennifer Short; and Jennifer Loughry, Rowlesburg School PTO president. "This school year for the Rowlesburg students is certainly brighter because of lots of caring folks," said Short, noting her appreciation to all who voted and/or made donations.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

Bob Opel is visiting Bittinger from Alaska for a few weeks. Of course, when you take that lengthy a trip, it's not just for a few days. One of his relatives here in Bittinger is Mary Brenneman-Frey.

Mary hosted Ruth Detrick and her son Adam from Eighty-Four, Pa. They were able to get Mary outside for awhile last Sunday afternoon to enjoy the still somewhat rare sunshine.

Ruth said that her mother's little dog Toby already shows some aging effects. He is not as frisky as before, and sometimes when they take a longer walk, his little short legs get tired, so Ruth sometimes has to carry him home. He is only 7 years old, which is pretty young for a small breed.

My Boo is at least a dozen years old, which is starting to get up there for large breeds like Labs. She started to have trouble jumping on the couch, and especially at bedtime when she likes to join me on my bed. That is becoming more and more difficult for her.

When Steve Schlosnagle and I visited Europe in May, we hoped to visit our daughter's French teacher in her home town of Milan. We were able to find her phone number, but when we called it, we was stuck in an area outside of Milan where an earthquake hit. And I saw on the news this morning that another earthquake hit Italy, causing much damage in the small villages. I hope that our former teacher, Signora Rosette, is all right, because she was quite a character.

In the quest for local news, I encountered some problems trying to reach people who live in the heart of Bittinger. For some reason, the answering machine would pick up at the parsonage, but when Cindy finally answered the phone in person, she told me that the parsonage's phone was experiencing some serious problems. When she tried to listen to messages, there was only static. But she was able to give some local news.

The first was that her husband, Pastor Randy Richardson, bagged a large wild boar on his recent hunting trip in Tennessee with a group of his cousins. They scored nine wild boars, including one shot with a bow by a female cousin. I wonder what wild boar's meat tastes like.

The second news item is that Ethel Buckel had another stroke, this one very minor, thank goodness. She was able to exit the hospital after only a very short stay, and is at home with her son Buck and his family. I heard from someone who talked to her recently (I forget who) that she sends a big 'thank you" to all the folks in Bittinger who sent good wishes to her.

Bittinger probably experienced a big flood of visitors for the holiday.

At last, I was able to get Linda Buckel's answering machine to pick up after maybe 10 attempts, so maybe I can update about how her mother Lottie Brenneman is doing.

How challenging the job of getting some local news items is, is represented by the difficulty I experienced in even getting a list of visitors of my own mother. I knew one visitor, my brother Barry, who came up for a little weekend visit. He was supposed to bring me the list of recent visitors, but he showed up without it.

We were able to watch one game of the Final Four. I'm glad that the Final Four was played in Michigan, and Michigan State was able to advance to the final game. That was good news for that poor struggling state, but unfortunately, they lost to the ACC powerhouse North Carolina. That was the team President Obama picked to win the national championship.

The Women of Evangelical Lutheran Church will hold a cluster gathering at Emmanuel, featuring a talk and picture show of a trip to Tanzania in Africa. All women should bring an item suitable for a layette, like baby lotion, diaper wipes, receiving blankets, a sleeper gown, or any item for newborn care.

The family of Lottie Brenneman gathered at her home for a big Easter dinner, and all of her grandchildren were there. She was not responsible for any cooking, but she did offer to make a salad. She was able to take off the boot from her bad foot, and an X-ray showed that her broken bone is healing very well and she will not need surgery.

Everyone was glad to see my mother Ruth DiPaolo at the Easter morning service. She gave some brief remarks about how grateful she is to everyone for their show of caring and love, and for all the prayers. She is also thankful for the apparently successful chemotherapy. In any case, her tumor is shrinking significantly. She asked for everyone to keep on praying, because she is determined to get a miracle. Her family can't get along without her, especially me.

We had a large Easter family gathering, with my mother the center of attention, of course. In addition to her four surviving sons and daughters, present were all 10 of her grandchildren, who love to catch up with each other. They are now almost like siblings, since the families live so close, while my cousins on both sides spread from coast to coast. But at least once in awhile, their families traveled east. Not surprisingly, we were closer to our Maryland cousins.

As usual, Lesa and Maddy Whitemore joined my family's holiday celebration.

Claire started her training to begin her work on the census. One of her first addresses had several warning signs posted about trespassing and people being shot. I wonder if my mother encountered that kind of heat when she worked in the 1960 census. I doubt it, since it's only recently that the best way to get attention is waving a gun. It think it has gone way too far. In fact, our nation is being held hostage by guns.

Jim Wagner, second husband of the late Margaret Hershberger, died last Tuesday in Ruby Memorial Hospital, apparently as a result of a brain aneurism. His viewing was on Saturday evening, and his funeral was held at Emmanuel Lutheran in Bittinger on Monday.

I'm glad that the word "pirate" is used most often to refer to the Pittsburgh baseball team. We enjoyed a good viewing of their first game last Saturday, which they won.

I'm glad to hear the news that the White House dog is somewhat of a rescued dog ... not from an animal shelter, but a puppy returned to its breeders. Edward Kennedy has had Portuguese water dogs, and he presented the new puppy as a gift to the Obamas.

I heard from Sheila Southerly that people have seen an unusually large number of deer around. Very unfortunately, Claire hit one on Rock Lodge Road. I guess it's breeding season for them, and in Bittinger it's too common an event. There are at least two or three dead deer along Rock Lodge Road.

Luckily, my car is not too severely damaged, just a headlight out and a small dent in the hood. It could be worse. But I don't blame Claire, because it is nearly impossible to miss a deer apparently bent on committing suicide.

Cheryl and Tim Bender hosted a family gathering for Easter Sunday for Tim's family, including three sisters, two brothers, their spouses, and several children. They enjoyed a big Easter egg hunt.

It is a sad day for me, because today is the first Monday in the last month that I have not gotten to have physical therapy. But I was pretty lucky to get another three weeks of it to address some severe pain in my leg and hip. We planned to take lots of outdoor walks, but the weather didn't cooperate at all. Every Monday and Friday it was either way too cold or too rainy. But I can take those walks with anyone around.

But Marina felt that I made much progress in my strength, and was able to isolate the muscles where I am paralyzed, so I can make my quads be independent of my hip muscles.

It was so wonderful to have all three of my daughters with me during Easter weekend. I didn't get to spend all the time with them, but it was better to have a few hours at a time than none at all. They dedicated several hours each evening to visiting my mother – their Gran – and played cards with her.

I was happy to find a Pirates game on television. It is opening day in Pittsburgh (Monday), and they have the largest opening day crowd ever. The large turnout reflected a widely held hope that this season will be much better. Well, already it is off to a great start. The Pirates are above .500, and that never happened last year. They have had some very good hitting, and even the pitching was good – a shut-out. The final score was 7-0. Let's go, Bucs!

Lenny and Torrey Poholsky were at the game. They had great seats and enjoyed the game enormously. They were very lucky to have a Pirates game during Easter weekend, because those two guys are the biggest Pirate fans.

Torrey made the long drive back to school in Greensboro, N.C., but while he was home he joined my nephews while their band performed in Donegal, Pa., the Saturday evening before Easter. In spite of the somewhat late night, all the Bittinger boys made it to the Easter morning service at Emmanuel Lutheran.

Sally and Lenny Poholsky hosted an Easter day family gathering. Guests included Cindy and Sam Stanton, Aaron Stanton and his daughter McKenna, and Dave and Nancy Beachy.

The opening of Brenema's Store is on the way, scheduled for the first week of May. Lois Smith's son is back in Bittinger from Florida, and is busy with preparations for the opening.

In one way it was too bad that our Easter dinner was at the Bass house instead of the Glotfelty house. At Rodney's house, we would have watched the Pirates' game instead of the Orioles'. It was a disappointing result for the Oriole fans in my family, which are cousin Courtney Englar, since he grew not far from Baltimore, and his mother Helen, a huge Orioles fan, the Bass family, and my Claire, who just likes to go against the flow.

The Pirates wore Pittsburgh Bureau of Police caps in honor of the tragic murder of three policemen. They wanted to do something to help, and maybe lift the spirits in Pittsburgh.

I guess the weather for Easter day was about as good as we could expect in Bittinger. Yes, the sun was shining, and it wasn't bitter cold, but it certainly was not pleasantly warm. In mid-afternoon, it was about 40 degrees. Well, at least we did not get any snow during Easter weekend. We did have a decent snowfall in the early part of last week, but it was pretty much off the ground by Easter Sunday. So I assume Cheryl Bender's Easter egg hunt was a big success.

I couldn't believe my eyes on the way to the car to go to church. I saw some yellow in my patch of daffodils in my flower box on my deck. It was good to see some color, and not just a glimmer of color.

And one sure sign of spring is the arrival of a mass of black birds. I'm not sure if they're starlings or not, but I know they arrive every spring, not in late winter. They made their presence known by constant chattering

We are definitely on our way up toward spring, but we still are waiting for warmth – enough so we don't have to worry about jackets or coats. Sadly, I still need to turn on the heat a little bit.

Pastor Randy and Cindy had a houseful of family for the Easter holiday, including their son and his wife, who just announced that she is expecting another grandchild for Randy and Cindy. But it is still in the very early stages, so they don't have a due date.

Speaking of grandchildren, I saw the grandson of Gary and Sharon Buckel, the son of Leslie and her husband. He is around a year old. But Kandi and Tyler Smith took their new baby girl to a family function near Pittsburgh with Kandy's in-laws, Rob and Cheryl Smith. Tyler headed back to Kent Island, but Kandi was able to hang around at least until Monday.

A retreat to plan the next few years for Bittinger Lutheran Parish will be held this Sunday, April 19, between 1 and 6 p.m. at Uno's.

The Mother-Daughter Banquet sponsored by the Women of the Lutheran Church will be held on Monday, May 11. The deadline for reservations is May 3. Persons should call Mary Brenneman at 301-245-4228 or Jenny Hady at 301-245-4520.

GCHD To Host Child Safety Seat Check April 18

The Garrett County Health Department is holding a free Child Safety Seat Check on Saturday, April 18, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the parking lot of the Oakland McDonald's.

"Trained personnel will check the car seats to make sure they are the right size and style for the child," said Diane Lee, highway safety coordinator at the GCHD. "We will also make sure the seat has not been recalled, and that it is installed correctly."

Several troopers from the McHenry barrack of the Maryland State Police will assist with this event as part of the 2009 Maryland Law Enforcement Challenge.

For more information about the seat check, or for answers to questions about child safely seats, persons may contact Lee at the GCHD at 301-334-7730, 301-895-3111, or by e-mail at leed@dhmh.state.md.us.

READY TO CRUISE in his car seat is J.D. Nesselrodt, son of Cheryl and Doug Nesselrodt, Kitzmiller, who understand that the current recommendation by child safety experts is that rear-facing is the safest car seat position for children from 18 to 24 months. The Garrett County Health Department will be hosting a free Child Safety Seat Check, and those interested are encouraged to attend. Trained personnel will be on hand to check car seats to make sure they are the right size and style for the child. See story for more details.

To the Aurora, Bethel and Stemple Ridge Churches
For the thoughtful and delicious meal they prepared.
To our cousin Debbie who was such a big help when Mother needed those delicate shots.
To aunt Pat who gave us the bed rail and chair that we could have never gotten along without.
We also want to thank all the people who sent cards to Mother When she would receive a card, she was moved by such thoughtfulness.
She had most of them on display in her home and many times would comment how nice it was that people would send such beautiful cards.
To all the family and friends who came to visit her, and gave support to our family during her hard battle with such an unrelenting illness.
Most of all we thank God for making her a strong woman and for giving us a Mother who was always there to help us.
She will be forever missed.
With love and gratitude,

FSU TO PRESENT SHAKESPEARE'S HENRY V – For the final event of the 2008-2009 season, the Cultural Events Series at Frostburg State University will present the Acting Company/Guthrie Theater Production of Henry V by William Shakespeare on Tuesday, April 28, at 7:30 p.m. in the FSU Performing Arts Center. This production, directed by Davis McCallum, follows the charismatic warrior king's aggressive pursuit of the French crown, as he and his band of men confront the brutality of warfare and their own destinies, a spokesperson said. The Acting Company was founded in 1972 by Margot Harley and producer and actor John Houseman, with stars like Kevin Kline, Patti LuPone and others in the first graduating class of Juilliard's Drama Division. Since then it has performed 131 plays to audiences in 48 states and 10 foreign countries. The Acting Company was honored in 2003 with a Tony Award for Excellence in Theater. Tickets for Henry V are $16 for adults and $11 for those under 17. Group rate tickets are also available. EN ROUTE: A PARAMEDIC'S STORIES OF LIFE, DEATH, AND EVERYTHING IN BETWEEN

by Steven "Kelly" Grayson

C. 2009, Kaplan Publishing; $24.95; 303 pages

Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

The pain started in your shoulder. No big deal. You convinced yourself it was nothing. Really.

But then, it spread. Your left arm hurt, and your ribs and your chest. Especially your chest. This was not good.

You called 9-1-1 and a truck came to your house, sirens howling, monitors beeping. Curious neighbors stopped in their yards to watch two hefty guys wheel you through your front door, flat on a gurney.

You're fine now. But then, you sure were glad to see those EMTs with their sirens and monitors.

Now how about seeing life from the other side of the siren? Read the new book En Route by Steven "Kelly" Grayson.

New EMTs are taught to expect calamity, but that was too a mild word to describe the place where Kelly Grayson got his first gig as an emergency medical technician. The job was with a start-up company run by former employees of the "big outfit" in the area, and their new office was a mess filled with papers, equipment, and "EMTs sleeping on every horizontal surface..."

Grayson, who was little more than a rookie, abruptly learned that he was hired when a call came in and the owners said, "Let's go!" For an EMT-Basic who didn't even have a uniform yet, it was an exciting call...

Until the patient had an accident of a different kind, all over Grayson's front.

That inauspicious event was the beginning of a career that took Grayson all over the back roads and highways of northwestern Louisiana. It allowed him to make some life-long friends and to help people who made such an impression on him that he wrote about them in this book. If it weren't for the job, Grayson wouldn't have met his wife.

But as he racked up months and miles, through fights and friendships with doctors, repeat patients, and clueless colleagues, Grayson felt he was burning out. Horrified, he wondered how an eager, formerly sympathetic medical professional could lose his compassion so easily. He wondered why he stayed at the job.

One December, he found out why.

En Route has everything you could want in a true-medical memoir: lots of excitement, some good laughs, plenty of practical-joke-type tales, an abundance of scampish "frequent-flyer" patients (the supporting-cast kind you see on TV), moments of tenderness, and one gigantic story not for the squeamish. It's a trauma-drama fan's dream, except for one thing.

Author Grayson's chapters tend to jump around, timeline-wise. There were several loose ends here, story arcs that (I thought) were over, but then (surprise!) continued several chapters later with something completely different in between. I paged back many times, thinking I had missed something. I liked this book very much, but I also happen to like linear thinking. En Route needed more of that.

If you can ignore the (slight) confusion, you'll be rewarded with a tension filled, humorous, and thoughtful book and an ending you won't expect. If you can take each chapter individually, pick up En Route and increase your heart rate a bit.

Tickets Remain For Workshop At Our Town

Our Town Theatre's production of Family Violence Workshop (FVW) will open this evening with a students-only performance, followed by performances for the general public on both Friday and Saturday evenings at 8 p.m.

Students attending this evening will receive two hours of community service learning credit.

Jane Avery, artistic director of OTT and director of FVW, said that there are still seats available at both general public performances. She said that the play is a compilation of real-life monologues and dialogs that focus on the devastating effects of a wide variety of family violence and abusive behavior. It also provides a number of possible alternatives and positive responses to situations that can lead to a peaceful, rather than violent, resolution.

"At various points in the production, members of the audience will have opportunity to provide their own suggestions," Avery said.

Interwoven among the monologues and dialogs will be appropriate musical numbers performed by Random Violets band members Richard Hill, Liz and Jeff Gilbert, and Adam Sincell.

Tickets are $5 each, with all proceeds going to the Dove Center, Garrett County's domestic abuse shelter. Persons are strongly encouraged to make reservations for either the Friday or Saturday performances by telephoning OTT at 301-334-5640.

Local Artist's Pottery Avail. At Oakland Shoppe

The Shoppe at Heritage Square, located in the 1884 B&O Railroad Station, has recently made available for purchase the pottery of Garrett County resident Pam Snyder.

'We are proud to welcome Pam Snyder and her wonderful assortment of pottery to the Shoppe at Heritage Square," said Charlie Ross, president/CEO of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. "We hope that area residents and visitors stop by the Shoppe to peruse her collection, and those of the other terrific local craftspeople and farmers who provide for the Shoppe, and perhaps pick up a few of these wonderful locally made items."

Snyder has been making pottery for the past 32 years. She is a graduate of West Virginia University with a bachelor's of fine art with emphasis in ceramics, as well as a bachelor's of science in interior design. Upon coming to GC, she was the resident potter at Penn Alps Artisan Village for three years. She previously owned and operated Jan Florist in Oakland for 27 years. After retiring, she now makes pottery full time, and her work focuses on wheel thrown functional stoneware.

Snyder's display of pottery items includes mugs, vases, bowls, platters, and pitchers. Also available at the Shoppe are products from other area craftspeople and farmers which include syrups, jams, buckwheat flour, photography, candles, and more.

Operating as a partnership between the GCCC and the town of Oakland, the Shoppe at Heritage Square opened in May 2004 as a retail venture that features the work of area craftspeople.

For information about the Shoppe or the GCCC, persons may visit www.visitdeepcreek.com or may call 301-387-4386. For more information about the town of Oakland, persons may call 301-334-2691 or visit the web site at www.oaklandmd.com.

LOCAL RESIDENTS MEET "ERNESTINE" – Comedienne Lily Tomlin performed at the Lyric Opera House in Baltimore on April 3. Melodee Hill, Renée Shreve, and Connie Reams, all of the Oakland area, and Deborah Stilwell, Hamilton Square, N.J., saw the nearly two-hour show and met the comedienne during a reception held in her honor after the performance. Tomlin is, perhaps, best known for her work on the late 1960s television series Laugh-In with Rowan and Martin, in which she played such characters as 6-year-old Edith Ann and Ernestine the telephone operator. Tomlin has since appeared in other TV shows, including Desperate Housewives and The West Wing, and such movies as Nine to Five, in which she co-starred with Jane Fonda and Dolly Parton. Tomlin noted that 9 to 5: The Musical would open on Broadway on April 7, starring Allison Janney, Stephanie Block, and Megan Hilty. The musical premiered in Los Angeles, Calif., in September 2008. Tomlin, Fonda, and Parton attended the event together. Tomlin indicated that it was bit surreal for them to see the younger actresses playing the characters they portrayed in the movie. Parton wrote the music and lyrics for 9 to 5: The Musical. Pictured, left to right, are Stilwell, Reams, Tomlin, Shreve, and Hill.

Nearly 1,000 students from over 100 schools across western Pennsylvania and Maryland competed for $750,000 in cash prizes and scholarships at this year's fair. Three students, Sydney LeGeer, Natalie Arnold, and Sam Thomas, received awards for their projects. Thomas, who received honorable mention for his project on CO^2 release, was pictured in last week's issue of The Republican. have also been submitted to MDE for review and issuance of construction permits.

"We are [also] still waiting on the wetlands, stormwater management, and NPDES permits from MDE," Lindsey added.

She told the commissioners that MDE had originally approved a $743,000 loan a few years ago for the Mtn. Lake Park project, but the state is now offering a $733,000 federal stimulus grant to pay for the improvements.

That project, however, originally included an expensive filtration system, but DPU has since drilled new wells and their high quality water will only need a simple chlorination system. As a result, DPU will not need that portion of the funding that was earmarked for the filtration system.

Lindsey said she has asked MDE if she could use the filtration system money toward the purchase of a 500,000-gallon water storage tank for the Mtn. Lake Park system. But, so far, MDE has rejected her request, as the tank was not part of the original project plan.

The director said she can appeal MDE's denial, but there is also another option. Stimulus funding through the Community Development Block Grant program may be available to help pay for the tank. She noted that the stimulus funds are for shovel-ready projects, and the Mtn. Lake Park project certainly fits that qualification.

The director also reported on the proposed Thayerville Water System. DPU has reviewed the draft of the preliminary engineering report that was prepared by SPECS Inc. of Cumberland and has forwarded comments to the project engineer.

"The report should be finalized by the end of April," Lindsey said.

Following completion of the preliminary engineering report, a public hearing will be scheduled to consider the petition DPU received from Thayerville residents requesting water service. The preliminary engineering report and the feasibility and probable cost of providing public water service to the Thayerville area will also be considered at the hearing.

Lindsey indicated that residents in that area are in much need of a public water system, and since it is a pubic health issue, grant funding may be available.

Commissioner Denny Glotfelty noted that county tax money would not be used for the project. It would be paid for by the Thayerville water customers and possibly grant funding.

The director also reported on the Puzzley Run water appropriation project. She said DPU is awaiting approval from the Maryland Department of Natural Resources to enter the site in order to complete the aquifer test, Tier II stream impact evaluation, and the fractured rock hydrogeolocial investigation.

"All other items contained in the application package for the water appropriation permit have been completed by DPU and submitted to MDE," Lindsey added.

Glotfelty noted that the project would provide a much needed water source for residents in the northern end of the county, plus fire suppression for Northern Middle and Northern High schools.

Sewer Projects

The DPU director also reported on the Friendsville sewer inflow and infiltration project. She said project bids were opened on Feb 26.

"The apparent low bidder was Orange Construction Corporation from Morgantown. W.Va., with a bid in the amount of $561,761.82," Lindsey said. "Bid documentation has been submitted to MDE and is currently being reviewed."

She noted that the bid was about half of what her department estimated the project would cost.

Lindsey also reported that the sewer line extension from Hopeland Village to Hotel Road in Deer Park has been completed. She said the system was tested Monday and is now in operation.

LAKERS DROP SLUGFEST TO CATS – After the Garrett College baseball team handed archrival Allegany College of Maryland a one-run defeat (6-5) last Thursday, the Lakers suffered the same fate on Friday, falling to the visiting Catamounts of Potomac State College, 14-13. The contest featured a total of 36 hits, 18 by each team, and included six home runs. An unidentified Catamount makes contact with the ball in the photo above off a pitch by Garrett's Brandon Piper. Lakers Edge Allegany Trojans Before Being Edged By Cats

While rainy weather forced postponement of a doubleheader at Prince George's CC on Saturday, the Garrett College baseball team did manage to get a pair of games in late last week, one each against two of their biggest rivals, and each ended in one-run margins.

Coach Eric Hallenbeck's squad recorded a big 6-5 Maryland JUCO win over the Trojans of Allegany College of Maryland in Cumberland last Thursday before being edged by visiting Potomac State College on Friday, 14-13.

The Lakers' record is now 19-15 overall and 7-7 in JUCO contests.

Jason Ashby led a Laker rally against Allegany (28-8, 13-5) by driving in a run in the sixth and another in the eighth, which was the game-winner.

The game was considered a home contest for the Lakers, but because their diamond was covered with snow, it was moved to the AC field. So the Trojans batted first, and jumped out to a 3-0 lead.

The Lakers responded with a single run in the bottom of the first, one in the second, and two in the third to take a 4-3 edge.

AC regained the lead, 5-4, by scoring two runs in the top of the fourth on a two-run blast by A.J. Czap.

Then in the bottom of the sixth, Ricardo Cordido walked for the Lakers. Brett Martin then singled, and a throwing error put runners on first and third with one out. Cordido then scored the tying run via an RBI groundout by Ashby.

The score remained knotted at 5-5 until the bottom of the eighth, when Cordido led off with a single, stole second, moved to third on a fielder's choice, and came home on a single by Ashby to plate what would be the winning run.

The Trojans nearly pulled off their own rally in the top of the ninth, as Ethan Newton, who led off with a single, was ultimately thrown out at the plate. The third out was recorded when reliever Matt Sisler got Brad Kling to line out to center field.

Sisler, who took the mound in the sixth, got credit for the win, allowing only two hits and no runs. Ryan MacNamara worked six innings for the Trojans and struck out seven.

Newton had three singles for the Trojans, and Sam Watkins provided a double.

The game against Potomac State on Friday turned out to be a slugfest, as a strong wind toward the outfield helped six hit balls go over the fence. There were a total of 36 hits in the contest, with each team recording 18.

Two of those round-trippers were smacked by PSC's Dominick Hayes, and it was his second one in the top of the ninth that led to the Catamount victory.

After 3½ innings were completed, the visitors held a 5-0 lead, and they were on top by a 7-4 margin going into the bottom of the sixth. But that's when the Lakers erupted for seven runs to take an 11-7 advantage.

The Catamounts responded with three runs in their half of the seventh and one more in the top of the eighth to tie the score at 11-11.

Garrett Rogers hit a solo homer in the bottom of the eighth to give the Lakers a brief 12-11 lead going into the ninth, but PSC put three more runs on the board in that inning and led for good.

Gary Williams led off the Catamount's ninth with a single, and Hayes followed with his second two-run homer of the game to give PSC a 13-11 edge.

Kurtis Voytell followed with a single and later scored an all-important insurance run via a sacrifice fly by Justin Grantham.

The Lakers rallied for one run in the bottom of the ninth, but it was not enough.

Hayes had a single to go with his pair of two-run shots, Voytell finished with a homer and three singles for three RBI, and Cody Dalton contributed a double and a single for two RBI.

The Lakers were led by Scott Wilson with three singles, Brett Martin with two doubles and three RBI, Sebastian Niemand with a three-run homer, and Rogers with his solo blast.

The Lakers are scheduled to play a doubleheader at Anne Arundel CC this Saturday, play two games at the College of Southern Maryland on Sunday, travel to Montgomery Germantown for a twinbill on Tuesday, and host Lackawanna CC in a doubleheader next Thursday.

Remaining undefeated thus far for the 2009 season is the top ranked varsity baseball team of Northern High School, with a record of 7-0 overall and 7-0 in the Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference. The Huskies edged Frankfort, 8-7, on Friday with a six-run seventh inning rally, and went on to crush Keyser, 10-2, on Monday in Accident. Tuesday's game against Frankfort was postponed.

The Huskies took the lead in the first two innings against Frankfort, recording one run in each, but then went four innings with no runs. The Falcons put the score at 4-2 at the bottom of the fourth and then 7-2 at the bottom of the sixth. Northern made a comeback by racking up six runs in the seventh inning for the win.

Thomas Holtschneider took advantage of the Falcons' only error to start the scoring in the seventh, and Matt Watson smacked a two-out grand slam to boost the Huskies. Kyle Gillum and Andrew Sisler each had two singles.

Dan Warnick managed a double, and Brandon Beachy had an RBI single.

Frankfort's Marcus Weaver recorded a two-run single, Dalton Brown had a two-run double, and Skyler Minke provided an RBI single.

On Monday, Northern held Keyser to a scoreless three innings, with the Huskies racking in two runs at the bottom of the second. The Tornados managed a run at the top of the fourth to close in at 2-1. Northern blew open the game in the fifth inning, gaining five runs, and continued in the sixth with three, finishing the night with nine hits.

Beasom pitched six innings, struck out six, and allowed just two hits and two walks from Keyser. Holtschneider relieved in the seventh and provided a two-run single.

Sisler drove in four runs off two 2-run base hits, and Beachy had two hits.

The Tornados were led by Chris Halbritter's RBI groundout. Keyser was held to base hits by Cory Proietti, Thayer Smith, and Cody Spotts.

The Huskies won the junior varsity game, 3-0, with Cody Humberson striking out nine, and Dillon Simone gave up three hits and had six strikeouts. Justin Shaw provided two hits, and Austin Tombley recorded an RBI single. The Keyser jayvees were led by Brent Parrish and Simone.

Northern are scheduled to travel to Bishop Walsh tonight. The Huskies will host Frankfort at 11 a.m. and Southern at 4 p.m. on Saturday, will travel to face the Rams on Monday, and will host Allegany next Thursday.

Have You HEARD?
by M. Keith Nester, Sr., BC-HIS

HOW LOUD?

When assessing the ability of noise to adversely affect hearing, it helps to know how sound is measured. Loudness is measured in units of "decibels" (dB). The "bels" part of the term is a shortening of the word "bells" from the name Alexander Graham Bell, the inventor of the telephone. The decibel scale usually ranges from 0-140 dB, and it is logarithmic, which means that a 2-decibel sound is ten times as loud as a 1-decibel sound. Any sound above 85 decibels can cause ear damage and hearing loss. While typical conversation is about 60 dB, a jet or loud music coming from headphones can exceed 100 dB, which can cause permanent hearing loss in minutes.

Our noisy world offers no guarantees that we'll have perfect hearing throughout our lives. We must accept the responsibility of protecting our hearing, in our recreational pursuits and our home and work environments, and do all we can to correct impairments. If you don't hear as well as you feel you should, don't wait until you feel left out. Have your hearing checked by a hearing specialist at AUDIBEL.

P.S. A nightclub band can produce sound that is about 32 times more intense than ordinary conversation and capable of causing hearing damage.

The Rams went on to compete at Preston on Tuesday, going up against triple-A schools from West Virginia, and the Huskies' boys' team traveled to Meyersdale last night.

At Frankfort, Southern's girls' team finished with 58 points for fifth place and Northern was close behind in sixth with 57 points. In the boys' meet, the Rams were sixth with 38 points and the Huskies had 23 points for eighth place. Further details were unavailable.

The Rams' 4x8 relay team of Jennifer Cosner, Ashley Gordon, Katie Gindlesberger, and Hollingsworth placed third with a time of 11:07. Taking fusts for the Huskies were Jeremy Beitzel in the 110m hurdles with a time of 16.6; Eric Maxim in the 300m hurdles in a time of 44.7; and the 4x4 relay team (names unavailable) recording a time of 4:11.4.

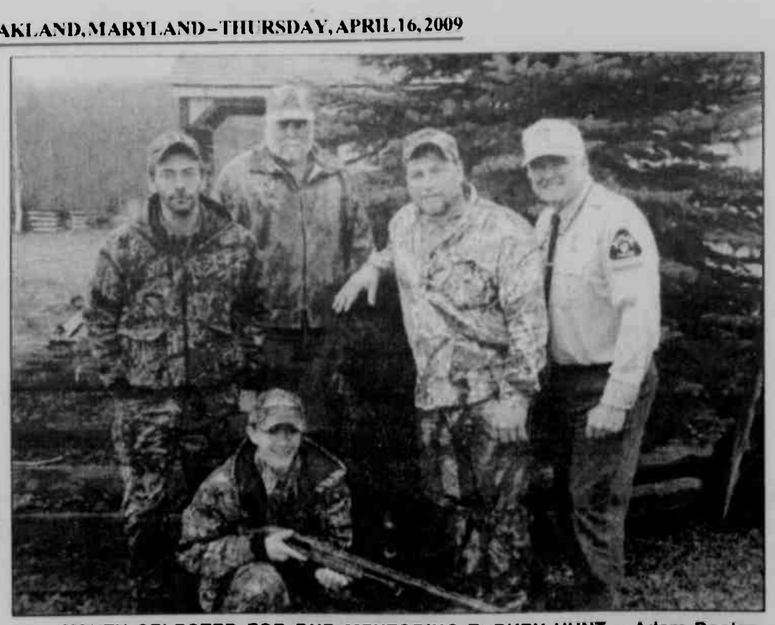
Youth Selected To Participate In DNR Mentored Hunts

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Wildlife & Heritage Service, under the guidance of Clarissa Harris, wildlife response manager at Mt. Nebo Wildlife Management Area, Oakland, recently worked with a number of groups and sponsors to offer the first Mentored Turkey Youth Hunt, which was held in Bittinger.



The selection process for this year's youth hunter started at a Junior Hunter Field Day event, where over 90 young hunters gathered at the Western Maryland 4-H Center, Bittinger. The attendees where selected from the response to a mailing and press release posted by the Maryland DNR to young folks in Allegany and Garrett counties, ages 8 to 16, who purchased a hunting license in 2008.

Adam Doolan, Westernport, was selected at the Junior Hunter Field Day to participate in one of the three mentored hunts. Landowner Lee Brenneman of Golden Meadows Hunt Club and Clays in Bittinger was the host for Doolan. His hunting guide/turkey caller was professional hunting guide Guy Hostutler from Pioneer Quest Game Calls, Pennsylvania. The hunt was videotaped and will be shown later this year for the "Game On" hunting show on the Pursuit Channel of Direct TV.

"The response to our mailing was overwhelming," said Harris. "We actually have a waiting list and have decided to hold another Junior Hunter Field Day event on Oct. 17 at the 4-H Center. This will allow more young folks the opportunity to experience the fun of the great outdoors and learn how to become involved in the management of our natural resources. Our fall event will be geared toward small game and deer hunting."

Four stations were set up at the event. Station 1 was manned by the Maryland Fur Trappers Association, which demonstrated trapping techniques, and the Western Maryland Dog Gun Association, which talked to the kids about field trial competitions. Station 2 covered turkey hunting and calling, and turkey biology and management. Station 3, manned by the Hunter Safety Education staff, allowed the kids to shoot clay birds and learn about shotgun patterning. Station 4 was manned by the Maryland Bowhunters Society and allowed the kids to use compound bows to shoot at 3-D targets.

Sponsors for the event were the Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation, Maryland Chapter of the Wild Turkey Federation, Allegany & Garrett County Sportsmen's Association, Maryland Department of Natural Resources Wildlife and Heritage Service, Natural Resources Police, Becoming an Outdoors Woman, Maryland Archery in Schools Program, and Maryland Black Bear Conservation Program. Also involved were the Maryland Fur Trappers Association, Western Maryland Gun Dog Association, Maryland Bowhunters Society and Western Maryland 4-H Center.

Glotfelty Named To Conference Academic List

Twenty-three McDaniel College student athletes, including one from Garrett County, have been named to the 2008-09 Centennial Conference (CC) Winter Academic Honor Roll. To be nominated for the honor roll, a student-athlete must be a starter or key reserve, be of sophomore standing or higher, and have a cumulative grade-point average of at least 3.40.

FAST ACTING RELIEF

Our federal government passed the First-time Home Buyer Tax Credit last summer, giving buyers reason to get off the fence and into a home. There are just a few requirements, the first being that you haven't owned a home in at least three years.

If so, and you bought a primary residence in the United States last year after April 9, you may claim a credit of up to $7,500 on your 2008 tax return. If you plan to buy this year, then you're really in luck, because the government has increased the credit to $8,000 on homes purchased during the 2009 calendar year.

While the initial credit for 2008 required repayment in very increments over fifteen years at zero percent interest, the recently passed legislation eliminates the need for repayment entirely, putting $8,000 cash in your pocket.

While the size of the credit may still be renegotiated, it will be figured as a percentage of the home's cost, up to the current maximum of $8,000, with limitations relating to your individual or household income level. At incomes above the limit, you may still claim the credit at a reduced percentage.

This incentive, combined with low rates, large inventories, and affordable prices, should put a home purchase well within your grasp. Get more details from a trusted real estate agent and begin your search today!

SOLAR-POWER SATELLITES

by Dr. Thomas Sheahen

Q. Solar cells in space could provide almost endless power. Why aren't they doing that?

A. This is one of those ideas that is certainly possible in principle, but is terribly expensive to carry out in reality.

A gigantic array of solar photovoltaic panels, if placed in orbit high above the earth, could indeed capture sunlight 24 hours a day. The sunlight would be converted into electricity, and then the energy "beamed down" to a receiving station on the surface of the earth, perhaps as microwaves. It definitely can be done. Both NASA and the military have been talking about doing this for years.

The strongest driving factor here is that the military really needs energy in some very remote and inhospitable places, such as on a battlefield. Calculations have been done about the true cost of delivering gasoline to "the tip of the spear" (military terminology for "the front lines"), and the number comes out around $100 to $160 per gallon. Similarly, electricity is worth about a dollar per kilowatt hour where the military really needs it.

Meanwhile, for comparison, ordinary citizens pay about a dime per kwh, and $2/gallon. With "tip of the spear" costs running 10 to 100 times higher, the military is in a better position to justify spending big dollars for a reliable energy supply. But even they choke on the numbers involved for a solar-power satellite.

To lift an array of solar cells off the ground and into space is extremely expensive. Thirty years ago, when there was great enthusiasm for manufacturing in space, those costs got in the way for even the hypothetical case of making some very expensive medicine, where a milligram might save a life. At the time, gold was selling for about $500 per ounce. It was calculated that if Rumplestiltsken could go into orbit and spin straw into gold, he would lose money on the enterprise because the lift-off cost of anything, including straw, was greater than $500 per ounce.

That is essentially the problem confronting solar power arrays in space. Suppose it costs $10 billion to build an array that delivers 200 megawatts. That's $50/watt. By contrast, you can build a nuclear plant or big coal burner right next door for about $4 billion that will deliver one gigawatt (1,000 megawatts); so that costs only $4/watt. The comparison is quite easy! Build the land-based generator.

Solar-panel arrays placed on land, out in the desert, can produce electricity much cheaper than any solar array in space. But such arrays can't compete with coal or nuclear or natural gas plants. Windmills are cheaper than solar panels, but still expensive compared to the usual "baseload" plants. If, at a future date, earth-based solar energy becomes competitive, the price of getting into space will still leave solar satellites far more expensive.

Maryland School Meal Programs Being Plagued By Money Woes

by Lauren C. Williams, Capital News Service

Maryland's school meal programs are grappling with large financial losses because of increasing food prices, declining meal sales, and stagnant federal reimbursement rates, a situation that mirrors the national trend.

"All school lunch programs are going to be having problems – that seems clear," said Dan Townsend, director of food and nutrition services for Prince George's County Public Schools.

Maryland public and non-profit schools participate in the federally funded National School Lunch Program and the School Breakfast Program to provide nutritionally balanced meals to students daily. The programs are administered by the Maryland State Department of Education, which also contributes a small portion of the cost.

Families' economic woes have boosted the need for these programs.

In some counties, more students eligible for free and reduced meals are eating "because families are so hard pressed," said Eulalia Muschik, supervisor of food services for Carroll County Public Schools.

With 30 million lunches served daily across the nation, school nutrition programs stand to lose nearly $5 million each school day, according to the School Nutrition Association.

But deficits in Maryland schools can't be totaled until numbers are crunched in July or August.

Almost 75 percent of school districts nationwide increased prices for meals, a la carte or vending goods to make up for increased costs this school year. About two-thirds hiked prices on meals solely to make up lost revenue, according to September 2008 data from the School Nutrition Association.

"It's similar to what people are seeing in the supermarket," said Jodi Risse, registered dietitian and supervisor of food and nutrition services for Anne Arundel County Public Schools. "Prices went up there and also for us."

Of Maryland's 24 school districts, only Harford, Somerset, Washington, and Wicomico chose not to increase meal prices this school year.

Prince George's County raised lunch prices from $1.85 to $2.25 for middle and high schools, its first increase in 10 years.

"And let's face it, none of us like it when prices increase," said Townsend.

In 2008, Maryland schools served nearly 100 million breakfasts and lunches through the National School Lunch Program, a number likely to be significantly lower this year, despite growing need for free and reduced meals.

"Participation is down overall," said Muschik, who does not expect to break even this year.

Carroll County has the lowest rate of free-and-reduced-meal eligibility, as of October 2008, according to the Maryland State Department of Education, but is still feeling the pinch of declining sales.

The county serves about 1,000 fewer meals each day, and lunch prices are about 30 cents higher this year.

"In these tough times, people can't get over it," said Muschik, of customers lamenting the price increase.

Meal participation in Carroll County fell when the new prices were introduced last fall, rose briefly from October through December and decreased again in January and February, which was also when the county's jobless rate rose by more than 2 points to 7.2 percent, Muschik said.

"I can't make people buy when they don't have the money."

On March 4, nutrition and health advocates testified before the Senate Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry, urging an increase in the federal meal reimbursement, which expires June 30.

Panelist Katie Wilson, president of the School Nutrition Association in Onalaska, Wisc., told the committee that the average cost to produce a meal was $2.92, which is about 35 cents more than the federal reimbursement rate for free meals.

"Congress needs to step up and look at the reimbursement ratio," said Scott Blackburn, food and nutrition services coordinator for Worcester County Public Schools. "It's just not meeting [the need]."

Each year, the National School Lunch Act, which is up for reauthorization this year, automatically increases reimbursement rates to reflect inflation. But that's not enough.

Schools with more than 60 percent student participation receive 26 cents for every paid meal. For free and reduced meals the schools get $2.59 and $2.19, respectively.

Those with less than 60 percent participation are reimbursed 2 cents less in all categories. The maximum amount per meal a school can receive is 32 cents for paid, $2.34 for reduced and $2.74 for free.

More than a third of Maryland schools have over 50 percent of students eligible for free or reduced meals, according to October 2008 data from the Maryland State Department of Education.

Students eligible for free lunches come from households earning up to 130 percent of the federal poverty level, or $35,828 for a family of four. Students eligible for reduced lunch pay no more than 40 cents for lunch and have family incomes up to 185 percent of the federal poverty level, or $50,986 for a family of four.

Eligibility has increased in all counties over the past two years except Allegany and Baltimore City, which showed slight decreases.

The state also contributes some funding based on a fraction of the federal government's reimbursement two school years prior.

In addition, the state education department's School and Community Nutrition Programs will receive a one-time grant of more than $1.2 million for the National School Lunch Program.

The payment, part of the stimulus package passed Feb. 17, will buy new kitchen equipment for needy schools, those with at least 50 percent of the students eligible for free and reduced meals.

And funding is still inadequate.

The average cost per meal in Montgomery County is $3.58, but the federal government reimburses free meals at $2.57, according to a school system budget analyst. After a little over a dime from the state, the county is left with almost a $1 deficit per meal.

Anne Arundel saw all food production expenses increase, including labor and supplies. Revenue from a la carte sales, which is down this school year, is used to cover unreimbursed expenses, Risse said, who expects a loss this year.

School systems maintain a fund balance where surpluses from previous years are deposited. They can be tapped when the department runs over budget, but if the balance is low or zero, deficits form.

Financial Focus

You Can Help Move a Mountain (of Cash)

In an uncertain economy, it's natural for people to "tighten their belts" by cutting down on their spending. And yet by having too much cash on hand today, you could actually slow your progress toward your financial goals of tomorrow.

Before we get to the possible pitfalls of hoarding cash, let's consider your fellow Americans' recent savings habits.

• How much? In the last quarter of 2008, the personal savings rate was 2.9 percent, the highest level since the third quarter of 2001, according to the U.S. Department of Commerce.

• Where? People are putting their money in what they consider safe vehicles. At the end of 2008, the ratio of money market fund assets and bank savings deposits to stocks — as measured by the Wilshire 5000 Index, one of the broadest market indices — was 95.4 percent, according to Ned Davis Research. (Keep in mind that the Wilshire 5000 index is unmanaged and not available for direct investment.) This ratio is the highest it's been since money market accounts were created in the early 1980s.

Of course, given the stock market decline, it's not surprising that so much money is going into these accounts, because people are looking, above all else, to preserve their principal. Consequently as a nation, we are now sitting on a "mountain" of cash.

However, the trip up this mountain does not come free. While it's true that these vehicles may help preserve your principal, they may not provide you with returns that can keep up with inflation, which means that the more of these instruments you own, and the longer you own them, the greater the likelihood that you will lose purchasing power.

Furthermore, if you're putting most of your assets into cash, you're incurring "opportunity cost" — the chance to invest that money into vehicles that have the potential to provide the growth you need to help achieve your long-term goals, such as a comfortable retirement.

So here's the situation: On the one hand, you have a tough economy and a stock market that has probably already saddled you with losses. On the other hand, you need to consider investing in stocks or other growth-oriented investments to help you reach your long-term goals. What's the solution? Balance. There's probably a place in your portfolio for short-term instruments whose chief benefit is helping to preserve your principal. But you may need to balance these holdings with investments that can potentially reward you with growth. The exact mix of assets depends on your risk tolerance, time horizon and individual goals.

In these days, you may need a leap of faith to invest some of your cash. But history is on your side: Downturns have typically been followed by market rallies. Plus, we will eventually see the unleashing of all that pent-up cash seeking higher returns, and that force should have a positive impact on the financial markets.

It may feel comforting to have a lot of cash on hand. But if you're going to be comfortable in the years ahead, you should consider putting some of that cash to work.

Meal Programs

service fund balance is almost $2 million in the hole, an amount accumulated over the past 12 years and largely because of the purchase of equipment, said Alfreda Wishard, food service accountant for Frederick County Public Schools.

The school system is "working desperately" to reduce expenses by cutting employee salaries and overtime pay, holding off on building repairs and raising meal prices.

For next school year, there is even talk of furloughs for all Frederick County school system employees and or salary reductions, Wishard said. "We'll probably have to increase [meal] prices again next year."

The state education board increased the budget for Frederick County Public School's Food Service three consecutive school years to help with increased labor and fringe benefit costs. This school year the program received nearly $500,000, which may not be the case next year.

"There's nothing [the school board] can do for us," Wishard said. "It just looks more grim every day."

Caroline County Public Schools doesn't know what it would do in the event of a serious revenue loss, said Ginger Hendricks, food service coordinator of the Child Nutrition Program.

"We're not spending any more money than we can help," said Hendricks, who gets applications for free and reduced meals as people lose their jobs. Unemployment in the county jumped to 10.2 percent in February.

"There are things you just cannot cut."

MAYOR AND TOWN COUNCIL OF OAKLAND NOTICE OF A PROPOSED REAL PROPERTY TAX INCREASE

The Mayor and Town Council of Oakland, Maryland, proposes to increase real property taxes.

1. For the tax year beginning July 1, 2009, the estimated real property assessable base will increase by 7.3%, from $127,462,283 to $136,786,120.

2. If the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland maintains the current tax rate of $.480 per $100 of assessment, real property tax revenues will increase by 6.8% resulting in $44,754.42 of new real property tax revenues.

3. In order to fully offset the effect of increasing assessments, the real property tax rate should be reduced to $.447, the constant yield tax rate.

4. The Town of Oakland is considering not reducing its real property tax enough to fully offset increasing assessments. The Town of Oakland proposes to adopt a real property tax rate of $.48 per $100 of assessment. This tax rate is 7.3% higher than the constant yield tax rate and will generate $44,754.42 in additional property tax revenues.

A public hearing on the proposed real property tax rate increase will be held at 7:30 PM on May 4, 2009, at Oakland City Hall Council Chambers.

The hearing is open to the public, and public testimony is encouraged.

Persons with questions regarding this hearing may call Oakland City Hall at 301-334-2691 for further information.

GC United Way Benefits From "Foolish" Event

The United Way of Garrett County's Food, Foolishness and Fun pasta dinner held recently in the St. Peter Apostle parish hall was a huge success, according to organizers.

John MacGowan, one of the coordinators of the event, reported that more than 200 persons were served pasta dinners and premium desserts by waiters and waitresses dressed as cowboys, pirates, jesters, hula girls, Batman, a constable and other "wacky" attire.

Twelve different non-profit community agencies participated by selling tickets, serving guests, and busing tables.

The event raised more than $2,700 for the United Way community campaign and an additional $1,015 that went directly to community agencies through ticket sales and tips.

The kitchen and serving staff came from Brenda's Pizzeria and the Four Seasons Dining Room at the Will O' the Wisp. Food was donated by community restaurants, grocers, and food suppliers. Many of the costumes were provided by Our Town Theatre.

"The economy is really hurting a lot of charities, but it's really exciting to see the local businesses provide food for the dinner," said United Way volunteer Bob Stephens. "I just can't say enough about the hard work of Brenda McDonald from Brenda's and Wendy Friend from the Will O' the Wisp. Not only did they volunteer their time and food, they also had many of their staff come help. We couldn't have had the event without them. I really encourage our community to support our local businesses because they really came through for United Way."

The United Way of Garrett County raises funds to assist local human service agencies provide programs that improve the quality of life in Garrett County. Each year agencies provide proposals to United Way for projects that are in need of support in order to achieve their mission.

Some of the projects that requested funding this year include Community Action's Meals on Wheels and short-term medication programs, and Habitat for Humanity's home-building projects.

Other programs seeking support include volunteer training and support for Boy Scout and Girl Scout leaders, disaster assistance and blood drive support through American Red Cross, the summer school program at Salem Children's Trust and financial support for Mtn. Glade Adult Day Care participants.

Garrett Mentors is the newest United Way agency, providing mentoring service for children similar to what Big Brothers and Big Sisters did in the past.

The 2009 campaign goal for United Way of Garrett County is $110,000. The campaign ends on April 30, and with the addition of Food, Foolishness, and Fun proceeds, the total raised is at just over $108,000.

Individuals and businesses interested in donating to the United Way campaign may contact their office toll free at 877-597-2700 to request materials.

For additional photos and information about Garrett County United Way and their affiliate agencies, persons may visit garrett-unitedway.org.

Native Plant Sales To Benefit Local Watershed Group

The Savage River Watershed Association (SRWA) will sponsor three native plant sales this spring to help gardeners create eco-friendly landscapes around their homes, schools, and businesses. A variety of plants native to Allegany and Garrett counties will be available for purchase, including: grasses, sedges, wildflowers, shrubs, and trees. All proceeds will ben-efit SRWA.

The Savage River Watershed Association invites everyone to "go native" and experience the joys of conservation landscaping: a garden filled with bees, birds, butterflies, and plants. For more information about any of these events, persons may telephone Liz McDowell, SRWA native plant sale coordinator, at 301-895-3686.

Irritable Bowl Syndrome Treatments

Irritable bowel syndrome (IBS) is an abnormal function of the gastrointestinal tract. Up to 20% of Americans may be affected by this condition. Symptoms of IBS range from mild to severe, including abdominal cramping, bloating, diarrhea, and/or constipation. This condition may be due to a change in the nerves that control muscle contractions in the bowel, or changes in the central nervous system that is connected to the colon. Hormonal changes also may play a role. Certain foods and beverages such as chocolate, alcohol, and milk may trigger symptoms. Stress may make symptoms worse, but is not considered to be a cause of IBS symptoms.

There are many treatments available that target the relief of IBS symptoms. Fiber supplements, such as pshyllium and methylcellulose, may benefit individuals experiencing constipation. Loperamide is available over the counter for the relief of diarrhea. Hyoscyamine is an anitcholinergic medication that works in the nervous system to relieve bowel spasms. Lubiprostone is a newer medication approved for women 18 years of age and older that experience constipation related to IBS. This medication is taken twice daily and increases fluid secretion in the small intestine to facilitate stool passage.

EASTER EGG HUNT BRINGS OUT A CROWD – More than 160 people gathered in Accident on Palm Sunday to participate in the Accident Community Planning Group's Easter egg hunt. "This was one of our largest Easter egg hunts we ever had," said Sharon Custer of the Garrett County Health Department's Health Education and Outreach Division. "It was another successful event, with beautiful weather and lots of games, prizes, and refreshments." Pictured is Nathan Kitzmiller, the proud winner of the Easter basket that was given away during the hunt. Activities of community planning groups are supported in part by funds from the Health Department to promote health living and prevent risky behaviors.

HOW MANY EASTER EGGS DID YOU FIND? Numerous youngsters turned out for WKHJ's annual Easter egg hunt in Broadford Park recently. Pictured above are participants in the 5- to 7-year-old division trying to grab up as many of the colorful eggs as possible. Some of the children won $50 savings bonds for their efforts. Marylanders Brave Elements To Attend Various Tea Party Protests

by Erich Wagner and Maren Wright
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS – Hundreds of angry Marylanders expressed their outrage at what they argue is governmental overspending at "tea party" protests across the state and in front of the White House Wednesday.

In Annapolis, protesters rallied on the docks with ponchos, umbrellas, and signs, undeterred by wind gusts and steady rain. In the spirit of the Revolutionary War's Boston Tea Party, they threw boxes labeled "TEA" into the Chesapeake Bay.

Chants like "We are the revolution, give us back the Constitution" filled the air with the crowd's discontent.

Anthony Torosky, 66, a Westminster resident, said he has watched his taxes "go off the scale" over the years, and as a retiree, he has seen his retirement accounts decrease by 40 percent.

"We need to completely change Congress, elect all new officials, and start over," Torosky said.

Some Marylanders chose to skip the local rallies and headed for the White House to voice their protest, where event organizers estimated a crowd of 3,000. Adrienne Burrows of Crofton said she wanted to make sure word got out about how many people are upset.

"I feel like the mainstream media has been ignoring the tea parties, so I wanted to come to where it would make a difference," Burrows said.

Burrows was in Washington to tell the government to stop spending her money. Frederick's Anderson Foster, 17, hopes the government listens.

"These taxes are going to affect me once I start paying taxes," Foster said. "And a lot of the money is going to things I don't really believe in."

The idea that today's children will be paying the bill for current deficit spending was the motivator for Mike McCary to leave work in Gaithersburg and head downtown. He said he's had it with the spending spree that started with government bailouts last fall.

"I'm only going to be paying into this system for a few more years – I'm 55," McCary said. "But my kids will be paying the rest of their lives."

Despite rain that drizzled and poured, the crowds in front of the White House huddled, straining to hear those on the stage.

National radio talk show host Laura Ingraham got the crowd cheering.

"The people have the power," Ingraham said. "I'm impressed by the number of people who believe in freedom, and are willing to stand up for it."

Park police couldn't confirm the crowd size at the district event but were able to say it was less than the 3,000 that Nationwide Tax Day Tea Party, the protest organizers, had requested in their permit application.

State comptroller Peter Franchot, a Democrat, referenced the tea parties during the morning's Board of Public Works meeting.

"I think in the public's mind, stimulus sometimes gets confused with 'boondoggle,'" Franchot said. "I don't share the 'tea party' rhetoric as such, but I sure as heck sympathize with people out there who see billions of dollars in taxpayer money going out the door with very little accountability, in their mind."

Del. Michael D. Smigiel Sr., R-Kent, said Annapolis was the second of four tea parties he was attending throughout the day, making stops at protests in Kent County, Cecil County, and Havre de Grace. Smigiel took issue with spending in Washington, as well as in Annapolis, where the legislature just finished its annual 90-day session this week.

"I originally ran for office because of fiscal irresponsibility, and this past session has shown everything that is wrong with government spending," Smigiel said. "Someone has to say, 'Stop the madness.'"

Capital News Service staff writer Michael Frost contributed to this report.

Seven high schools participated in the event. Above are Southern's representatives. Southern Students Attend Model UN Security Council

A total of 18 Southern High School students recently took part in this year's Frostburg State University Model United Nations Security Council. Southern was one of seven high schools to participate, along with Northern, Allegany, Fort Hill, Bishop Walsh, Mtn. Ridge, and Hampshire high schools.

Students representing nine different countries in three separate council models caucused, debated, and tried to work through resolutions that would bring law and order, economic stability and an end to the threat to international shipping created by the 16-year descent of Somalia into chaos and barbarism.

International Club students from Frostburg State University administered the model. Students were divided into teams of two delegates. These teams were then assigned nations they would represent at the Model UN Security Council.

Students researched their nations' geopolitical, social, historical, economic, and physical characteristics in order to develop a deep enough understanding to represent their nation accurately in the Security Council. Students then attempted to pass resolutions aimed at dealing with and resolving the issues relating to the real-world problems in Somalia.

The Model Security Council promotes the efforts of the United Nations to resolve the disagreements over various aspects of human rights, the war on terrorism, and international peace and security. Once the negotiations began, students learned the intricacies and frailties of international coalitions and international cooperation.

FSU awarded "honors" to students in each model. Honors were based on students' ability to represent their country realistically, participate actively, and speak effectively during the model.

Three delegations of Southern High School students were honored. Michael Paugh and Connor Norman received honorable mention in Council #3 for their representation of the United Kingdom. Ozge Yuzgec and Matthew Jordan received "most outstanding delegation" of Council #2 for their portrayal of Ethiopia, and Paige Fitzwater and Alyssa Cowgill received verbal mention for their representation of South Africa in Council #3.

Radio Stations Receive Awards From WVBA

by Carla Deter
Student Intern

CUMBERLAND – Winning awards is nothing unusual for Allegany Radio Corporation, a subsidiary of West Virginia Radio Corporation. The West Virginia Broadcasters Association (WVBA) held its 2009 Excellence in Broadcasting Awards banquet in Charlestown on March 28. The awards ceremony, which honors radio and television stations in West Virginia and neighboring states, is held annually to recognize top staff in the industry.

On-air personalities Amy Ryan, 94.1 WQZK-FM, and Pat Sullivan, Magic 100.5 WDYK-FM, were recognized Saturday in four categories. Ryan was named On-Air Personality of the Year, while Sullivan's Magic Morning Show was named Best Morning Show of the Year.

"I could not believe it," said Ryan. "I thank all the people I work with. I'm really lucky to have such great people to work with – Lacy, Edge, and D.C. (on-air personalities), Tony C. (on-air personality/news director), and Erik and Kevin (Erik and Kevin Show) – these guys are the best!"

He also noted his appreciation to the West Virginia Broadcasters Association.

The WVBA also named Magic 100.5 the Station of the Year in the Adult Contemporary/Oldies category, and 94.1QZK Station of the Year in the Contemporary Hit Radio category

"Every member of our staff, whether on-air, marketing, creative, or management, is responsible for our ongoing success, and these awards acknowledge their combined efforts, professionalism, and dedication to radio broadcasting," said Pat Sullivan. "We are honored and humbled."

Jerry Hannahs, Allegany Radio Corporation market manager attended the awards banquet, along with Amy Ryan.

"It was a wonderful evening," Hannahs said. "I'm so incredibly proud of this group of talented broadcasters. To see them recognized for their excellence and to have our stations recognized is testament to the commitment of our entire team."

President Dale Miller of West Virginia Radio Corporation built and has staffed five stations at Allegany Radio Corporation.

In 2008, 94.1 QZK was also named Contemporary Hit Radio Station of the Year and won the Best On-Air Personality award.

Allegany Radio Corporation houses five stations in Cumberland: WDYK, WQZK, WVMD, WKLP, and WCMD.

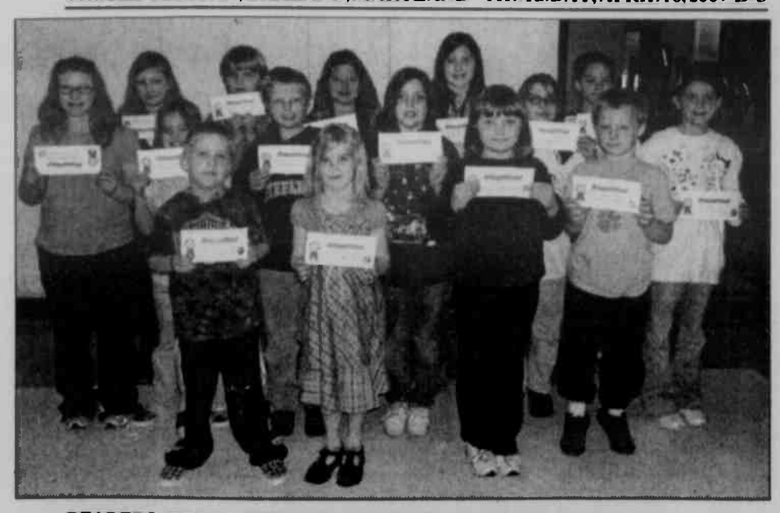
The public is advised that it is not too late to form a team. Team packets can be picked up at First Home Mortgage, Oak Street, Oakland; or by calling Tina Warnick at 301-722-2145.

Registration can be done online at www.relayforlife.-org/garrett. Donations can also be made online or sent to American Cancer Society, c/o Relay For Life of Garrett County, 182 N. Mechanic Street, Cumberland, MD 21501. Checks should be made out to American Cancer Society and are 100% tax deductible.

The next Relay For Life meeting will be held on Tuesday, April 21, at 7 p.m. at Garrett College. Those interested are welcome to attend.

For cancer information and 24-hour support, seven days a week, persons may call 1-800-ACS-2345 or go to the American Cancer Society web site at www.cancer.org.



STUDENTS RECOGNIZED – Morgan Carr, right, was named Student of the Month for March by Partners After School @ Loch Lynn, and Nick Schrier, left, was the only student to have perfect attendance in March. "Morgan always comes to the program prepared and is always willing to help out," said a group spokesperson. The Partners After School @ Loch Lynn is a collaborative effort between Garrett County Community Action, Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families, and the Maryland State Department of Education. GCMH To Observe National Lab Week April 19 To April 25

Twenty-two Garrett County Memorial Hospital laboratory staff members will be recognized during National Medical Laboratory Protessionals Week, April 19–25.

"The clinical laboratory profession is a key member of today's health care team," said a GCMH spokesperson. "Laboratory professionals have the skills to unlock important medical information that is pivotal to the diagnosis, treatment, and prevention of disease."

Every day, nurses, physicians, and other healthcare workers depend on the laboratory professionals to perform tests on blood and other body fluids, interpret results, and help provide a complete picture of a patient's health.

Using modern biomedical equipment and complicated analysis, laboratorians can detect the presence of cancer, identify infectious viruses and bacteria, and measure glucose, cholesterol, or drug levels in blood.

"Without this precise and valuable information, medicine would simply become guesswork," said Joyce Nutter, director of GCMH Laboratory Services Department.

Thank you

We would like to thank everyone for their kindness, thoughts & prayers, acts of sympathy, flowers, food, & cards that we received during the illness & following the loss of Dores.

This was all greatly appreciated by the family of Dores D. Hanlin.

Alvin Miller's Role In Famine Relief To Be Presented

ALVIN J. MILLER

A program of a cappella music and stories of Alvin J. Miller's role in Russia during the 1920s will be held Sunday, April 19, at 3:30 p.m. at the Springs Mennonite Church in Springs, Pa. A dinner will immediately follow the program.

Lowell Bender, Bittinger, grandnephew of Miller, and Grant Rissler, Lancaster, Pa., coordinator for Mennonite Central Committee, will present the story of Alvin J. Miller who was reared in Grantsville and was a member of the Maple Glen Mennonite Church, Grantsville, and Springs Mennonite Church.

When word came to the United States about the famine in Russia in the 1920s, Miller went to Russia to oversee the distribution of aid sent by the Mennonite Churches of America.

"Many people were saved from starvation amid the perilous times of the communist regime," said a Mennonite Central Committee (MCC) spokesperson. "Some representatives were imprisoned and never returned."

This action represented the formation of the MCC, the relief arm of the Mennonite and Brethren churches. MCC has staff in the Appalachians as well as continued staff in the Gulf region, responding to the needs of hurricane victims.

The Alvin J. Miller program and meal are on a donation basis and sponsored by TriState Relief Sale, a benefit auction to be held Friday and Saturday, July 17 and 18, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds. Event proceeds support MCC programs in the United States and around the world.

Also at the Springs Mennonite Church on Saturday, April 18, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., the community is invited to participate in the quilting of quilts that will be offered at the auction and knotting of comforters that will be sent to victims throughout the world in need of warm bedding.

Springs Mennonite Church is located along Springs Road (Rt. 669). For further information, persons may call 814-445-6945 or 814-442-4594 or visit tristatesale.org.

The Lord Has Risen

"He was delivered over to death for our sins and was raised to life for our justification."
(Romans 4:25)

Every Easter we rejoice! The gravestone was rolled away and Christ arose from the dead!

Likewise, we can arise above spiritual death, our soul intact. As God guides our spirit, the suffocating stones of despair, anxiety and fear are rolled away and we can be filled with joy!

Hallelujah... Christ has risen!

We Reap What We Sow

If we sow beans in the spring, we can't expect to reap tomatoes at harvest time. Likewise, if we sow animosity and discord, we shouldn't expect to reap peace and harmony. In addition, there are natural consequences to our thoughts, words and actions; it seems they are part of the fundamental nature of things. Just as the law of cause and effect doesn't take a holiday in the physical world, neither does it take a holiday in the social and spiritual realm. As a society, we cannot expect to treat the most disadvantaged among us with disdain and not reap the consequences. As sociologists sometimes say, every society gets exactly the criminal element it deserves. Likewise, individually we cannot expect to mistreat people and not be adversely affected. And even if the misdeeds are only in our imaginations, there is still a corresponding effect for every cause. If we spend most of our time harboring ill will and secret animosities against our neighbor, it will have its natural effect, if only to create a cloud of rancor forever hovering over us. So, what we should sow are seeds of love and will, making sure that our thoughts, our words, and our actions are planting the kinds of seeds that will ensure a bountiful harvest of love and goodness.

Do not be deceived; God is not mocked, for whatever a man sows, that he will also reap. For he who sows to his own flesh will from the flesh reap corruption; but he who sows to the Spirit will from the Spirit reap eternal life. .

Vitamin C and Gout

Vitamin C (ascorbic acid) Is a water-soluble vitamin that cannot be made by the body It is found in many foods including tomatoes, broccoli, leafy greens, strawberries, potatoes, citrus fruits, and juices. Vitamin C plays an important role in the growth and repair of all body tissues, especially skin, bones, and teeth. This vitamin has antioxidant activity, which protects body cells against damage from substances called free radicals. Free radicals are produced when the body converts food into energy

A recent study evaluated the relationship between vitamin C intake and the incidence of gout. Gout is a common form of arthritis. It occurs when a substance called uric acid builds up in the blood and is deposited into joints. It causes joints to become stiff, swollen, and/or hot. In the study, researchers followed over 40,000 men for 10 years. At the end of the study, the men with a higher dietary intake of vitamin C had a lower risk for the development of gout than men with a lower intake of vitamin C. This may be due to vitamin C's ability to lower uric acid levels in the blood. More studies are needed to confirm the effects of vitamin C intake and the incidence of gout.

'Crusoe' sets sail for television's graveyard

By Jay Bobbin

Philip Winchester

Q: I haven't seen one of my favorite television shows lately. Will "Crusoe" be returning soon, or has it been canceled? –Deb Noble, Owosso, Mich.

A: This year's full fall lineup hasn't been announced yet, but NBC's series version of author Daniel Defoe's castaway classic – which starred Philip Winchester in the title role – can be considered done. Its move to Saturday, which has been the least-watched night of network programming for some time, was a definite clue that the show was pretty much finished.

Here's another: Universal Studios Home Entertainment has announced its May 5 DVD release as "Crusoe: The Complete Series" (including all 13 of the ordered and televised episodes), as opposed to "Crusoe: The First Season."

Q: I haven't heard or seen anything about Dick Van Dyke lately. Is he still alive? –Larry Hicks, Grand Prairie, Texas

A: At this writing, the veteran talent was awaiting the late-May release of the sequel "Night at the Museum: Battle of the Smithsonian," in which he reprises his role from the original 2006 comedy-fantasy. In December, Van Dyke appeared in the Turner Classic Movies documentary "The Age of Believing: The Disney Live Action Classics," in which (expectedly) he recalled the experience of filming "Mary Poppins."

Q: Who was the actress who played the owner on the show "Hotel," with James Brolin? –Pat Lewczyk, Hamburg, N.Y.

A: It was Anne Baxter, who was on the Aaron Spelling-produced ABC drama – inspired by Arthur Hailey's best-seller – until her death in 1985. The "owner" position actually was supposed to belong to one of Baxter's "All About Eve" co-stars, screen legend Bette Davis, who fell ill after making the series' pilot.

Q: Why did Amy Jo Johnson leave "Flashpoint," and will she be back? –Richard Perkins, Bethany, Okla.

A: She took a maternity leave from the Canadian-made CBS police drama; she and her fiance welcomed a daughter at the start of December. Should the show continue beyond its current season, it's likely Johnson will be back, should she opt to return.

Q: As a Sherlock Holmes fan, I have collected many of the movies, including several pre-World War II British films starring Arthur Wontner as Holmes. In those, Dr. Watson is played by an Ian Fleming. Is he the Ian Fleming of James Bond fame? –Robert Burden, Little Falls, N.J.

A: He isn't. In addition to the author who created arguably the world's best-known secret agent, there was another Ian Fleming, an Australian-born actor frequently featured in British films. He was Watson to Wontner's Holmes in such movies as "The Missing Rembrandt" and "Silver Blaze."

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

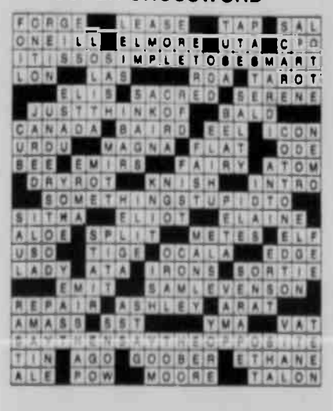
• It was humorist and commentator Andy Rooney (of "60 Minutes" fame) who made the following sage observation: "Making duplicate copies and computer printouts of things no one wanted even one of in the first place is giving America a new sense of purpose."

• At one time in Corpus Christi, Texas, city leaders saw fit to make it illegal for an individual to raise alligators in his or her home.

• The next time you find yourself picking up a complimentary toothpick on your way out of a restaurant, you might want to consider this fact: More Americans choke on toothpicks than on any other item.

• If you're a man, you might be surprised to learn that in a survey that was conducted recently, more than 40 percent of women in the United States admitted that they would wear a stylish shoe even if it were uncomfortable. If you're a woman, you might be surprised that the figure was only 40 percent.

• Resources are very scarce in space, so it's important to conserve wherever possible. The astronauts on the International Space Station might be going a bit far, however; it's been reported that they change their underwear only every three or four days in order to cut down on laundry.



• Those who study such things say that the average grocery store today carries approximately 30,000 different items — that's more than twice as many items as those stores carried 20 years ago.

• A couple of years ago, Mariah Carey — the American singer, songwriter, actress and, not incidentally, pitch woman for Gillette's "Legs of a Goddess" ad campaign — insured her legs for $1 billion.

• On April 24, 1916, on Easter Monday in Dublin, the Irish Republican Brotherhood, a secret organization of Irish nationalists led by Patrick Pearse, launches the so-called Easter Rebellion, an armed uprising against British rule. Renters Should Respect Landlords' Pet Rules

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I own two townhouses, which I rent out to tenants. In the lease I specify that no pets are allowed; however, I will sometimes let a tenant keep a small animal such as a cat or toy dog, as I understand it can be hard to find affordable housing that accepts pets.

I will be stopping that practice after my current tenants leave. Why? Because almost every time I have given permission for a pet to be kept, the tenant has abused my kindness by either bringing in additional pets, or by not cleaning up after their pet and causing hundreds or thousands of dollars in damages.

I hate to turn pet owners away, but from now on I will have to — I can't keep spending money to remodel these damaged and stinky townhouses. Please tell your readers that if they are renting, they need to be responsible tenants and follow the rules set out in the lease! — Grumpy Landlord in Boulder, Colo.

DEAR GRUMPY: Well, you told 'em, and I agree. I know it can be difficult to find a rental home or apartment that accepts pets, but it is important to be upfront and honest with landlords or property managers. Sometimes a compromise can be worked out, but pet owners must keep their end of the bargain.

Some issues can't be avoided, such as pet fur collecting in the corners or a dog that barks occasionally. But keeping the unit clean and odor-free, making sure pets are well-behaved and healthy, not keeping more pets than are allowed — these are essential elements to maintaining a good relationship with the landlord, and in the long run, increasing the number of landlords willing to rent to pet owners. Don't mess it up for other pet owners by failing to follow rental rules.

BUENA VISTA Contracting, LLC

BUENA VISTA CONTRACTING LLC is owned by T.J. Van Pelt and Erika Krause. The couple moved to Garrett County in 2007 because of their love of the "great outdoors." Their company specializes in home remodels and additions, as well as all aspects of home repair and maintenance. See story.

Buena Vista Contracting, LLC has been in business in Garrett County since Jan. 1, 2007, and has over 25 years of experience in the construction industry.

Owners T.J. Van Pelt and Erika Krause moved here in 2007 because of their love of the outdoors. They discovered Garrett County during their frequent trips here to ski/snowboard, mountain bike, and kayak, and decided to call it home.

T.J. is also the company's project manager and said he has a solid track record of providing master craftsmanship. The majority of his experience comes from working on high-end custom homes in the Washington, D.C., metro area.

Translated, Buena Vista means "good views."

"To us it's the vision you have for your home," Erika said, "whether it's creating a new space within your home to take advantage of the views outside, or just fixing up an area so it fits your lifestyle."

Buena Vista Contracting LLC specializes in home remodels and additions, as well as all aspects of home repair and maintenance.

T.J. said he enjoys working with homeowners and providing ideas on the best and most cost effective ways to accomplish their goals.

He describes himself as a "real problem solver" and works with homeowners to identify ways to save on costs or expand on ideas.

"We think of our clients as family and take the time to work with them to make sure the project is personalized to their needs," T.J. said. "We offer quality master craftsmanship at reasonable prices. Customer satisfaction is our number one goal."

Here is what some of Buena Vista's customers are saying:

• "We couldn't be happier with the work. The gate rocks, and we were so happy that T.J. was able to intuit things we needed, like the new door for the crawl space. As we get money together and need more work, we'll be sure to contact Buena Vista Contracting." – A.J., Oakland.

• "Working with T.J. is a pleasure. He had great ideas that made the final product extraordinary. The term workmanship is not sufficient; it is truly craftsmanship at its best." – Steve, Oakland.

• "I have used Buena Vista Contracting on many occasions, and I've always been very pleased with the results. Their high quality work is always done on time and within budget. I'd recommend them to anyone." –Rob Teegarden, Affordable Real Estate Solutions, Oakland.

• "Having hired other contractors over the years, I was even more appreciative of the work that T.J. did for me – both in my personal residence as well as in an investment property. His standards were even higher than mine. T.J. is hard-working, reliable, and doesn't stop until the job is done to his very exacting standards. He has worked on many complex, high-end projects and has developed a broad range of skills. I can't recommend him more highly." – Kathleen T., Silver Spring.

• "Buena Vista came recently to look at our front and side porch steps, which were falling apart. T.J. quickly assessed the problem and made recommendations for how to rebuild the steps, railings, and supports. He matched the existing decorative details and added structural changes to make the steps and railings much more solid. Before he began work, T.J. explained exactly what he planned to do, and continued to explain what he was doing as the work progressed. He did a quality job, and delivered the work as expected, on time and on budget." – Pete, Alexandria, Va.

When asked what does the future hold for their business, Erika said, "Our hope is to grow the company in Garrett County and provide jobs to the community, while keeping it small enough to offer the best quality and personalized service possible. Let us help make your home beautiful and turn your vision into reality."

Interested persons may contact T.J. and Erika at BuenaVistaContracting.com, 301-387-7880, or P.O. Box 297, McHenry, MD 21541.

Ramp Cook-Off Scheduled At Discovery Ctr.

The Discovery Center, Deep Creek Lake, will host a Ramp Cook-Off on Saturday, April 25, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. There will also be interpretive events on site, as well as live music.

Judging will take place at 11 a.m., and tasting by the public will begin at noon. Two judges will determine the winner based on creativity, ramp flavor, and presentation.

"Ramp gathering, preserving, and eating has been an eagerly awaited sign of spring in Appalachia," said one spokesperson. "Ramps are very much a part of local folklore." Ramps are high in Vitamins C and A, and have the cholesterol-reducing capacity of garlic. Folk medicine claims that ramps keep away colds and the flu.

Pre-registration for the event is required to enter the cook-off. Electricity will be available if needed. Registration must be received no later than Wednesday, April 22. Space is limited. Those seeking more information or a registration packet may contact the Discovery Center at 301-387-7067.

Hospice Of GC To Host April 29 Teleconference

Hospice of Garrett County will host the Hospice Foundation of America's 16th annual National Living With Grief Teleconference on Tuesday, April 29, from 1:30 to 4 p.m. at the Garrett County Health Department.

The teleconference, "Diversity and End of Life Care," will examine how diversity influences end-of-life decision making, and the impact that culture has at the time of death and during bereavement.

According to a spokesperson, one of the goals of the teleconference is to increase sensitivity by helping professionals acknowledge how their own cultural values and assumptions influence the delivery of care. The program will also discuss the challenges that may occur when cultural considerations may cause ethical concerns or moral distress.

The teleconference will be moderated by Frank Sesno, professor of medical and public affairs at George Washington University and special correspondent with CNN.

Sesno will lead the panel of noted authorities that include: Samira K. Beckwith, president and CEO of Hope HealthCare Services; Sandy Chen Stokes, executive director, Chinese American Coalition for Compassionate Care; Kenneth J. Doka, professor of gerontology, graduate school of the College of New Rochelle; Wanda J. Jenkins, manager of bereavement services at VITAS Innovative Hospice Care; Richard Payne, director, Institute on Care at the End of Life, Duke University; Paul Rosenblatt, professor, College of Education and Human Development, University of Minnesota; and Rev. Carlos Sandoval-Cros, St Simon's Episcopal Church, and psychiatrist, private practice.

This noted panel of ethicists, educators, and hospice experts will examine how diversity influences end-of-life decision making and the impact that culture may have at the time of death and during bereavement.

Mildred O'Haver, Hospice director of bereavement, explained, "The grief and loss issues which are common to us all can be especially difficult for those caring for a family member or other loved one. By understanding the unique demands that family caregivers must face, we can work to support them and provide them with effective coping skills."

Each year this award-winning, televised broadcast is seen in more than 2,000 communities across North America, reaching an estimated live audience of 150,000 people. The teleconference is produced by Hospice Foundation of America, a not-for-profit organization which acts as an advocate for the hospice concept of care through ongoing programs of professional education, public information and research on issues relating to illness, loss, grief and bereavement.

This conference is open to the public at no cost. Persons interested must register in advance by calling the Hospice office at 301-334-5151, Grantsville area at 800-521-5252, or TTY at 800-735-2258.

McHenry Woman Gets 18 Mos. For Theft And Resisting Arrest Charges

The case of Sarah Beth Morgan, 28, McHenry, was heard in recent Garrett County District Court proceedings, with Judge Leonard J. Eiswert presiding. Morgan was found guilty for charges of resisting arrest and theft less than $100.

Morgan was sentenced to 18 months with 12 months suspended and 86 days of credit time served, and supervised probation for 36 months for the resisting arrest charge. For the theft charge, she was sentenced to 90 days, and fines were suspended for both charges.

Both charges stemmed from January, when Morgan was recognized on a security camera at a local business stealing a bottle of liquor. Garrett County sheriff's officers responded to the theft report, and then to her place of residence, where she handed over the bottle of liquor and charges were given.

Two days later, officers responded to Morgan's residence for a domestic violence assault report. She was allegedly intoxicated and after several attempts were made by officers to calm her down, she attempted to flee the residence, upon which officers were able to detam her. She proceeded to try to bite officers and assault the previous victim of assault. Officers gained control of her and took her to the barracks.

Morgan was not prosecuted on two charges of second degree assault.

Christopher S. Tasker, 25, Oakland, was found guilty for a controlled dangerous substance (CDS) possession not marijuana charge and was sentenced to one year, with all being suspended, 18 months of supervised probation, and $200 in fines.

Tasker's charges stemmed from a traffic stop in January by GCSO and the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force for traffic violations. A K-9 scan of the vehicle was done in which a positive alert for the presence of the odor of drugs was given, and Tasker, along with two other passengers, were asked to exit the vehicle.

A search of the vehicle revealed a pen body with suspected CDS residue and wax paper commonly used for heroin use. Located in other areas of the vehicle were three hypodermic needles and syringes, and six Vicodin pills, a schedule III CDS, located in a cigarette pack.

A search incident to arrest of the passengers revealed two bags of heroin, a straw with suspected heroin residue, a razor blade, and a metal container with a bag of heroin. Tasker, along with the two passengers (Jessica Stottlemeyer and Danny Shiflett), were placed under arrest.

Tasker was not prosecuted on charges of CDS possession of paraphernalia and another charge of CDS possession not marijuana.

John Arthur Schmidt, 62, Accident, was handed a guilty verdict for a charge of theft of $500-plus value, and was sentenced to six months, with all being suspended, one year of unsupervised probation, and $250 in fines.

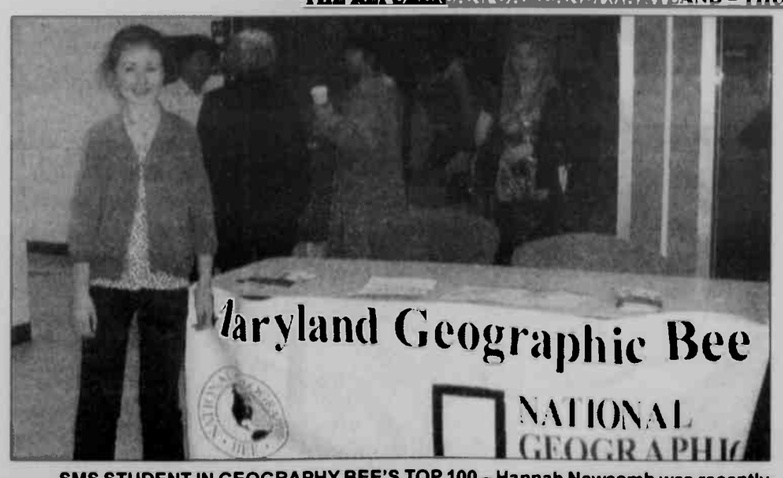
Reports of burglaries came in July 2008 with Maryland State Police responding. After an investigation, it was found that Schmidt had stolen items from a residence in Accident. He was not prosecuted on charges of theft less than $500 and two charges of second degree general burglary

Michael Lee Taylor, 24, Kingwood, W.Va., was found guilty for charges of disorderly conduct and driving while intoxicated from November 2008. For the DWI charge, he was sentenced to six months with five months and 26 days suspended, 18 months of supervised probation, and $207.50 in fines. He was sentenced to 10 days, with 10 days suspended for the disorderly conduct charge.

GCSO responded to a local business for a report of a disorderly and possibly intoxicated subject. Officers made contact with Taylor, and a strong odor of alcohol was present on his breath. After further inquiries, he was placed under arrest and taken to the Garrett County Detention Center.

Taylor was not prosecuted on charges of driving under the influence, driving on a suspended license, disturbing the peace/hindering the free passage of others in a public place, and having an alcoholic beverage in a public place.

Jeffrey Scott Nutter, 40, McHenry, was found guilty for a theft less than $100 charge from May 2008, and he was sentenced to 90 days with 60 days suspended, 24 months of supervised probation, and $207.50 in fines.



In the court report, it was stated that Nutter allegedly stole a bottle of liquor from a McHenry business. No other details were given.

Connie Sue Feather, 50, Westover/Parsons, W.Va., was found guilty for two charges of theft less than $100, and for both was sentenced to 90 days with 88 days suspended, 12 months of unsupervised probation, and fines were suspended.

Feather was charged in February 2008 and in September 2008 for allegedly stealing merchandise from two local businesses. She was identified through security cameras in both incidents.

Jeffrey Neil Paugh II, 21, Mtn. Lake Park, was found guilty for two charges of violating a protective order, and for each was sentenced to 90 days, with all being suspended, 18 months of

Local Southern States Manager Receives Award

Thomas A. Hart, manager of Southern States Oakland Cooperative, has won the President's Operating Excellence Award. Only 40 co-op managers from Southern States' 23-state territory earned this award, which Hart has won six times since the program's inception in 1987.

"We are always exceptionally proud of all our winners, but even more so this year," said Donny Dunbar, vice president of retail operations. "Our managers did an outstanding job providing service to our patrons."

The award is based on performance for the past fiscal year, which ended on Dec. 31 for all managed cooperatives. According to Dunbar, Southern States managers are eligible to win, but the standards – equaling or surpassing the high standards for return on capital, net profit, and productivity – are difficult to achieve, even in the best of economics.

"We also need to honor the employees at Southern States Oakland Cooperative," Dunbar said. "It is the team that ensures good customer service and the long-term effort to partner with our customers."

Founded in 1923, Southern States now has more than 300,000 farmer-members. Based in Richmond, Va., the cooperative services its members and non-member customers through 1,100 retail outlets and has sales over $2 billion in fiscal year 2008, according to Dunbar.

ACRE ENROLLMENT TO OPEN APRIL 27

Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack has announced that producers can elect and enroll in the Average Crop Revenue Election (ACRE) program beginning April 27. ACRE is a provision of the 2008 Farm Bill.

"The Average Crop Revenue Election program is an innovative alternative to the traditional farm safety," Vilsack said. "This new option presents an opportunity for producers to review both programs and decide which one will work best for their operation."

Producers have until August 14 to make their decision for the 2009 crop. USDA will not accept any late-filed applications.

Producers who elect the ACRE program for a farm agree to:

- forgo counter-cyclical payments;
- accept a 20-percent reduction of the direct payments; and
- accept a 30-percent reduction in loan rates for all commodities produced on the farm.

Commodities eligible for ACRE payments are wheat, corn, grain sorghum, barley, oats, upland cotton, long grain rice, medium and short grain rice, peanuts, soybeans, sunflower seed, canola, flaxseed, safflower, mustard seed, rapeseed, sesame seed, crambe, dry peas, lentils, small chickpeas, and large chickpeas.

The ACRE program was created in the 2008 Farm Bill to give producers an option in lieu of traditional counter-cyclical payments. Producers may elect and enroll in ACRE for the 2009 crop year even if they have already accepted advance direct payments under the Direct and Counter-cyclical Program.

To elect ACRE for a farm, producers must complete Form CCC-509 ACRE, which irrevocably elects ACRE for the farm through crop year 2012. Form CCC-509, the contract to participate in ACRE, must then be completed each year the producer intends to participate and receive benefits.

For more information about the ACRE program, persons may visit the Preston County Farm Service Agency (FSA) office or telephone 304-329-1923. Producers may also go online and visit http://www.fsa.usda.gov.

MILC PAYMENTS ON WAY TO DAIRY FARMERS

Eric M. McCartney, executive director of USDA's Farm Service Agency in Preston County, has announced that because of low dairy prices across the country, producers participating in USDA's Milk Income Loss Contract (MILC) program will soon begin to receive payments.

"As a result of low dairy prices, we will soon begin distributing MILC payments to ensure that dairy producers have the financial assistance they need. This action will also stimulate local economies," said McCartney.

USDA makes MILC payments on a monthly basis when the Boston Class I milk price falls below $16.94 per hundredweight as adjusted for feed costs. USDA determines the per hundredweight payment rate for the applicable month by subtracting the Boston Class I price for that month from the $16.94 MILC payment trigger price, established in the 2008 Farm Bill, as adjusted for feed costs, and multiplying the difference by 45 percent. The monthly Boston price along with final MILC payment rates are posted online at: http://www.fsa.usda.gov/FSA.

The MILC payment trigger price of $16.94 is adjusted upward when the National Average Dairy Feed Ration Cost for a month is greater than $7.35 per cwt. USDA's National Agricultural Statistics Service released the data for determining the Average Dairy Feed Ration Cost for the month of February on March 30, 2009. Using this information and the formula contained in the 2008 Act, the MILC payment trigger for the month of February has been adjusted to $17.33, for a final MILC payment rate of $1.51352. Beginning today, USDA expects to issue approximately $150 million to dairy producers for milk produced in February.

USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service announced the Boston Class I price for the month of March on Feb. 20, and for the month of April on March 20. In both instances, the Boston Class I price was below the MILC payment trigger price of $16.94 per cwt. USDA expects to issue MILC payments on milk produced in March in early May and MILC payments on milk produced in April in early June, after USDA has adjusted the MILC payment trigger price for feed costs and determined the final payment rate for those months. MILC payments may also be triggered in future months if the MILC payment trigger price is below $16.94 per cwt.

FSA makes payments up to the maximum eligible pounds of milk produced and marketed by each operation per fiscal year. The annual maximum eligible pound limit per dairy operation is 2,985,000 pounds per fiscal year.

For more information about the MILC program, persons are advised to visit their FSA county office or go online and visit http://www.fsa.usda.gov.

GCHD Offers Prescription Assistance To Locals Through Medbank Prog.

by Diane Lee, public information officer, GCHD

In these times of financial concern, Medbank may be able to assist you. Garrett County residents who are chronically ill and require daily medications, but do not have prescription coverage through private insurance or Medicaid, may qualify for assistance through the Garrett County Medbank Program. To participate in the program, a person must also meet the financial guidelines set by each pharmaceutical company.

"I attribute Medbank with keeping Joe as healthy as he is," said Sarah Martin of her husband. Soon after the Medbank program was established, Joe was diagnosed with a heart condition at age 56, and his doctor told him he had to quit working. She noted that without Medbank there would have been no way the couple could have afforded the heart medication Martin needed.

Angela Lucas is coordinating this program for local residents through the Garrett County Health Department's Adult Evaluation and Review Services (AERS). "On behalf of low income, uninsured, or underinsured patients we apply to drug manufacturers to obtain medications at no or low cost to the patient," noted Lucas. The drug companies determine final eligibility based on income and asset information provided.

In the Martins' case, they qualified for assistance, and the medicine that would have cost them $400 to $500 a month was free.

"When we were applying for Joe's medicine, Angie asked me about my medicines, and we were able to get them as well," said Martin, who has arthritis and fibromyalgia. "Without those medicines I would not be able to continue working."

GCHD AIDING CITIZENS WITH PRESCRIPTIONS THROUGH MEDBANK – Garrett County residents who are chronically ill and require daily medications, but do not have prescription coverage, may qualify for assistance through the Garrett County Medbank Program. Above are Joe and Sarah Martin, left, talking with Donna McClintock Fost, director of adult evaluation and review services at the Garrett County Health Department, about how Medbank has helped them for the past seven years. See story for details.

Referrals are accepted from the individual, physician, or concerned agency representative. AERS personnel then visit the applicant to determine eligibility for Medbank, as well as other community programs.

Applicants will be required to submit detailed income and asset information for the household and must supply documentation to Medbank along with prescription information.

"The people at the Medbank are very caring and giving," commented Martin. "Everyone is wonderful and very willing to help."

The Medbank Coordinator manages the application process, which includes a financial needs questionnaire. When a physician's signature is needed, the application will be forwarded to the physician's office and then mailed to the pharmaceutical company along with the prescription. The total process takes approximately 6 to 8 weeks.

For more information on this program, persons may call Lucas at 301-334-7742 or 301-895-3113.

It's time to Spring Clean

NOTICE TO RESIDENTS OF OAKLAND: April 27 - May 1

CLEAN UP... PAINT UP... FIX UP...

The Mayor and Town Council of Oakland wishes to notify Oakland Town Residents that the week of April 27 will be CLEAN UP, PAINT UP, FIX UP week. During this week, the Oakland Street Department will be picking up trash, weeds, rubbish, and/or junk. Town residents are requested to make an extra effort to do "Spring Cleaning" of their properties, including vacant lots as well as residences.

During this week, and this week only, fees for the following items will be waived, as a service provided by the County Commissioners: mattresses, chairs, sofas, washers, dryers, other household items, and a limited amount of construction debris (up to 100 pounds per household). This DOES NOT include commercial waste, paint, tires, batteries, large automobile parts, brush, leaves, stumps, refrigerators, freezers, air conditioners, dehumidifiers, or any other appliance with refrigerant. Please contact City Hall for the fees associated with the hauling of these items.

The Oakland Street Department now has a wood chipper. As a result, we no longer require limbs to be cut and bundled. Please call and let us know if you have limbs needing chipped. We are only able to handle limbs up to 6 inches in diameter. We will not remove commercially cut trees/debris! Large quantities must be paid for at Oakland City Hall prior to pick-up.

The Street Department will be hauling all five days between May 5, 2008, and May 9, 2008. If they should miss any items for disposal, please do not hesitate to call either the Street Department at 301-334-3253, or City Hall at 301-334-2691. Residents are reminded that the Street Department will continue to do bulk pick-up on Fridays, and that our garbage contractor continues to pick up the following recyclables: cans, newspapers, and cardboard. Recycle bags are available at City Hall for a fee.

Do your part to help keep Oakland clean and beautiful!
